The Marcellus shale line also runs under counties in New York State where, not content to wait two years for the EPA study to confirm what is already widely known, that state's Department of Environmental Conservation wrote drilling applications with requirements so tough that the money and time it would cost to meet them should discourage the industry from expanding there.

Maryland state legislators and Garrett County commissioners should obtain a copy of New York's application. It wouldn't hurt if our legislators searched the Internet for information on this issue and viewed the Gasland documentary, too. County residents whose property could be adversely affected by fracking might want to be similarly informed.

No Funding

"They have also stated they are unsure whether grant funding will be made available in the future at anytime for electronics."

As a result, the county will have to come up with new funding options and/or operation methods if it wants to continue the program. Solid Waste and Recycling budgeted $16,276 for it in the FY '11 budget.

"Additionally, we have received a letter of confirmation from PC Renewal offering to accept our electronics free-of-charge, should we decide to continue with the permanent electronics collection program in Garrett County," Madigan said. "The amount budgeted will pay for the monthly rental fees for the collection containers and the hauling of materials to Morgantown."

Director Gary Mullich, Garrett County Department of General Services, noted, however, that PC Renewal will have to charge the county a disposal fee if its recycling market "dries up."

"Right now we're disposing of it, other than the transportation cost, for free; we're not being charged like we were in the past," Mullich said about electronics.

But if the processor has to start charging for disposal, options will have to be explored to keep the program going.

Madigan anticipates the program will be popular again this fiscal year, with between 50 and 75 tons of electronics being collected.

She noted that the budgeted funds would go farther if the number of collection sites were reduced from three to two. Another option would be not to have any sites at all, but to hold collection events instead.

Her division would bid the event out to a recycling processor, which would come to one location in the county and collect electronics one or two times per year. The company would provide the staffing and equipment to collect the items and haul them away.

One-day collection events were conducted in past years, before the county had an ongoing program. But these, too, were sponsored by MDE.

Madigan noted that as much as 12.5 tons of electronics were collected at a single event.

Commissioner Fred Holliday indicated, however, that the one-day events were successful because residents had no other disposal options at that time and many old electronics were just sitting around. But since the county has had a regular program for three years now, residents may not have as many items piled up and, therefore, may not be as inclined to bring them to an event.

Another option to help offset the cost of electronics disposal, Madigan noted, would be to charge residents a nominal fee to participate in either the county program or special one-day events.

"However, in Garrett County, residents can dispose of their computer monitors or televisions with their residential stickers or come to the landfill and pay a tipping fee of approximately $1.05 for municipal trash disposal; therefore, the fee should be small or residents would not participate," Madigan said about the fee option.

If the county discontinued its program, residents could participate in the new computer recycling program offered by Horizon Goodwill Industries or Radio Shack, she noted. Businesses would have the option of recycling electronics by appointment with PC Renewal or JVS Environmental.

Commissioner Gregg asked if there were a market for electronics that the county could tap into.

MSP Seeking Info On Area Theft

Maryland State Police are investigating a theft that occurred in the parking lot of a Grantsville business last weekend.

Sometime between last Friday at 5:30 p.m. and Monday morning at 6:45 a.m., an unknown suspect(s) removed a water pump from the bed of a pickup truck that was parked at the Grantsville Burger King. The vehicle was parked in the rear lot at the time of the theft.

Suspect Steals Over $200 From Friendsville Store

Maryland State Police are investigating an incident that occurred at a Friendsville convenience store this past Saturday.

An unidentified black male reportedly entered Good To Go on Friendsville Road and purchased a pack of cigarettes using a $100 bill. When he received his change, he asked the cashier to give him different bills. He allegedly kept conversing with the clerk in an attempt to confuse him while asking several different times for different change. During each money exchange, the suspect kept taking a portion of the money without the clerk knowing. He ended up stealing approximately $235.

Police are urging other businesses to be aware of such practices, and to use caution when dealing with such situations.

"Be suspicious of recorded messages requesting any information," said a spokesperson for the sheriff's office.

Re-Elect Ernie Gregg

County Commissioner

Having made my living as a business owner, I am fully aware of the economic challenges that must be overcome, both by individual businesses and our county as a whole, if we are to continue to grow and prosper.

As commissioner I have:

- Established the Garrett Information Enterprise Center that assists technology based businesses.
- Supported a county business property tax credit for existing businesses to expand.
- Increased county revenue by over one million dollars annually as a result of public utility businesses locating in our county.
- Through my efforts on Tri-County Council, I have secured several hundred thousand dollars in loans for new and expanding businesses.
- Supported the construction of four industrial parks throughout Garrett County, of which three are fully occupied.

Vote for experience and expertise that gets results!

A VOTE OF CONFIDENCE FOR RITA

The following unsolicited letter was received on July 28, 2010, by Rita Watson, candidate to retain her position as Register of Wills for Garrett County. It is published at the request of Jackie Kenner, the writer.

Dear Mrs. Watson,

I am so glad you are running for the position of Register of Wills, as this position takes a lot of experience, knowledge, skill, patience and personality, all of which you have and more.

You were very helpful and understanding when my mother passed away. I knew absolutely nothing about will probate, probably like a lot of other people. I had no idea what was involved until it happened to me.

You took your time explaining what I had to do, and really showed your interest in how you performed your duties.

The many times I had to call you with questions, you answered them all without hesitation and all in a timely manner. You did not have to look up a law, etc.

You were very professional and understanding during the whole process.

I hope the people of Garrett County will understand that this elected position is so important to them that someone with your experience, knowledge and compassion needs to remain in this position.

I wish you success in your campaign. As for me and my family we stand behind you 100 percent to keep you as Register of Wills.

Sincerely
Jacqueline C. Kenner
104 Holly Lane, Oakland

P.S. I would like to see this letter published so that others can share my experience with your office.

ATTRACTIVE FEATURES

When it comes to customizing their hearing instruments, one feature that consumers find most attractive is directional microphones. Using two microphones helps better separate unwanted sounds (from behind the wearer) from important speech sounds (in front). As a result, the wearer is better able to understand conversation in noisy environments. Another feature that hearing instrument users find very useful is multiple compression channels, which react to import ant speech sounds by increasing volume while simultaneously lowering the volume on ambient noise and sudden loud sounds. Multiple programs, also known as "memories," are also high on consumers' list of desirable features because they enable the wearer to change the listening characteristics of the hearing instrument from one environment to another.

Today, there are more choices than ever before for consumers purchasing hearing instruments. How do you decide which is the right kind for you? The best way is to place your trust in the hands of a hearing specialist with a reputation for skill, knowledge, compassion, and integrity. We believe you'll find this at AUDIBEL, where you can begin with a comprehensive hearing test to determine how we can best meet your needs.

P.S. Popular hearing instrument features include (consumer) are "noise cancellation" (which makes listening to speech more comfortable in noisy environments) and "feedback cancellation" (which eliminates annoying squealing and whistling noises).

There are places and events that mark time within a community, for example, the activities in and around the local community school, the fire hall gatherings, the Autumn Glory Festival. They create a benchmark in time for us as we age, and these places and events create underpinnings that galvanize us together socially as a community.
We are blessed in Garrett County to have the opportunity to enjoy many such places and events throughout our community and throughout the year. Every year there is more to experience thanks to the many people who take the time to get involved.
Next week we will be able to mark the 54th Annual Garrett County Agriculture Fair. Mark the time and stop down to take in the sights and sounds, the exhibits, shows, and thrills. I enjoy the fair and hope that you all do too. I hope to see you there.

VOTERS:
Do you recall the news article about the construction of an athletic complex for $23,000,000, and right below an article about the "bleak" budget won't allow for text books for school!!
The complex will cover over 65,000 square feet of space! You will be paying for maintenance of it and for heat for many years to come. This spending of your tax dollars will not stop unless you vote these gentlemen out of office!
Our present commissioners have spent or are causing to be spent over $26 million dollars for buildings in just their last term! This amounts to about $1,000 per each person in Garrett County!
Will you vote for continued reckless and irresponsible spending, or have you had enough? Vote for new commissioners!

The Building Committee made a report to the membership at the regular monthly meeting on July 19, 2010, and presented a preliminary floor plan which had been prepared by the architect. There were some suggestions for changes and questions for clarification, but the plan as presented was accepted. The Building Committee met on Wednesday, July 28, 2010, with the engineer from the architect's firm, and an artist's presentation of the building was presented which shows the exterior views of the new building. There were more detailed floor plans presented and accepted by the Committee. The engineer indicates the demolition process should begin on or about September 1, 2010, and there will be a public advertisement for bids posted. The Arts

Antique Coverlet Evaluation Slated At Spruce Forest

Spruce Forest Artisan Village, Grantsville, and local weavers will host an antique coverlet evaluation event this Saturday, Aug. 7, from noon until 3 p.m. in the air conditioned village church.

Melinda Zongor, curator of the National Museum of the American Coverlet in Bedford, Pa., and author of Coverlets and the Spirit of America will give in-depth evaluation and insight on the textiles.

An antique coverlet is a type of bedspread made usually of cotton and wool with geometric shapes or such figures as animals, plants, and other objects woven into it. Most of them were woven during the 1800s, according to village weaver Ann Jones.

"This traditional art form is part of Maryland's history," she said. "They were woven on looms at home or at a professional weaver's workshop."

Early coverlets were made of handspun and dyed wool, often blue or red, but when people had other dyes available, coverlets were made in a rainbow of colors.

"Patterns and the colors used varied by region and by weaver," Jones said. "The invention of the jacquard loom, a professional weaver's tool, made ornate patterns possible."

Coverlet owners from Maryland and nearby Pennsylvania and West Virginia are welcome to participate in the event. Evaluators will photograph the textiles and discuss them with their owners.

Jones noted, however, that there is not a lot of information on who did the weaving and where coverlets were made in the local area.

"You can be a part of recording local history," Jones said. "Any information about who owned the coverlet and where it came from that you know about will be helpful in evaluating your textile."

The event is made possible through a Maryland Traditions Grant for individuals involved in continuing traditional Maryland art forms.

A $5 per coverlet donation will go toward supporting other community activities at Spruce Forest Artisan Village. For more information, persons may call 301-712-5886.

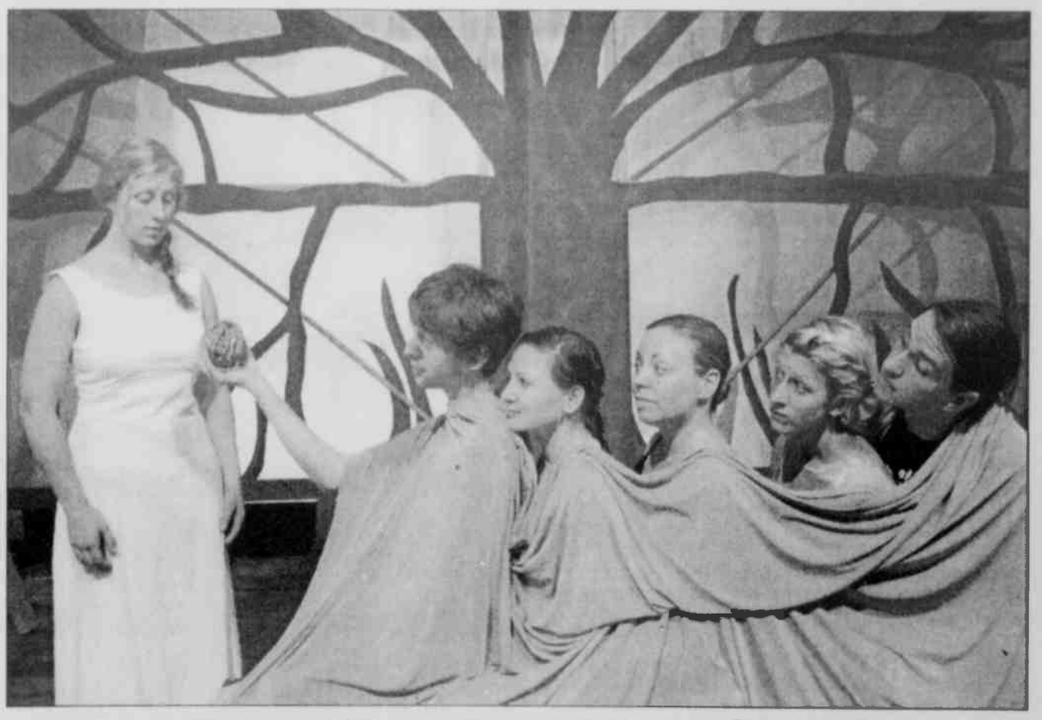
p.m. and finish at 6:30. The event is organized by volunteers and led by an intrepid couple from Ossining, New York, Keech and Ann LeClair.



The LeClairs have been stalwart volunteers at prior ASCI races, and have run a canoe school and organized races for the past few decades. The Adventuresports Institute at Garrett College will be volunteering a safety and gate judging crew. Like all of ASCI's events, volunteers are needed and welcomed. All volunteers for the race will receive a T-shirt.

Watching the race is easy. ASCI is open to the general public all day long, and spectators can watch from rocks alongside the river or from the grass sloped amphitheatre. Refreshments will be on sale at Wisp Resort's Pumphouse Cafe. Regular guided rafting and kayaking will take place during normal whitewater hours, with trips at 11 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. Those interested must call ahead for reservations.

The Adventure Sports Center International (ASCI) is a not-for-profit, 501(c)(3), charitable organization formed to promote adventure tourism and healthy outdoor lifestyles. ASCI operates the world's only mountaintop river park and has taken over 39,000 people rafting since it opened in 2007.

ASCI attracts national and international caliber competitions, including this summer's Age Group National Championships in Whitewater Olympic Slalom and the upcoming Open Canoe National Championships. When ASCI was finally completed in 2007, it's first event was a national caliber "Bouldering" competition featuring the best rock climbers in the country. Since then, ASCI has hosted a dozen national and international caliber competitions, festivals, and conferences, including six different whitewater national championships.

For more information, persons should call 301-387-3250, e-mail asci@adventuresportscenter.com, or visit www.adventuresportscenter.com.

CONTINUING THROUGH SATURDAY NIGHT is the Theatre on the Lake (TOTL) run of the Steven Schwartz hit musical Children of Eden, being performed at the Barn at Ridgeview Valley, located at the end of Gravelly Run Road off U.S. Rt. 219 at McHenry. The play is based upon the Old Testament stories of Adam and Eve and Noah's Ark, and is appropriate for all ages. In the photo above, Eve (Leah Broderick) is tempted to take a bite of the forbidden fruit by the serpent, which is played by (left to right) Adam Rhodes, Taryn Wood, Elizabeth Nelson, Meghan Broderick, and Michael Pellegrino. RETURNING TO THE LITTLE YOUGH Summer Music Festival for the second time this season will be Mateo Monk. The multi-instrumentalist will perform this Friday, Aug. 6, at 7 p.m. at the Mountain Fresh Pavilion in Oakland. Monk performed with the Arkives Outernational reggae band at the concert series in June (pictured), receiving much applause and handshakes from the crowd. This time he will perform solo. Monk's live shows are described as an "exciting musical journey around the globe," exploring the rhythms of jazz, bossa nova, reggae, Hindustani raga, bluegrass, soul, and funk. He has been playing the guitar for 20 years, the flute for 15, and he has been performing regularly since 1992. Admission to the performance is free, but donations will be accepted to help defray festival costs. Seating is limited, so concert goers may want to bring chairs or blankets. Spotlight on Garrett County Non-Profits:

The Work They Do, The People They Serve

ADVENTURE SPORTS CENTER INTERNATIONAL

This column, sponsored by the GFWC Civic Club of Oakland, is one of a series of articles about local non-profit organizations. The purpose is to inform citizens about the services offered by the organizations, and to let them know the volunteer opportunities available within these groups.

This week's feature:

What is the Adventure Sports Center International?

The Adventure Sports Center International (ASCI) is a not-for-profit, 501(c)(3), charitable organization formed to promote adventure tourism and healthful outdoor lifestyles. ASCI also serves as a focal point in the emerging and expanding adventure sports industry worldwide.

ASCI operates the world's only mountaintop river park, where more than 39,000 people have gone rafting since it opened in 2007. In addition to its 16-acre campus on top of Marsh Mountain, ASCI also manages over 550 acres of woodland called the Fork Run Recreation Area, which includes miles of trails, rocks for sport climbing and bouldering, geocaching, and group challenge areas.

All of ASCI's land was donated by DC Development and Recreation Industries (Wisp Resort).

What Does ASCI Offer?

In conjunction with Garrett College's Adventuresports Institute (ASI), ASCI offers instruction in rock climbing and rappelling, mountain biking, and orienteering. The collaboration is called the Adventure Sports Learning Partnership, and gives ASI students hands-on experience in the real world of adventure sport programming. The partnership includes other ongoing collaborations with ASI students to strengthen Garrett College's nationally renowned adventure sports program.

Who Utilizes ASCI?

ASCI hosts national and international caliber competitions, including this summer's Age Group National Championships in Whitewater Olympic Slalom, and the upcoming Open Canoe National Championships, to be held August 6-8.

Events such as these were the genesis of ASCI. Following the great success of the 1989 World Championships on the Savage River, ASCI's founders started the Adventuresports Institute and began envisioning a venue that could more easily facilitate ongoing adventure sport competitions and festivals. When ASCI was finally completed in 2007, its first event was a national caliber bouldering competition, featuring the best rock climbers in the country.

Since then, ASCI has hosted a dozen national and international caliber competitions, festivals, and conferences, including six different whitewater national championships.

Residents Benefit As Well

On a local level, ASCI has an ongoing adventure sports program with Southern Middle School that features rafting, climbing, rappelling, biking, and hiking as an incentive for positive behavior and academic performance.

ASCI also works closely with Boy and Girl Scout troops, the Maryland Civic Justice Corps, church programs, and rescue volunteers. ASCI works with many local non-profits by donating raft trips as fundraisers, and hosts the annual Great Pumpkin Festival during Autumn Glory as a benefit for the Dove Center, Garrett County's resource center for victims of domestic violence.

ASCI also serves as the rendezvous headquarters for Team River Runner, the whitewater rehabilitation program for Wounded Warriors.

Volunteer Opportunities

Volunteers are always welcomed for ASCI's events and programs, and are still needed for the Open Canoe Nationals this weekend.

ASCI will also be represented at the Volunteer Fair at Garrett College on Sept. 25. Interested persons should call 301-387-3250, e-mail asci@adventuresportscenter.com, or go to the web site, located at www.adventuresportscenter.com.

Volunteer Fair

For more information about many areas of volunteering, persons are invited to attend the first Volunteer Fair, set for Sept. 25 at Garrett College. This fair has been initiated by a joint task force of Garrett County women's organizations: American Association for University Women, Business and Professional Women, the Girls Scouts Black Diamond Council, the Garrett County Commission for Women, and the GFWC Civic Club of Oakland. More information about this event is forthcoming.

GOLIATH: HERO OF THE GREAT BALTIMORE FIRE

by Claudia Friddell

C 2010, Sleeping Bear Press, $17.95; 32 pages

Review by Terri Schlichenmeyer

What happens when Mom or Dad gives you a job to do? For some kids, regular chores are part of life. They know what needs to be done, and things are finished with barely a thought and no complaining. Then there are the kids who hate chores and would rather grumble than do the job. Some kids move their feet, while others drag theirs.

Which describe you?

Before you answer, read Goliath: Hero of the Great Baltimore Fire by Claudia Friddell, illustrated by Troy Howell. After learning this true story, you may never look at a job the same again.

Goliath was a big horse – so big that his feet were many times the size of a man's hand. He lived in the stables at Baltimore Fire Engine Company 15, and the firemen loved the gentle giant.

Everybody at Engine Company 15 knew that when Goliath was twitchy, there was probably a good reason. And on a chilly February morning in 1904, the dapple gray Percheron was twitching plenty. Hostler Mark Hill lifted Goliath's huge foot to check for sharp glass or a stuck rock. Something was bothering their "ultimate fire horse."

And then – BAM! Goliath kicked the side of his stall just as a fire alarm sounded. There was a fire on German Street, and it was a big one. Within seconds, the firemen of Engine Company 15 slid down the pole, the horses were harnessed, and everyone raced down the street. Goliath and his team had a fire to fight!

When they got there, flames were roaring out of the building, but Goliath bravely stopped the rig and stood still. It was his job to stay steady and wait until he was needed somewhere else. No matter what was going on around him, he knew he had to stand solid.

But then, just as the driver started to unhook Goliath to lead him to safety – BOOM! The building blew up. Ash and flames fell everywhere, even on Goliath, who stood statue-still. Bricks scattered, people gasped and ran, and the building was in danger of collapsing. Engine Company 15's rig was trapped, but the driver knew who could get it past the burning bricks and beam.

Based on a real two-day fire and a real horse, author Friddell makes readers nearly breathless in Goliath: Hero of the Great Baltimore Fire. Kids will love the excitement, and the afterword that updates them on the rest of the story and beyond. There's also a glossary at the back of the book, which helps answer questions posed by children who only know big trucks as the antidote to fire.

What charmed me, though, are the illustrations. Artist Howell brings majesty, love, and urgency to his pictures, so be prepared to spend lots of time returning to them as you read this book aloud.

If your 5-to-8-year-old is horse-crazy or aspires to be a firefighter someday, you'll want this book on your shelf. For him or her, Goliath: Hero of the Great Baltimore Fire will only fan the flames.

taken place in Hungary, Slovakia, China, the Czech Republic, Italy, and Russia.

He has also performed with cellist Steven Kates, harp virtuoso Nicanor Zabaleta, and pianists Leon Fleisher, Jesus Maria Sanroma, and Nancy Roldán.

Argentine-born pianist Nancy Roldan has performed worldwide as recitalist, collaborative performer, and piano soloist with orchestras. A champion of compatriot Carlos Guastavino's music, she recorded many of his works for solo piano, as well as for piano-duo (Lester/Roldan) and violin-piano duo (Cueto/Roldán).

Roldán holds degrees from the UNC, Argentina, and a doctorate from the Peabody Conservatory of the Johns Hopkins University, where she taught from 1976 to 2007. She serves on the board of directors of the American Liszt Society and is founder/director of the biannual Liszt-Garrison Festival and International Piano Competition. She has received two Peabody Conservatory faculty development grants and a 2006 grant in support of the Liszt/Garrison Festival and competition.

The concert is sponsored by Railey Mountain Lake Vacations. Tickets are $12 for adults, while persons 18 and under are admitted free of charge. Advance reservations are not required.

Lakeview Auto's Hot Stove Season Ended By Rippers In Third Game

The opportunity to play in the final series of the Hot Stove League evaporated for Lakeview Auto Parts on Friday when the local team was edged 3-2 in the third game of a best-of-three American League Championship series to the Romney Rippers at Potomac Park.

All three games of the series were close, as Romney won the opener, 7-6, a week ago Monday, and Lakeview tied it at 1-1 with a 3-1 victory last Wednesday.

The Rippers took a 1-0 lead in the bottom of the first. Lakeview tied the score with a run in the third, and then took a 2-1 lead with a run in the top of the sixth.

The Rippers won the game in the bottom of the seventh, as Shane Barrett drew a walk to lead off the frame. Austin Clem then reached base when he was hit by a pitch, and Caleb Newcomer's sacrifice bunt advanced Barrett and Clem to second and third.

The tie was knotted at 2-2 when Barrett came home on a passed ball. Then Dane Heavner rapped a walk-off single to plate Clem with the winning run and end the game.

Cody Rodeheaver paced Lakeview's seven-hit effort with a pair of singles and an RBI, while Josh Mason contributed a double. Jared Fike, Pat Sines, and Dusin Derato each hit a single.

Heavner and winning pitcher Bucky Timbrook each hit two singles for the Rippers. Garrett Crawford had a double.

The win lifted the Rippers to 23-4 and sent them into the league finals against Hobo's Restaurant.

Lakeview Auto finished with an overall mark of 16-8.

Oaks Eliminated From Pen-Mar League Series By Tri-State Titans

A 6-1 loss to the Tri-State Titans on Saturday at Garrett College ended the 2010 Pen-Mar League season for the Oakland Oaks, as the local team lost the first two games in a best of three series.

Oakland was edged 6-5 by the Titans in the first game of the series played on the previous Saturday. Tri-State is the reigning Maryland State Semi-Pro Baseball champion.

The Oaks held a brief 1-0 lead via an RBI by Billy Reams in the bottom of the first. Reams would finish with a double and two singles.

The Titans took the lead for good with a pair of runs in the top of the second, as winning pitcher Brian Powell did not allow another run in the complete-game win. He struck out six and allowed seven hits.

After three scoreless innings, Tri-State put four insurance runs on the board in the top of the sixth with singles from Powell, Matt Wright, and Josh Logsdon to seal the win.

Powell finished with three singles and two RBI, and also scored one run. Jacob Foreman hit two singles, and Tristan Beyer hit a double and had two RBI.

Sailboat Racing
On Deep Creek Lake

NOW COMES THE NEXT GENERATION
by Dan Muss

A regatta was held on Deep Creek Lake last Saturday for children under 16 in Optimist Prams. The regatta was organized by Stephanie Mahan, in coordination with the Deep Creek Sailing School. The PRO was Dave Mahan, who was assisted by several yacht club members and parents. It was a beautiful sight to see that fleet of colored sails. I saw the next generation of sailboat racers out there.

After the blowout winds of two weekends ago, a lot of us older sailors were anxious to get back on the water, and we got our chance last weekend. Saturday morning the forecast was for 5 knots SE. (In other places the direction SE may mean that the wind is coming from a compass heading of 135 degrees; on Deep Creek Lake, however, it means that the wind is sometimes S and sometimes E.) PRO Ryan Schubert set a nice course through the slot between Thousand Acres and Turkey Neck.

My regular crew, Fearless Marilyn Filemyr, was off with her family, so my son Andrew visiting us from Cambodia, crewed for me, and what a great crew he is. In Saturday's race the committee boat was favored and the fleet was hovering near the committee boat, so with 30 seconds to go, I bore off under them toward the middle of the line so that, while we were in a slightly less favorable position, we had a full head of steam and led the race until the second downwind leg when the wind died. Andrew struggled to keep our spinnaker full and we both feared that the wind would come up and the rest of the fleet, who by then were 200 yards behind us, would come barreling down and pass us. But we all got the wind when it came back and we went on to win.

Sunday turned out to be what is for us a perfect sailboat racing day. There was a heavy, threatening cloud cover, which kept the motorboat wakes at a minimum, and a nice, manageable 4 – 8 knot breeze. PRO Allison Felix set a really good triangular course aligned with the SE wind out in the main part of the lake. Andrew and I thought the shifts would favor a start at the pin end, so we ran the line and tacked onto port at the horn. We led the fleet until the second windward leg.

After rounding the first leeward mark, I wanted to tack away from the shore to stay out in the middle, but it looked like our starboard spinnaker sheet was partially under the boat. So Andrew climbed up on the foredeck to free the spinnaker sheet, and while he was up there I could not tack. That old fox Peters did take a hitch away from the shore, and when we finally crossed close-hauled tacks he was ahead by two boat-lengths. After that it was a very tight battle with us almost passing him at the second jibe mark and then again at the second leeward mark. But it was not to be, he finished several boat-lengths ahead of us.

It was one of the most satisfying races I can remember, and not too bad of a weekend for father and son... a first and a second.

Knapp To Speak At Next Meeting Of Plant Society

Wes Knapp of the Maryland Heritage Program will be the speaker at the next meeting of the Western Mountains Chapter of the Maryland Native Plant Society, to be held at the Appalachian Laboratory in Frostburg on Tuesday, Aug. 17, at 7 p.m. Knapp will give a PowerPoint presentation titled "What's the Rush," immediately following a brief business meeting. The public is welcome to attend.

Knapp will speak about the group of plants commonly called rushes. He will focus on the genus Juncus, with an emphasis on western Maryland species and state wide rarities. He will compare the rush family (Juncaceae) with the sedge (Cyperaceae) and grass (Poaceae) families. He will also explain how to properly identify members of the genus Juncus.

Knapp is the Eastern Region Heritage ecologist/botanist for the Maryland Department of Natural Resources, Natural Heritage Program. He authored the Juncaceae section in the soon to be revised and rewritten "Manual of Vascular Plants of Northeastern United States and Adjacent Canada" by Gleason & Cronquist.

In addition to his field work for the Maryland Heritage Program, Knapp has conducted numerous training sessions for university and government employees in the mid-Atlantic. He has a long list of published papers and reports on his research, and has presented his findings at various scientific meetings throughout North America.

Knapp earned an M.S. degree in plant science with an option in plant systematics at Delaware State University, and a B.S. degree in environmental science with a focus in botany and minor in chemistry from Catawba College in North Carolina.

The Appalachian Laboratory is located just off I-68 at Exit 33 (Braddock Road and Midlothian Road)

The Maryland Native Plant Society uses education, research, and community service to increase awareness and appreciation of native plants and their habitats leading to their conservation and restoration. Membership is open to all who are interested in Maryland's native plants and their habitats. Preserving Maryland's natural heritage, increasing knowledge about native plants, and helping to further the society's mission are the goals. NPS sponsors monthly meetings, workshops, field trips, and an annual fall conference. For more information, persons may visit www.mdflora.org online.

The Western Mountains Chapter was formed to expand the efforts of MNPS on the Allegheny Plateau and ridge and valley physiographic provinces of the central-Appalachians. Residents of western Maryland, nearby Pennsylvania, and West Virginia, and anyone else interested in learning more about and conserving the native plants of the region are invited to join. For more information, persons may contact Liz McDowell, chapter coordinator, at 301-895-3686 or by e-mail at boyerandmcdowell@earthlink.net.

anyone actually going to pay us for them," the coordinator said. "This is the only material that we collect that we have to pay someone to take."

Madigan said it costs the county $158 per ton to recycle the electronics, versus $35 per ton (the county tipping fee) to dispose of them in the county landfill.

Gregg said it was still more cost-effective to recycle the materials than to dispose of them in the local landfill.

Holliday also noted that a ton of electronics takes up more room in a landfill than a ton of regular household trash.

Commissioner Denny Glotfelty indicated the recycling program needed to be examined closely when the county begins its FY 2012 budget process in January 2011.

The commissioners' next public meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, Aug. 24.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

Mark your calendars for next Saturday, Aug. 14, which is the next Bittinger Fire Department chicken barbecue. They open at 3 p.m. and continue until they run out.

These are tough days for a passionate Pirates fan, because they recently started struggling with both offense and defense, and pitching. I think this evening was about the fourth game I watched. I can be somewhat patient, but this Pirates team is very young and inexperienced, and it has so many still undeveloped talents. So we will just have to wait, because I am sure some better days are not that far away. They will become a play-off worthy team, maybe in a few years. But they are far from that position this year.

Well, the heat wave pretty much disappeared. Now, both first thing in the morning and in the evening, it gets very cool. Sometimes even coldly cold. But it has been several days since I ran a fan.

This Saturday is a sad day for my family because Aug. 7 is the day we lost my mother one year ago. I miss her every day.

Among several unpleasant aspects of being poor, I can't afford to sponsor a child with Christian Children's Fund or another charity. I really enjoyed sponsoring a little girl in Ethiopia. Her joy was unbounded when I sent a $10 birthday present. She bought a pair of shoes, and she was pretty proud of them.

Every day, I hear how the big problem contributing to the deficit is entitlements, like Social Security and Medicare. I worked my whole adulthood and paid into the system. But I'm supposed to feel guilty because I dragged down America. I worked extremely hard at a community college, where I gave a good start to many young people, but I was so underpaid. If you count all the hours I devoted to my job: preparation, grading papers, counseling troubled students, I made less than minimum wage. And there was no big bonus for doing a great job.

I'm pretty sick of hearing how our public educational system is terrible. It's not true. I got a fabulous education in Garrett County public schools. Almost all the teachers were excellent. Maybe it's true that the good jobs available in our area are in teaching, and they deserve every cent they are paid, because it is a darn hard job. Look what the average parents devote to their children's education. Not much.

One of the many Brenneman reunions is for the descendants of Sam and Betty Brenneman. This one is sometimes held in Bittinger, but every year there is one held in Ohio. Their home place is located at the corner of Beachy Road and Foxtown Road, the farm where Richard and Regina Brenneman are now farming. I think Richard is my second cousin. That farm has the most interesting, tiny, and very old cemetery. It has a grave for someone who was born while crossing the Atlantic Ocean.

Many, if not most, of the homesteads of Bittinger families have a cemetery on the farm, since it was pretty urgent to bury the dead as quickly as possible during the many epidemics which claimed many victims during the late 1700s and all through the 1800s, even early in the 20th century. Those grave stones were just flat, smooth field stones, rarely with a name on them.

The primary, very old Glotfelty cemetery is located on a hilltop along Rock Lodge Road. But the official Glotfelty Cemetery has names with the oldest field stones, and several have the name Glatfelder. It was in use at least until World War I.

Then on the farm where I still live, there is a very sad little graveyard without any fence around it. And there are close to 10 field stones markers, of course, without names on them. They are the graves of the children from one Yoder family. I once had a list of the names of all those children who died from some epidemic. No wonder their parents moved west to Kansas.

I guess that was when one farm became the Beachy farm next door. There is a small and very old schoolhouse at the corner of our long hay field, almost to Pappy Dale's house, called Beachy School. It is the school where my father and his brother and sisters started their education. I believe there was a very large tract of land extending to and perhaps including our family farm, east to Beachy Road and close to Foxtown Road on the north.

Across the road from the end of Beachy Road, another fairly large farm belonged to Beitzels. It is the home place for Byard Beitzel, who died just a few weeks ago. His sister is the mother of Brenda Ruggiero.

I know of two large old cemeteries on what I believe to be a large Beachy farm. One is on my side of Rock Lodge Road, and just has some field stones in a small woods just across from a larger and probably more recent one just up the hill from the end of Beachy Road. It has a massive bed of daffodils and a fence around it.

I always wonder about the large plot of mostly woods that used to be known as Ashby Place. It touched my farm toward Meadow Mountain, and I saw some very old foundations. It ran across to touch the farm where the 4-H camp and lake are now. I heard it was actually a plantation with slaves.

Near the lake, there was a group of very old stone foundations. When I was young, someone told me those were from the slave cabins. Who knows whether that is true or not?

Just beyond Peat Moss Road was a group of foundations that was part of the homestead of the earliest Glotfeltys (Glatfelders). I wonder if my distant ancestors might have lived there? Sadly, it is too hard to get any real answers to the many questions I thought about while I wrote this piece about the old large properties around my home.

It is too late to call everyone who can give me information. I still have to get something for dinner before I go to bed.

Joan Beitzel is enjoying a visit from her daughter and family. It is not easy to have your children so far away. At least a grandchild is here.

After a short visit home, Scotty Bass headed back to the D.C. area to continue working on his internship at a civil engineering firm in Silver Spring. Since our infrastructure is in need of some improvement, that might be a future growth industry.

My daughter Caitlin is in a good field as a social work major with good Spanish language skills. But social work is not a very well-paid field.

Scotty's older brother Matthew is definitely in a promising field. He works for a firm that is a subcontractor for the Department of Energy.

Another of my nephews, Robby Glotfelty, is headed to Philadelphia to teach biology in the inner city as part of Teach America. His sister Blakely also enrolled in a Teach America elementary school in Washington, D.C.

Most people regard strength or power in a woman as a good thing. These days, past the Women's Rights Movement, women are given major power of all kinds: professional, economical, and even political. Now, a healthy marriage is a partnership with shared power. And most people acknowledge the powerful influence a mother has on her offsprings' lives.

My Caitlin emphasized how my character and beliefs were the main reasons that she chose social work.

"TREKKING WITH A WAGON TRAIN" will be presented on Monday, Aug. 16, at 7:30 p.m. at the Folk Meeting House in Springs, Pa. During this program, Elam Bender will relate his more than 40-year adventure as a member of the Appalachian Wagon Train. Bender, a resident of Meyersdale, Pa., is a retired minister and farmer. He participated in his first wagon train trek in 1970. The organization consists of members of the multi-state region who enjoy re-enacting history, while participating in a wagon train with horse-drawn covered wagons or other replicas of transportation of the 1800s time period. "The Appalachian Wagon Train exemplifies the pioneer spirit that sustained our forefathers as they established new frontiers in our country," said a spokesperson for the Springs Historical Society, the program sponsor. Bender's first wagon was an old logging wagon. His family, including grandchildren, have spent many times together as wagon-train travelers. Bender's current wagon is hand built. Among the many treks he has been involved with was the 1976 Bicentennial Trek to Valley Forge, where he led the crossing of the Susquehanna River near Harrisburg, Pa. He has held nearly every office in the organization and currently serves as chaplain. Accompanying his stories, Bender will share a video of the wagons and wagon train in motion. Admission to the program is free and open to the public. The Folk Meeting House is located at 1711 Springs Road. For more information, persons may call 814-662-4366 or visit springspa.org. The historical society also sponsors the Springs Farmers Market and the Springs Museum Store, open every Saturday from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. The Springs Museum hours are Wednesday through Friday from 1 to 5 p.m. and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Mountain Laurel Medical Center To Observe Nat'l Health Center Week

by Amber Close, nurse practitioner graduate

National Health Center Week 2010, from Aug. 8 to Aug. 14, is a weeklong campaign dedicated to celebrating the mission and accomplishments of the national network of Community Health Centers. Community Health Centers provide healthcare to over 20 million people at 8,000 sites nationwide.

This year's theme, "Celebrating America's Health Centers. Turning the Vision into Reality," highlights the program's 45-year record of providing high quality, cost-effective health care, as well as the future of health care locally and across the nation.

National Health Center Week is an opportunity to highlight places like Mountain Laurel Medical Center. MLMC is a family practice community health center with a mission to provide quality, safe, accessible primary health care, wellness promotion, and education to all individuals in Garrett County and surrounding areas regardless of the patients' ability to pay.

Community health centers, like MLMC, not only provide access to the primary and preventive care that keeps people healthy, they also dedicate themselves toward delivery of a broad range of high quality services to all patients, regardless of insurance status or ability to pay. MLMC is a community health center for insured, underinsured, and uninsured patients. MLMC accepts private health insurance plans, Medicare, and Medicaid.

Additionally, MLMC also participates in federal and state funded programs, including those that provide services on a sliding fee scale based on family size and income. Qualification for the slide program does not require report of assets and property. The staff at MLMC is available to review the sliding fee scale with patients, and payment is based on financial ability to pay for services. No one will be turned away because they cannot pay.

Furthermore, MLMC employs a patient advocate that helps patients by linking them to other health and human services in the community like federal and state medical programs, medication assistance programs, mental health services, and specialty care.

MLMC is governed by a board of directors. As a patient-centered organization, federal guidelines dictate that at least 51% of the board members must be consumers of the health center's services. Active patient management of health centers assures responsiveness to local needs, and helps guarantee that MLMC is focused on meeting the needs of its patients and improving the quality of life for the community. Individuals interested in becoming a member of the MLMC's board of directors can e-mail info@mtn-laurel.org. (Note: The hyphen is not part of the e-mail address).

Since Nov. 2009, MLMC has been located behind the Garrett County Health Department, located along 1027 Memorial Drive in a modern two-story facility with 12 exam rooms, integrated electronic medical technology, and an on-site LabCorp phlebotomist. Open Monday through Friday, providers see patients from 7:30 a.m. until 5 p.m., with extended hours on Tuesday and Thursday until 7 p.m. Currently, there are four medical providers who see patients, Dr. Donald Richter, who is also MLMC's medical director; Laurel Grant, NP; Barbara Monn, PA; and Danny Moon, NP. All providers are accepting new patients. To schedule an appointment at MLMC or to ask questions, persons should call 301-533-3300.

In celebration of National Health Center Week, MLMC will have a booth at the Garrett County Fair. Employees of MLMC will staff the booth Monday through Friday from 4 p.m. to 8 p.m., and on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. People are encouraged to stop by and ask questions, obtain health education materials, and try for a chance to win prizes.

National Health Center Week is sponsored by the National Association of Community Health Centers (NACHC). To find out more about health centers, interested persons should visit www.nachc.com. More information about National Health Center Week, is available at www.healthcenterweek.org.

as her major and future career. Her goal is to "change the world" for the better for the have-nots in the poorest parts of the world.

I was looking forward to a baseball game this evening. The Pirates were scheduled to play the Cardinals, but the game was delayed for hours. It is past 10 p.m., and they never started the game.

But it turned out I was lucky, because they ran a great rundown of the 1960s Pirates. That will always be my favorite team of all time. That team that season was the time that I fell in love with baseball. It was an almost perfect team. There were some unique and interesting men, and several played guitar. Most evenings, the whole team would hang around the club house, enjoying music and each other's presence. And it was a wonderfully integrated team.

Today, it was the first time that I heard anyone admit that we have been in a depression. The reason someone used that word today is because many signs are indicating that, although we are not emerging out of it, we are at least heading up from the bottom. The stock market is way up, and factory orders are up for the first time in a long time. Automobile sales are up somewhat, and the problems in our housing have eased up a lot. But we still have terrible unemployment. We still have much work to really fix the problems we are experiencing.

Unfortunately, one of the long-lasting effects of the kind of brain injury I suffered is the tendency of my shoulders to be unable to hold my arm in place in the shoulder socket. My shoulders are unusually powerful for the average woman's body. Not like a swimmer's shoulder or a weight lifter, but shoulders that worked very hard at many different kinds of activities.

It started with the work of a farm girl: lots of lifting and throwing many hay bales. And I shoveled silage every day when I was elementary school age. But although they were well conditioned, around high school age and beyond they started to become prone to injury. I guess it was because my ligaments are very loose, almost too flexible. The same goes for my ankles, which had almost countless sprains. My ankles are pretty bad, but I have suffered at least four pretty serious injuries in my shoulders.

I think my first happened the day when I left the beginners' slope at Wisp to use the chair lift. It happened to be a kind of icy day. I hit a very icy patch under the chairlift, and I seriously sprained one knee and one shoulder. I can't remember if both injures were on the same side, or if it was my right knee and left shoulder. That shoulder has never been the same, especially since I have become disabled.

Then my right shoulder got hurt when a horse kicked hard while I was grooming her. I had a brush with a pretty heavy wooden handle in my right hand, and I threw that brush as hard as I could at the horse. She kicked me, and my right shoulder came out of joint.

If you never saw the movie The Way We Were, you missed a fine film. And the song from that title in some ways represents how I remember things during my young adult years, including some of my college days. It seems we did live up to the best possible aspects of what we should be in America, including unity and brotherhood and sisterhood. We believed in social justice. That seems very far away from the reality of life in the 21st century, at least the last couple of years.

A large number of comforters have been finished by members of Emmanuel and St. John's Lutheran churches. Plans are being made to distribute these to the Brethren Service Center in New Windsor for international distribution, and also to local charities for their clients. Work will continue on making more comforters, and everyone is invited to come to the parish on Tuesday mornings to help.

Southern High Class Of 1970 Reunion Slated

Members of the 1970 graduating class of Southern High School will gather for a 40-year reunion on Saturday, Aug. 28. The event will be held at the Deer Park Sportsman's Club along Maryland Highway (Rt. 135) near Deer Park, beginning at 5 p.m.

Class president Bob Rudy said that there will be free hors d'oeuvres served, and additional food and beverages will be available for purchase. The local band Remedy, led by SHS '70 graduate Dr. Jim Jones, will provide musical entertainment.

Reservations are not required, but classmates who are planning to attend are asked to send an e-mail to Elaine (Jamison) Frazee at Dinger21550@Yahoo.com, and also to send her the e-mail addresses of any other members of the class so that reunion information can be sent to them as well.

Looking for something?
It seems that we all are. In this day and age if we have enough money it seems that we can buy just about anything that we might be looking for.
However there is one thing that seems to elude most of us . . and that is peace.
So many lives are full of chaos and peace is hard to find.

Head Start Now Taking '10-'11 Applications

The Garrett County Community Action Committee Head Start Preschool and Early Head Start programs are now accepting applications for enrollment for the 2010-2011 school year. Families with children age 6 weeks through 5 years old in Garrett County are encouraged to apply. GCCAC is seeking enrollees for the Grantsville Early Head Start classrooms and for the Crellin, Friendsville and Oakland areas for Head Start.

The activities for the new school year have been planned as follows.

Early Head Start and 12-month Head Start will have parent orientation on Tuesday, Aug. 24, from 9 a.m. to noon, and from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. Parent and child orientation will take place on Wednesday, Aug. 25, from 9 a.m. to noon, and 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. First day of classes for Early Head Start and Center Street Room 1 (12-month class) will be Thursday, Aug. 26.

The Head Start 9-month classrooms will have parent orientation on Thursday, Aug. 26, 9 a.m. to noon, and 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. Parent and child transition will take place Friday, Aug. 27, from 9 a.m. to noon, and 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. The 9-month classrooms will open Monday, Aug. 30.

As an early childhood education program, GCCAC Head Start and Early Head Start provide comprehensive early childhood education services, and offer services that support families and provide a safe learning environment for children. The program offers children the opportunity to participate in a variety of activities on a daily basis that are designed to promote positive development and growth, according to a spokesperson for the program.

There are several locations throughout the county – Accident, Broad Ford, Crellin, Dennett Road, Friendsville, Grantsville, Kitzmiller, Center Street, Yough Glades – and a family child care in the Accident area. There is also a pre-school family support program for families enrolled in the pre-k classrooms at the local elementary schools. Parents who have children with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Head Start/Early Head Start services are provided by highly trained and qualified staff. All centers are accredited and licensed by the Maryland State Department of Education. Increasing the number of children entering school ready to learn is one of Community Action's primary objectives. The Head Start program promotes the GCCAC goal of creating a positive attitude about the value of education among working families and young people thereby increasing the number of Garrett County families who are economically self-sufficient, according to the spokesperson.

For more information or to make an appointment to complete an application, persons should call 301-334-9431, ext. 126, or 888-877-8304, ext. 126, for Head Start, and 301-334-4211 for Early Head Start.

RITA WATSON YOUR REGISTER OF WILLS
FOR GARRETT COUNTY

RITA WITH HER VERY COMPETENT STAFF, TOM MATTHEWS, CHIEF DEPUTY, AND HEATHER O'BRIEN, DEPUTY READY, WILLING AND ABLE TO CONTINUE SERVING YOU
"I have worked with Rita in the Office of Register of Wills for the past ten years. I came here after having served as a clerk in the District Court of Maryland for 14 years. I have never seen a more dedicated, conscientious and caring public servant. She is always ready to help in any way she can those who come to her office having lost a family member or friend and to use her knowledge of probate law and procedure to make the process as painless and as inexpensive as possible. The Register of Wills handles the probate of most estates and wills by herself. She also acts as clerk to the Orphans' Court. it took me years to learn the job, and I must still ask her questions. She has always been ready to teach her staff the complexities of the job and has always emphasized to myself and Heather O'Brien that our first responsibility is to serve the public and do all we can to cut red tape and help save people as much grief and expense as possible."
Chief Deputy Register of Wills, Tom Matthews
"I had 15 years of experience as a legal secretary and paralegal in a busy law office when I came to the Register of Wills office. In that job I did drafts of wills, deeds, and court pleadings. I had no idea how difficult and complex the work here would be. Estate bond law, complex accountings and property inventories, intestate succession laws, probate procedure, appellate procedure and many other such matters are a daily routine in our office. I have now served here for 9 months and am just beginning to become functional, but I still need daily guidance from Rita. And Rita genuinely cares about the people she serves. Ask anyone who has brought a will to our office to be probated. Ask them how they were treated and whether Rita went the extra mile to help them through the process and to see that everyone got what the deceased friend or relative provided."
Deputy Register of Wills, Heather O'Brien
"We hope that you, the voters, will see fit to keep our team together by keeping Rita Watson as your Register of Wills so that we may continue to serve the people of our county as we have always done in the past."
Tom and Heather

ARCHERY HISTORY, TECHNIQUE, AND SAFETY were topics discussed during an archery day for Oakland Cub Scout Pack 70 at Potomac Garrett State Forest on July 18. Instructors Mark "Bubba" Friend and Richard "Dickie" Helmick taught the Scouts about hunting, and showed them different types of bows and equipment. The Scouts were also allowed tc shoot both compound and recurve bows, and were mentored on a one-on-one basis as they shot their first shots. After eating grilled hot dogs and other refreshments, the Scouts had a balloon shoot-off to win prizes, provided by Rich and Pat Skeweris of Backbone Mountain Sport Shop. The facility was made available by Jason Savage. The pack expressed appreciation and gratitude to everyone involved in making the event happen. Competitors will compete in either an amateur or professional (corporate) class. The event is being organized by high school Robotics Team 1629 in cooperation with GEARS (Garrett Engineering and Robotics Society).

Machines built to compete in the amateur class will be throwing their pumpkins for distance, with a maximum range of about 340 yards. Corporate class machines will be tossing their pumpkins for accuracy, shooting for a target approximately 275 yards downrange. Teams can include family members, businesses, etc.

To help contestants prepare for the event, GEARS will be conducting a catapult and trebuchet workshop on Saturday, Aug. 14, from 10 a.m. to about noon. All are welcome to explore design considerations of these machines to get the best possible pumpkin throwing distance. The workshop, conducted at the GEARS facility in the town of Accident, will be free and open to all. Only catapult or trebuchet type of machines will be allowed at the Autumn Glory competition. No machines that use combustion or compressed air to propel pumpkins will be allowed.

"Pumpkin chucking used to be a regular part of Autumn Glory celebrations in the past," noted a team spokesman. "We wanted to resurrect this tradition to provide a showcase for the engineering talent here in Garrett County, as well as provide yet another opportunity for youngsters to apply their math and science skills in a fun and exciting way."

The Autumn Glory Pumpkin Chucking event will be free and open to all spectators. There will be a nominal charge for contestants to cover costs. Machines and teams will be judged in several categories, and trophies will be awarded to winning teams.

For more information about the Autumn Glory event or the workshop at GEARS on Aug. 14, persons should visit www.team1629.com or call 301-616-3231.

GERMAN STUDENTS VISITING AREA – A group of about 23 German citizens are visiting Garrett County this week through a traveling program of the FGAC (Federation of German-American Clubs). The trip is being headed up by Rosemarie ("Rosie') Kelle of the German city of Bielefeld in North Rhine Westfalia. Kelle, who is the youth work chairperson of the FGAC, collaborated in the past with Southern High School German teacher Kathleen Doyle in arranging exchanges of high school students. This year Doyle was not involved in the exchange, but Kelle wished to continue to bring the German students to the United States for a visit, and particularly to return to Oakland. "Oakland is a really great little town," she said, "and a wonderful surrounding. The sudden idea was to come back with the youth group of teenagers and spend some days, and in a way to experience family life. Through this trip, the youth come to know about American history, culture, and life." She worked with Sheila Reams to arrange the visit. Students are staying with several families in the Oakland area, and today are visiting Simon Pearce Glass Factory and then Swallow Falls State Park. They arrived in New York City on Saturday, traveled to Lancaster, Pa., to see a stage show (Phantom of the Opera), and came to Oakland on Tuesday. On Saturday, the group will move on to Washington, D.C., for tours in the capital city. "Founded in 1958, the FGAC has been organizing meetings between German and American people for more than half a century," Kelle said. "Friendships have been formed, and understanding between the countries has been actively fostered and deepened. Seminars and study trips have been organized for youth between 14 and 18 years of age, with the goal of developing mutual understanding and tolerance. A further goal is to teach young people to work on saving peace, freedom, and justice in the world." The web site for the organization is located at www.vdac.de. Kelle said she hopes to arrange an annual youth trip to the area and is inviting American teenagers to consider taking part. She said more communication will be forthcoming about a future exchange. The students are shown above during their tour of downtown Oakland, conducted Wednesday. Kelle is pictured at center.

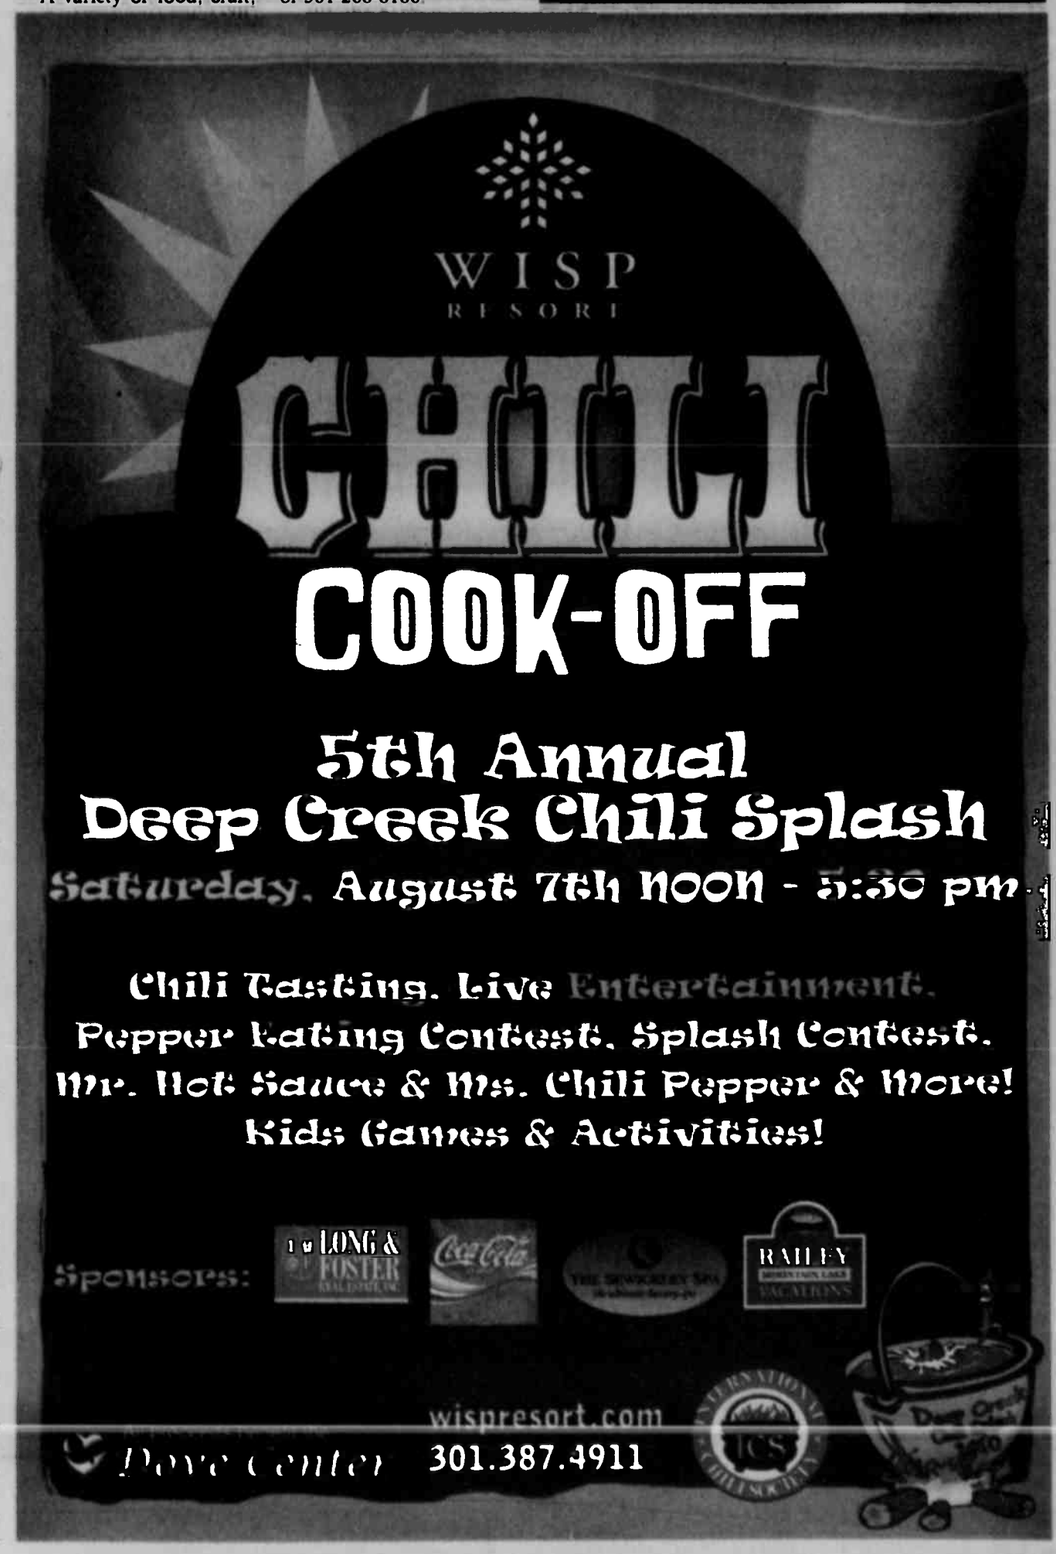
Question #2: Priorities



Some believe our priorities are out of balance and we should get back to basics. Our government is building a new community recreation center with public money at the same time it is discussing closing community elementary schools. We must rely on seasonal jobs when we should be attracting more, better-paying, stable, year round jobs for our young people and residents. Our towns and our communities are in a financial crisis with no relief in sight. Tax credits are given to larger corporations while we cut our ability to maintain our roads and highways, and our schools cannot buy textbooks. Some believe policy decisions are slanted to special interests instead of the public interest.

Summit To Identify Policy Priorities For Local Region

The Central Appalachia Regional Network is bringing together motivated citizens from six states to identify key policy priorities during the 2010 "Conver-sations on the Porch" Summit, Aug. 11–13 at the Charleston (W.Va.) Marriott Town Center. One of those citizens is Duane Yoder, president of the Garrett County Community Action Committee and a founding member of CARN.

Participants will have the opportunity to share ideas in an open discussion forum during which they will focus on four policy areas: economic development, health, education, and environment.

This regional summit will include participants from the Appalachian counties of Kentucky, Maryland, Ohio, Tennessee, Virginia, and West Virginia. The purpose is to bring together diverse organizations and policymakers to build a stronger Central Appalachia through respectful discussion and sharing of ideas.

Yoder described the event as a unique opportunity for persons interested in Central Appalachia to gather and talk about and plan action steps around the region's most important issues and prospects.

He noted that there have been big changes in Central Appalachia in the past 30 years, but with the advent of new information technology, a growing interest in environmental friendly sources of energy and improved transportation access, the region will be seeing even greater changes and opportunities.

Summit organizers hope the event will help participants from the Central Appalachia region to explore policy issues, opportunities, and needs within the aforementioned focus areas and identify policy priorities. They will develop plans to pursue those policy priorities and expand the network of organizations working together to serve Central Appalachia through policy development by establishing the Central Appalachia Regional Advocacy Network.

Keynote speakers for the conference include Anita R. Brown-Graham, director of the Institute of Emerging Issues at North Carolina State University, and Hilda R. Heady, senior vice president and chairman of the Rural Health Research and Policy Group at Atlas Research in Washington, D.C.

Panelists will include Jason Bailey, Research and policy director at Mountain Association for Community Economic Development in Berea, Ky.; a representative from the Appalachian Regional Commission; Rick Shinn, director of public affairs at the Virginia Community Healthcare Association; and Juliet A Terry, president of Vision Shared Inc., a statewide community and economic development organization in West Virginia.

Summit organizers also hope to engage younger participants in the process. The Stay Project, a collaboration of the Appalachian Media Institute, High Rocks for Girls, and the Highlander Center, invites those who are 30 and under to take part in a series of sessions for emerging leaders at the CARN Summit:

•"Introductions, Policy Training, and Issue Analysis" – 2 to 6 p.m., Aug. 11, at the Shiloh Baptist Church.

•"What Are We Seeing?" – 4:15 to 6 p.m., Aug. 12, at the Charleston Marriott.

•"Let's Bring it Home" – 2 to 4 p.m., Aug. 13, at the Marriott

An event spokesperson noted that these sessions will be a way to bring young participants at the CARN Summit together to help create stronger connections and voice, both during the summit and in the future for Central Appalachia.

The Central Appalachia Regional Network was formed as part of the W.K. Kellogg Foundation's Rural People, Rural Policy Initiative – a multi-year national initiative – based on the premise that "rural America has abundant assets and that the brightest potential for rural America emerges when a critical mass of rural people are stronger, more organized policy actors."

PAVING

By Dr. Tom Sheahen

Q. I've been watching my road being paved lately, and I have several questions: Why do they put down layers on several consecutive days? How do they keep the pavement from developing potholes? Why does the pavement become pink after a few years?

A. You have a sharp eye, to spot some of the special features that most people overlook. Pavement has changed a great deal compared to that of the distant past. A century ago, on a hot day kids would play with the tar that coated road surfaces. All that is behind us now, and modern paving practices are an example of high technology.

Starting with crude oil, a refinery makes kerosene, gasoline, diesel oil, etc., and the "bottom of the barrel" (the thick black gunk) is the basis for asphalt. What goes down on the road is a mixture of asphalt and stones of carefully chosen sizes to give the material strength. There are engineering standards pertaining to stone size, for how cold the climate will be, and so forth. A paving mixture isn't just black gooey tar, by any means.

In a paving operation, the very first thing is to clean up the place and prepare the surface. Ditches alongside an existing road, and culverts underneath it, are cleared of debris, to prevent rainwater from coming over the road. Water is the principal enemy, and so the design of a road is careful to get rid of water.

Imagine starting with an old road that hasn't been paved in many years, and may have cracked or deteriorated pavement. The goal is to wind up with a good quality surface that allows vehicles to proceed safely, and that doesn't need to be corrected or fixed for many more years. Design engineers know the cost of materials, machinery, initial labor, and the (still higher) cost of coming back to fix it later. A well-constructed road is worth the extra front-end expenditure to do it right.

Once the road is level, the very first layer is a "tack coat," which is a very sticky thin layer. On top of that goes the "base coat," which is the layer that fills in any irregularities and gives strength. Again, engineers know ahead of time what kind of traffic to expect (residential? heavy trucks?) and choose the materials accordingly. A paving machine that heats the material to about 300° F lays down an even coating about 2.5" thick as it slowly moves along. (The operator can vary the thickness.) A little time is allowed for partial cooling, and then a huge roller comes along and compresses the layer to about 1.75" thick. A gentle "crown," or slope, is given to this layer of the road so that rainwater will exit to the sides.

Next comes the "surface coat," but that's usually a day or so later, after the base coat has had time to set firmly. Experience has shown that the bond between surface and base layer is best after some set-up time. In every way it resembles the base coat, and brings the road to its proper thickness. Once again, the thickness of the surface coat is reduced by rolling it down.

To allow traffic to get past on an existing road, paving is done one side of the street at a time; for both base layer and surface layer. It consumes about a week for the entire job to be finished.

The stones mixed with the asphalt might be of various types, often limestone, containing different chemicals that give it one color or another. Not all roads turn pink, but you really notice it when one does. That's because of coloration in the limestone, which only becomes visible after the very topmost asphalt wears away. A different choice of stone, and the road just turns gray.

Potholes are caused by water getting into cracks in the pavement. When water deep in a crack repeatedly freezes and thaws (in March/April) the expansion of the ice forces the pavement to move slightly, which loosens it. Once it can move even a little, consecutive heavy wheels crack it into big pieces, and before long there is a visible pothole. A big worry occupying the mind of highway managers is how to reduce the chance of potholes forming. Getting the right asphalt binder in the first place and laying down the road with extra care adds initial expense, but saves money later on.

Natural Resources Police Make Two Arrests On July 17

The Maryland Natural Resources Police (NRP) released reports about two arrests made on July 17 on Deep Creek Lake.

The NRP charged Grant Jacob Etter, 23, Zelienople, Pa., with operating a vessel in a negligent manner, operating a vessel while impaired by alcohol, operating a vessel while under the influence of alcohol, and operating a vessel while under the influence of a combination of alcohol and/or drugs. The arrest was made at 1:45 a.m. when Etter was stopped in McHenry Cove, Deep Creek Lake, for reportedly operating his vessel in an erratic manner.

At 10:15 p.m. on that date, the NRP charged Michael John Lungociu, 53, North Bethesda, with displaying improper navigational lights, having an insufficient number of life jackets on board a vessel, operating a vessel while under the influence of alcohol, operating a vessel while impaired by alcohol, and operating a vessel while under the combination of alcohol and/or drugs.

Lungociu was stopped on the main stem of Deep Creek Lake near Arrowhead Cove for displaying improper navigational lights on his vessel between sunrise and sunset, the report stated.

Hib Vaccination for All Children

Haemophilus influenza type b (Hib) is a gram-negative bacterium that often resides in the respiratory tract. The infection is transmitted from one person to the next through coughing, sneezing, or direct contact with this bactena on a tabletop or other surface. Infants and children younger than 6 years of age who have not been vaccinated are most commonly infected. The bacteria can spread from the respiratory tract to the joints, bones, and brain and spinal cord. Meningitis may result, and is considered the most serious consequence of infection with Hib. Infants less than 2 years of age are most likely to be affected by meningitis caused by Hib.

Infection with Hib is preventable. There are 3 vaccines currently available in the U.S. for prevention of Hib: PedVaxHIB, ActHIN, and Hiberix. Vaccination is also possible with a variety of combination vaccines. All children should receive Hib vaccine. The first dose should be given at 2 months of age, and the series should be completed between 2 and 6 months of age. A booster dose is also recommended at 12 to 15 months of age. A cephalosporin antibiotic, such as ceftnaxone, may be used for treatment of meningitis caused by Hib. Other medications that may be prescribed for this condition include ampicillin and chloramphenicol.

The Centrality of Kindness

kkEvery major religion places kindness at the center of its moral teaching. Jesus tells his disciples again and again how important it is for them to love one another, to treat strangers in a kindly manner, and even to love their enemies. Perhaps no one has sung the praises of love as eloquently as Paul in First Corinthians: "Love is patient and kind; love is not jealous or boastful; it is not arrogant or rude." (1 Cor. 13:4-5) Paul ends this beautiful elegy to love by telling us that "the greatest of these, faith, hope and love, is love." There are similar statements in Buddhism: "Hatred cannot be overcome by hatred but only by love. This is an eternal law." The Dalai Lama, Tibetan Buddhism's spiritual leader has summed up his religion with this statement: "My religion is very simple. My religion is kindness." Consider how often the Hebrew word "chesed," variously translated as "steadfast love" or "loving kindness," is used in the Old Testament to describe God's relationship to his people, well over two-hundred times.

Every major religion tells us that God is love and we are called upon to emulate God's love always and everywhere. So, perhaps we should make kindness and mercy central to our lives and we will be sure that we are children of God.

Let love be genuine; hate what is evil, hold fast towhat is good; love one another with brotherly affection;outdo one another in showing honor.

On 'Target': Fox adventure show will be back

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

Q: Will the series "Human Target" be returning to the Fox lineup anytime soon? –Will Wright, Norman, Okla.

A: Television's second run at the show – starring Mark Valley in the DC Comics-inspired role that Rick Springfield had in an early-1990s ABC version – will be back for the new season. It will move to Fridays, where it first will be paired with the recently started Bradley Whitford-Colin Hanks series "The Good Guys" and later with Gordon Ramsay's "Kitchen Nightmares."

Q: Does A&E Network have any plans to release Patrick Swayze's "The Beast" on DVD? –Lew Wilkins, Marysville, Wash.

A: It's already happened. Actually, it was up to Sony Pictures – whose television division made the late actor's series for A&E – to decide whether to give it a home-video release. The three-disc set, encompassing all 13 produced episodes, was issued a year ago.

Q: What ever happened to "Shark Tank," the show where people would present their business ideas to entrepreneurs who would give their opinions and possibly invest in the proposed businesses? Are we likely to see it again? –Warren Howard, Lancaster, Calif.

A: One new episode – a leftover from the show's past season – had been slated for mid-July, but it was pulled. Repeat episodes have been airing, and at this writing, ABC hadn't yet decided on placing an order for an entire set of new installments.

Q: I was wondering if Omar Gooding of "Miami Medical" is related to movie actor Cuba Gooding Jr. –Kathleen Gummere, Springerville, Ariz.

Mark Valley

A: They're brothers. Omar is back on the market workwise, since CBS didn't renew his spring-starter medical series for a second season.

Q: Why is it impossible to find a box set of the series "Judging Amy" to purchase? –Carl Stanton, Bend, Ore.

A: Because, very simply, one hasn't been released yet ... not in the United States, anyway. If you should see a complete series set advertised, know that those are bootlegs not officially sanctioned by Fox Home Entertainment, which has the video rights to Amy Brenneman's former CBS show. If you don't mind Danish and Swedish subtitles and can find copies, the firstseason episodes have been released in Scandinavia; they've also been made available in Australia.

• According to Henry Heimlich, the inventor of the abdominal thrust technique known as the Heimlich Maneuver, the food upon which people most commonly choke is peanut butter straight out of the jar.

• Astronauts on the International Space Station see the sun rise every 90 minutes.

• You've probably heard that Eskimos have 50 words for different types of snow, but you might not realize that their language doesn't have a word for just plain snow.

• You might recall Glenn Ford, an actor from Hollywood's Golden Era, from such films as "3:10 to Yuma," "Blackboard Jungle" and "The Big Heat." You probably didn't know, though, that when he was born in Quebec he was named Gwyllyn Samuel Newton Ford. The inspiration for his stage name was the town of Glenford, Canada.

• Those who study such things say that every day in the world, 62 square miles of land becomes desert.

• When groups of shrimp end up with too few males to sustain the population, some of the females turn into males.

Q. I inherited some sterling flatware from my grandmother. It is a Towle pattern called Candlelight. — Ann, Willmar, Minn.

A. Your pattern was introduced in 1934 by Towle Silversmiths, which began in Newburyport, Mass., in 1857 as Towle and Jones. The company mark features the image of a lion mounted on a script letter "T." The lion is said to be based on the family coat of arms.

Warman's Sterling Silver Flatware Value and Identification Guide by Mark F. Moran (Krause, $24.99) is an invaluable reference for identifying and determining the approximate value of various sterling patterns. Some of the values for Candlelight in this guide include a steak knife, $40; a tablespoon, $70; and salad fork, $35. These prices are higher, I think, that those currently found in the actual marketplace.

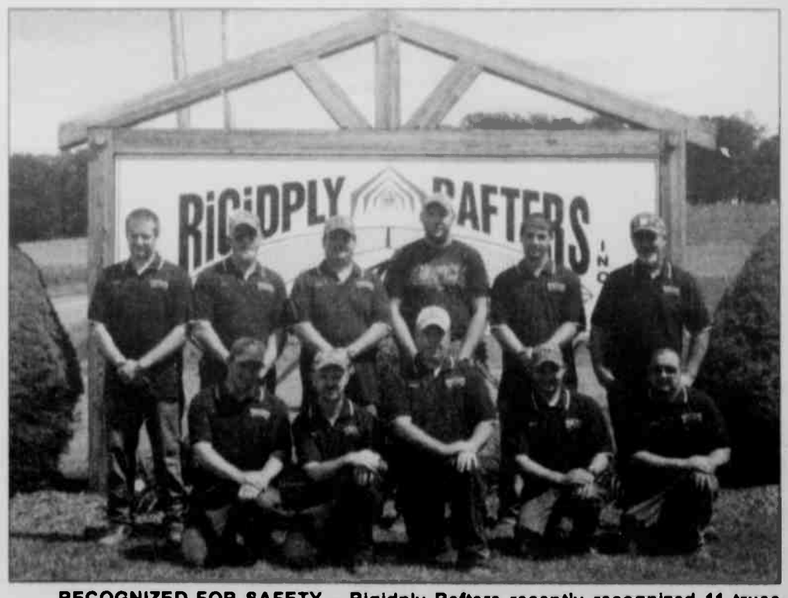
SHIPS AHOY! ALL EYES WERE ON DECK and ready to sail as youngstars at Oakland Library's Summer Reading Club climbed aboard a pontoon boat "docked" in the library's parking lot for a recent program. Bob Nickel of Bill's Marine Service talked to the group about boating, and explained the different parts of the boat. After Nickel's presentation, the children made their own boats using empty frozen dinner trays, Styrofoam blocks, and other craft items. The boats floated in pools of water, and were piled with stones and other items to see what it would take to sink the handmade boats. For a complete schedule of the reading club, persons should go to www.relib.net, call their local branch, or call the main library at 301-334-3996, ext. 115.

Foundation Adds Garrett County To Service Area

The board of directors of the Tucker Community Foundation (TCF) has announced that Garrett County is now part of the region served by the foundation. Counties served by TCF are eligible to apply for grant and scholarship awards, and Garrett County teams participating in the foundation's annual Run For It event are now eligible for large cash awards in support of the community cause they represent.

TCF was started after the flood of 1985 as a community response to disaster preparedness. Since then, the organization has grown to serve eight surrounding counties. It manages 81 endowed funds totaling more than $16 million, according to a spokesperson.

Endowed funds are established by donors who wish to support any variety of local community causes, including, but not limited to, the arts, recreation, education, health and safety, youth and senior citizens, community involvement, historic preservation, and general charitable purposes.



TCF offers six endowed fund options with varying levels of funding required ($5,000-20,000). All principal donations are invested for growth and income. The income generated is distributed as a grant or scholarship based on a competitive application process.

In 2008, family and friends of the late Dr. Joyce Colbert established a fund with TCF to honor her memory and her career. The annual scholarship is awarded to students from Tucker and Preston counties in West Virginia, and Garrett County, who plan to pursue a career in rural veterinary medicine.

In 2009, the TCF Run For It event hosted its first Garrett County team, the Broad Ford Bobcat Runners, who walked and ran to raise support for the Garrett Mentoring Program. Run For It is a 2k walk and 5k competitive run that is held each year in Davis, W.Va. in conjunction with the Leaf Peepers Festival.

The race serves as a means for community organizations to raise support. Cash awards are distributed to the winner's cause(s). The 2010 race is scheduled for 11 a.m. on Saturday, Sept. 25. The race starts and finishes at the Davis fire hall on Rt. 32. More than $22,500 will be awarded.

To learn more about TCF and the Run For It event, persons should visit www.tuckerfoundation.net, or call the foundation office at 304-478-2930.

WHAT TO KNOW ABOUT ESCROW

When you buy a home, or just make an offer, you will encounter the term "escrow account." Like making a friendly bet and asking a third party to hold the wager money, the "escrow agent" is the neutral party that holds funds in the interest of the mortgage lender and the borrower.

When the terms of the purchase and loan agreements have been met, the money is released. When your application is approved and the loan takes effect, the lender will likely require money for property taxes and homeowner's insurance also to be held in escrow. These funds are added to your monthly mortgage payment and disbursed when the tax and insurance bills are due.

This protects the lender by ensuring a lien isn't placed against your property for non-payment of taxes, and your home (their collateral) is protected against catastrophe. But escrow also benefits borrowers by spreading the large annual payments for taxes and insurance over twelve months.

For example, if your taxes are $1,600 per year and your insurance is $800, you're budgeting a reasonable $200 per month instead of making two big payments. Escrow accounts do not earn interest, so if you make a large enough down payment, you may be able to avoid the monthly escrow and pay the bills directly. Ask your agent and your lender about the pros and cons.

If you are thinking of buying or selling a home but feel "out of touch" with real estate, give me a call today.

Families Sought To Host Foreign High School Students

The Keyser (W.Va.) Chapter of AFS-USA is seeking area families to host foreign high school students. The chapter has been supporting host families and their students along with teachers since 1965, as well as sending students aboard.

It serves the tri-state area and recently had exchange students in Mountain Ridge, Allegany, Keyser, Frankfort, and Southern high schools.

"Not only are we looking for host families in these areas, but we would like to see students in other schools such as Hampshire High, Petersburg High, Northern, and others in the area," said chapter president Darlene Frederick.

Students can be placed anywhere as long as the principal agrees and there are host families volunteering to become a part of the AFS family, she added.

"There is always a great need for host families, and I can't say enough about how wonderful it is to host," Frederick said. "We hosted a boy from Thailand in 1993 and continue to keep in touch. He's our 'other son.'"

This school year, more than 2,500 young people from more than 60 counties will arrive in the U.S to study at high schools across the country and learn about daily life.

Host families provide a bed and meals, and the same guidance and support to students as they would their own son or daughter. Host families and students receive support from local AFS volunteers.

For families that do not want to make a yearlong commitment, there are semester students and "welcome family" situations. Welcome families host the students for a temporary placement until a permanent family can be found.

Once the students are in school and make friends, it is often much easier to find permanent homes, according to Frederick, but students cannot enter the U.S. without an address listed on their paperwork.

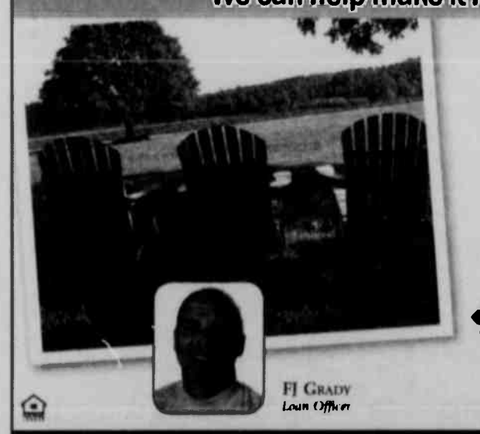
"Becoming a welcome family is a way to get students here who might otherwise not be able to come," she said. "Consider opening your home as students begin arriving mid-August."

To learn more, persons may call Frederick at 304-289-3720 or Liz Medcalf at 301-689-5894, or e-mail framergal@frontiernet.net.

Kindergarten Social Slated At Oakland Library

The Oakland Library will hold a kindergarten social on Monday, Aug. 16, from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. for all children entering kindergarten this fall and their parents. This event is a special storytime with activities related to starting kindergarten. Persons with questions should contact Keela Pfaff at 301-334-3996, ext. 115, or e-mail keela@relib.net.

Insurance Admin. To Hold Event At Grantsville Library



The Maryland Insurance Administration recently announced that it will be present at the Ruth Enlow Library in Grantsville on Aug. 24, from 1:30 p.m. to 5 p.m. to help Garrett County residents with insurance questions and concerns.

This state regulatory agency offers a variety of consumer materials on all types of insurance products from annuities to title insurance, and health, auto and homeowners insurance. Trained staff also will be available to answer consumer questions.

"Education and consumer awareness are key factors to your financial security and to a healthy insurance market," said Beth Sammis, acting Maryland insurance commissioner. "The better consumers understand the products and policies available to them, the better purchasing decisions they will make and the better protection they will have in the event of a loss or accident."

The full schedule of agency outreach activities and all the agency's consumer materials are available on www.mdinsurance.state.md.us, as well as by request, and at various community events.

TRUCK DRIVING INSTITUTE RECEIVES SCHOLARSHIP FUNDS – The Garrett College Mountaintop Truck Driving Institute has been selected to receive funding from the Maryland Motor Trucking Association (MMTA) to be used for scholarships. Terry Beachy, director of Northern Outreach Center of Garrett College and Mountaintop Truck Driving Institute of Garrett College, accepted the award from Louis Campion, president of MMTA. In the photo above, from left, are Campion, Garrett County commissioner Fred Holliday, Beachy, Delegate Wendell Beitzel, and Jim Ward, MMTA board chairman. In the photo below are Jonathan Wynne, Garrett County supervisor for the Western Maryland Consortium; Lowell Bender, past dean of Garrett College Continuing Education and Workforce Development; Dr. Richard MacLennan, president of Garrett College; Beachy; Julie Yoder, interim dean of continuing education for Garrett College; and Fred Learey, director of the Garrett College Foundation. See story.

Scholarship Funding Awarded To GC Mountaintop Truck Driving Institute

by Peggy Santamaria

The Mountaintop Truck Driving Institute, a division of Garrett College, has been selected to receive the Walter and Harriet Thompson Scholarship from the Maryland Motor Trucking Association (MMTA). This scholarship provides financial support to students enrolled in a trucking/transportation-related program at Maryland-based community colleges.

MMTA, a non-profit, trade organization, has been serving Maryland's commercial trucking industry since 1935. Today, MMTA is one of the largest trucking associations in the country, representing nearly 1,000 member companies.

Terry Beachy, director of Northern Outreach Center of Garrett College and Mountaintop Truck Driving Institute of Garrett College, accepted the award, which was presented Monday by Louis Campion, the president of MMTA, at the college facility in Grantsville. Also present for the event was Jim Ward, the current MMTA chairman of the board and president of D.M. Bowman, a national trucking company closely affiliated with the institute.

Founded in 1959, D.M. Bowman has been named as one of the top 200 carriers in the nation, operating its transportation, warehousing, and logistics organization from headquarters located at the crossroads of Interstates 70 and 81 in Williamsport.

"D.M. Bowman has been working with Mountaintop Truck Driving Institute since its inception by leasing tractor-trailers to the facility and contributing greatly to the success of Garrett College's truck-driver training program," Beachy said.

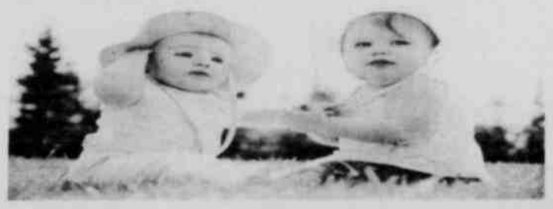
Also participating in Monday's ceremony were Delegate Wendell Beitzel; Garrett County Commissioner Fred Holliday; Dr. Richard MacLennan, president of Garrett College; Julie Yoder, interim dean of continuing education for Garrett College; Fred Learey, director of the Garrett College Foundation, Lowell Bender, past dean of continuing education and workforce development; and Jonathan Wynne, Garrett County supervisor for the Western Maryland Consortium.

Beachy spoke of the positive impact she has seen Mountaintop Truck Driving Institute have on the community.

"It is really great to know that as a team we have been able to contribute to the successful career endeavors of many individuals, because so many people have lost their jobs due to unfortunate circumstances of the economy," she said, noting that this MMTA scholarship will expand opportunities for students. "It is so grand to receive this scholarship, as I know it will help more individuals to attend training and consequently gain employment," she said.

Speaking on behalf of Garrett College, Dr. MacLennan thanked MMTA and the Garrett County Board of Commissioners for ongoing support for the institute and enabling the college to provide education and training for the greatest possible number of people in the community.

Campion, as president of the Maryland Motor Trucking Association, took the opportunity to praise the program offered through Mountaintop Truck Driving Institute.



"The college is filling a need for quality, educated truck drivers," he said.

The MMTA scholarship, which will be available to Maryland residents, will be administered through the Garrett College Foundation. For more information, persons may contact Fred Learey at 301-387-3100 or via e-mail sent to foundation@garrettcollege.edu.

The Garrett College Moutaintop Truck Driving Institute offers students essential skills to obtain a commercial driver's license through classroom instruction, yard maneuvers, and over-the-road training. For more information, persons may telephone the Mountaintop Truck Driving Institute at 301-895-4700 or toll free at 1-866-851-MTDI, or go online to www.garrettcollege.edu/MTDI.

Ford Wins Third In National Rodeo

Lawrence "Rocky" Ford was awarded third place in the van division of the Community Transportation Association of America's (CTAA) 21st annual National Community Transportation Rodeo. Ford joined more than 70 drivers and over 50 judges in the competition.

Before placing third in the national competition, Ford won first place in the 2010 Transportation Association of Maryland Inc. (TAM) Rodeo, van division. Each year, TAM presents an opportunity for drivers to compete and demonstrate their safety and driving skills in one of two categories: small bus class or van class.

In the competition, drivers must demonstrate their skills in conducting a pre-trip inspection, their skill in the use of wheelchair securements, and their skills in providing passenger assistance. TAM awards scholarships to its first and second place winners to attend the CTAA Rodeo in Long Beach, Calif.

Ford, a driver from Garrett County Community Action Committee, has been a driver for Garrett Transit Service (GTS) for 27 years. He has been a consistent winner of both the state and national Rodeos. Ford has participated in 14 of the 15 Maryland State Rodeos.

He has placed first or second in 10 State Rodeos, third in three of the National CTAA Rodeos, and fourth in two other National Rodeos. TAM commended Ford for the work he does every day to provide mobility for those who need it most.

TAM is a non-profit agency whose mission is to serve and represent its members, and is dedicated to improving mobility and economic opportunity for all Maryland citizens. It is an advocate for its members, providing professional development and a forum for the pursuit of excellence in community transportation, noted a spokesperson.

TAM has a wide variety of additional training resources available to support those in the business of moving people. Interested persons may contact TAM for more information or free training.

The sale is subject to post-sale audit of the status of the loan with the loan servicer including, but not limited to, determination of whether the borrower entered into any repayment agreement, reinstated or paid off the loan prior to the sale. In any such event, this sale shall be null and void, and the Purchaser's sole remedy, in law or equity, shall be the return of the deposit without interest. If Purchaser fails to settle within ten days of ratification, he agrees to pay, attorneys' fees in the amount of $750.00, plus costs, if the Trustees have moved to resell the property. Purchaser waives personal service of any paper filed in connection with such a motion on himself and/or any principal or corporate designee, and expressly agrees to accept service of any such paper by regular mail directed to the address provided by said bidder at the time of the sale. If Purchaser defaults under these terms, deposit shall be forfeited. The Trustees may then resell the property at the risk and cost of the defaulting purchaser. The defaulted purchaser shall not be entitled to any surplus proceeds resulting from said resale even if such surplus results from improvements to the property by said defaulted purchaser. If Trustees are unable to convey either insurable or marketable title, or if the sale is not ratified by the Circuit Court for any reason, the Purchaser's sole remedy, at law or equity, is the return of the deposit without interest. Purchaser agrees to pay $295.00 at settlement to the Seller's attorney for review of the settlement documents and an additional fee of $295.00 for review of any motion which may be subsequently filed with the Court to substitute a purchaser herein.

THE TRADITIONAL CROWNING CEREMONY for the Garrett County Farm Queen, this year's being the 65th, took place on Sunday night at the McHenry fairgrounds. Winning the honor was Kara Savage of Accident. The first runner-up was Catlin Carrico, Swanton. Both young women are participating in several events during the Garrett County Agriculture Fair, taking place this week. Pictured above, from left, are contestants Katelyn Gnegy, Kasondra Rounds, 2009 Farm Queen Ashley Rodeheaver, Queen Savage, Annie Graham, and Carrico. The fair, which features locally grown produce, livestock, arts and crafts, amusement rides, and a variety of food and drink, will continue through Saturday. See additional photographs in today's issue, and watch for the annual fair supplement of this newspaper later this month.

AND 'ROUND AND 'ROUND IT GOES – For a nice view of Deep Creek Lake and of the lights and action of the Garrett County Agriculture Fair, folks have no better opportunity than to board the Ferris wheel and ride around and around. The fair is well under way, opening to the public Sunday evening with the annual farm queen crowning event, and continuing throughout the week with special shows, crash-up derbies, Gambill Amusement rides, all varieties of "fair food," animal and livestock competitions, and many other events. The week will culminate Saturday night with the annual livestock sale, which supports the agricultural-minded youth of the county. All are encouraged to attend. Photo by Lisa Broadwater.

Landowners File Petition Against Roth Rock Project

Landowners residing near or adjacent to the wind turbine project of Synergics Energy Services LLC at Roth Rock just south of Red House have filed a petition asking for judicial review of the actions or inactions of three local agency heads.

Named as defendants in the petition, filed last Friday in Garrett County Circuit Court, are Reggie Breeding, stormwater management engineer for the Permits and Inspection Division, Planning and Land Development of the Stormwater Management Office; James Torrington, chief of that same agency; and John Nelson, director of the Garrett County Department of Planning and Land Development.

The petition alleges that the officials have failed to enforce the county's stormwater management ordinance. Specifically, it alleges that Breeding has not conducted any inspections on the site of the Synergics wind project, nor has he submitted any written reports of inspections, which is in violation of the ordinance.

Further, it alleges that Breeding's supervisors, Torrington and Nelson, have also violated the ordinance by not directing Breeding to conduct the required inspections, and that they have failed to enforce the ordiance by not suspending or revoking the permits that were granted to Synergics.

It notes that the ordinance provides that any grading permit may be suspended or revoked for various reasons, including: a violation occurs, site runoff characteristics change, or construction does not comply with the approved plan.

The petition states that "multiple violations have occurred on the Synergics wind project ... which have been noted in a complaint filed by Eric Robison to Scott Boylan, the division chief of the Maryland Department of the Environment."

Robison, who is a contractor, listed 15 separate complaints involving the sites of all 20 wind turbines that are to be erected at the Roth Rock site, and submitted numerous photographs

GC Board Of Education Approves Calendar For Possible Closures

The Garrett County Board of Education discussed and finalized a calendar that will be followed for the possibility of closing one or more elementary schools. The plan presented by superintendent Dr. Wendell Teets at this week's meeting was approved with several amendments.

It is already projected that the student populations will be down by 100 students in the next year, eliminating nearly $1 million in federal funding. The county budget will be set by the end of December, and the state funding will be known no later than January. Federal funding will not be finalized until approximately June of 2011.

Dr. Teets will present the board with a recommendation for potential schools to be considered by the Sept. 4 board meeting. It will be then that advisory groups will be organized to study and evaluate the recommended schools. The advisory committee will consist of administrative personnel and parents.

A public hearing will be set at the Oct. 12 meeting in order to inform the public of the pros and cons of each school under consideration. A report will be given on each school by the advisory group, and a report and recommendation will be presented by Teets. By Oct. 14, letters will be mailed to the schools in consideration, and a notice will be submitted to the local media.

Reports will be given at the Dec. 14 board meeting, with the following factors having impact on proposed closings: student enrollment trends, age and condition of school buildings, transportation, educational programs, racial composition of the student body, financial considerations, student reloca-

Inadequate Funding Leads To Closing Of Partners After School Programs

The Partners After School (PAS) programs in Garrett County are once again facing elimination despite best efforts on the part of all community partners to sustain them. This includes all of the following PAS programs: Accident, Friendsville, Grantsville, Kitzmiller, Loch Lynn, and Southern Middle School.

For more than 10 years, the Local Management Board/Garrett County Partnership for Children and Families Inc. has supported after-school programming in schools and community sites in Garrett County. 21st Century Community Learning Centers funding from the Maryland State Department of Education supported the majority of the PAS programs for six years, from 2004 to 2009. When the 21st Century funding was not renewed last year, the Garrett County commissioners allocated $125,000 in emergency funding for the programs.

An additional $125,000 was secured through a Community Development Block Grant from the Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development. The quick response of the commissioners and MDHCD allowed all six of

Ecosystem Health Report Card To Be Created For Deep Creek

About 150 people attended Saturday's "State of the Watershed" forum, sponsored by Friends of Deep Creek Lake, a local nonprofit group addressing ways to protect, preserve, and restore the watershed. The 2½-hour information-packed event included overviews of research that has been or will be conducted about the lake.

"It was clear from the turn out, and high level of attentiveness to often detailed presentation, those who attended want to know what is going on at the lake, want to urge governmental actions to addresses various issues, and are willing to be a part of watershed protection efforts," said Barbara Beelar, Friends of DCL director.

Attendees included Del. Wendell Beitzel, Sen. George Edwards, and Secretary John Griffin, Maryland Department of Natural Resources. Beelar said Griffin's presence at the event gave a serious air to the gathering and gave a strong signal that the state, which owns the lake, has come to realize the need for action on watershed protection,

Simson Named America's National Teenager 2011

A few weeks after Jessica Simson was in a head-on collision resulting in a fractured nose, laceration of the forehead, and eyes that swelled shut, she was named America's National Teenager 2011 in America's National Teenager Scholarship Pageant.

While many contestants in the pageant hired a coach to assist with interview skills, choreography, and other requirements, Simson decided to go about it on her own. The car accident hindered her efforts, but once at Nationals in Philadelphia, she felt confident regardless of the bruising that was still evident.

In the pageant the judges' scores included scholastic achievement, awards, community service, extra curricular activities, and work experience. Stages of the competition also included interviews with four judges, personal expression, on-stage question, and poise and confidence in an evening gown presentation.

In the fall, Simson will be attending the University of South Carolina and majoring in journalism. She hopes to become a publicist.

Simson expressed her appreciation for her sponsors and other persons who made this opportunity possible. She says she is looking forward to carrying out her duties as America's National Teen, including visiting Boys and Girls Clubs throughout the country, promoting Reach Out and Read (a literacy program for children), and other various scheduled appearances.

She says she is thrilled to not only have won the title of America's National Teenager, but also to be a representative of the state of Maryland and her home of Garrett County.

Simson is a 2010 graduate of Southern High School, and the daughter of John and Judy Simson of Oakland.

KING IS NATIONAL SILVER MEDALIST – Sara King, Oakland, competed in the 2010 United States Aerobic Gymnastics Competition, held at the Red Rock Casino in Las Vegas, and earned a silver medal at the national competition. This achievement qualified her to participate in the 13th International Youth Aerobic Championship. She vyed in two rounds of competition at the international event, and she ranked 7th in both rounds. "Advancing to the international competition is always an achievement, and to rank as high as Sara did is amazing," said her coach, Brenda Brosnihan. The international event is attended by more than 25 countries, Brosnihan said, and King is in one of the most competitive age divisions. Alissa Garland, former sportaerobic champion from Oakland, traveled to Vegas to coach King at the international competition. "Sara is so competitive and works so hard," Garland said. "It was rewarding to see her win a national silver medal and to rank so high on the world stage." King said she felt good after her performance in the finals. "It was my personal best," she said. "I had hoped to go higher in the rankings, but I know I did all I could do, and I was happy for the opportunity to compete." Sara was accompanied on the trip by her grandmother and parents, Shannon and Brad King. She will be a senior this year at Southern High School.

SEVERE WEATHER, mostly in the form of high winds, have hit the Mountaintop a couple of times over the past week or so, with the worst strike occurring last Wednesday night, causing a number of power outages in the county. The photo above, courtesy of Jennifer Pietta, shows large tree limbs that fell and damaged the historic Senator McCullough home in Friendsville. Today's forecast includes the potential for some scattered, severe storms later today and tonight.

Wayne Johnson Re-Elected First Vice Cahir, MHA

Garrett County continues to have healthcare representation at the Maryland state level with the re-election of Wayne R. Johnson as the first vice chair of the Maryland Hospital Association (MHA). The MHA serves as an advocate for hospitals and their patients before legislative and regulatory bodies.

Johnson, a lifelong resident of Garrett County, retired from the Garrett County Board of Education as an elementary school principal. He continued his employment as the director of corporate education and training for Garrett National Bank and later served as a Garrett County commissioner.

He chairs the board of governors at Garrett County Memorial Hospital. He has chaired the hospital's Bylaws, Human Resources, and Board Development committees. He also serves as vice chair of the GCMH Foundation. He has been a member and/or executive officer of numerous local service clubs/organizations, including Hospice of Garrett County, Habitat for Humanity, Garrett Lakes Arts Festival, Garrett County Lighthouse, Lions Club International, and the Oakland/Mtn. Lake Park Lions Club. Johnson also served as a member of the search committee for MHA's current president/CEO, Carmela Coyle.

"He is a strong advocate for safe, high-quality, easily accessible, personalized health care," said a spokesperson for GCMH. "His ongoing dedication to the community's healthcare is evidence of his high regard for all employees and physicians whose teamwork is essential to successful patient outcomes."

Falter Files For Commissioner From District 3

George Falter has recently announced his candidacy for Garrett County commissioner, District Three.

"I finally decided to run after receiving many phone calls and hearing comment such as, 'The people need you to run, George,'" Falter said, about his last minute decision to run. "I'll give it one more go, my last hurrah."

As commissioner, Falter plans to bring citizens back into the decision-making process of government through town hall meetings. If the two other commissioners are unwilling to participate, he says he will use his commissioner's salary to rent a space and conduct the meetings himself.

"All politicians talk about 'change' and 'new leadership,' but it never really takes place after the election. My number one goal is to change that," Falter said.

He said he has been involved in "every major issue over the past dozen years or so," and says he has managed to bring those issues "out of the back rooms of 'politics as usual' into the light of day."

Falter believes that national issues have reached crisis proportions, and must be addressed if Americans are to survive and restore their image of being the greatest nation in the world.

"Ultimately, all politics is local, and begins and ends at the local level," he said. "If we are ever going to get back to the ideas and hopes of the founding fathers (and their wives and mothers, by the way), we need to find a way of reaching out to one another. We need to stop the bickering and name-calling."

Two Charged With Assault By GC Deputies

Garrett County sheriff's deputies charged two people with assault following unrelated weekend incidents.

Deputies responded to Sweitzertown Road, Swanton, last Thursday for a domestic dispute. Investigation led to the arrest of Theresa Coking, 34, Pasadena. She is charged with second degree assault. She was taken to the Garrett County Jail after being released from Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where she was treated for injuries sustained during the incident. Southern Rescue Squad also responded to the incident to give medical treatment.

A man was arrested at the Friendsville Town Park on Saturday after deputies observed an assault in progress. Michael Lawson is charged with second degree assault, disorderly conduct, and resisting arrest. He was taken into custody to await a bond hearing.

EARNS WINGS WITH DISTINCTION – 2nd Lt. James C. "Beau" Gibson recently received his U.S. Air Force pilot wings at a graduation ceremony at Columbus Air Force Base, Mississippi. Those who excelled in their respective training tracks were recognized, and Lt. Gibson was one of three to be presented the Distinguished Graduate Award. The 52-week pilot training program began with a six-week preflight phase of academics and physiological training. The second phase, primary training, is conducted in the single-engine, turboprop T-6A Texan. The advanced training for the airlift-tanker track uses the T-1 Jayhawk, the military version of a Beech Jet 400 business jet. Upon completion of four months of training in Oklahoma, Gibson will be flying the C-17 Globemaster. He is assigned to a C-17 Air Force Reserve Squadron in Charleston, S.C., where he will reside with his with Katie. Gibson is the son of Jim and Kathy Gibson and grandson of Maxine Gibson and Bob and Vava Railey, all of Deep Creek Lake.

Garrett Rehab Plans 8th Annual Mad Dash; Launches New Health Effort

The 8th annual Mad Dash, hosted each year by Garrett Rehab Services as a fundraiser, will be held on Labor Day weekend. The 5-K run and simultaneous 1.5-mile walk is an event created by the staff of Garrett Rehab 2004. The event will be held on Sept. 4, with registration at 8 a.m. and the walk/run at 9.

"The purpose of the Mad Dash is to give back to the community by way of charitable donations, and also to promote health and fitness," said Audrey Kennedy of Garrett Rehab. The company will use the funds this year to spearhead a new non-profit organization focused on the health and wellness of the county's youth.

The Mad Dash has been a fundraiser for the past seven years, with the proceeds being given to support a variety of health-promotion organizations and projects. In 2005, a Healthcare Closet was created to supply crutches, walkers, and wheelchairs to people with no insurance coverage. In 2006, Garrett Rehab used the funds to purchase handicapped-accessible playground equipment for Dennett Road and Accident elementary schools.

With the funds from the 2007 Mad Dash, Garrett Rehab created scholarships for students at Southern and Northern high schools, and in 2008, funds were donated to the Abilities Network. The Abilities Network is a non-profit organization with the function of assisting individuals with handicaps in performing job duties. In 2009 all proceeds were donated to Southern and Northern high school athletic associations.

"The 2010 Mad Dash will be a new beginning for Garrett Rehab Services," Kennedy said. "We have decided to create our own non-profit organization called 'Kids In Action.' This organization's purpose will be to educate kids about physical health and fitness."

Kennedy said Kids in Action will hold an annual event m which young people will participate in a variety of sporting activities, geared toward inspiring youth to carry on the lifelong skills needed for health and wellness.

The funds raised each year will be used for educational material, safety equipment specific to certain activities, and payment to any experts who may be hired for training.

"Our goal is to provide the kids with the skills to continue these activities independently for life," Kennedy said.

The inaugural event of Kids In Action will be a triathlon for children ages 7 through 18. Several training sessions will be held before the triathlon to assist youth in that age group who would like to participate, Kennedy said. The triathlon will be held in early summer or late spring of 2011. More information will be made available as the event approaches, and persons may also Garrett Rehab Services at 301-334-1863 for details.

The company hosts smaller fundraisers throughout the year to supplement the Mad Dash funds, Kennedy noted. Hot dog sales are held at Garrett Rehab Services throughout the summer, and this year the staff has hosted two Kitzmiller Lions Club chicken dinners.

"We, as an area business, would like to thank any individual or business who has donated or helped in any way with our Mad Dash in the past, and hope for your generosity in the future," Kennedy said. "We invite you all to come out and participate in the Mad Dash as runners or walkers. Remember: It is good for you, and for a good cause."

More information on how to sign up for the event will be announced as it approaches.

Garrett Rehab offered the following list of training tips to all those engaging in walking or running for fitness.

Mad Dash 5K Training Tips
Courtesy of Garrett Rehab Services

1. Set aside 30 minutes a day for exercise. You have to create the time to run. You should schedule your exercise "appointment" as if it were with your boss or your most important client. "Losing" 30 minutes to exercise a few times a week is nothing compared to the increased energy, concentration, and productivity you'll gain in the process.

2. The fitness equation is 30 minutes at a comfortable pace four times a week. Your body should be able to tell you that "comfortable" pace. If in doubt use the "talk test." Run at a speed at which you can carry on a conversation with a companion.

3 Hydrate. Make it a habit to drink water throughout the day.

4. There's no shame in walking.

5. Do abdominal breathing to get rid of side cramps, or "stitches."

6. Walk slowly, and then walk fast. Most people, on starting an exercise program, are able to walk slowly for 30 minutes without much trouble. Aim for this initially. As soon as you are able, start adding periods of brisk walking. Within two or three weeks, begin alternating 2 to 5 minutes of brisk walking with 1 to 3 minutes of easy walking.

7. Build rest into your schedule. Rest is just as important an element as exercise in your fitness plan.

8. Run facing traffic.

9. Eat to run. Eat a good high-protein breakfast, and then have a light lunch. Run on an empty stomach at least two, preferably three, hours after your last meal. Save the carbohydrates for the meal after the run to replenish the muscle sugar.

10. Run economically. Do not bounce or over stride. You should lengthen your stride by pushing off, not by reaching out. Do not let your foot get ahead of your knee. This means your knee will be slightly bent at foot strike. Run from the hips down, with the upper body straight up and used only for balance. Relax.

11. It's okay to take walk breaks (run 1 minute, walk 1 minute, then progress to run 10 minutes, walk 1 minute, etc.)

12. When injured, find a substitute activity to maintain fitness. Swim, cycle, or walk for the same time you would normally jog.

13. Find your shoes and stick to them. High-arch feet do better with narrow heels. Those with Morton's foot (short big toe, long second toe) may need an arch support in the shoe. If a shoe works, train in it, and wear it to work.

14. To aid recovery, the most crucial time to eat and drink is in the hour immediately after you run.

15. Sign up for a race as soon as you feel up to it.

Driver Cited By GC Deputies In Two-Car Wreck

Garrett County sheriff's deputies cited a driver after responding to a two-vehicle accident on George Washington Highway last week.

Investigation revealed that Jamie Lyn Alexander had been traveling east and reportedly failed to stop for a vehicle being operated by Charles James Moore. Moore's vehicle was stopped in an attempt to make a left turn onto Mason School Road. Alexander was cited for failure to control speed to avoid a collision.

Several Charged With DUI Following Stops, Wrecks

Several people were charged with driving under the influence by Garrett County sheriff's deputies this past week. The following incidents are unrelated.

A vehicle was stopped on Garrett Highway near Weber Road for failure to drive right of center, as well as exceeding the posted speed limit. Kevin Lee Meyers was identified as the driver and was reportedly found to be intoxicated. Meyers is charged with exceeding the posted speed limit, DUI, DUI per se, and driving while impaired. He was released pending trial.

A single-vehicle collision on Underwood Road was investigated by deputies. It was revealed that a 17-year-old juvenile had been operating a 2001 Jeep, when he she lost control of the vehicle. The Jeep rolled after crossing the shoulder and striking an embankment. A passenger was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by Southern Rescue Squad. The juvenile is charged with DUI, DUI per se, and DWI. He/she was taken into custody and released to the Department of Juvenile Services.

A Garrett County man wrecked his 2005 Dodge truck while traveling north on Oakland Sang Run Road. Douglas Eugene Ratliff, 46, was the driver of the vehicle, which struck a utility pole after crossing both lanes. The pole fell across Oakland Sang Run Road, which was closed as a result. Ratliff was found to be intoxicated. He is charged with DUI, DUI per se, and DWI. He was taken to the Garrett County Jail to await a bond hearing.

A West Virginia man was stopped in Kitzmiller after being observed traveling at a high rate of speed in a 2002 Jeep Wrangler on Main Street. William Charles Roby, 40, Maysville, was determined to be under the influence. He is charged with DUI. He was later released following processing at the GCSO.

Why Rita Watson Should Remain as Register of Wills

May I urge you to keep Rita Watson in as our Register of Wills: That office requires extensive knowledge of estate law, which cannot be gained by a quick study of how to be a register. Rita has assisted many of us (attorney and citizen), which makes probating wills and estate handling much easier. She has 30 years of excellent training and her knowledge is 100%.

In some counties (in Maryland) you are required to have an attorney. Here you do not need an attorney and, even in complicated matters (and they are often frequent), Rita helps the family through them with kindness-expertise-competence and dignity.

There are many positions in the government where no experience is needed; however, in that office, experience and competence are extremely important. In my opinion, there is no one in the county – nor any attorney – who could step into her job and keep it running with the excellence she brings to it.

Please keep Rita Watson as our Register of Wills.

Justifiable Tax Hike?...

It's certainly no secret that Maryland is among many states that are in relatively dire financial straits. While a strong case can be made that years of financial waste has certainly contributed to the state deficit, the floundering economy of the nation is the biggest factor. The state is now forced to cut programs and slash funding almost across the board.

But besides cutting, the state also needs to find a way to generate more revenue to maintain the most crucial programs, and one of the few ways to do that is by raising taxes. No one likes that option, especially when individual families and businesses are also struggling financially, meaning a tax hike is the proverbial addition of salt into a wound.

However, an idea of the Maryland Citizens' Health Initiative definitely has merit – that of raising the tax on alcoholic beverages. The fact is, Maryland's liquor tax is not only the second lowest in the nation, but it has not been increased for a staggering 55 years. President Eisenhower was in the White House the last time this tax was increased. And it has been 38 years (1972) since the last increase on beer and wine taxes. One can argue that Maryland's low tax on such products has helped foster alcoholism, drunk driving, and spousal abuse, among other ills associated with excessive alcohol consumption.

The coalition is calling for the equivalent of a "dime a drink" tax increase, not on drinks sold in bars, but on beverages sold in package stores. This would generate more than $200 million annually for the state, and the funds would be specifically earmarked to help fund mental health services, services for people with developmental disabilities, health care for indigent and childless adults, and programs to address drug and alcohol abuse. The group predicts that the tax hike will also reduce state health care costs by nearly $250 million per year.

It was also the Maryland Citizens' Health Initiative that pushed for and was successful in getting the state to pass a $1 hike in the tax on cigarettes in 2007. Opponents said this would cause smokers to go out of state to make their purchases and thus result in a major loss of revenue for businesses and the state. The smokers did cross the border as predicted, as the sale of cigarettes in the state dropped by 74 million packs. But there was also an additional $144 million generated annually by the tax, plus there has been a significant drop in the number of smokers in Maryland since 2007, ultimately saving millions more because of the reduction of illness and death caused by tobacco use.

The coalition is challenging candidates for the Maryland House of Delegates and Senate to sign a pledge to support this proposal. Many of them have already signed the pledge, and those who have not done so have until Aug. 28. Interestingly, a recent state poll shows 71% of the public supports the proposal, so it seems that most candidates will ultimately jump on this bandwagon. Taking everything into account, it seems to be justifiable.

Letters to the Editor

Writers of letters to the editor are reminded that letters will not be published if they exceed 400 words, do not include contact information, and/or are deemed to be libelous.

To the Editor:

As I gazed upon last week's letters to the editor, I was intrigued by the various opportunities that presented themselves to comment. So I will.

Yes, Cindy, Glenn Beck is a boob. When I listen to him (watching is too much), I am continually amazed by his complete fabrication of the facts and his down-home sense of stupidity. I can hardly believe he has any followers except for maybe those who've been sitting in the compost a little too long. I have zero respect for him and anything he says, for, as you say, he's making it up as he goes and, frankly, I wish he would... go.

As to the letter about the windmills, come on, people. They are here, they are what we need to be doing, and I for one think they're pretty cool. As far as the subsidizing issue, when we stop giving Exxon Mobil tax breaks, then we'll talk. Last year they paid zero taxes. That's zero with a Z. One day soon enough the fossil fuel game is going to be beyond us, so it's best that we get to figuring what the next step is. Besides all that, who are we to say what a man can do with his property? Isn't that just a liberty and capitalism burger with an extra cheese combo?

I often read Dr. Sheahen's column and often learn things, but as to "global warming," I agree with Mr. Krewson. Part of our problem with failing to grasp the significance of the hottest decade is the half-truths perpetuated by Big Oil and coal and their stake in our energy future. They have a vested interest in keeping our future theirs.

The conversation about hydraulic "fracking" is one that I agree needs more looking into. If there have been problems with this process, then we need to know about them and decide if the juice is worth the squeezin'. To not be totally informed is to be driving with the lights off. We are blessed with copious amounts of good water. To risk that resource for temporary gain is foolish.

And finally, thank you, Mountain Laurel Medical Center, for the services you provide to our community.

The health care bill, though far from perfect, is a first step toward tackling an ever-growing problem. You have been a great help to those in need. Thanks again.

Report Card

conservation, and restoration.

"I am very heartened by the turnout for the forum and the interest in the well being of the lake expressed today," Griffin said.

He said he believes the lake is "generally okay," but acknowledged there is work to be done and that precautions need to be taken to ensure that development and tourism do not damage the very thing that is attracting the visitors.

Griffin pledged his commitment to be more focused on lake related issues and that his agency would support adoption of best management practices for watershed protection.

The forum included an overview of all available research and water monitoring of the lake that has been conducted by various agencies in the past. Beelar noted, however, that a comprehensive analysis of the watershed has never been conducted.

To remedy that, Eco-Check, a team affiliated with the University of Maryland Center for Environmental Science and the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, will create a "report card" on the state of the watershed. Funded by a Chesapeake Bay Trust grant, the report will be released this fall.

Published annually, report cards help monitor changes in a watersheds over time. In addition to "grading" the watershed, the DCL report will include ways in which property owners can help improve its score.

EcoCheck has also created reports for the Chester River, Chesapeake Bay, and other watersheds in the state.

The team's Dr. Heath Kelsey gave an overview on the work that will be done to collect and analyze all the current lake data. His tentative plans include dividing the lake into three separate areas.

One section is the area south of Glendale Bridge, where the watershed is more open, has multiple coves, is impacted by agricultural uses, and is the location of many older homes.

Another is the "town center" area in McHenry, and the last sector covers the deeper, cooler sections of the lake, where streams and the lake are more tree covered and water flows more naturally through releases from the dam, according to Beelar.

She noted that the great differences among these sectors of the lake lead to differing but equally valid reports about the health of the lake.

The director said much of the forum focused on particular issues relating to the lake south of Glendale Bridge, where water quality and recreational decline are manifesting."

Bruce Michael, head of science services for the Department of Natural Resources, announced at the forum that a new DNR sediment plan for Deep Creek Lake will be developed.

"This plan will focus on the section of the lake south of Glendale Bridge and in particular in nine coves which have been identified as problematic,' Beelar said.

She noted that DNR research has determined between 11.7 to 33.8 acre feet/year of sediment is deposited into the lake annually and that over 99.9 percent of all sediment that enters the lake remains.

To address this growing problem, DNR will begin creating its sediment plan. The first phase will involve mapping the bottom of selected coves to develop baseline data.

"With this and other data, DNR will determine where dredging is needed and develop a plan for funding and implementation, estimated within three years," Beelar said.

Griffin informed the audience that the Watershed Improvement Trust Fund can be used to pay for the dredging. This fund receives the 5 percent tax levied on the sale of every boat sold in the state of Maryland. None of these funds have been used at Deep Creek Lake, Beelar noted.

"Unfortunately," she added. "Secretary Griffin reported the fund is now low on monies due to slow boat sales due to the economic down turn."

Anthon Allred from the Maryland Department of Environment (MDE) also presented findings of the recent Total Maximum Daily Load (TMDL) report on phosphorus impairment in the lake and its tributaries. This work and presentation in the public forum are a part of the TMDL requirements under the federal Clean Water Act. The report will be available for public review and comment by mid-August.

"Twelve years ago the lake and tributaries were listed as impaired for phosphorous," Beelar noted.

Phosphorous is a nutrient that contributes to water quality decline through supporting intrusive submerged aquatic vegetation growth and algal blooms. It comes into the lake through agricultural runoff, septic system leaks, tributary and shoreline erosion, road run off, storm drains, and other hard surfaces in the developed areas, the director explained.

"While the data show the overall lake is no longer impaired by high levels of phosphorous, MDE is concerned about the section of the lake south of Glendale bridge," Beelar said.

MDE will be conducting on-going sampling in this section of the lake and expanding current work to include sites in the various coves.

"If high phosphorous levels are found through this sampling, remediation actions will be required,' Beelar said.

Allred encouraged county and state governments to work together to develop a watershed improvement plan to address existing problems.

Alan Klotz, DNR Fisheries, and Charles Poukish, Maryland Department of the Environment's Fish Kill and Algal Bloom Division, gave the audience an overview of the recent fish kill. The incident took place in the section of the lake south of Glendale Bridge.

"While it (the investigation) is still going on, the scientists have settled on the theory that the very high water temperatures in the lake down to about 20 feet stressed fish populations, especially the cold water ones," Beelar said. "Forced to deeper depths, they encountered low levels of dissolved oxygen levels in which they could not survive. Bacteria and parasites have been found on these fish."

Lee Karrh, head of DNR's Submerged Aquatic Vegetation Division, made a presentation on his team's work this year. The members are diving and sampling sites around the lake to determine the kinds and massing of submerged aquatic vegetation (SAV). They will also be doing an overflight with a specialized camera to conduct mapping of the SAV beds in the lake.

Karrh explained to the audience the benefits of SAV grasses for the health of the lake, including filtration of sediment, habitat for fish, and stabilization of the bottom sediment. A number of audience members, especially those from coves in the southern end of the lake, talked about the problems they have with reduced recreational use because of the grasses.

One concerned person brought a sample of grasses that have recently appeared off his dock in Thousand Acres.

Another person expressed her feelings about SAVs by stating, "I don't care whether they are good for the lake, I want to get rid of all of them."

Secretary Griffin responded, "I understand that while grasses are sign of healthy lake, they are a nuisance, and I promise to find a way to achieve a balance between natural resources protection and recreational use."

The largest audience response of the day came when someone reminded Griffin that Garrett County pays into Chesapeake Bay improvement projects through the "flush tax," but no funds are devoted to addressing real problems in the lake.

Friends of DCL chair Steve Kallmyer concluded the forum by giving a summary of the event.

"This forum has been a major, hopeful step forward," he said. "It is a watershed moment in the history of the lake. The secretary and other top state agency officials have come to learn and share their work. Lake stakeholders have come to learn about the state of the watershed and what can be do to protect it. Clearly, we can work together to assure a bright future for our watershed."

Griffin echoed that assessment.

"All of us from state government were very impressed with the constructive comments from the assemblage, and we should probably done this every so often in the future," he said.

Beelar said important documents from the forum will be posted on her group's web site (www.friendsofdel.org) by mid-August, including the DNR Sediment Plan and the TMDL Report, which will be open for public comment for one month.

Friends of DCL will be making a DVD of the forum for those who were not able to attend.

Threat Of School Closures Spawns New Focus Group

The Small Rural School Focus Group, which consists of concerned parents, citizens, municipal officials, and other leaders within Garrett County, has been created in response to concerns regarding the possible closure of one or more of the county's small elementary schools. Declining enrollment and a variety of financial cutbacks have presented the Garrett County Board of Education with the challenge of providing a high-quality education with significant reductions in funding.

According to Matthew Paugh, a member of the Kitzmiller Town Council who started the group along with his wife Angela, the focus group intend to advocate for the importance of retaining small schools within local communities. Kitzmiller School is one of those that may face closure.

"Alternatives to consolidation are being explored and presented to the public," said Paugh, "to highlight the crucial role that small, rural schools play in the lives of Garrett County children and their communities.

"Our mission is to support and protect the rich tradition of educational excellence in Garrett County's smaller schools," he continued. "Research demonstrates that small neighborhood schools reduce the achievement gap, provide better education, and bridge socioeconomic differences. These schools serve as anchors for their communities."

The group began meeting last month, with one of the first agenda items being to compile a list of the various aspects of attending a small, rural school that positively impact the educational success of students. At future meetings, group members will seek to inform the public concerning the importance of each aspect on that list.

Paugh's wife Angela, who is a parent and PTO officer at Kitzmiller School, may be contacted at 301-453-3314 or e-mailed at japaugh@cebridge.net for more information.

The group is hoping to secure Dr. Rachel Tompkins, former president of the Rural School and Community Trust, as a guest speaker for a future meeting.

tions, impact on the community in the geographic attendance area of the schools proposed to be closed and school(s) to which students will be relocated, and other factors enumerated by Teets or the advisory group found to be relevent.

"It is one of the toughest aspects of this job," said Teets, "but as much as it hurts me to close a school, it hurts when we can't support our current staff and students as a whole."

The proposed calendar slated the board making a final decision by the December meeting, however, after much deliberation, it was decided that March would be a more beneficial time to decide, as state and county budgets will be set by then.

"By November, we will have a lot of information to ponder, but we won't know what money we're getting," commented board member Rodney Durst. "I would be uncomfortable making a final decision without first knowing the budget."

"Postponing a decision may make it difficult to meet certain personnel requirements and deadlines," said Teets before agreeing that the March deadline would be more appropriate.

Several parents and concerned citizens were present at the meeting to voice their opinions on the matter. Many felt that not all avenues are being explored to keep the smaller community schools open. Some only requested that the board explore every option before making the decision to close any of the schools.

"Garrett County ranked 18th in overall wealth when I first became an administrator," said Teets, in an attempt to explain the financial dilemma the board faces. "We are now ranked 8th, which means we receive much less federal funding."

After nearly two hours of discussion, the calendar was approved with a three to two vote.

Also announced at the meeting were personnel changes. Janet L. Gregory was named principal of Yough Glades Elementary School, and Dawna Ashby was announced as the new Friendsville Elementary School principal. Both of these positions were effective as of Aug. 10. Darla K. Ayodele has retired as a teacher at Southern Middle School.

Instructional assistant positions were given to Sandra L. Beachy, Crellin Elementary; Tammy R. Butt-Tichinel, Cynthia K. Carr, and Sarah Cosner, Dennett Road Elementary; Brittany A. German, Broad Ford Elementary; Ashley D. Kahl and Amanda E. King-Schmidt, Yough Glades; and Jason Rice, Northern High School.

Penny Proudfoot will be the coordinator of staff development and curriculum at the county office. Dean A. Mulcaster was hired as a CPA teacher at Southern Middle, and Nicole Gring is a new secretary at Northern Middle School.

Question #2: Priorities

Some believe our priorities are out of balance and we should get back to basics. Our government is building a new community recreation center with public money at the same time it is discussing closing community elementary schools. We must rely on seasonal jobs when we should be attracting more, better-paying, stable, year round jobs for our young people and residents. Our towns and our communities are in a financial crisis with no relief in sight. Tax credits are given to larger corporations while we cut our ability to maintain our roads and highways, and our schools cannot buy textbooks. Some believe policy decisions are slanted to special interests instead of the public interest.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

It's time for the Bittinger VFD chicken barbecue. It will be this Saturday, Aug. 14, the second Saturday in August, which is the traditional date for the Bittinger picnic.

But it's not the same since the picnic was moved from where it's always been held: Brenneman's Grove. And what a beautiful event it was. Besides chicken dinners, there were all kinds of yummy food items, like hamburgers, hot dogs, wonderful french fries, and lots of homemade pies. They also sold little inexpensive toy items.

What a great privilege that we, as children, could run free without any watching parents' eyes. We pretended that we were a herd of wild horses. And sometimes the kids of Bittinger were joined by out-of-town cousins. There were performances of real old-time mountain music on the stage. The other sound that I will associate with the Bittinger picnic was the ringing of horseshoes hitting the post. It is almost like a scene from the 19th century. I don't think it changed much from its beginning through the 1950s.

One of the favorite activities of the kids was walking "the fence" – that beautiful split rail fence. I was good at it, because I had excellent balance. The best way to walk on the top rail was barefooted. That was one of my favorite things about my childhood: going barefoot. I spent probably 90 percent of the time in the summer without shoes.

I can't help but cry when I remember what a wonderful childhood I had in such a special place.

My youngest daughter Meredith experienced a once-in-a-lifetime occasion. She heard a kind of bleating outside, and when she looked out, she saw a little creature. At first, she thought it was a baby goat. But she rushed out and got pretty close to it, and it approached her within a few feet. Then she could clearly see that it was a baby fawn: all white except for a few brown streaks around its shoulders. She knew it was looking for its mother, but there was no sign of her. The little white fawn dashed into the pasture toward our woods.

During my younger days, I had several encounters with baby deer. My father rescued a fawn from a hay field, and fed it from a bucket. We used to have a black and white snapshot of Rodney as a baby sitting on it while it drank the milk. Finally, it grew up and ran off back to the woods.

In my late teenage years or my early 20s, I took a male friend on a horseback ride, and we passed through a big uncut hay field. We were accompanied by our two dogs. They scared up a fawn, and of course started to chase it. So I ran down the dogs with Joey, and finally, they stopped chasing it.

Meredith asked me if her encounter with a white fawn was a sign of good luck. Well, I can't think of anything closer to a unicorn than a little white fawn. She is already very lucky, and in those kinds of things we are so blessed, living close to the edge of a wilderness.

The chance of anyone in America seeing a white fawn must be one in millions. I'm sure it will be a favorite story for Mere to tell her friends, especially new ones from a way different place.

I get more and more frustrated and angry because the American people seem to get more and more stupid every day, and are unable to see things crystal clear. We are watching the disappearance of any kind of civility in our society, as some continue to make appeals to hate and fear.

How many Americans feel any confidence about the future? Not many. We are living in a world gone crazy. It is largely because of the ascent of greed as a human value – now it is the only value that has real power.

There are hundreds of billionaires in America, and some of them have pledged to give half of their fortune to charity. What charity? How about giving that money to Social Security or Medicare? Or each one adopt a family who is living poor, without any bread winner who has a decent job.

It's another beautiful day. When most of America is baking in a long heat wave, it is quite cool here. But we are seeing more evidence that global warming is real: a huge chunk of Greenland broke off. Greenland has often lost some glaciers, but this is the biggest ever. And the heavy rain in Pakistan and China is one more example of extreme weather, part of the climate change.

There is some debate over Texas rewriting our history textbooks, including an all-out effort to avoid the use of the words "slaves" or "slavery," including changing "slave trade" to "triangle trade." They want to pretend that the Civil War had nothing to do with slavery. I doubt they will choose to include the century after the South surrendered to the Union. The angry and defiant attitudes blanketed the South.

How that attitude plays into southern lifestyles. One thing is denial that the Confederacy lost the war. This is shown by the desire to fly the Confederate flag instead of the Stars and Stripes, denying that they are part of America. They say that the national government should have no say in how they conduct their lives.

It was one of the ugliest periods in American history. Probably the ugliest was the genocide of Native Americans. When the white Americans did not completely kill all of them, there was the question of what to do with them.

It's much like when the South was grappling with the problem of the masses of former slaves and their descendants. Both injustices were based on a bedrock belief that America belongs to white people.

Clearly the worst suffering from the downturn in our economy is in our African-American community. You can see it when you compare the unemployment rate of college-educated white Americans to those of college-educated African-Americans. It's not because they are too lazy to work or just want a government handout.

When slaves were freed, I am pretty sure that the federal government gave one acre of land to adult male former slaves. But I don't know where the government got that land. There are very little farmable lands in the southern states. Maybe they chopped off some land from big plantations, then divided it as acre plots to give to the former slaves. That is no doubt considered "unfair redistribution of wealth." But it seems a small price to pay for lifelong labor without any pay.

Let's face it, the owners of large estates made huge fortunes on the backs of slave labor. They lived a lifestyle matching noble and aristocratic families in England. A single acre of land is not close to a fair amount of pay for years of hard labor. You could perhaps feed a family with the food you can grow on it, but make money? No. At least pitifully little, because your neighbors were also raising their own food. They could try to sell it locally, but there was pretty much no market for what the one acre produced.

You can see a small remnant of that system when you are on the road near Ocean City. You pass many roadside produce stands. Even the largest of these do not make much money, certainly not enough to buy more land or pay for health care.

A Tea Party person crafted a pretend letter to President Lincoln that was supposedly written by a soon-to-be freed slave. It went something like this: "It means that we will have to think for ourselves and work for ourselves. This slavery is kind of a sweet deal for us...."

Oh sure, a sweet deal. Their owner could sell a member of their family, or they could get beaten severely to make them work faster and harder, even when they have already given all they could in the brutal hot sun.

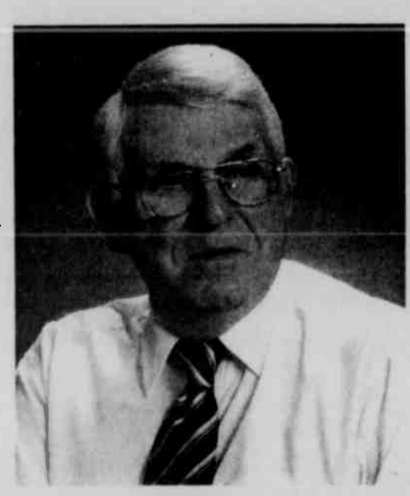
Horse Liniment Erases Pain



HIALEAH, FL. — An ingredient often used to treat inflammation in racehorse legs, is now back on the market in its original doctor recommended formula.

According to a national drug store survey, the formula at one time became so popular that it rose to the top of pharmacy sales for topical pain relievers. But the company marketing the product at the time changed the formula and sales plummeted. One of the inventors of the original formula has brought it back to the market under the trade name ARTH ARREST and says it can relieve pain for millions.

ARTH ARREST works by a dual mechanism whereby one ingredient relieves pain immediately, while a second ingredient seeks out and destroys the pain messenger signal before it can be sent to the brain. Considered a medical miracle by some, ARTH ARREST is useful in the treatment of painful disorders ranging from minor aches and pains to more serious conditions such as arthritis, bursitis, and tendonitis.

ARTH ARREST is available in a convenient roll-on applicator at pharmacies without a prescription or call 1-800-339-3301. Now at all Walgreens.

JOE WAS ELECTED REGISTER OF WILLS IN 1978. HE WAS RE-ELECTED TO 7 ADDITIONAL 4-YEAR TERMS. HE RETIRED JUNE 30, 2008. HE IS RITA'S TREASURER.

RITA SERVED WITH JOE FOR MORE THAN 30 YEARS AS HIS CHIEF DEPUTY. SHE WAS SELECTED TO FOLLOW HIM AS REGISTER ON JULY 1, 2008.

JOE DISIMONE
SUPPORTS RITA WATSON

I urge my friends and all the voters of Garrett County to keep Rita Watson as their Register of Wills by voting for her in the September 14 Primary Election. I don't do this to benefit Rita or because we are good friends. I do it because I know that it's the best thing for the people of Garrett County who sooner or later will be involved with her office and need her help.

I ask this not only because Rita served with great competence as my Chief Deputy for 30 years and not only because of her extensive knowledge of probate law and its application or her excellent record as Register for the past year and her capable performance as clerk to the Orphans' Court, and not even because I know that being Register of Wills has been her dream since she was 18 years old.

But I ask it also because there are literally hundreds of open estates and probate matters currently pending in Rita's office. Some of these cases take months or even years to complete. While this is occurring there are dozens of details concerning the progress and status of each of these individual estates known only to Register of Wills. The people who are working their way through this process must rely heavily on her knowledge, experience and her understanding of the issues facing them in their particular cases. What is to happen to those people if they must now start over with someone who not only has no experience in the complex business of the Orphans' Court or the probate process, but who knows nothing about their individual cases?

I have first hand knowledge of Rita's compassion and desire to help people. I know of her efforts to help them avoid unnecessary expense and get through probate with as little pain and worry as possible. Rita has that special, understanding way of talking to people who come to her in an emotional state of mind having lost a loved one, and facing all the problems that can entail. She has the gift of a personality that enables her to make them feel comfortable and at ease. This is true because Rita genuinely cares about other people.

Rita also has extensive knowledge of the complex state computer system which is used in every aspect of the work of the Register's office. Over the years, Rita has attended dozens of seminars and training sessions with experts in probate law and procedure including with lawyers from the Attorney General's office. Some years ago she started, on her own initiative, a series of free classes on probate throughout the county. These were held in the evenings for the convenience and benefit of people facing the prospect of losing someone close to them and needing information concerning estate planning. She did this voluntarily and without compensation.

Rita has also trained her co-workers, Tom Matthews and Heather O'Brien, to be efficient and outstanding public servants. Rita has been a great asset to the Office of Register of Wills for more than 31 years. The office is much busier today than it was when I was elected. I volunteered to be the treasurer of her campaign because I believe it very important that she continue to serve the people of Garrett County in that office.

Rita with Campaign Manager Rev. Don Matthews (L) and her friend and mentor Joe DiSimone (R), Campaign Treasurer

I also want to thank the voters of Garrett County for giving me the honor of serving as their Register of Wills for more than 30 years.

Joe DiSimone,

AUTHENIC HOT JAZZ AND SWING will be heard at the Little Yough Summer Music Festival this Friday, Aug. 13, at 7 p.m. at the Mtn. Fresh Pavilion in Oakland. "The group has a wide repertoire that can make an audience swing to a classic jazz standard, get sentimental over an old-time ballad, boogie to a hot jump tune, or get low-down with a gritty blues," said a band spokesperson. Leading the group on clarinet and vocals will be Paul Cosentino, a full-time bandleader/performer who founded the Boilermaker Jazz Band in 1988 at Carnegie Mellon University in Pittsburgh, Pa. The band has performed at major festivals, concert halls, ballrooms, colleges, and clubs throughout the world, including the Lincoln Center in New York City, the Edinburgh International Festival in Scotland, and the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C. Admission to the performance is free. Those attending the performance may want to bring lawn chairs or blankets, as seating is limited. Food vendors will be set up at 6 p.m.

Father-Daughter Duo To Present Next Music At Penn Alps Concert

The father-daughter duo of Donald and Abigail Evans will perform the 10th concert of Music at Penn Alps 2010 season this Saturday, Aug. 14, at 7:30 p.m. The venue for this concert is Windsor Hall, Cumberland.

The concert is a co-production of Music at Penn Alps and Queen City Performing Arts Development Inc., and marks the third year of a partnership between the two non-profit presenters, a spokesperson noted.

Abigail Evans began playing with the National Symphony Orchestra in 2005 and was appointed assistant principal viola in 2006. Before coming to Washington, she spent four months in the viola section of the Los Angeles Philharmonic. She attended the Cleveland Institute of Music, where she was a student of Jeffrey Irvine and Lynne Ramsey.

She is a member of the Manchester String Quartet and has also performed with other D.C.-area ensembles, including the 21st Century Consort, Eclipse Chamber Orchestra, and Kennedy Center Chamber Players.

Abigail's partner on bass for this concert is her father, Donald H. Evans Jr., who joined the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra in September 1990 as associate principal bass. He had been assistant principal bass of the Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra since 1981, and played in the bass section of the New Jersey Symphony and the Birmingham Symphony.

A graduate of Duquesne University School of Music, and a Pittsburgh native, Evans has also performed with the Pittsburgh Youth Symphony and the Three Rivers Training Orchestra.

Accompanying the two featured artists is pianist Alaine Fink. Fink has performed in recital with principal members of the Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, and Cleveland symphony orchestras, and collaborated with professional vocalists, including those from the Metropolitan Opera. Fink is currently director of accompanying services at Duquesne University and is on the faculty at the Pittsburgh High School for the Creative and Performing Arts.

The program comprises Duet with Two Obligato Eyeglasses for Viola and Double Bass, composed by Ludwig van Beethoven (transcribed by Frank Proto); Sonata for Viola and Piano No. 2 in E flat, Op. 120 no. 2, by Johannes Brahms; Sonata in A minor, D. 821 Arpeggione, written by Franz Schubert for Double Bass and Piano, and Suite for Viola and Double Bass, composed by Reinhold Gliere (transcribed by Frank Proto).

After the performance, audience members will be invited to meet the artists at an informal reception.

The concert is sponsored by Dr. Peter B. and Iris Halmos. Tickets are $12 for adults; youth 18 and under are admitted free of charge. Advance reservations are not required.

For more program information, persons may call 443-257-9177 or visit the web site at www.musicatpennalps.org.

Local Artist To Be Featured At F'burg Museum

The Frostburg Museum will host an exhibition by Liz Hackney through Tuesday, Aug. 31. The artist's opening reception will be held on Saturday, Aug. 14, from 5 to 8 p.m., and is free to the public. Refreshments will be served, and all are invited to meet the artist.

Hackney divides her time between two studios, one in Winchester, Va., and one at Deep Creek Lake. She is a member of Allegany Arts Council and Garrett County Arts Council, and teaches painting classes to both adults and children.

"I paint to document a good feeling of a place or activity," she said. "A moment in time — a memory that brings back a happy, nostalgic emotion for the viewer."

Hackney noted that her inspiration comes from daily life, like a county fair, a parade, a motorcycle show, or sitting on the beach watching boats.

She became interested in art at a young age, taking art classes through high school and college. Working as a graphic artist, she designed logos and advertisements.

She has been painting in watercolor for more than 20 years. First studying with Lassie Corbet in Herndon, Va., she continues to take workshops with nationally known instructors like Alex Powers and Don Andrews.

The Frostburg Museum is a non-profit organization located at the corner of Hill and Oak streets. It is open Tuesday through Saturday from noon to 5 p.m. The artist's work will be available for viewing during that time, and admittance to the museum is free.

Adorable Adoptables

County Animal Shelter, according to a Humane Society spokeswoman. "Dogs were brought in in multiples," she said. "No adoptions and only one reclaim means the shelter is very full." Among those in need of new homes are a very vocal, small male beagle (above left), a female Australian shepherd (above right), and a medium beagle (below). All three of the dogs were either picked up or dropped off as strays. Also available for adoption is a calico cat that was given up by her owner. The feline needs to be in a home without children or other cats. For more information about these and other pets at the animal shelter, persons may call 301-334-3553. Located along Oakland Sang Run Road, the facility is open Monday through Friday. The Humane Society reminds residents and visitors to make sure their pets have plenty of shade and water, especially during hotter weather.

Sometimes employees feel like their boss owns them. But to actually be owned by another person, who could sell you if he felt like it? And to have wives and daughters raped by owners? Yeah, that's a pretty sweet deal.

And think about the first generation of slaves. They would still remember their lives in Africa and the family they left behind – mothers, fathers, even grandfathers. And they would remember the nightmare of the journey across the ocean, packed like sardines and never seeing a glimpse of sunshine, nearly starving to death, but not quite. And they got very sick in the hold of the slave ship.

Is there anyone from America who would choose the life of a slave over their own even imperfect life? Just so you don't have to think for yourself or work for yourself? I'm not sure that the majority of Americans do bother to think for themselves.

They say that this June was the hottest since they began keeping records late in the 1890s. I know it was pretty hot most days for a long time. By late July, I was pretty tired of it.

But it was less rainy than many Junes. Maybe it only seemed like it because we were not making hay. It just seemed like we got too much rain when we were trying to get hay in. But I guess in the upper mid-west they got more than their share of rain.

I got a phone call from a Mr. Ball in Terra Alta who wanted to tell me how much he enjoys this column. He said it is the first thing he reads, except for the obituaries. Since he is 85 years old, that section often includes something he needs to know, like which of his old friends or acquaintances have gone away.

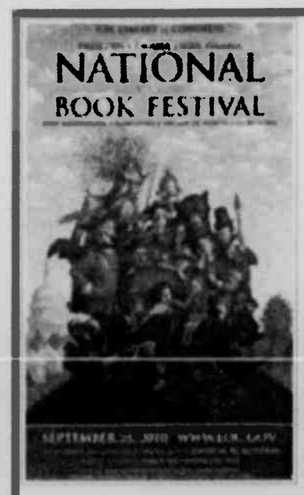
I dislike misleading advertisements, like the one for Brita water filters. It claims that Americans go through enough water bottles to go around the world 190 times. That is totally impossible, even if each bottle were one-mile tall. And it goes on to say that if you buy a Brita filter system, you can take out something like 300 bottles from that equation. Even to me, admittedly somewhat math challenged, it is clear that it would be meaningless.

That is the least environmental problem we are facing. We need to turn away from oil as our primary energy source. But I imagine many people are facing the same problem. They live in a house built either during the 1950s or earlier when so many homes burned oil. I got estimates for converting to propane, and that would cost $5,000. So that is hopeless. I really could get electric heating in all or part of my house, but I'm afraid to hear how much that will cost.

It is much better to develop baseball players in the team's minor league than to just buy players from another major league team. It's not that different from developing top-class equine athletes. It is slow and steady, and sometimes even goes backward for awhile, back into a pasture. Then, once their mental and physical being recovers from too many demands in a very high-pressure environment, they can go forward, one step at a time, with careful monitoring of how they cope with intense demands.

Today, a young starting pitcher for the Pirates had to take a step backward. He had a few good early starts, but then hit a snag, resulting in some not so good performance recently. He had to go back to triple-A, where hopefully he will regain his confidence.

It was about this time last August, but a few weeks earlier, when my mother got a surprise birthday visit by her grandchildren. Since she was in hospice care, they were afraid she might not make it to her birthday, which was Aug. 28.



And they did the right thing, because last Saturday was the first anniversary of her passing. Caitlin visited her grave and told her hello from me. I hope she knows how heart-sick I am feeling without her in my life. From my birth to Aug. 7, 2009, she was always the one person I could really depend on. She was my booster, helper, teacher, and my inspiration. I lost the one person who really cared about my happiness and well-being.

I'm not sure whether I am a glutton for punishment or just optimistic. In any case, I turned on the Pirates' pre-game show.

Altar flowers at Emmanuel Lutheran Church last Sunday were given by Terry Caparella and family in memory of Kay Caparella, Mike Caparella, and Bob and Maxine Legeer.

The Bittinger Parish study of the religions of the world will continue on Aug. 18 at 7 p.m. A study of Islam, will be started, and Pastor Randy Richardson invites everyone to attend.

From the mound, Southern's King finished with a 5-1 personal mark and an ERA of 2.25. He struck out 49 batters and walked just 19 in 46 and two-thirds innings of work.

He also excelled at the plate, from which he batted .471 with 24 hits in 51 at-bats. He hit four homers, two triples, and five doubles, and recorded 16 RBI.

A "BASKET OF CHEER" is being raffled by the Oakland Ladies Golf Association during the annual Western Maryland Golf Tournament, which will begin this Friday, Aug. 13. Valued at approximately $300, the basket contains a variety of alcoholic beverages and fishing equipment. The fishing items have been donated by Winner's Circle. The raffle is being held in memory of Gary Yoder because of his love of fishing and the outdoors. The proceeds will benefit the scholarships that are awarded to local students each year by the Ladies Golf Association. Tickets are available at the Oakland Golf Club at a cost on $1 each or $5 for six. The drawing will be held this Saturday, Aug. 14, at the golf course.

Recovery Race Gains Saucony Scholarship

The Garrett Open/Recovery Race (GO/RR) on Saturday, Aug. 28, will be sponsored by Saucony running shoes. The 6 kilometer (3.75 mile) run is being held on established trails at Herrington Manor State Park. The looped course will be through hardwood forests, glades, and along the banks of Herrington Lake.

Jen Sober, who is endorsed by Saucony, notified the race committee that Saucony is supplying prizes and give-away items for participants. Sober said she submitted the race to Saucony for sponsorship consideration because of the beautiful setting and great causes that the GO/RR highlights.

The Recovery Race is held annually in recognition of National Alcohol and Drug Addiction Recovery Month, which recognizes individuals who are in recovery from an addiction.

The Garrett Trails Committee has developed a master plan that includes a loop trail approximately 150 miles long, to connect existing trails and many of the county's towns to the Great Allegheny Passage. Proceeds will benefit the Garrett County STEPS to Better Health Committee and Garrett Trails.

The race will start at 9 a.m., with registration beginning at 8 a.m. Participants whose applications are postmarked by Aug. 14 will receive an $8 discount from the regular registration fee of $20. All pre-registered participants will receive a commemorative T-shirt and other promotional items. Late registrants will receive T-shirts while the supply lasts.

A $50 cash prize and complimentary rafting pass at ASCI will be awarded to the top male and female runners. Non-cash awards will be given to the top male and female runners in seven different age groups. The top three male and female walkers will also receive awards. Refreshments will be available at the end of the race for all participants.

The race application and a course map are available on the Garrett Trails web site at www.garrett-trails.org. For more information, persons may contact race director Bob Stephens at 301-616-6300.

Sailboat Racing
On Deep Creek Lake

A WEEKEND OF LIGHT WIND
by Dan Muss

We had a light SW breeze at race time on Saturday, and PRO Frank Wolffe set the windward-leeward course through the slot with the starting line in the middle. The shifting winds made it difficult to set the starting line perpendicular to the wind. After moving the starting pin and the committee boat he finally took down the postponement flag, put up the gather flag, and initiated the starting sequence.

But his last-minute maneuvering left the line short. The guideline for starting lines is to make the line as long as the number of boats starting x 1.5 x the boat length (19 feet). For the Flying Scot Gold Fleet, with about 12 boats starting, the line should have been around 350 feet, it was less than half that. So, after the Lasers got off their first start, the Gold Fleet start was very crowded. Then, with just 30 seconds to go, the wind picked up and it looked like the entire fleet was over early; Wolfle had to declare a general recall, and the starting sequence was begun again.

When our turn came, the line was pretty square with the committee boat favored and the racers clustered around the committee boat. Then, with less than a minute to go, the wind shifted from W to SW and the pin was favored. We got to the pin on starboard and immediately tacked onto port and had the Masters Fleet.

But our position was very short-lived. We sailed into our own private hole in the wind and watched helplessly as the fleet sailed away, we rounded the first windward mark in the back of the fleet... but ahead of Peters. As we bore off downwind and prepared to hoist our spinnaker, Ed Peters, a true sportsman, hailed us and pointed out that we had failed to round the offset mark. He did this in such timely fashion that we were able to head up and round the offset mark, still ahead of him! (He beat us though, in the end. Justice will out!)

The problem the PRO was having arose, in my opinion, because he set the course in the slot, which is aligned W-E, while the prevailing wind was SW. Now the slot does funnel the wind into that W-E direction most of the time, but it leads to that 45 degree shift to the SW quite often. It would have been better, in my opinion, to have set the course out in front of the Turkey Neck Club in that SW alignment.

Roger Levin and his crew Peter Frey finished in the money for the first time in my recollection. Well done, guys!

Sunday the wind looked so light I decided to stay home and do the NY Times crossword!

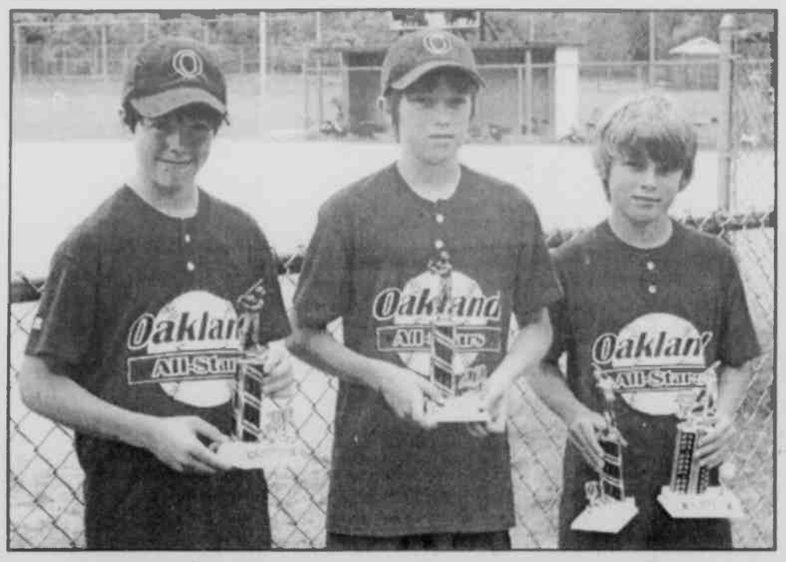
VOTERS:

Do you recall the news article about the construction of an athletic complex for $23,000,000, and right below an article about the "bleak" budget won't allow for text books for school!!

The complex will cover over 65,000 square feet of space! You will be paying for maintenance of it and for heat for many years to come. This spending of your tax dollars will not stop unless you vote these gentlemen out of office!

Our present commissioners have spent or are causing to be spent over $26 million dollars for buildings in just their last term! This amounts to about $1,000 per each person in Garrett County!



Will you vote for continued reckless and irresponsible spending, or have you had enough? Vote for new commissioners!

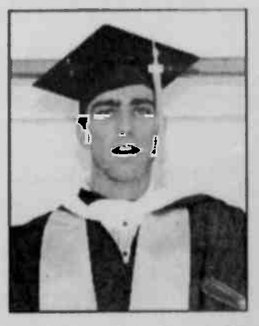
Golf Tournament To Benefit G'ville Hot Stove Team

The Sons of the American Legion will host a golf tournament on Saturday, Sept. 18, at the (Kamp's) Winnfield Golf Course in Avilton. All proceeds from the event will benefit the new Grantsville Commanders Hot Stove Baseball Team.

Businesses wishing to sponsor a hole in the tournament and those wishing to register to play may call 301-268-3916. Pre-registration is not required, but is strongly recommended to ensure quick check-in on the morning of the event.

Registration for the first flight will begin at 7:30 a.m., with an afternoon flight to follow. There will be raffles, door prizes, food, and refreshments at the event.

Team members are also selling ad space for the softball fence and selling business sponsorships for their programs. Persons who would like to support them in anyway may call 301-268-6545 for more details. All monies raised will go directly to the team to help in buying a scoreboard, adding a mound to the field, purchase of new bases, league registration fees, and other expenses that the team will have in its first year.



"It has been about 15 years since Grantsville has had a Hot Stove baseball team," a spokesperson said. "During these years, our kids ages 13 to 15 were forced to play baseball for the Salisbury league. Many of the kids chose not to continue playing. With the addition of a Hot Stove team m Grantsville, the kids will have a home team to play for."

The team is sponsored by the Sons of the American Legion, and will host a full schedule in 2011 and play at the Grantsville Park. The team will be coached by Mark Caux of Grantsville.

Sign-ups were taken during Grantsville Days, but there is still room for a few more players on the team. Interested persons should call 240-321-6464.

GC's Agbaba To Attend Bucknell

Marko Agbaba, who played forward for the Garrett College men's basketball team, has accepted a full academic scholarship to Bucknell University to complete his bachelor's degree.

According to Laker coach Dennis Gibson, Agbaba was a strong contributor off the Laker bench for two seasons, adding to the team with his toughness and leadership both athletically and academically.

Agbaba, a native of Serbia, won numerous academic awards this past year, including Highest Grade Point Average, Student Athlete of the Year, and Garrett's Top Academic Transfer Award. He was also selected to the NJCAA Distinguished Academic All-American Team.

"Marko was great to work with," said Coach Gibson. "What he did not have m athleticism was made up for by his work ethic and commitment to our team. He was a great teammate, and I really learned from his foreign athlete approach to the game."

"You have to especially admire his success as a student, with English being his second language. He will do well at whatever he attempts," said Gibson.

SHS Volleyball Practice To Begin

Practice for Southern High School girls' volleyball will begin next Monday, Aug. 16, at 8:30 a.m. Practice will be from 8:30 a.m. to noon each day next week, with team tryouts being held on Friday, Aug. 20.

Weekly winners are awarded a certificate, and plaques are awarded for the season's largest catches of bluegill, brown trout, chain pickerel, crappies, largemouth and smallmouth bass, northern pike, rainbow trout, walleye, and yellow perch. Catches must be entered at Deep Creek Outfitters Hardware and Bait House at 32 Outfitters Way, Deep Creek Lake. The season will continue until the first week in October.

the programs to continue operation throughout the remainder of last school year and this summer, serving approximately 250 Garrett County youth.

"This is a real tragedy for Garrett County youth and families," said Rodney Glotfelty, Garrett County health officer. "PAS programs have served the needs of hundreds of families over the past 10 years, and their absence will definitely be felt."

"The PAS programs provided a safe, supervised, and enriching environment for children during the high-risk after-school hours when many parents are still working," said another spokesperson. The programs offered comprehensive programming that focused on academic achievement and school success, and positive youth development.

Community partners worked diligently during the past year to locate alternative sources of funding to maintain the programs, according to Crystal Stewart, director of the Partnership for Children and Families. However, despite the submission of a number of grant applications, including resubmission for the 21st Century grant, adequate funding has not been secured.

"Local partners are committed to this project, and will continue to try to find funding to reopen the programs," said Stewart. "Unfortunately, for now, all programs will be closed until further notice."

For additional information, persons should contact Stewart at the Garrett County Partnership for Children and Families Inc. at 301-334-1189.

Maryland Board Notes Important Voting Deadlines

The State Board of Elections noted this week that important deadlines for the upcoming 2010 gubernatorial primary election are approaching.

The deadline to vote or change party affiliation and the deadline for certain voters to request a polling change for this election is 9 a.m. on Tuesday, Aug. 24.

To vote in the upcoming primary election, Maryland residents who are eligible to vote but are not yet registered – including 17-year-olds who will be 18 years old or older on or before the Nov. 2 general election – must complete a voter registration application and hand-deliver or mail the application to a local board of elections.

A hand-delivered application must be received by a local board of elections by 9 p.m. on Tuesday, Aug. 24, and a mailed application must be postmarked by Aug. 24.

This is also the deadline for registered voters who have moved since the last election to provide updated address information to the local board of elections and for registered voters who wish to change their party affiliation.

Voter registration applications are available at the following locations: local boards of elections, Motor Vehicle Administration offices, State Department of Health offices, local Department of Social Services offices, Offices on Aging, Division of Rehabilitation Services, public institutions of higher education, marriage license bureaus, post offices, public libraries, the State Board of Elections, and online at elections.state.-md.us.

One may also call 1-800-222-VOTE (8683) and request that an application be mailed.

Most of Maryland's polling places are accessible to voters with disabilities. An elderly voter or a voter with a disability who is assigned to an inaccessible polling place may request reassignment to an accessible polling place.

This request must be submitted in writing by 9 p.m. on Aug. 24. The form to request reassignment is available at elections.-state.md.us (type "polling place reassignment" in the search field).

On receipt of a timely request, the local board of elections will review the request and determine whether there is an accessible polling place with the same ballot as the voter's home precinct and notify the voter of the status of his or her request.

On the State Board of Elections' web site, a voter can verify his or her voter registration status and find out if the polling place to which he or she has been assigned is accessible. To find this information, a voter can visit elections.state.md.us and click on the "Find Out Here" link.

The 2010 gubernatorial primary election will be held on Tuesday, Sept. 14, and the general election will be held on Tuesday, Nov. 2.

Starting the second Friday before the election through the Thursday before the election, voters can vote in person at the designated early voting center(s) in their county of residence.

In Garrett County, that site is the Oakland Community Center (Oakland Armory), located at 14 N. 8th Street. This polling place will be open from Friday, Sept. 3, through Thursday, Sept. 9, for the primary election and Friday, Oct. 22, through Thursday, Oct. 28, for the general election. The hours of operations will be from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. every day during that period except Sunday.

Additional early voting locations and hours and additional election-related dates and information are available on the State Board of Elections web site

For more information, voters may call the State Board of Elections or visit its web site. Local residents may also call the Garrett County Board of Elections at 301-334-6985 or 301-895-3822.

AUGUST'S ROBUST BEAUTY is evident across the mountaintop, enhanced by an excellent growing season this summer. This mass of clematis flowers caught the eye of photographer Sandi Nazelrod, Oakland, who submitted the picture for publication. In addition to brilliant flowers of all types, the area's fertile ground is producing fine corn, tomatoes, and squash — the best to be found anywhere.

Zion Lutheran Women Convene

Women of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America at Zion Lutheran Church, Jennings, held their monthly meeting at the church on Aug. 3. The study, titled "Power" and focusing on prayer, was led by Leota Baker.

Judy Stanton presided over the business meeting There was a tribute to the memory of Mrs. Norman Baker made via an offering to the Women of the ELCA's grants program. A gift offering was received from Viola Meyers, a former member of Zion's women's group.

The 23rd annual convention of the West Virginia/Western Maryland Synodical Women of the ELCA was held Friday and Saturday at the Paul VI Pastoral Center in Wheeling, W.Va. The theme of the convention was "Everybody has a Story." A love offering was sent, although Zion did not have a delegate at the convention.

A letter was received concerning the fall retreat, to be held Oct. 23-24 at Tygart Lake State Park. Reservations must be made by Sept. 15. The theme of the retreat is "Girls Going Green – It's All About Caring."

The new series of lessons that will begin with the Sept. meeting is titled "The People of God – Unity in the Midst of Diversity," written by Rev. Jenson and Linda Seyenkula.

BETTER TEST NEEDED

Recent research raises concerns that testing the DNA in newborns' blood samples is not an effective way to detect cytomegalovirus (CMV), an infection that causes hearing loss in children. Between 20,000 and 40,000 children are born with CMV infection annually in North America, and 90%-95% of this number show no obvious signs at birth nor are identified with routine clinical examination. When researchers compared CMV detection using either a DNA test or saliva rapid culture testing, they found that the DNA test had lower sensitivity than the saliva test. In fact, the DNA test could not identify about two-thirds of the CMV infections. As for saliva rapid culture testing, it is more effective but not yet ready for mass screening.

Put your child's hearing future, or yours, in the hands of a caring professional. When a hearing impairment is discovered, it is the job of the hearing specialist to find the perfect match between patient and remedy, regardless of the wearer's age. Let us do what we do best—call on AUDIBEL for comprehensive testing, experienced evaluations, custom fittings, quality hearing products, and follow-up care.

P.S. Cytomegalovirus (CMV) infection ranks among the most common non-genetic causes of deafness.

Shop Maryland Tax-Free Week Ends Aug. 14

Just in time for back-to-school shopping, Comptroller Peter Franchot kicked off Shop Maryland, the state's tax-free week. Starting Sunday, Aug. 8, through Saturday, Aug. 14, Marylanders who purchase clothing and shoes costing $100 or less will be spared the state's 6 percent sales tax.

Resulting from legislation passed in the 2007 special session of the Maryland General Assembly, a tax-free week will now occur every year during the second week in August, until the legislature decides to revisit the issue.

"This legislation was passed in an effort to help consumers and give a boost to retailers. While the state will take a slight tax hit, Marylanders have been devastated by the national recession and deserve this break as they prepare to send their kids back to school," said Franchot.

Each qualifying article of clothing or footwear selling for $100 or less is exempt from sales tax, regardless of how many items are purchased at the same time. For example, two $60 sweaters purchased at the same time are both exempt even though the total of the purchase is greater than $100.

"In these tough economic times, tax-free week will provide some help to families as they shop for back-to-school clothes," said Patrick Donoho, president of the Maryland Retailers Association. "In addition this year, some Maryland merchants may also be willing to pay the sales tax on behalf of customers on products not covered by Shop Maryland. We hope that many, many consumers will take advantage of this opportunity and shop at Maryland's merchants."

Unlike previous tax-free periods, businesses selling other items not eligible for inclusion in the tax-free week can participate in Shop Maryland. Under regulations dubbed "sellers privilege," other merchandise besides apparel can be sold tax free but with the retailer paying the sales tax.

During the last week-long tax-free period held in 2001, Maryland saw a 5 percent decrease in sales and use tax collection. While the state lost approximately $5.1 million in revenue, retailers saw close to a 10 percent increase in sales. The state also held a shorter tax-free period in 2006. Analysts project this year's tax-free week will result in a $19 million loss in tax revenue.

For more information, interested persons should visit the comptroller of Maryland's web site at www.marylandtaxes.com, e-mail shopmaryland-@comp.state.md.us, or call 410-260-7980 or toll free at 1-800-MD-TAXES.

Church To Hold Special Service For School Staff

Pastors Ivan and Cindy Ackerman of the Loch Lynn Church of God invite all area school staff members and the general public to the church's third annual School Staff Recognition/Appreciation Service. The special service will be held on Sunday, Aug. 22, at 10:45 a.m.

There will be music and drama presented by the children's, youth, and college and career ministries, a time of worship, and words of encouragement and prayer. Each of the school staff members will be given a small token of appreciation for the investment they make in the lives of area youth, the Ackermans said.

The church is located at 8649 Gorman Road, Loch Lynn, next to the WKHJ radio station. For more information, persons may call the church office at 301-334-3221.

CHIGGERS

By Dr. Stephen I. Parks

Q: These chigger bites are driving me crazy! What is a chigger anyway?

A. Chiggers, also known as redbugs or wood mites, are pound for pound the most annoying critter in the world! Most of us have had those itchy little red welts that drive you crazy for a couple of days.

Few of us have actually seen a chigger. There are three reasons for this: First, they are tiny – maybe a 50th of an inch. Second, they hide in clothing. And finally, they are gone by the time you start to itch.

Redbugs are not really bugs. They are arachnids: eight-legged relatives of spiders and ticks. They don't suck your blood or lay eggs on you. What they do is icky enough. They inject digestive enzymes into your skin then drink the fluid from the digested skin cells. It's the damage from the enzymes that causes all the itching. Their bites almost never carry disease, except in Southeast Asia. But if the itching makes you scratch your skin raw, it can get infected or scarred.

Chiggers wait in rotting wood, tall weeds, and grass to hitch a ride on a passing animal. To avoid chiggers, avoid all that. Before you wade in the weeds, apply a DEET-based insect repellant to your feet, ankles, legs, and lower body. Reapply it every two hours. When you get home, take a hot soapy shower and toss your clothes in the laundry.

Already have chigger bites? One word: Endure. You can't speed the recovery. All those folk remedies – nail polish, baking soda, lemon juice, and so on – have been tested and found ineffective. Relieve the itching for a while with an anti-itch cream on the welts. Try something with hydrocortisone or benzocaine. Even babies' teething cream. Take a few aspirin. Nail polish or a Bandaid may protect a child's skin from too much scratching.

Dr. Parks has a Ph.D. in solid-state physics, and most of his career has involved the design of sensors and instrumentation. Side interests include molecular biology, exotic travel, and nature study.

Real Estate Facts by...

FROM "LESS" TO "YES"

The painful truth: Sellers who do not price their property competitively are the most likely targets of lowball offers. In soft markets, buyers are more prone to make low offers on listings seen to be priced too high. Listings that don't sell usually require price reductions, which in turn often mean ultimately accepting an offer lower than you could have received by pricing aggressively from Day One.

Since selling your home can be such an emotional and subjective experience, it's easy to understand why you'd be reluctant to counter an offer below your asking price. But rather than feel insulted, try to see it as the beginning of a dialogue that could ultimately produce a sale.

If you feel any of the terms or conditions of the offer are unacceptable, ask your agent to present a counter-offer. Sometimes buyers and sellers don't really know beforehand what price they'll accept until they've begun the negotiations. For example, a buyer might agree to a higher price than planned if interest rates suddenly drop.

If you've received a lower than expected offer, but the buyers have proven their qualifications and commitment by securing loan pre-approval, you have grounds for serious consideration. The process of counter-offering can be swiftly settled or carry on ad nauseam. Be prepared to explore all options and act quickly before letting your negotiations fail.

If you are thinking of buying or selling a home but feel "out of touch" with real estate, give me a call today.

New Scholarship Program Introduced

Garrett County residents have benefited from the Garrett County Academic Scholarship since its development by the Garrett County commissioners in the fall of 2006. The Academic Scholarship applied to students seeking degrees from Garrett College.

Phase II in the form of the Garrett County Occupational Scholarship (GCOS) is now available for students attending Garrett College. It is for students pursuing training opportunities that lead to an industry-recognized certification rather than a degree.

Students in the 2010 graduating class of Northern or Southern high schools are eligible for this scholarship, as are adults earning a GED during the current year. Students who completed a home-school program during the 2009-2010 academic year are also eligible if their curriculum was approved by the Garrett County Board of Education.

Courses offered this semester to which the new scholarship program applies are: Welding I, II, and III, Emergency Medical Technician – Basic (EMT-B), Certified Nursing Assistant, and Class A or Class B Commercial Drivers License (CDL). Courses offered in next spring's semester that will qualify for the GCOS are Office Technology, Small Engine Repair, Medical Coding and Billing, Medical Transcription, and Phlebotomy.

To apply for a GCOS scholarship, persons may telephone Garrett College at 301-387-3069 or go online to www.garrettcollege.edu.

Tours Set For Tuesday At GC's New Career Technology Training Center

The newest facility of Garrett College, the Career Technology Training Center located in the Northern Garrett Industrial Park in Accident, will be open to the public for tours next Tuesday, Aug. 17, from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Tours will be conducted by Continuing Education/Workforce Development staff members, who will be available to answer questions about the center and its program offerings, as well as questions regarding the Occupational Scholarship. Refreshments will be available, and WKHJ Radio will air a remote broadcast from the facility. For directions to the facility or other information, persons may telephone the CEWD office at 301-387-3069.

Courses and programs offered at the CTTC will be primarily workforce preparation and workforce development, according to Julie Yoder, interim dean of continuing education and workforce development.

'Many of the courses will lead to industry recognized certification. Classes to be offered at the CTTC this fall include Welding I, Welding II, Welding III, Adult Basic Education and GED preparation, Introduction to Lab View, Lab View II, Rookie to Robotics, AutoCAD, Certified Nursing Assistant, and Residential HVAC System Design," Yoder said.

The renovated 16,000-square-foot space in the former Phenix Technology building houses a welding lab, electronics and automation lab, three classrooms, a conference room, and administrative space. A second phase of the CTTC project is scheduled to begin in this fall. Upon its completion, the CTTC facility will be equipped with classrooms to accommodate courses in the areas of alternative energy, technology and automation, electronics, plumbing, HVAC, carpentry, and masonry. The courses will be implemented on a cyclical basis based on workforce demand and interest, according to Yoder.

In addition to scheduled courses, employers will have the opportunity to use the space to conduct in-house training programs.

Even the best putt can stop at the edge of the hole. It's only a game, but life's setbacks aren't always so trivial. What if you miss out on something really big? Where do you find strength to endure disappointments? Spiritual values are constant. Fortunes may change, but God's House stands firm. The truths and inspiration you find there give meaning to life. Be inspired this week.

Asperger's Syndrome: Treatment Options

Asperger's syndrome is a childhood social and behavioral condition that is classified as a type of autism. Changes in social behaviors are the defining signs of Asperger's, including decreased interest in socializing or inability to socialize with others. Behavioral differences of children with Asperger's may include specific interests, intolerance to changes in routines, and difficulty detecting subtleties of language, such as sarcasm. Children diagnosed with Asperger's may also be affected by other neurological conditions, such as anxiety, attention deficit hyperactivity disorder (ADHD), or depression.

Depending on the child's age and specific symptoms related to the condition, medications may be prescribed. Disruptive behaviors in children with autism in general may be treated with risperidone or methylphenidate. Risperidone is an antipsychotic medication. Methylphenidate works by stimulating the central nervous system. For anxiety, a selective serotonin reuptake inhibitor (SSRI), such as fluoxetine or sertraline, may be prescribed. For hyperactivity or inattention issues, atomoxetine or clonidine may be prescribed. Children with Asperger's may be more susceptible to side effects of medications.

God's Burning Love

God's love, and sometimes even God's word, is often described in the Bible as a fire. This might be taken to suggest that God's love will warm our hearts, God's burning love being akin to the welcoming fire of the hearth. But, more often than not the fire metaphor is suggestive of a furnace which purifies and consumes whatever it comes into contact with. Can we stand the heat of God's burning love? God's love is indeed purifying, and we must be tested in the furnace before we can stand in His presence. God's burning love is all-consuming, a flame which ultimately pervades the furthest reaches and the smallest interstices of the cosmos.

"Now if anyone builds on the foundation with gold, silver, precious stones, wood, hay, stubble – each man's work will become manifest; for the Day will disclose it, because it will be revealed with fire, and the fire will test what sort of work each one has done. If the work which any man has built on the foundation survives, he will receive a reward. If any man's work is burned up, he will suffer loss, though he himself will be saved, but only as through fire." wisdom a house is built, and by understanding it is established; by knowledge the rooms are filled with all precious and pleasant riches.

TV Pipeline

A show you still can sink your teeth into

By Jay Bobbin

Q: I love the show "The Vampire Diaries," and I was wondering if they are going to bring it back in the fall. –Amanda Rowe, Youngstown, Ohio

A: They certainly are. The series fared impressively for The CW right from the start last season, and with the continuing young-vampire craze – certainly not harmed by this summer's box-office performance of "The Twilight Saga: Eclipse" – it would have been an enormous surprise had "Diaries" not been renewed.

Look for Paul Wesley, Ian Somerhalder, Nina Dobrev and the show's other stars to return in the second-season premiere Sept. 9. And in anticipation of that, a complete first-season "Vampire Diaries" set hits stores Aug. 31 on both DVD and Blu-ray.

Q: Will "The Bonnie Hunt Show" be on next season? We are still getting it, but I think they are reruns. –Jackie Stendts, Amherst, N.Y.

A: Enjoy those while you have them, because those are all that's left – at least for now, since fans have organized a campaign to save Hunt's syndicated talk show. After a two-season run, the program aired its last new episode May 26. Any stations still running the repeats will be replacing them with other programming come September.

Q: What has happened to Charles Gibson since he left ABC News? And was he forced to retire? –Ross Jones, Jupiter, Fla.

A: The way Gibson tells it – or told it to us, at least, when he made his exit last year – he actually stayed at ABC longer than he had intended to. First, there was his second tour of duty (along with his eventual weeknight successor, Diane Sawyer) on "Good Morning America." Then, there was the appeal made to him to take over the "ABC World News" anchor desk following Peter Jennings' death and Bob Woodruff's injury in Iraq.

At this writing, Gibson seemed to be holding to his stated plan to take a year off, then determine what he'd like to do next professionally. In the meantime, the profession hasn't forgotten him; earlier this summer, he was named broadcaster of the year by the New York State Broadcasters Association.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• It was librarian and essayist Frederick Saunders who made the following sage observation: "Pride, like laudanum and other poisonous medicines, is beneficial in small, though injurious in large, quantities. No man who is not pleased with himself, even in a personal sense, can please others."

• Earthquakes occur at a rate of roughly one every minute around the world. About eight of those every year are considered to be major, registering above 7.0 on the Richter Scale.

• If you're a sailor you're probably familiar with the hazards of being out on the water: high seas, storms, hidden reefs. You probably wouldn't count whales among the dangers, but you'd be wrong. It seems that on a recent day sail out of Table Bay Harbor in South Africa, a couple on a 30-foot sailboat were whale-watching when one got too close for comfort. A 40-ton whale they had been viewing breached right next to the boat and landed on the deck, breaking off the mast and then thrashing around before sliding back into the water. The whale lost some skin and blubber, but was otherwise unharmed; the couple were lucky to still have a seaworthy craft and made it safely back to the harbor.

• Statistics show that the average 5-year-old boy today weighs about 10 percent more and the average 5-year-old girl about 8 percent more than children of the same age in the 1980s.

• Those who study such things say that the word "daisy" started out as "day's eye" and was shortened over the years. Similarly, "God be with you" became "goodbye" and "whole be thou" became "hello."

Moments in time

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Aug. 20, 1804, Sgt. Charles Floyd dies three months into the voyage of Meriwether Lewis and William Clark, becoming the only member of the Corps of Discovery to die during the journey. Based on the symptoms described by Lewis and Clark, modern physicians have concluded that Floyd was probably suffering from acute appendicitis.

• On Aug. 19, 1812, the U.S. Navy frigate Constitution, known as "Old Ironsides," catches the British warship Guerrière some 600 miles east of Boston. After considerable maneuvering, the Constitution delivered its first broadside. The British man-of-war was dismasted and rendered a wreck, while the Constitution escaped with only minimal damage.

• On Aug. 21, 1911, theft of the Mona Lisa is discovered. Investigators and detectives searched for the painting for more than two years without finding any decent leads. In 1913, former employee Vincenzo Perugia was captured attempting to collect a ransom.

• On Aug. 22, 1933, the notorious Barker gang robs a Federal Reserve mail truck in Chicago and kills Officer Miles Cunningham. Netting only a bunch of worthless checks, the Barkers soon returned to a crime with which they had more success — kidnapping. Their first victim, William Hamm, had earned the gang $100,000 in ransom.

• On Aug. 18, 1958, Vladimir Nabokov's controversial novel "Lolita" is published in the U.S. The novel, about a man's obsession with a 12-year-old girl, had been rejected by four publishers before G.P. Putnam's Sons accepted it.

• On Aug. 16, 1977, Elvis Presley dies in Memphis, Tenn. He was 42. The death of the "King of Rock and Roll" brought legions of mourning fans to Graceland, his mansion in Memphis. Doctors said he died of a heart attack, likely brought on by his addiction to prescription barbiturates.

Sideboard Half

Q. I have the upper half of a sideboard that is heavily carved. It is oak and probably from the 1920s. Although it is not for sale, I would like to know its approximate value. — Fern, Sun City, Ariz.

A. It's a shame that you don't have the complete sideboard since the piece that you have is handsome and an intact item is always worth the most. I suspect you are right about it being oak and think it was crafted sometime during the early decades of the past century. I have seen similar items sell in shops and at flea markets in the $75 to $150 range.

Video Contest Being Sponsored By Ag Department

The Maryland Department of Agriculture (MDA) has launched a YouTube video contest asking students what buying local means to them. In a video lasting no longer than three minutes, students must thoughtfully and creatively answer the question, "What does 'local food' mean to you?" The first place winner will receive an Apple iPod Touch, a Maryland state park pass, and a school lunchtime visit from MDA Secretary Buddy Hance.

"Our goal is to engage students about the origins of their food in a way that is both meaningful and fun," said Secretary Hance. "It's important to teach students that food doesn't come from a grocery store – it comes from a farmer. This contest aims to educate students about where their food comes from and all of the benefits of buying local."

The contest is part of the Jane Lawton Farm-to-School Program, which was established to bring more locally grown food to Maryland schools and to educate students about the importance of local agriculture. It was created m 2008, along with "Homegrown School Lunch Week," which will be from September 13 to 17 this year and promotes Maryland agriculture through local products in school lunches, educational programs about local agriculture, and interactions between students and farmers.

As most students are well familiar and connected with YouTube, the contest provides a way for students to socialize and have fun, while also learning about and promoting an important issue, according to Hance. They are encouraged to visit local Maryland farms and to consider the implications of buying or not buying local products.

The demand for Maryland-grown food is growing., Hance says, addmg that buying locally is a key to ensuring a smart, green, and growing future for Maryland families. He says that it preserves farmland, protects the environment, bolsters local economies, and promotes healthy adults and children by providing wholesome, nutritious, great-tasting fresh food.

Both public and private Maryland school students K-12, ages 5-18, are invited to participate in the YouTube contest. The contest will run until September 8, 2010, ending just prior to Maryland Homegrown School Lunch Week. More details and the Official Contest Rules may be found online at www.marylandfarmtoschool.org.

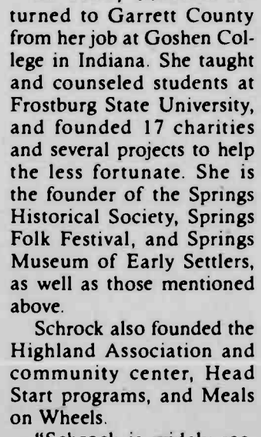
SUMMER REFLECTION – Ahh, retirement! So says Jeff Gilbert of Mtn. Lake Park who is pictured mid-cast along the Youghiogheny River, while his reflection does the same thing. Schrock Named Legendary Lady In Md. Magazine

Dr. Alta Schrock, founder of Penn Alps Restaurant and Craft Shop, and Spruce Forest Artisan Village, was recently featured in "Legendary Ladies," an article in the July/August issue of Maryland Life.

The article features 10 women who have "changed the face of Maryland," including Harriett Tubman, Rachel Carson, Nancy Grasmick, and Schrock.

Schrock was born in Grantsville in 1911, and was one of 10 children in a Mennonite family. Schrock was the first Mennonite woman in the U.S. to receive a Ph.D.

In 1957, Schrock returned to Garrett County from her job at Goshen College in Indiana. She taught and counseled students at Frostburg State University, and founded 17 charities and several projects to help the less fortunate. She is the founder of the Springs Historical Society, Springs Folk Festival, and Springs Museum of Early Settlers, as well as those mentioned above.



Schrock also founded the Highland Association and community center, Head Start programs, and Meals on Wheels.

"Schrock is widely recognized as the driving force behind the preservation of Appalachian crafts and heritage," states the article. "Programs she created helped people find work in an area of high unemployment."

"She was brilliant, nurturing, and instrumental in upholding the Appalachian culture, which otherwise could have died out," Jill Moss Greenburg, executive director of the Maryland Women's Heritage Center, is quoted as saying in the article.

Schrock died in 2001 at the age of 90.

Country Fest And Auction Planned For August 28

The 16th annual Country Fest and Auction will be held at the Garrett County Fairgrounds in McHenry on Saturday, Aug. 28. This one-day "family event," sponsored by the Bittinger and Pillar of Life Mennonite churches, will include crafts, quilts, demonstrations, and gospel music.

Children's activities will include pony rides, a pedal tractor pull, petting zoo, and an aerial candy drop. Demonstrations will include milking, horseshoeing, forging, apple cider pressing, chair caning, soap making, and quilting. Crafts, fresh produce, and homemade baked goods, jams, and noodles will be available for purchase throughout the festival.

The auction will begin at 10:30 a.m., featuring new items such as oak and pine furniture, selected antiques, baskets, framed prints, crafts, and "in-home dinner" meal tickets. At 1:30 p.m. the quilt auction begins. Seventeen full, queen, or king size quilts will be auctioned and an equal number of smaller quilted items.

These quilts are machine pieced and hand-quilted locally. All quilts will be on display until 1 p.m., before the auction. Last year's top quilt sold for $3,000, with an overall average of $1,098 per quilt.

Homemade food items will be available throughout the day. Breakfast will be available from 8 to 11 a.m. Other menus include made-on-the-premises doughnuts, funnel cakes, soft pretzels, turned ice cream, and chicken barbecue.

There will be gospel music beginning at 10 a.m. and continuing periodically throughout the day at the chicken barbecue pavilion. Proceeds from the festival will benefit the Christian education of members' children and Christian Aid Ministries, a Mennonite relief agency.

Admission and parking are free. For more information, persons should visit www.countryfest.org, or call 301-245-4564.

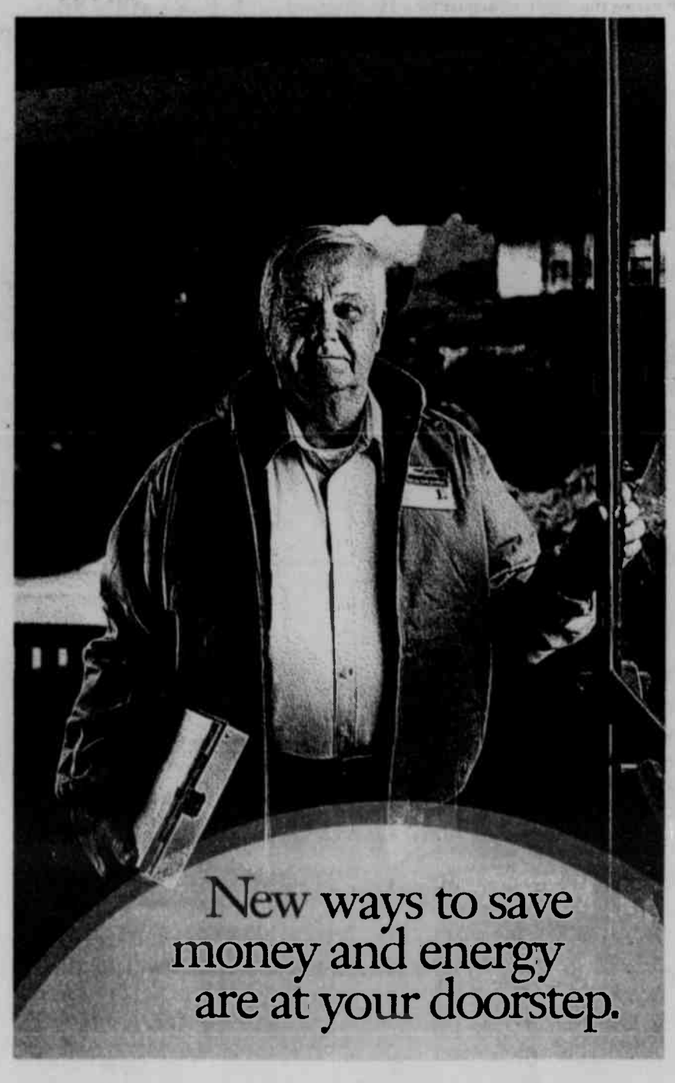
In Loving Memory of



BOB LUCAS

who passed away

August 14, 2007

The angels gathered near your bed so very close to you.
For they knew the pain and suffering that you were going through.
We thought about so many things, as we held tightly to your hand.
Oh, how we wished that you were strong and happy once again.
But your eyes were looking homeward to that place beyond the sky
Where Jesus held His outstretched arms, it was time to say goodbye.
We struggled with our foolish thoughts, for we wanted you to stay.
So we could walk and talk again, like we did just yesterday.
But Jesus knew the answer, and we knew He loved you so.
So we gave to you life's greatest gift, the gift of letting go.
When the angels came to take you home, you opened your eyes.
Jesus said, "It's time to let go, come and sit here by my side."
The moment you died our hearts split in two.
One side filled with the memories, the other side died with you.
You left behind our broken hearts, and cherished memories too.
But we never wanted memories, we only wanted you.
Most days are so hard to get through.
But in our darkest hour, we tell ourselves we'll see you again soon.
You will never be forgotten, you are always missed and loved dearly.

Attorney General, Topix Message Bd. Reach Agreement

Attorney General Douglas F. Gansler announced on Monday an agreement with Internet message board host Topix.com to improve consumer protections and eliminate the $19.99 fee to expedite review of abusive or inappropriate posts.

"I am pleased that we've been able to reach an agreement with the company to put a stop to the 'pay-to-police' policy to expedite removal of abusive posts," said Gansler. "My office will continue to work with the company to ensure that our citizens, particularly our kids, are not being harmed by harassing and abusive posts."

As part of the settlement, all reports of abuse on Topix will be reviewed free of charge. The company will also seek to review and remove inappropriate posts within three working days rather than its previous policy of seven to 14 days.

Additionally, Topix has removed the "flagging' option for reporting abusive posts. The option was ineffective and confusing for consumers as it required multiple users to flag a post before it was reviewed, according to Gansler. As a result, many inappropriate posts consumers thought they had reported were never reviewed.

"Although the free exchange of ideas serves an important function in our democracy, personal libelous attacks do not," Gansler said.

The site has also agreed to make technical and human resources improvements in order to better review and block inappropriate posts.

Topix has also agreed to:

•Continue cooperating with law enforcement agencies in combating unlawful activity on its web site.

•Consult on an as-needed basis with the attorneys general to discuss issues of concern, including responsiveness to abuse reports and other consumer complaints.

•Continue to explore new technology and processes for preventing misuse of its site.

The attorneys general from 33 other states and U.S. territories also joined the initiative to address consumer protection concerns with Topix: Arizona, Arkansas, Colorado, Connecticut, Florida, Guam, Hawaii, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maine, Mississippi, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Mexico, North Dakota, Northern Mariana Islands, Ohio, Oklahoma, Puerto Rico, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Tennessee, Utah, Vermont, Virginia, Washington, and West Virginia.

Topix.com, of Palo Alto, Calif., describes itself as a 'top 10 online newspaper destination," which encourages readers to post comments about news items or other matters of community interest.

THE PARTICULAR SADNESS OF LEMON CAKE

by Aimee Bender

C. 2010, Doubleday, $25.95; 304 pages

Review by Terri Schlichenmeyer

The recipe is the original, in her handwriting. You've figured out that a "handful" equals one cup and a "pinch" is a quarter teaspoon. You've measured and spooned and sifted faithfully.

So why can't you get anything to taste the way Grandma made it? You wish she was around to tell. What mysterious addition made food different when it came from her kitchen?

Ask Rose. There's always something extra in her food, but in the new book The Particular Sadness of Lemon Cake by Aimee Bender, it's rarely edible.

It started on the cusp of Rose Edelstein's ninth birthday. Rose's mother was excited to have time to bake a special cake, a lemon one from a delicious-sounding recipe. From the oven, it smelled wonderful, but one bite and Rose knew something was wrong. Despair overwhelmed her and she couldn't finish.

Hardly anyone would believe her, for sure. Rose's father was always working and when he was home, he was exhausted and barely had energy for TV-watching. Her brother Joseph was a strange boy who loved math and physics and being alone. Her mother, the source of all sad food, was wrapped up in a new job that was fulfilling in a new-job sort of way. The only person who didn't scoff was George, Joseph's best friend, and Rose loved him for it.

By age 12, the "gift" was honed so well that Rose could taste the difference between oranges from Florida and oranges from California. Her tongue knew each factory, each grass-feeding beef farm, every garden from every state. She tasted anger and happiness, love and machinery. Her odd ability never left her, and it was strong enough to know that her mother was having an affair.

At age 17, Rose cooked her first meal and ate it, not recognizing the factory taste of herself. That was the year Joseph disappeared for the last time, her mother started sleeping in his old bed night after night, and Rose's father took up jogging after dark. It was the year that Rose made a fool of herself over George.

But it was also the year that Rose found the restaurant she'd been searching for all her life. There, spinach was spinach and onions had no meaning. There, food was for savoring and secrets were safe.

There are a lot of adjectives that can be used to describe author Aimee Bender's latest novel: quirky, weird, odd. Also: compelling, addictive. The ultimate fact is that The Particular Sadness of Lemon Cake is probably the strangest book you'll never want to put down.

But here's the thing: (I say that with no small amount of amazement.) I wasn't too keen on the plot of this book at first, but Bender's precocious Rose made me stay. I was glad I did, because this book turned out to be purely irresistible.

Perfect for vacationing, weekending, or for book groups, I think you'll like The Particular Sadness of Lemon Cake. If you're in the mood for something different, you'll eat this book up.

Local author Amanda Griffith Penix will give a photographic presentation of the historic community Arthurdale on Tuesday, Aug. 31, at 7:30 p.m. Penix is the former director of Arthurdale Heritage Inc., and authored a pictorial history book of the community in 2007. Arthurdale was established in 1933 as the first "homestead' community of the New Deal. It became known as "Eleanor's Little Village" because of Eleanor Roosevelt's dedication to the community.

All programs are held in the Rhododendron Room at the Alpine Lake Lodge, located off Rt. 7. The programs are primarily scheduled for Tuesday evenings during August and September and are open to the public for a $3 fee payable at the door, except for two special event programs.

GARRETT COUNTY

GA2007G020/01 - The Garrett County Sanitary District, Inc., 2008 Maryland Highway, Suite 2, Mountain Lake Park, MD 21550, has applied for a Water Appropriation and Use Permit to take ground water from two wells (BH 1-primary and BH 2-backup) in the Greenbrier Formation, for a municipal water supply for the Mountainside-Thayerville Water District. The Administration is considering an appropriation for an annual average of 188,000 gallons per day (gpd) and 320,000 gpd during the month of maximum use. The wells are to be located on the east side of U.S. Route 219, at the junction of U.S. Route 219 and the south end of Fox Den Road, 1.5 miles north of Thayerville, Garrett County, Maryland.

The proposed production wells, installed in a leaky fractured rock aquifer, are both 220 feet deep. Impacts to the resource and nearby users were evaluated using data from geological reports and investigations available to the Water Management Administration and an on-site aquifer-pumping test. Pumping of the primary well (BH-1) during periods of maximum use may lower the water table more than 10 feet in the nearest private well. In making this evaluation, water withdrawals were modeled with the well pumping continuously for 90 days with no recharge to the aquifer.

RESIDENTS OF THE GOODWILL MENNONITE HOME and Assisted Living enjoy a monthly outing to a local restaurant. Charity Platter has become their favorite waitress, whose service draws them nearly every month to Keyser's Ridge Auto Truck Stop. The residents showed their appreciation for her outstanding service with a certificate and a sock monkey that they made during their craft activity. They expressed their thanks to her for laughing with them, making them feel special, and brightening their day with her wonderful service. Above, from left, are Betty O'Donnell, Connie Beachy, Pat Pryor, Platter, Pansy Merrill, and Catherine Savage. Below is Platter with her gifts.

Special-Needs-Accessible Pond To Be Dedicated

A dedication ceremony for the Kalbaugh Pond project in the Robert W. Craig Campground, Jennings Randolph Lake, will be held on Wednesday, Aug. 25, at 1:30 p.m.

Marie Burns, the Baltimore District operations manager, and other district representatives will be in attendance. Light refreshments will be served following the dedication.

The Kalbaugh Pond is a partnership project between the Corps of Engineers and a local construction contractor. The pond was located in an overgrown, abandoned area that was cleared out by a Boy Scout volunteer to earn his Eagle status, according to a spokesperson. Once cleared, a partnership was organized between the Corps of Engineers and a local contractor to convert the pond site into an area accessible to those with physically challenges.

The pond facilities are all ADA compliant, the spokesperson said. The paved parking lot is sized to allow room for two side-loading wheelchair lift vehicles simultaneously.

The parking lot, paved pathway, and paved pond shoreline are all bordered with pressure-treated timbers. The fishing pier is also ADA compliant.

The pond was evaluated by a West Virginia Fisheries biologist, who determined that it was "an excellent environment" for fishing, and who agreed to initially stock the pond and assist in maintaining a viable fish population.

The Corps of Engineers then supplied the materials by means of the Challenged Partnership Program, and the contractor supplied the heavy equipment and an equipment operator to complete the work.

The Kalbaugh Pond is now open.

FUN IN THE FALLS – These four bathers were hoping to get a few good shots of their toes, apparently, while playing in the rapids at the base of Swallow Falls this week. The fun of summer in Garrett County hardly gets better than this, with a natural water park with all the thrills there for the taking. The weather has been quite favorable for all sorts of summer activities, although the grass and plants are beginning to want for water. The only hint of rain in the forecast is not mentioned until Saturday, and that is only a 20% chance so far. The younger set might want to get outside and take advantage of all the mountaintop has to offer, as schools are to open next Wednesday (sorry to mention it, kids). Landover Hills Man Sentenced To Six Years

A 48-year-old Landover Hills man pleaded guilty in Garrett County Circuit Court recently to second degree assault. Judge Jim Sherbin sentenced David Wayne Welch to six years in the Division of Corrections (DOC).

All but 64 days (time served) of that sentence was suspended, and Welch will be on supervised probation for two years.

The charge was filed in March 2009 while Welch was serving time in the Garrett County Jail. According to court reports, Welch spit in a fellow inmate's face and eyes.

In other recent court proceedings, Charles Wayne Bradley, 38, Oak Hill, W.Va., pleaded guilty to conspiracy/theft over $500 in value. Sherbin sentenced him to three years in the DOC, suspending all but two months and eight days (time served).

Bradley will be on supervised probation for three years and is required to pay the Oakland Wal-Mart store $4,000 in restitution. According to court reports, video surveillance cameras showed Bradley and an accomplice stealing 16 Nintendo Wii games in April 2009.

In an unrelated case, Clifford Frank Elliott, Oakland, pleaded guilty to driving under the influence of alcohol per se. Related charges against him were not prosecuted based upon his plea.

Sherbin sentenced Elliott to two years in the DOC. The judge suspended all of that sentence and placed Elliott on two years of supervised probation.

A Garrett County sheriff's deputy arrested and charged Elliot in December 2009 following a traffic stop in Oakland.

In other court news, Tony Lewis Hare, 46, Swanton, pleaded guilty to driving an uninsured vehicle. Related charges against him, including failure to display a registration card upon demand by a police officer, were not prosecuted.

Sherbin sentenced Hare to six months, suspending all but one month of that

G'ville Pharmacy Burglarized By Two White Males

Maryland State Police are investigating the burglary of a Grantsville pharmacy on Monday.

Beachy's Pharmacy, Main Street, was reportedly broken into at approximately 3:30 a.m. by two white males. The two entered the business by breaking a window and proceeded to steal several types of medication, including hydrocodone, diazepam, and dextroamphetamine, as well as syringes.

The two reportedly left the business in a Black Chevy Blazer last seen traveling south on Rt. 495. The Blazer is said to have a spare tire with a cover on the back tailgate.

Anyone with information regarding the incident is asked to contact the MSP McHenry Barrack at 301-387-1101 or 301-895-1101.

Commissioners Announce Plans For DCL Emergency Numbering System

Garrett County government is teaming with the Maryland Department of Natural Resources to develop and distribute address signs around the Deep Creek Lake shoreline, the county commissioners announced on Tuesday.

The signs, which will be affixed to docks, allow emergency personnel to identify and relate a location on Deep Creek Lake to be a landmark, enabling responders to reach an incident without unnecessary delays.

Numerous calls for assistance come from boaters using cell phones, and determining a precise location of the caller is difficult, according to Director Brad Frantz, Department of Public Safety and Emergency Management,

"Presently, our 9-1-1 call-takers get information from such calls that display longitude and latitude," Frantz said. "While this gives us a general location of an incident, with all the inlets and coves around the lake, it may not be precise enough to approach the call from the correct road. This can result in delays for fire, EMS, or police units."

The reflective signs will employ the same addressing system used on all roads in the county and will be based on mileage. Geographic information system specialist Deborah Carpenter, Department of Planning and Land Development, is developing the system.

"Currently, street addresses on all roads are based on incremental numbering, with each 100 increments in the address representing one-tenth of a mile," Carpenter said. "So, if your 9-1-1 street address is 1000 Sand Flat Road, for instance, you are exactly one mile in from the starting point of that road."

She noted that the addressing around the lake will work the same way, with the start and end point at the dam. A dock that is

Fatal Two-Vehicle Wreck Investigated By State Police

A two-vehicle accident on Garrett Highway (Rt. 219) early Monday morning took the life of a Pennsylvania woman. Maryland State Police investigated the wreck, which took place near Devils Half Acres Road, Accident.

Connie Jean Augustine, 45, Addison, was reportedly traveling south in a 1995 Chevy Monte Carlo, when her vehicle crossed the centerline into the path of a northbound 2010 Kenworth tractor trailer, driven by Dale Clifton Wagner, 61, Oakland. The vehicle collided head on in the northbound lane, and Augustine was pronounced dead at the scene by forensic examiner Sam Moon, Medical Examiner's Office. Wagner was uninjured.

Rt. 219 was closed for several hours, and traffic was detoured by way of Rt. 42. Northern Rescue Squad, Grantsville and Accident volunteer fire departments, and State Highway Administration also responded to the scene. No charges were filed in the incident.

Town Of Oakland Receives Major Grant To Benefit The Dove Center

Oakland mayor Peggy Jamison announced to staff and board members of the Dove Center on Friday, Aug. 13, that the Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development awarded the town of Oakland a Community Development Block Grant.

The grant of $800,000 will help the Dove Center build a new facility, which is projected to be completed in less than 18 months. The facility will provide storage space, private offices for administrators and counselors, and safe, secure shelter for victims of domestic violence and sexual assault.

Criteria for the grant included demonstrated need and community support for a new facility. "Dem-onstrating need for the facility was relatively easy. The current shelter, with one bathroom, sometimes houses as many as 15 people," stated a spokesperson for the Dove Center

In addition to the grant, community support also helped to finance the plan for the new building. Two years ago the center, under the leadership of Edna Forsyth, organized Capital Campaign II, setting a goal of $200,000, which was a quarter of the amount applied for in the grant. Employees and volunteers set out to ask friends, family, neighbors, and businesses for donations. To date, according to the campaign's chair, Pam Trickett, the total campaign effort has raised about $289,000, with donations still coming in.

"This was truly a community effort," said board chairman Dorothy Tuel. "We couldn't have made it without help from Peggy Jamison, Duane Yoder, Kristan Carter, and Cherie Ross. We can't thank everybody enough."

"Garrett County will have a comfortable, much needed facility to help victims of domestic violence and sexual assault put their lives back together," said the spokesperson.

Accused Abductor Apprehended In Grantsville After 11-Day Search

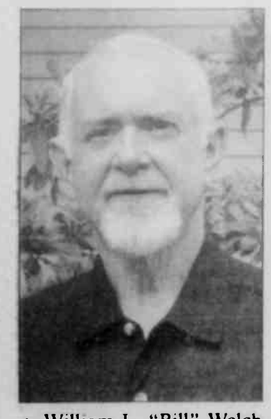
Following an 11-day manhunt, accused child abductor Stephen Westfall was apprehended on church property in Grantsville. He was taken in by Maryland State Police C3I investigators and MSP troopers, and was indicted on Wednesday on charges of first- and second-degree attempted murder, kidnapping, first- and second-degree assault, and reckless endangerment.

Westfall, 44, is the suspect in the abduction of a 6-year-old girl in the Cumberland area. After taking the girl, he reportedly choked and struck her several times in the head with a large rock. He then left her at the Pea Vine Run Road location where the assault occurred. From there, she managed to walk to a nearby residence, from which police were notified. The victim spent several days hospitalized before being released to her family.

The victim was able to give a clear enough description of Westfall for police to begin a search. She also said there was a 4-year-old boy in the van with Westfall at the time of the abduction, but police determined that the boy was not a victim in the case and was unharmed.

Investigators reported that they had complete cooperation from Westfall's family and ex-girlfriend. Westfall reportedly contacted the ex-girlfriend from a business phone at Little Meadows Church, where he was apprehended. Investigators say her help was crucial in his capture, as the phone call was traced by the Maryland State Police Child Recovery Unit.

If convicted, he faces a possible life-sentence for attempted first-degree murder, 30 years for attempted second-degree murder, 30 years for kidnapping, 25 years for first-degree assault, 10 years for second-degree assault, and five years for reckless endangerment.



Westfall's next legal appearance is set for Sept. 7, at which he will receive a trial date.

Welch Files As Candidate For Commissioner

William L. "Bill" Welch has filed with the board of elections as a candidate for Garrett County commissioner from District 3. Welch is a fifth generation Garrett Countian whose paternal ancestors farmed and blacksmithed in the Gortner area. Those traditions ended when his father went to work for the B & O Railroad after returning from the Pacific following World War II.

Welch graduated from Southern High School and Frostburg State College before serving in the U.S. Army on staff at USMA, West Point, during the Vietnam War. Assigned to the Office of Military Psychology and Leadership, Welch helped modernize the cadet leadership evaluation system and was also instrumental in computerizing the system.

After completing military service, Welch undertook diverse enterprises, including business partnerships, becoming a licensed Merchant Marine Master (captain of tugboats/oilfield workboats), becoming certified to teach, construction superintendent, real estate sales agent, and 11 years as U.S. corporate general manager of Mountain Surf Inc., a foreign-owned company that provided an annual average of 15 jobs in Garrett County.

Welch moved to the local Simon Pearce facility in 2003 as warehouse manager, where efficiencies were introduced that brought most Simon Pearce fulfillment operations to Garrett County. Welch is still with Simon Pearce today as an analyst, commodities buyer, and global logistics manager.

Welch said that he believes Simon Pearce is the type of employer Garrett County needs more of, describing the company as "an industry leader paying living wages without special tax breaks."

Welch serves on the board of directors of Garrett County Community Action Committee. He is a member of the finance committee and has led the move to measure operations performance.

"Community Action spurred my interest in Garrett County government," he said. "It is difficult to understand why commissioners don't implement operations efficiency measures. Do voters really buy current efficiency claims?

"For example, why cut roads department drivers when it makes more sense to cut higher-paid administrative positions that are far from essential?" he said.

Returning to personal history, Welch continued, "I was one of those who left to find better work. I could usually find some way to do anything that interested me, and do it pretty well. Things worked out better than it seemed like they might the day a Southern High School guidance counselor asked what made someone like me think he could go to college.

"Sensibilities were different in 1964," he said, "but there is no excuse for disrespect from any public official. That day I learned that going along to get along can be the path to disaster, which separates me from the 'business-as-usual' crowd."

Welch suggests that voters should ask themselves: Are you satisfied with progress in Garrett County? Welch says he is not.

"My priorities are: first, to ensure more tax revenues are invested in projects benefiting year-round residents; and second, to slow the exodus of our young by attracting higher-paying jobs to Garrett County through modernizing business infrastructure," he said. "Other objectives include increasing property rights by simplifying the permitting process, and protecting quality of life by enforcing laws against nuisance usages."

Welch believes that failure to upgrade technology infrastructure in Garrett County forces young people to leave, plus costs Garrett County higher paying jobs. He reports a senior county official told him that improving modern communications infrastructure is a low priority because the commissioners don't understand how technology creates jobs. "It could be a generational issue," Welch suggested, "but failure to understand how modern communications technology creates well-paying jobs is a triple whammy: It drives young graduates out of the county, it cripples economic growth, and it increases dependence on tourism."

Welch said that he believes Garrett County might be on the leading edge of a financial crisis.

"If state pensions become the responsibility of county taxpayers, results will be catastrophic," he said, adding that he believes that if commissioners had held the line on hiring and administrative wages in recent years while increasing investment in infrastructure, the county would be in a better financial position to maintain critical services through the current rough patch.

"Where is the plan?" he asked.

Citing proposed school consolidations as examples of lack of planning, Welch believes that student head counts at Kitzmiller, Bloomington, and Crellin schools could be increased by expanding their capture areas. He added that evidence proves school consolidation lowers the quality of educational experience for young students, stating, "Public school is supposed to be for students. Does it make sense to put 6- and 7-year-olds on buses for two hours a day because top administrators lack planning and fiscal management skills? Commissioners need to take a closer look at the direction of public education here."

Welch said that "business as usual" by the commissioners is a problem.

"The commissioners seem too comfortable spending other people's money without proving the benefits of their decisions or providing a verifiable road map to a better place," he said. "Listening to the commissioners attempt to justify the fairgrounds building and the swimming pool reminded me of a Yogi Berra story: Berra was late driving to a team meeting and stopped to call in. The manager asked Berra where he was. Yogi said, 'We're lost, but we're making good time.' This story explains too much about county fiscal planning in recent years.

"A popular definition of insanity is doing the same thing over and over and expecting different results," he continued. "For years commissioners have been vague or disrespectful responding to unwelcome questions. Commissioners refuse to prove the benefits of questionable spending or even explain how they arrived at decisions. From me voters will get full accountability and respect instead of hemming, hawing, and attitude.

"Garrett County voters never had a clearer choice between proven effectiveness and 'business as usual.' I am a proven executive and team builder, successful in multiple areas – all outside 'business as usual' county politics. Voters who can connect the dots between 'business as usual' – high tax bills, attitude, and lack of jobs – will vote for me, because electing me ends 'business as usual.' I can use verifiable facts to make more productive spending decisions, to increase operational efficiencies, and to modernize technology infrastructure – a combination certain to attract higher paying jobs to Garrett County."

Welch said that public records show that in 2006 the current District 3 commissioner (Denny Glotfelty) spent over $24,000 to "buy the election."

"With that kind of money out there supporting 'business as usual,' every concerned citizen needs to vote," he said. "There are many ways to support my campaign, whether it is explaining to friends and neighbors why a vote for Bill Welch is a vote for a better future, or by asking for a yard sign, or by mailing a financial contribution to Elect Bill Welch, 6991 Garrett Highway, Oakland, MD 21550, or online at www.electbillwelch.com."

Welch said that groups and individuals are invited to contact him to arrange face-to-face discussions or ask written questions. Interested voters may leave contact information at 301-334-5903 or online at wlwelch@iceweb.net.

"Every voter or group giving contact information shall get a quick response, because Garrett County needs modern leadership now," he concluded.

Shilobod Named Facility Manager Of Wind Project

Constellation Energy recently announced that its Criterion Wind Project, Maryland's first commercial wind energy facility under construction in Garrett County, has named a facility manager and established a local office in downtown Oakland.

Don Shilobod, a 16-year Constellation Energy employee with a background in the energy and plant development sector, will serve as manager of the 28-turbine, 70megawatt facility. Shilobod is currently working at the project site, and will remain as the facility manager when construction is completed and the project is operational.

Shilobod is a native of Latrobe, Pa. Prior to taking the position at Criterion Wind, Shilobod served as a mechanical engineer during the start up of Constellation Energy's Hillabee Energy Center in Alexander City, Ala., which recently began commercial operation. He has also performed startups, operations and maintenance work at power plants in West Virginia, Pennsylvania, and Montana.

The company also announced the opening of an office, located in the lower level of the Third Street Center at the intersection of Third and Oak streets in Oakland. The office will have project-specific information available for the community, and will serve as a centralized business and meeting space for the project. The office will be open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, except on holidays.

The project consists of 28 wind turbines being built over an eight-mile stretch along Backbone Mountain, and will produce emission-free power for the mid-Atlantic region. The project is in mid-construction, and according to the company, is currently employing more than 150 workers during the construction phase.

Constellation Energy is a supplier of energy products and services, headquartered in Baltimore.

MSP Investigate Two Fender Benders At DCL

Several vehicles were involved in minor vehicle accidents this past weekend. Maryland State Police responded to the following incidents, which are unrelated.

A 1995 Mack RG690, a 2006 Chevrolet Colorado, and a 1999 Dodge Stratus were all traveling north on Garrett Highway south of Mosser Road on Friday, when an unknown black sedan pulled from the shoulder of the road in front of the Stratus. All vehicles had to brake abruptly. Judy Lynn Bow, 42, Mtn. Lake Park, driver of the Stratus, was struck from the rear by the Colorado, driven by Bryan Kelley, 37, Accident, which then was struck by the RG690, driven by Michael Emery Miel, 29, Keyser, W.Va.

Kelley was transported by Northern Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where he was treated for non-life-threatening injuries. The other drivers were uninjured. Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company and Buddy's Towing also responded to the 3:10 p.m. scene.

In an unrelated incident, a fender bender occurred on Garrett Highway in the area of Trader's Landing at 3:35 p.m. the same day. A juvenile driver of a 1997 Pontiac Grand Am with two passengers was unable to stop for traffic, causing the vehicle to strike the rear of a 2004 Dodge Ram, driven by Tyler Ryan Roth, 19, Oakland. Roth's vehicle then struck the rear of a 1994 Ford Escort driven by Sean Curtis Clearwater, 26, Waynesboro, Pa.

The juvenile passenger was transported to GCMH by Northern Rescue Squad. The juvenile driver was cited for failure to control speed to avoid a collision.

Man Sentenced To 18 Months For Disorderly Conduct, Resisting Arrest

An Oakland man was sentenced to 18 months in recent Garrett County District Court hearings, presided by Judge Leonard J. Eiswert, after he was found guilty of disorderly conduct and resisting arrest.

Daniel James Moore, 40, was also found guilty of failure to obey a lawful order stemming from a separate incident, for which he was sentenced to an additional 60 days. Eiswert suspended 12 months of the 18-month sentence, with 60 days' credit given for hospitalization. Moore was also given time served for 44 days of the 60-day sentence. He was placed on three years of supervised probation, to be monitored by the Maryland Department of Parole and Probation, and ordered to pay $57.50 in court fees.

He was not prosecuted on charges of second-degree assault on a police officer, failure to obey a lawful order, disturbing the peace, and second-degree assault. Moore's charges stem from two separate incidents, one occurring at the Pilot Station in Grantsville, and one occurring at a family member's residence.

In other court news, Ashley Jean Elliott, 26, Grantsville, was found guilty on a controlled dangerous substance (CDS) possession not marijuana. She was sentenced to 18 months, with all suspended, and was placed on three years of supervised probation. She also paid a total of $157.50 in court fees and fines. Elliott's Main Street apartment was searched by the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force and Maryland State Police in May, during which approximately 20 packs of heroin were recovered, as well as two needles (one ready for use), a spoon, a metal container with heroin residue, and one klonopin pill. She was not prosecuted on charges of CDS possession with intent to distribute, a second count of CDS possession not marijuana, and CDS administering equipment possession/distribution.

Bonnie Ann Meadows, 40, Oakland, was found guilty on a charge of CDS possession of marijuana and was sentenced to 60 days with all suspended. She was placed on 18 months of unsupervised probation and ordered to pay $142.50 in fees and fined. She was stopped by a Garrett County sheriff's deputy in April, during which her vehicle and person were searched and a pipe and several bags of marijuana were recovered. Meadows was not prosecuted on a charge of CDS possession of paraphernalia.

Terrance Keith Snowden, 20, Pocomoke City, was found guilty of CDS possession of marijuana and sentenced to 30 days with all suspended. He was placed on one year of unsupervised probation and fined $357.50. His dorm room was searched by the Narcotics Task Force in March after campus security notified authorities of an odor of marijuana coming from the room, in which marijuana, stems, seeds, and a pipe were recovered. He was not prosecuted on a charge of CDS possession of paraphernalia.

Snowden was given a stet verdict on CDS possession of marijuana stemming from a separate incident, during which he was present at a Close Road apartment when it was searched in May and contraband recovered.

Robert Thomas Mayle, 19, Swanton, was found guilty of disorderly conduct and sentenced to 30 days with all suspended. He was placed on one year of supervised probation and fined $157.50. The charge stemmed from a domestic dispute in Oakland involving another adult male that was investigated by a Garrett County sheriff's deputy. He was not prosecuted on a charge of disturbing the peace.

James Robert Mullenax, 20, Swanton, was given a probation before judgment (PBJ) verdict on a driving while impaired (DWI) charge and sentenced to 30 days with all suspended. He was given one year of unsupervised probation and ordered to pay $257.50 in fees and fines. Mullenax was stopped by a Garrett County sheriff's deputy after he was observed crossing the centerline several times and almost striking the police cruiser. After failing field sobriety tests, his vehicle was searched, revealing a marijuana pipe. He was not prosecuted on CDS possession of marijuana, CDS possession of paraphernalia, driving under the influence (DUI), DWI by drugs or alcohol or drugs and alcohol, and violating a license restriction.

Earl John Nicholson, 60, New Milton, W.Va., was given a stet verdict on a charge of carrying a handgun on his person. Maryland State Police responded to a call in January of a person in possession of a firearm. Nicholson does possess a permit in West Virginia for the gun, but was in Maryland at the time of the arrest.

Dennis J. Garlitz Jr., 21, Oakland, was given a stet on a second-degree assault charge stemming from a domestic dispute in May. Garrett County sheriff's deputies responded to the call.

James Reed Reckart, 24, Oakland, was also given a stet on a charge of second-degree assault stemming from an April domestic dispute investigated by Garrett County sheriff's deputies. The condition of his stet was that he have no violent contact with the victim.

Lawrence Alvin Thompson, 41, Oakland, was given a stet verdict on a second-degree assault charge, with the condition being he commit himself to the Finance Center, Cumberland. The charge stemmed from a domestic dispute in August 2009 that was investigated by a Garrett County sheriff's deputy.

Shane Everett Applegate, 19, Swanton, was not prosecuted on two counts of second-degree assault stemming from an incident that occurred at the Backbone Youth Center involving two other males.

Rubben James Everett, 29, Oakland, was not prosecuted on a second-degree assault charge stemming from a May domestic dispute investigated by a GCSO deputy.

DUI/DWI HEARINGS

The following DUI and DWI cases were heard in recent District Court proceedings, with Judge Eiswert presiding.

Kenneth David Wade Jr., 36, Maryland, was given a PBJ verdict on a DUI per se charge and sentenced to 6 months with 5 months and 26 days suspended. He was ordered to serve two weekends in jail and pay $357.50 in court fees and fines. Wade was stopped by a GCSO deputy in May. He was not prosecuted on charges of DUI and DWI.

Michael Patrick O'Neil, 34, Md., was given a PBJ on a DUI per se charge stemming from a March stop by Maryland State Police. He was sentenced to 30 days with all suspended and ordered to pay $307.50 in fees and fines. O'Neil was also placed on one year of unsupervised probation. He was not prosecuted on DUI and DWI charges.

Ryan Christopher Hvozdik, 25, Pennsylvania, was given a PBJ verdict on a DWI charge and sentenced to 30 days with all suspended. He was fined $257.50 and placed on one year of unsupervised probation. Hvozdik was stopped by MSP officers in May. He was not prosecuted on charges of DUI and DUI per se.

Michael E. Burriss, 50, Ohio, was given a stet verdict on DUI and DWI charges stemming from a May traffic stop by GCSO deputies. The conditions of his stet are that he complete an alcohol education class.

Mark Bliss Duckworth, 33, Md., was given a stet verdict on DWI and DUI charges stemming from a June traffic stop by Garrett County sheriff's deputies. The conditions of his stet are that he obey all laws.

Richard Matthew East, 41, Pa., was not prosecuted on DUI and DWI charges stemming from a December 2009 arrest by Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

I LOVE DEEP CREEK LAKE ... another in a series
by Ed King

The State of Deep Creek Lake

Approximately fourteen short stories have been written by me and published in The Republican newspaper under the above-referenced header. Topics have included among others the Swan boat, early camps & cottages, children & pets, swimming, water skiing and even my parents' feelings of pride when I bought my lake property "Dunwanderin" in 1965. Presently, I am about eighty percent along in authoring a book documenting some history about famous boats on Deep Creek Lake.

Deep Creek Lake is a place I truly love. Every morning is a joy to awake, look out across the water, and see the beautiful mature oaks and hemlocks that frame our view. I enjoy the four seasons. In fact, my wife, Jean, coined the phrase that's incorporated in some of our sales media: "Deep Creek Lake ... a place for every season of your life."

That place for every season phrase has really been true to my experience from 1933 when my parents camped along Cherry Creek, when they brought me in a baby buggy, up to the present day being the autumn of my life. A typical summer season finds me bicycling or kayaking each morning followed by a swim. Yes, a swim in Deep Creek Lake. Often after a day of work I pour a glass of wine and relax by the water and may take another dip before dinner.

Each season brings with it a variety of aspects of Garrett County and Deep Creek to be enjoyed. For example, you'll regularly find me still water skiing and snow skiing. Or on a winter evening I may be reading a book next to a crackling fire in the living room. Regardless of one's age or the time of year, there is always something wonderful about being here.

Deep Creek has matured in the past decade and in positive ways for the most part. We now have first-run films in an 8-plex theater, several miniature golf courses, the annual arts season including performances by the Pittsburgh Symphony, four major golf courses, a county Visitor Center, the recirculating whitewater course (one of only two in the U.S.A.), and great food services. In recognition of improvements at Wisp Resort, there now is better snowmaking capability, more lifts and slopes, the renovated Wisp Resort Hotel, the mountain coaster and, the newest attraction, the Flying Squirrel zip line. Deep Creek offers so much more than the beauty of the natural resource itself. There is a strong infrastructure that has grown up around it.

While I cannot claim having anything to do with the creation of this lake and its attractions that I love so much, I have devoted the past thirty years to personally participating in the protection of the natural resource and also in the planning of county and state regulations as they relate to the lake. I refrain from enumerating the various boards, committees, memberships and associations with which I am and have been involved. I prefer to keep a low profile and speak out only when I feel it is necessary and then only in a positive frame of reference.

An article in the August 6, 2010, Baltimore Sun by Timothy B. Wheeler about Deep Creek Lake is the impetus for my speaking out now. That article is full of "cry wolf" scare statements to which I feel compelled to set a few things straight. First, yes, there are concerns and issues that need to be monitored and recorded to insure the long-term health of this resource. However, to cry wolf when there is no need to do so is not the way to approach those concerns and issues. The Property Owners Association of Deep Creek Lake, Inc., the State of Maryland Department of Natural Resources Policy and Review Board, the Garrett County Board of Realtors, the Chamber of Commerce and other County and State agencies are very concerned about issues such as sewage spills, fish kills, low water levels, and vegetation growing in the lake.

All of the aforementioned associations, organizations, departments and offices are working to address the issues in a responsible and professional manner. Shame on you, Baltimore Sun and Mr. Wheeler, for writing such a one-sided, devastating, negative article that in fewer than two weeks has had a most detrimental impact on the Garrett County economy. In Mr. Wheeler's article there is mention of a forum to be held the very next day, August 7, comprising scientists and government officials, including Mr. John Griffin, Secretary of the DNR, to speak on the "State of the Lake." To anyone's knowledge, the Sun did not have a reporter attend that forum and write a follow-up article addressing all viewpoints on the issues. The Sun instead chose to publish its sensationalist, attention-grabbing article titled "Residents Concerned About Deep Creek Lake's Future."

We who live here are all concerned about the long-term health of Deep Creek Lake. Basically, however, the Sun article is one-sided, most of it negative, and representing only a few inquiries to consider opinions of others. There were several presentations at the August 7, 2010, Forum. No information by any presenter at that forum was indicative of an immediate problem or concern with a high level of E. coli or fishing or swimming in the lake. Secretary John Griffin answered the question "Is the lake healthy?" with a resounding "yes." He commented further that the DNR is keeping a watchful eye on several matters.

The Sun article mentioned canaries in the mine. The only gas in the mine at Deep Creek Lake is people breathing out unfounded, negative remarks. If the Sun quoted from the "Friends of Deep Creek Lake," I challenge the statement that "only renters swim in the lake." Not true. Do you wonder if those people are really friends of Deep Creek Lake? I personally swim once or twice a day and water ski every weekend in the southern lake coves along with numerous other residents.

There is no intention on my part to cover up or ignore any issues. I love this lake and will not tolerate negativity to drive a campaign to address the issues. In participation with responsible agencies, well-thought-out approaches are a far better avenue to reach needed resolutions.

It was reported to me that on Sunday, August 8, a person in a canoe and thought to be Mrs. Beelar was advising renters on the shores of Hickory Ridge not to fish, eat the fish, or swim in the lake. That was the day after officials speaking at the Forum organized by "Friends of Deep Creek Lake" gave no indication of such alarming precautions. Are those people really friends of the lake? I cannot stand silently by while alarmists bad-mouth the lake.

Mrs. Beelar and "Friends of Deep Creek Lake" are all people who obviously care and have done good things for the lake. Their good deeds should not be negated by their cries-of-wolf tactics. Rather, we ask them to go forward and continue working on the issues in a positive manner. I, for one, shall always love Deep Creek Lake and wish for others to enjoy it as well for the long term.

Incredible Return...

Superstition says that Friday the 13th is a day of bad luck, but that certainly did not prove to be true for Garrett County last Friday when it was learned that an $800,000 Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development grant is being awarded to the town of Oakland to be used toward the construction of a new Dove Center. The center serves victims of domestic violence and sexual assault, and has greatly outgrown its current location. The funds will allow the center board to proceed with the construction of the new facility, to be located along Memorial Drive near the Garrett County Health Department.

It was not the generosity of the DHCD that led to the awarding of this grant, the maximum amount available. It was through the generosity of local residents, organizations, and business owners, coupled with a lot of hard work by various Dove Center volunteers.

The goal of the capital campaign for the Dove Center, which equates to the matching funds necessary to be considered for the grant, was $200,000. Once again, despite our designation as a relatively low-income county, and despite the fact that we are truly in the midst of an economic recession, that goal was not only surpassed, but surpassed to date by $89,000. This outstanding level of commitment by our local citizens without question weighed heavily in the DHCD's decision to award this grant.

It is obvious by the level of giving that our community not only recognizes the great need for the Dove Center, but also acknowledges through these gifts the fine work that is being done by the volunteers and staff of the center. Lives are being saved, literally and figuratively, on a regular basis because of the existence of this facility and the love and care of those who operate it.

It would be wonderful if we had no need at all for the Dove Center, but as long as humans are human, sadly, the need will remain. But all who donated to this project should feel a great sense of pride, and celebrate the fact that their investments in the Dove Center have resulted in such an incredible return.

Letters to the Editor

Writers of letters to the editor are reminded that letters will not be published if they exceed 400 words, do not include contact information, and/or are deemed to be libelous.

To the Editor:

With heartfelt gratitude, I would like to thank every individual, business, and organization that aided the Dove Center in the quest to secure funding for a new shelter and offices in Garrett County. Through these efforts, the families who are in need of counseling and temporary housing will have a comfortable, secure, and much needed larger facility. This project will serve our community for generations to come.

Thank you,
Dorothy A Tuel

To the Editor:

On Aug. 8, 2010, while shopping, my mother accidently left her purse at the store. When she called, the purse had been returned, but a substantial sum of money had been stolen.

The upside to all of this is the help provided by Rick and Cheryl DiSimone at Browning's Foodland. They explained to my mother that there was possible evidence to find who stole the money. After much work, they did find evidence to give to the local sheriff's office.

We would like to publicly thank Browning's Foodland of Oakland and the DiSimones for all of the help they gave us. We would also like to thank the good Samaritan who returned the wallet after the thief took the money and then tossed it. If she had not returned the wallet my mother would have had to replace her driver's license.

We would like to thank the sheriff's office and Deputy Thomas in particular for his help to us when we reported the theft, and his ongoing investigation of this crime.

To the thief: You should be ashamed and return the money. My mother is 78 years old and supports herself without help. You stole money intended for medicine, doctor bills, and other needs. I believe you will be taken to court and convicted, but even if you are not found, there is a higher authority you will answer to. I hope no one ever steals money you or your mother need for medicine and the necessities of life. You don't have to steal. This is Garrett County and people are always willing to help you if you have a real need.

Sincerely,
Cinda Savage

To the Editor:

Occasionally there comes into our lives someone who makes such a positive impact on us that we will never be the same again.

That has been the case for me in the person of Bernice Kepple. I've known her for only the last 2½ years, since she became a resident of the Goodwill Retirement Community.

Some people think life is over when you go to a nursing home. Not Bernice. She lived her life to the fullest! Her focus was on others and not her own disabilities. She gently coached confused residents and helped relieve their anxieties. Not only was she a friend of residents, but also their families and staff.

Her green thumb was very evident, as her many African violets and flower box outside gave pleasure to residents and families. The garden boxes flourished under her care, and residents enjoyed fresh sliced tomatoes and cucumber slaw which she prepared for them.

She continued to be wife, mother, and grandmother to her family. Her mother-in-law was also here, and she lovingly supported her.

She became a personal friend to me as we discovered we had many interests in common.

Bernice was very interested in her surroundings, and she soon started asking about the original building at Goodwill, which was the former Amish-Mennonite Children's Home. Her interest grew as she read articles and heard personal stories of former children who were wards of that home. She started compiling a scrap book about that time in our local history. As word got around, many people brought her articles, photos, and personal stories.

The request was made that she publish this, and thanks to the support and help of her husband and family, this has now happened. The book, titled Amish Mennonite Children's Home Grantsville, Md. 1914 - 1938, can be purchased at the Springs (Pa.) Store.

Bernice has given a valuable gift to this community which she grew to love. Sadly, her life was shortened by a malignant brain tumor. She died as she lived, with dignity and acceptance. She was such an inspiration to me and many others.

We send our love and sympathies to her husband and family, and I thank God for enriching my life by bringing Bernice into it. She will be sadly missed by all who knew and loved her.

To the Editor:

I don't see how sucking $144 million out of the pockets of Marylanders can ever be considered a wonderful event, especially in this economy. Granted, that $144 million came out of the pockets of sinful smokers, but I am of the opinion that those sinful smokers could have spent that money in a more productive manner to the economy as a whole than the state.

By the way, O'Malley predicted $255 million on the cigarette tax; he was woefully short on his estimate, which shouldn't surprise anyone.

You and Vincent DeMarco can gloss over the loss of revenue to businesses with the drop in cigarette sales in Maryland. The fact remains, businesses were hurt and millions of dollars were removed from the Maryland economy by this cigarette tax.

So now you are in favor of an increase in alcohol tax, which will remove even more dollars from the economy. And your reasoning is so sound, Maryland hasn't had a tax increase on liquor in 55 years or beer and wine in 38 years, and my goodness, Maryland has the second lowest tax on liquor in the nation. These are the most solid, logical reasons to raise taxes that I've heard in a long time.

Of course, this is not quite true. Maryland raised tax on alcohol (along with everything else) by 1% a year or so ago.

So-called low taxes cause disease, criminal behavior, and social ills? I never knew! I guess if personal responsibility doesn't work out, you can always tax them 'til they squeak.

I can get a cube (30-pack) of beer in West Virginia for around $18/19. Currently, that same beer costs me around $22.50 here. If you and Vincent have your way, the cost of that cube will go up $3 to $25.50. Use your imagination and figure out what I and many others might be tempted to do, and then explain to me how this isn't going to hurt local businesses. After all, while I'm in West Virginia I might as well get my pretzels, chips, and frozen pizza there, too, because if this alcohol tax increase is passed and fails to fill the coffers of the state to your satisfaction, my guess is you and Vincent will target my snacks next.

William Hebler

To the Editor:

The proposal (HB 832) to raise the state tax on beer over 1,000% with similar hikes in the taxes on wine and spirits raises some troubling questions:

•Although it may make sense to adjust Maryland's taxes on adult beverages which are among the lowest in the country, is it fair or wise to raise beer taxes to a rate that would be four times the national average, with comparable increases for wine and spirits?

•Why add a further burden to restaurant owners who are already in a serious slump?

•Why choose to increase a tax which is among the most regressive, hitting hardest those who can least afford it (Joe 6-pack)?

Sin taxes are always popular, except among the sinners and those who accommodate them, including restaurants and convenience stores. If you drink, please drink in moderation. So also, if you must tax, please tax in moderation.

To the Editor:

The silence was deafening from Maryland's political leadership when the news broke of Carlos Montano, an illegal alien, being arrested in Virginia for crashing into and killing an innocent Catholic nun while driving under the influence (DUI).

Politicians in Montgomery and Prince George's counties, known sanctuaries for illegal aliens, are quite aware of the dangerous arrest and release policies used for DUI and related cases involving illegal aliens like Montano in their jurisdictions.

For counties that pride themselves on public health and safety issues such as cigarette smoking bans, transfat elimination, fireworks restrictions, motorcycle and bicycle helmet requirements, CO_2 cutbacks, and yes, severe drunken driving regulations, this revolving-door policy for those without legal presence in our state stands out like a sore thumb.

A careful review of Montgomery County's outstanding criminal and traffic warrants posted online highlights hundreds and hundreds of Montano-type alcohol-related arrests from the many thousands of outstanding warrants listed. In Prince George's County the problem is even more pronounced with outstanding warrants numbering in the tens of thousands.

Why does the solid block of Democratic politicians in both counties assume that illegal aliens cited for DUI and related automotive violations, such as driving without a license or insurance (truly undocumented!), would actually show up in court for their crimes? These fugitives already broke the law getting to Maryland and have no respect for our system of justice.

We all know too well that automobiles can be killing machines. For the safety of Maryland's citizens, it's time to tighten immigration enforcement restrictions to include all motor vehicle DUI and related driving violations.

Last week Bill Thomas positively commented about Mountain Laurel Medical Center in a letter to the editor. Thank you, Mr. Thomas, for your public acknowledgment.

Mountain Laurel Medical Center is indeed a community resource for access to health care. As the CEO, I am very proud of the staff that serves and helps the patients, not only with medical care, but also with navigating a healthcare system that can often be a challenging.

Last week we celebrated National Health Center week, "Celebrating America's Health Centers: Turning the Vision into Reality," that highlights the 45-year record of health centers in providing affordable, high-quality, cost-effective health care to all people, regardless of ability to pay. America's Health Centers now serve over 20 million people, and we are proud that this community resource is included in this legacy of care.

Mountain Laurel is governed by a board of directors, 51% of the membership of which must be consumers of these health services. I thank every volunteer board member for their ongoing support and willingness to work with Mountain Laurel as we continue to grow and provide access to health care for everyone. Mountain Laurel Medical Center is your community health center.

To the Editor:

I usually agree with most of the stances taken by the editor of this fine newspaper. However, a recent editorial dealing with the register of wills race in Garrett County left me perplexed. It seems that the editor was advocating a position that would allow for that position to be opened up to all registered voters in Garrett County.

The simple truth is that both parties play by the same rules. Candidates for local and state races are not precluded from filing because of party. Also, if the Democratic Central Committee wished to put a candidate forward, it had a certain period of time past the deadline to submit that name. The committee, I am sure after much deliberation, chose not to do so.

This past week at the Garrett County Fair, the Republican Central Committee's booth was filled to the brim with literature promoting all candidates for both statewide and local offices. Staring at the sea of yard signs and palm cards, one can see how fortunate the party is to have at least one Republican running in each race.

I am proud of each and every candidate running for office, from state senator to register of wills. I believe that every one of them brings outstanding leadership and life experiences vitally important to these positions. If there is a Democrat who would like to vote for one of the many qualified candidates in Garrett County, the deadline for the application for change-of-party affiliation must be submitted to the Garrett County Board of Elections by August 24, 2010, in order to vote in the upcoming primary. We would love to welcome you into our party with open arms.

Sincerely,
Brandon Butler
Chair
Garrett Co. Republican
Central Committee

Dear Mr. Butler

Just as a point of clarification, it would be my preference to make the job of register of wills a hired, rather than elected, position. But if it is to remain an elected position, then at least the "winner" should be determined via a non-partisan election.

To the Editor:

How mystifying to some parents that 14 years after bringing home that bundle of joy from the hospital, that bundle is now in the high school band or on the football team. Or for others 18 years later their child will be enrolling in a college or university.

Children grow up extremely fast. By their very nature, children will seek out activities. Parents need to guide children toward positive activities. We are all aware of the many negative activities in which children can get involved.

Sports, clubs, volunteer activities, church groups, and others provide positive activities for youth. The adult leaders of these organizations are to be commended for their time and efforts. Thanks to those individuals should be extended by youth and parents whenever possible.

To the Editor:

The 2010-11 school year is just about here! This letter is to remind everyone that children will be traveling to school soon, and that their safety is of utmost importance.

The Southern Rescue Squad asks all to please watch out for children waiting for buses and walking to and from school. Every child's safety is our concern. Remember, it is the law to stop for all school buses with flashing lights. Please be careful and slow down in school zones.

As you and your families get ready for the new school year, be sure to visit the SGCRS Auxiliary yard sale this Friday and Saturday, Aug. 20 and 21. School clothes and other school items will be available for purchase.

Thank you, and please be careful out there!

Bureau of Mines Receives Award For Environmental Remediation

The Bureau of Mines, in collaboration with the Crellin Elementary School Environmental Remediation and Education Project, was one of five winners nationwide of the 2010 Abandoned Mine Land Reclamation Awards given by the U.S. Department of the Interior's Office of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement (OSM). The project is part of the state of Maryland Department of the Environment, Abandoned Mine Lands Division.

"In considering the nominees for these awards, we take into account their practice of protecting the environment over the long term," said OSM director Joe Pizarchik. "OSM believes it is important to recognize a job well done, and these state agencies and companies have demonstrated the importance and benefits of reclamation, as envisioned in the Surface Mining Act."

Only projects funded wholly or in part and completed by approved state or tribal regulatory programs are eligible to win. Past award winners have encompassed all types of reclamation, including coal, non-coal, and emergency projects. A panel of judges comprising directors of state reclamation programs and certain OSM managers vote to determine the winners.

OSM will profile each agency's exemplary works in a short video presentation and present each award at a banquet as part of the National Association of Abandoned Mine Land Programs Association's annual conference. This year's NAAMLP conference will be held in Scranton, Pa., from Sept. 19 to 22, with the awards banquet occurring on Sept. 20.

Interested persons may receive instant updates from OSM, the AML and Active Mining Awards on Twitter at www.twitter.com/OSMRE, or by visiting www.osmre.gov.

The Office of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement carries out the requirements of the Surface Mining Control and Reclamation Act of 1977 in cooperation with states and tribes. OSM's objectives are to ensure that coal mining activities are conducted in a manner that protects citizens and the environment during mining, to ensure that the land is restored to beneficial use after mining, and to mitigate the effects of past mining by aggressively pursuing reclamation of abandoned coal mines.

Two Arrested By Deputies, Charged With Assault

Garrett County sheriff's deputies responded to two separate assaults last week, both resulting in charges.

He was charged with second-degree assault. Nasif was taken into custody before being released on personal recognizance.

He was sentenced last week in Garrett County District Court to 10 days in jail and was fined $200.

world. To the delight of locals and visitors alike, Autumn Glory in Oakland beat out Paris' Festival d'Automne (#5) and Munich's Oktoberfest (#7) – in addition to a bevy of domestic celebrations, including San Francisco's Dias De los Muertos.

'Music, parades, and awesome colors are at the center of this festival," noted the site, plugging in particular the Grand Feature Parade, the Maryland State Banjo and Fiddle championships, and the Tournament of Bands.

For the past two years, travelchannel.com has also listed the Autumn Glory Festival and Garrett County as one of America's Three Best Autumn Road Trips, and in 2008, baltimoresun.com listed Garrett County as one of the top five locals for fall foliage.

To the Editor:

The county fair which concluded Saturday was a hectic time for the Knights of Columbus, who operate a booth during the fair, providing attendees with some of the best pit beef in the area. In excess of 70 people worked at the booth during the week, many working multiple shifts.

Several organizations from the area provided assistance to the Knights, and their efforts are greatly appreciated. Among them are the American Red Cross, the Art and Wine Festival Committee, and Appalachian Crossroads. Also providing assistance were many of the parishioners from St. Peter the Apostle Parish in Oakland.

The Knights of Columbus is a worldwide organization that donates over $34 million to many causes and organizations. The giving budget for the Knights of Columbus, Council 1771, Oakland, for 2010 is over $14,000. These monies are derived from our booth's proceeds during many events held at the county fairgrounds.

Some of the organizations receiving help from the Knights locally are: House of Hope, Habitat for Humanity, Mountain Top Crisis Pregnancy Center, Community Action Energy Assistance, the Dove Center, local Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts, Meals on Wheels, Hospice of Garrett County, Appalachian Crossroads, and many others.

In order to accomplish our goals, the Knights need the support and assistance of the community. "Many hands make the work lighter."

Once again, thanks to all those who helped, we could not have done it without you.

Respectfully,
William F. Schrider
Member, Council 1771

To the Editor:

The recent letter by Cynthia McKnight had a very fitting ending. She really hit the nail on the head with the statement "Shame on us."

Yes, shame on you and fellow liberals and so-called "progressives' for pushing an agenda which is geared to destroy our country and everything it has stood for in the past.

Yes, shame on the "progressives" for pushing programs down the throats of a clear majority of Americans who did not want them.

Yes, shame on the "progressives" for gradually eroding our religious and civil liberties through the indoctrination of our young people at the institutions of "higher learning," while at the same time giving illegal immigrants and the perpetrators of terrorism and chaos open doors to infiltrate our country and disrespect our laws and way of life.

Yes, shame on you for daring to denigrate a patriot like Glenn Beck and others who are standing in the gap trying to save our country from the wolves who are baying at the door, and in many cases are already inside the door. I would like to hear one instance where Glenn Beck can be proven wrong. Instead, all we get from the left is character assassination and name calling.

The left likes to be called "progressive," but if we examine the agenda closely and check the results of their programs, we have to conclude that the proper term is actually "regressive."

Sadly, many Christians and other ordinary citizens have their heads in the sand and an apathetic attitude at best.

If you love your country, it's time to wake up. The hour is late!

Sincerely,
Wayne Kauffman
Oakland

To the Editor:

Voters beware! This year more than ever, citizens need to be aware of who they will be putting in control of local government.

Let me say one thing first: No one that I know of has a longer history than I do of challenging our local officials to spend less, save more, provide only the essential services, and not be everyone's rich uncle!

Having said that, I believe some of the candidates who are hoping to ride into office on the wave of discontent that many of us feel about our incumbents' spending habits have another agenda that is not being discussed.

We need to know, in my opinion, how they will deal with, if elected, something that we here in Garrett County sometime take for granted: our private property rights!

While I have had many debates with the current board over spending, I can vouch for the fact that they have steadfastly stood up to a tremendous amount of pressure from the opponents of windmills plus those who use them and any other reason they come up with to convince us to give up our right to use our property as we see fit.

In my opinion, these candidates need to know that we will not be tricked into electing people who don't understand that what we need to protect above all here in Garrett County is our freedom!

In closing, let me say to them, as I have said to many unsuccessful candidates in the past: No one so far has ever been elected to public office here by telling folks that what they need in their lives is more government regulation.

This year, if you think you're voting for change, you might get more than you bargained for.

INSTRUMENTS FOR ACTIVE LIFESTYLES

One of the best ways to ensure satisfaction with the hearing instrument you choose is to base its selection on your lifestyle. Without question, those with active lifestyles will need a hearing instrument that is compatible with a life on the go.® With this in mind, active individuals will want to avail themselves of such features as automatic adaptive directional microphones, which have been clinically proven to improve speech understanding amid background noise. Another very useful feature (especially on a boat or on the golf course) is a wind-noise management system. Data-logging and data-learning devices also prove to be very helpful by allowing for more precise custom programming and reducing visits to the hearing specialist's office for adjustments.

The many marvels that exist in the hearing industry today make it easier than ever to enhance your hearing. You can always count on finding the best way to get the sounds of life back when you put your hearing healthcare needs in the expert, compassionate hands of a hearing specialist at AUDIBEL. Together, we will investigate ways to improve your hearing, and we'll set realistic goals for better communication.

P.S. Bluetooth connectivity to mobile phones, MP3 players, and other electronic devices also proves to be very useful to active hearing instrument users.

PRODUCERS REMINDED OF CONSERVATION RESERVE PROGRAM DEADLINE

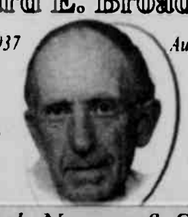
The USDA Farm Service Agency (FSA) reminds producers that the deadline to enroll in the Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) general sign-up is quickly approaching. Farmers and ranchers have until close of business on Friday, Aug. 27, to offer eligible land for CRP's competitive general sign-up. Applications can be completed by land owners at the FSA county office where their farm records are maintained. The 2008 Farm Bill authorized USDA to maintain CRP enrollment up to 32 million acres.

In addition to producers signing up for the first time, CRP participants with existing contracts that are scheduled to expire on Sept. 30 may elect to re-enroll under a new 10-15 year contract. Cropland that is highly erodible, or within a national or state Conservation Priority Area, or is covered under an expiring CRP contract is generally eligible to be enrolled into CRP, provided all other eligibility requirements are met.

Contracts awarded under this 39th sign-up are scheduled to become effective Oct. 1.

CRP is a voluntary program that helps farmers, ranchers, and other agricultural producers protect their environmentally sensitive land. Producers enrolling in CRP plant long-term, resource-conserving covers in exchange for rental payments, cost-share and technical assistance.

In addition to the general sign-up, CRP's continuous sign-up program is ongoing. Continuous acres represent the most environmentally desirable and sensitive land.



For more information on the general CRP, persons are invited to visit the Preston County FSA office, located in the Corner Mall of the Kingwood Plaza, telephone 304-329-1923, or go online to http://www.fsa.usda.gov.

In Loving Memory of
BARRY E. BEACHY

It is just a cluster of memories,
Sprayed with a million tears.
Wishing God could have spared you
For many, many more years.

We often sit and think of you,
And think of how you died.
To think you could not say goodbye,
before you closed your eyes.

Sometimes it's hard to understand
Why some things have to be.
But in His wisdom God has planned
Beyond our power to see.

So looking back in tenderness
Along the path we trod,
We cherish the years we had with you
And leave the rest to God.

No one knows how much we miss you.
No one knows the bitter pain
We have suffered since we lost you.
Life has never been the same.

A million times we've needed you
A million times we've cried,
If love alone could have saved you,
You never would have died.

In life we loved you dearly.
In death we love you still.
In our hearts you hold a place
No one can ever fill.

Sadly missed by:
Mom and Dad

Tommy, Michael

Tucker Foundation Offering Grants To Area Organizations

The fall grant cycle for the Tucker Community Foundation began on Aug. 1. Applications are available for nonprofits, community organizations, and groups that perform charitable work within the foundation's service area.

"The foundation has approximately $40,000 to distribute for the current grant cycle," said executive director Robert Burns. "We have both unrestricted and restricted funds available under this program, so we should be able to support a broad base of charitable activity this year."

The foundation serves Barbour, Grant, Mineral, Preston, Randolph, and Tucker counties in West Virginia and Garrett County, Md.

Donors who establish Endowed Funds with the foundation determine the distribution guidelines for most of the competitive and designated grant awards. Additional unrestricted funds also support grant awards.

Grants will be awarded in support of the arts, parks and recreation, animal welfare, health, youth, education, historic preservation, senior citizens, and social investment (general charitable purposes). To view a complete list of Endowed Grant Funds or to download an application, persons may visit tuckerfoundation.net.

The deadline to apply is Friday, Sept. 17 (postmark). Applications can be mailed or delivered to the foundation office on the second floor of the Tucker County Board of Education Annex at 501 Chestnut Street, Parsons, WV 26287.

For more information, persons may call the foundation office at 304-478-2930 or e-mail tcfl@frontiernet.net.

EGLON MOUNTAINEERS

On July 12, 11 members and eight adults from the Eglon Mountaineer 4-H Club went to J. Rogers Fike's home to see his mounted animals from Africa and North America. It was a very enjoyable evening of learning about animals, their habits, and habitats.

Members and families met for the annual family picnic and project grading at the Farmers' Wildlife Club on Monday, Aug. 9. Randy Strawser, guest speaker contacted by teen leader Haley Rocha, spoke to us about hunter safety, including the course he instructs and about the new laws regarding deer poaching.

Following this, we had our business meeting. Savannah Arnett presented devotions with the theme of "Don't Follow the Path." Fifteen members answered the roll call.

Danielle Blamble reported on the trip to Rev. Fike's, and Savannah Arnett and Haley Rocha reported on county camps. There were some announcements about the upcoming Buckwheat Festival activities and deadline dates. Haley Rocha and Chelcee Rinker will help form a lamb dressing team from the club. Premium books should be available after Aug. 26.

The club ordered T-shirts with the club name imprinted on them, which will be sold for $5 each to members and parents.

Our next meeting will be Sept. 13, with the conservation committee making arrangements to go fishing.

Matthew Rinker gave a talk titled "How I Feed My Pigs." Camp checks were handed out to those members attending county or state camps this summer. Two members, Trevor and Wesley Spaid, are exhibiting their pigs at the West Virginia State Fair.

Attending were the above mentioned as well as Jonathon Blamble, Derek and Samantha Chambers, Sierra Evans, Trevor Lipscomb, Alex Rinker, Jesse Schalker, Brooke Uphold, and parents.

Garrett County FOP Lodge 99

During my career at the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, I have had the pleasure of working with some outstanding individuals within the office as well as in our communities. The commitment that I have to these individuals as well as to all the citizens of Garrett County is tremendous. With that said, I would like to take a moment of your time to explain just how serious I am about my campaign to be your next Sheriff.

Many of you will soon receive a mailing outlining my accomplishments and detailing my career thus far. But what you don't know and what I believe sets me far above any other candidate is this: I currently have 15 years invested in a 25-year career at the Garrett County Sheriff's Office. Should I be elected your next Sheriff and not meet your expectations or stand committed to you, the citizens of this County, in 4 years you will not re-elect me. Should this happen, my career will end at 19 years, just 6 years short of retirement. I will have lost everything that I have worked so hard for throughout my career. Not only will I lose my retirement and health care, but more importantly I will lose the respect of you, the individuals who entrusted me with your Sheriff's Office. However, if I do meet your expectations, if I do stand committed to the citizens of this county and if I do continue to serve you in the same professional and respectful manner that I have thus far in my career, you will re-elect me in 4 years. You see, I can't afford to be your Sheriff for one term. I'm committed to being your Sheriff for the rest of my career.

Some of you may think that is a big risk for me and my family to take and you're right, but my family believes in me, the FOP believes in me and most importantly I believe in myself and what I can do for the citizens of Garrett County if elected as your Sheriff.

This is the type of commitment you should expect out of your next Sheriff.

On September 14, 2010, cast your ballot for the Sheriff candidate who will make a difference in your county.

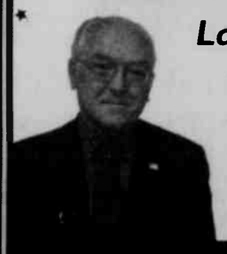
Upon his release from the Garrett County Jail, Hare will be on unsupervised probation for one year

The charges were filed by Maryland State Police following a traffic stop in February along Rt. 135 near Edgewood Drive.



In an unrelated case, Richard Allen Deberry, 28, Oakland, pleaded guilty to two charges: driving while impaired and possession of a controlled dangerous substance (not marijuana).

He was fined $100 for the DWI charge, and was sentenced to 18 months for the second charge. Judge Sherbin suspended all of the sentence, placed Deberry on supervised probation for one year, and fined him $500.

The charges stem from a traffic stop/vehicle search conducted by a deputy in January in Oakland.

DONATES TO JOHNS HOPKINS HOSPITAL – Jim Crabtree, owner of Crabtree Photography, Oakland, recently contributed a portfolio of colorful flower and close-up scenic photography to Hopkins ElderPlus at Johns Hopkins Hospital. ElderPlus is a voluntary health program designed to provide and coordinate all needed preventive, primary, acute, and long-term car services so that older individuals can continue living in the community. It primarily assists elderly inner-city clients who suffer from Alzheimer's disease, or are simply very frail and need constant assistance. Crabtree was approached by Nancy McDonald, RN, a mental health nurse at Hopkins from Dundalk, and a homeowner and frequent visitor in the Oakland area, to donate four prints for display. "It's personally rewarding for me to provide these folks with some entertainment, especially if I can add some comfort to folks struggling with Alzheimer's disease," said Crabtree. Pictured above are ElderPlus staff members holding some of Crabtree's photographs. From left to right are Audrienne Johnson, LMT; Lynne Pierce, RN; McDonald; and Karen Armacost, RN and director of Johns Hopkins ElderPlus.

Auditions For Children's Play Set At Our Town

Our Town Theatre in Oakland has scheduled auditions for the children's play The Stone in the Road. Director Jane Avery said she is looking for children from 5 to 13 years old who have the time and the necessary transportation to be in a play.

The auditions will be held at the theatre, located along Center Street, on Saturday, Aug. 21, from 9 a.m. to noon, and Sunday, Aug. 22, from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m.

Avery said most of the rehearsals will be held after school, although some might be held at night and on weekends. The number of rehearsals per week will be affected by the size of the role, she said.

The production is tentatively scheduled for the first weekend of October.

If a child is unable to make the audition times, Avery said she will schedule special auditions up to Wednesday, Aug. 25, to accommodate schedules. Appointments can be made by calling 301-334-5640, ext. 3.

Lueck Named New President Of Arts Council

Also elected to office were Pam Snyder, vice president, Debra McCombs, secretary; and Jim Lawrence, treasurer. Elected as a new member of the board was Libby Riley, filling the position of retiring member Melodee Hill. In May, Jen Virts was appointed to serve on the board.

MPA To Present Baritones Naylor, Sagin In Schrock Memorial Concert

HEATH NAYLOR

ETHAN SAGIN

Music at Penn Alps will present its annual Alta Schrock Memorial Concert on Saturday, Aug. 21, at 7:30 p.m. at the Great Hall at Penn Alps in Grantsville. Two young baritones will be featured.

This year the concert will also honor the memory of Dr. Jon Bauman, a co-founder of the music series, and will recognize the long service of MPA's president and former music director Fred C. Bolton of Grantsville.

This annual feature of the Music at Penn Alps summer concert series was established to support and encourage young talented musicians about to embark on their advanced educational and pre-professional careers. This concert will showcase the vocal talents of two young baritones from Garrett and Allegany counties, Heath Naylor and Ethan Sagin.

Naylor, a long-time student of Jeanlyn Lewis Barrera, resides in Oakland and will enter Towson University this fall as a vocal performance major. A graduate of Southern High School, he sang in the school's chamber choir and performed leading roles in the school's productions of My Fair Lady, Les Miserables, and The Wizard of Oz.

He was the student representative on the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival board, and received an honorable mention in the Maryland Distinguished Scholar in the Arts competition.

Sagin began studying voice with Barrera when he was in the second grade and has taken private lessons from her ever since. He is a resident of Cumberland and a graduate of Allegany High School, where he was a member of the chamber choir and lead baritone in the school's productions of South Pacific and Camelot. In 2008 he was a semi-finalist in the Maryland Distinguished Scholar in the Arts competition. He is currently studying music at Carleton College, and sings with the college choir and the Carleton Singers.

Dr. John Hawkins, professor of music at the Potomac State College of West Virginia University, will provide accompaniment on the piano. He has produced and directed musicals at PSC since 1966, including the first world amateur production of Cats. He is also a composer, and holds his doctorate in piano performance and literature from the University of Maryland.

The evening's program will feature a "varied and eclectic repertoire," a spokesperson said, ranging across historical periods and musical styles, "from baroque to Broadway."

The program will open with works from the baroque era, including pieces by Scarlatti, Durante, and Francois Joseph Fetis. Works from the classical period will follow, with pieces by Schubert, Mozart, and Haydn.

Following the intermission, arrangements of traditional songs by Ralph Vaughn Williams, Grant Wellesley, and others are slated. Songs from Camelot and Les Miserables will showcase the young soloists before the conclusion of the program, which will feature the gospel tunes "Shall we Gather at the River" (Robert Lowry) and "Simple Gifts" (Elder Joseph Brackett).

The performance is being underwritten by the Scarpelli family. Tickets are $12 for adults, while those 18 and younger are admitted free of charge. Advance reservations are not required. For more program information, persons may call 443-257-9177 or visit the web site at www.musicatpennalps.org.

After the performance, audience members will be invited to meet the artists at an informal reception.

Deadline For Photo Contest Is August 31

There are less than two weeks remaining for student, amateur and professional photographers to enter the 7th annual Maryland Natural Resource Photo Contest. The Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) will accept photo entries of Maryland's diverse natural resources through August 31.

"This is a wonderful opportunity to not only showcase the work of talented local photographers, but also to highlight the natural beauty our State has to offer," said DNR Secretary John Griffin.

Last year, My Phuong Nguyen of Burtonsville submitted the winning image, titled "Egret Dancing," topping more than 300 other photographers. There were five additional first-place winners for each category: Steven Dembo of Pikesville in the State Parks category; Karen L. Messick of Baltimore in the Mountains to the Bay category; David Gigliotti of Bel Air in the Insect category; and Natalie K. Overholt of Westover in the Wildlife category.

Photos entered into the 2010 contest will be judged within six categories: birds, wildlife, insects, scenic, floral and outdoor recreation. Winning entries will be featured in the winter issue of The Maryland Natural Resource magazine as well as the 2011 DNR calendar.

First-place winners in each category will receive a Maryland State Park Passport, a two-year subscription to Maryland Natural Resource magazine, and two copies of the 2011 DNR calendar. Second-place winners will receive a one-year subscription to the magazine and a calendar.

All qualifying photographs must be taken in Maryland. Photographers may submit up to three entries for a $10 entry fee with an additional $3 for each additional entry beyond three. Photos cannot be more than two years old or previously published. Non-residents may participate as long as the photos were taken in Maryland. Winners will be announced online September 30.

Official rules and contest entry forms are available online at www.dnr.maryland.gov/photocontest/.

THE 22ND ANNUAL CONCERT IN THE PARK, held by the Accident Concert Band, is scheduled for Sunday, Aug. 22, at 5 p.m. in the Accident Town Park West. Joining the evening of musical entertainment will be Bob Kleeb, the owner of Kleeb's Music Store in Morgantown, W.Va. Picnic tables and benches are provided under the pavilion, but people are encouraged to bring lawn chairs and blankets. Light refreshments will be available. Ages of band members range from 6 to 94, with members from the tri-state area. The band is a family-oriented assembly that always accepts new participants of all ages without regard of musical experience. Practice sessions are held the 2nd and 4th Monday of each month from May through December in the Accident Town Hall. The band participates in various parades and community events throughout the area. Interested persons should contact Keith Carrington at 301-746-8768 or Rosanne Sherwood at 304-749-8774 for more information. Pictured above are the band members. In the front row, from left to right are Trevola Schrock, Noah Schrock, Jack Slocomb, Lillian Reckner, Whitey Beck, Isaiah Carrington, Shirley Crush, Sally Schwing, and Rosanne Sherwood. Back row: Becky Fike, Charee Reckner, Annette Keller, Keith Carrington, Mary Walcek, Shari Beitzel, Phil Emery, Scott Schwing, Harold Hudnall, Don Richter, and Sheila Edwards. Not pictured are George Keller and Rodney Glotfelty.

Children Headed Back To School; Caution Urged

As 56 million students across the United States and nearly a million students in Maryland get ready to start the 2010-2011 school year, AAA Mid-Atlantic and the Mid-Atlantic Foundation for Safety and Education remind motorists to be aware of increased child pedestrian activity and traffic congestion in and around neighborhoods and school zones.

With more than half of those students in elementary school, the auto club urges drivers to be especially cautious and alert during the morning and afternoon hours. One-fifth (20%) of all children between the ages of 5 and 9 killed nationwide in traffic crashes in 2008 were pedestrians (78 deaths), according to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA). Pedestrian injuries for this age group totaled 4,000 in 2008.

In Maryland there were no pedestrian deaths for children ages 5 to 9 in 2008; however, pedestrian injuries totaled 149 according to the Maryland State Highway Administration.

"Back-to-school is an exciting time for children. Unfortunately, children are unpredictable and not always mindful of traffic safety. Children may have difficulty gauging the distance and speed of an approaching car, and may struggle to recognize and react to potentially hazardous situations," said Myra Wieman, traffic safety manager, Mid-Atlantic Foundation for Safety and Education. "Motorists are reminded to be extra alert, slow down and observe lower speed limits in school zones and residential areas, as children gather at neighborhood bus stops or are walking to and from school. Parents and caregivers are also reminded to instruct their children in traffic rules and safety."

AAA's annual School's Open – Drive Carefully campaign aims to help reduce the number of school-related pedestrian injuries and fatalities by encouraging motorists to stay alert in school zones, as well as in residential areas where children are present heading to and from school. The campaign utilizes posters, magnets, bumper stickers, handouts, media outreach and other community initiatives to reach motorists.

As part of the campaign, the auto club and the Mid-Atlantic Foundation for Safety and Education offer the following tips for motorists to help keep children safe as they return to school. Additional advice for motorists, as well as parents and students on school zone, school bus, pedestrian and bicycle safety can be found on the Foundation's web page at http://midatlantic.aaa.com/

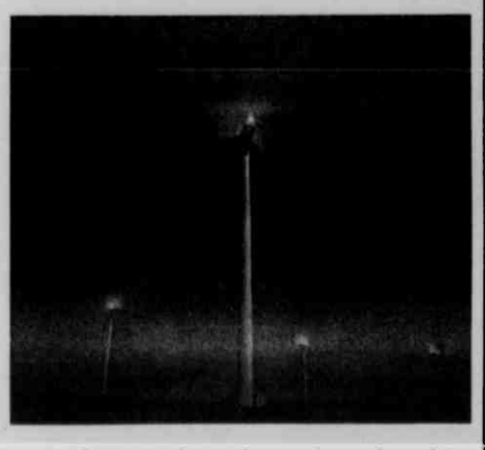
Are we ready for the..... WINDS OF CHANGE?

Are we ready to clean up after industrial accidents?

The number of industrial wind turbine accidents associated with flying debris – including ice, collapsing structures, and fires has increased to 65 per year. With the current "let it burn" policy and the lack of safety setbacks, our neighbors, our homes, our livestock, forests, and streams are at risk



Are we ready to contribute to the demise of threatened and endangered species?

Timber rattlesnakes, mourning warblers, and Indiana bats, as well as threatened native plant species are threatened by wind turbine construction and operation. Since the builders are not forced to follow codes, including protecting habitat and controlling storm water and erosion, our whole ecosystem is at risk.

Save Western Maryland (SWM) has been watchful of Industrial Wind to assure compliance with local and state regulations. On March 22nd 2010 Constellation Energy was shut down for violating their NPDES permit with Maryland Department of the Environment (MDE) since that time SWM has filed multiple complaints for non-compliance. On July 28th 2010 SWM filed a complaint with MDE against Synergics Roth Rock Wind Energy, LLC and they were shut down for violating their NPDES permit with MDE. SWM now has had to file a petition for judicial review of decisions of the Stormwater Management Engineer, the Chief of permits and inspections, and the Director of planning and land development for not assuring compliance with the stormwater ordinance. We are the David to their Goliath, but we know how that story turned out. With community support and additional financial assistance Save Western Maryland will continue to battle Goliath.

The change we are ready for doesn't involve wind power; it involves political power.
Save Western Maryland seeks change that will protect our heritage, enforce existing laws and regulations, and ensure the health, safety, and prosperity of the citizens of Garrett County.

Sailboat Racing
On Deep Creek Lake

IT DOFSN'T GET ANY BETTER THAN THIS
by Dan Muss

Accuweather had it right on Saturday morning, predicting cloudy skies and SE wind around 6 knots. Now a cloudy day may not be good for some things, but it's great for sailboat racing on Deep Creek Lake because it keeps the motor boat wakes to a minimum. PRO Bob Vance set the windward-leeward course through the slot between Turkey Neck and Thousand Acres with an ESE alignment.

The shifts were to the south, which would favor a start at the pin on port tack, so with a half minute to go we started down the line on starboard. With just seconds to the starting horn, my old nemesis Rissell come across on port. Had I been just a few seconds earlier, I could have forced him to tack away and ruin his start, but he cleared me on port and I was forced to tack onto port, under him, to clear the starting line. After two legs we both had left the fleet far behind and it became a two-boat match for the rest of the race. On the second beat we came within a boat length of Rissell, but he held on to beat us by several boat lengths.

Weather prediction is now becoming more of a hard science, with satellite sensors and massive computational power, but on Sunday they missed it. Accuweather got the wind speed and direction right at 8 knots SW, but it said nothing about rain, only predicting thundershowers in the morning and early afternoon. The radar map, however, was clear all the way to Columbus, Ohio, and we never had a hint of lightning. But we had a major downpour between 8 and 10 a.m. At race time the rain had stopped and the sun came peeking through occasionally, but the threatening weather again kept the motorboats at bay.

The course set by PRO Spenser Deakin was the reverse of Saturday's; EW through the slot. With the prevailing SW wind, the pin would again be favored for a port tack start, but at that time the pin was almost in the shadow of Turkey Neck where there was very little wind. So we decided to run the line on starboard and cross for the start about 2/3 the way down the line. The fleet was below us, and as they tacked onto port so could we, and we had the start.

We led for the first two legs, but on the second beat Peters crossed ahead of us and held the lead until the last beat to the finish. We had caught up to him, and I tried to cross him on port, but I misjudged my speed and he was forced to tack to avoid hitting me. We bore off to do our penalty turns. While we were sailing our 720, up came Rissell in Nemesis and he beat us to the finish by a half boat length.

As I lay in my Jacuzzi Sunday evening, nursing my aches and pains, I thought, well... we ended up with a second and a third, but it was a great weekend of racing. It doesn't get any better than that.

Several Rams, Huskies Receive Baseball All-Area Recognition

By a vote of area high school baseball coaches, four Garrett County players – three from Southern and one from Northern – were named to the first-team All-Area squad. In addition, one Southern and one Northern player were named to the second team, and one Husky received honorable mention.

Junior catcher Corey Helbig and senior pitcher Nathan King of Southern received first-team honors for the second consecutive year. Their teammate Ryan Bennett, a junior, was named as the first-team designated hitter, while Northern senior outfielder Teddy Linton was also a first-team pick.

Named to the second team from Southern was infielder Jakob "Bubba" Scheffel and Northern infielder Steven Holtschneider, both juniors, while Northern senior Andy Umbel, also an infielder, received honorable mention.

Helbig led the entire area in hitting with an incredible .615 batting average, recording 32 hits in 52 at-bats. He had five home runs, one triple, and a team-leading six doubles. He also led the team in runs scored with 31, and had 21 RBI.

He also spent some time on the mound for the Rams, from which he was 2-0 and struck out 22 batters in 19 innings of work.

From the mound, Southern's King finished with a 5-1 personal mark and an ERA of 2.25. He struck out 49 batters and walked just 19 in 46-2/3 innings pitched.

He also excelled at the plate, hitting .471 with 24 hits in 51 at-bats. He rapped four homers, two triples, and five doubles, and recorded 16 RBI.

Bennett batted .420 for the Rams, recording 21 hits in 50 at-bats. He hit six homers, and led the team in doubles with eight. He also had 27 RBI and scored 19 runs.

Linton, who played centerfield for the Huskies, led the team in hitting with a .412 average. He recorded 28 hits in 68 at-bats, including three triples, one homer, and one double. He also had 18 RBI and scored 23 runs.

Scheffel batted .444 for his junior season, getting 28 hits in 63 at-bats, including two doubles. He scored 18 runs for an average of .444. He hit two doubles, scored 18 runs, and had 15 RBI.

Holtschneider, who played shortstop for the Huskies, had a .403 season at the plate with 25 hits in 62 at-bats. He led the team in runs scored with 29 runs, and had three homers, four doubles, and 14 RBI. He also drew 21 walks.

Umbel, who played second base, batted .365 with 23 hits in 63 at-bats for Northern. He led Northern in home runs with five, and also hit one triple and three doubles. He also had a team-high 29 RBI.

Also named to the All-Area first team were: Player of the Year Jeff Conley; Marcus Weaver, Zach Neiberlein, and Aaron Lehman, all of Frankfort; Korey Reed and Trevor Site of Moorefield; Cody Hovatter and Adam Stowell of Mountain Ridge; Kolby Foltz of East Hardy; Josh O'Dell of Petersburg; Kevin Myers of Bishop Walsh; and Oliver Douthitt of Hampshire.

My fellow voters and taxpayers:

The time is short and the best man for our new county commissioner is not one who has big signs or makes big promises. He is a low key man who should have been our commissioner this past four years.

The last four years have suffered over $26,000,000 in capital spending, when we should have been easing the tax burden on all taxpayers. The latest 23 million dollar horror will provide a few with swimming pools and recreation, while at the same time, burdening you and me with the expense of maintaining and heating these monster buildings.

Please retire all three commissioners! Please vote for Gregan T. Crawford for commissioner. We need him desperately! Please get votes for him, so we can survive the next four years.

Gregan T. Crawford for Commissioner

Sheila Says:

Dear wonderful friends and neighbors:

Well, Dear Readers:

MY U-HAUL IS ALMOST FULL, and I still haven't packed my clothes and shoes.

Sooooo! I will be keeping the store open thru Autumn Glory.

A series of blessings have come my way lately and my sale has run so well that I want to keep it going! I am definitely going to reduce some of the items some more and I have a few more things that just won't fit in the U-Haul that are coming into the store.

Some things like artwork and mirrors will be half off.

Some rugs and lamps even more! You really have to stop in!

A NEW COURSE RECORD for female runners in the fourth annual Strides for Health & Fitness 5-kilometer run, held Saturday in Cumberland, was set by McHenry resident Jen Sober, who recorded a time of 19 minutes, 12 seconds, shattering by 47 seconds the previous mark set by Maureen Hall of LaVale in 2007. Sober, 37, was one of 107 finishers of the 5-K, which is sponsored by Progressive Physical Therapy & Sports Medicine Clinic, Cumberland. Placing a distant second among the women was 30-year-old Amy Rowan of Cumberland. Frostburg resident Dan DeWitt, 22, defended his title handily and also set a new course record with a time of 16:30, 16 seconds faster than his record-setting finish last year.

Back To School

Foundation/Overview.

•Slow down and follow the speed limit. Whether in a school zone or residential neighborhood, motorists should keep their speed low and be prepared to stop quickly for school buses and for increased vehicle or pedestrian traffic. Many school zones now employ speed cameras to slow down traffic to further help protect children as they head to and from school.

•Come to a complete stop at intersections with stop signs. Research shows that more than one third of drivers roll through stop signs in school zones or neighborhoods.

•Scan between parked cars. Nearly 40 percent of child pedestrian fatalities occurred between the hours of 4 p.m. and 8 p.m., mostly at non-intersection locations, according to NHTSA. Children can quickly dart out between parked cars or other objects along the roadway. Motorists should pay close attention not only at intersections, but along any residential roadways where children could be present.

•Always stop for loading or unloading school busses. it may be tempting to drive around stopped school busses, but not only is it dangerous, it's against the law. Flashing yellow lights on a school bus indicate it is preparing to stop to load or unload children, and motorists should slow down and prepare to stop. Red flashing lights and extended stop arms indicate the bus has stopped, and children are getting on and off. Motorists are required to stop their vehicles from either direction of the road, and wait until the red lights stop flashing, the extended stop sign is withdrawn and the bus begins moving before they can start driving again.

•Eliminate driver distraction. Motorists should always avoid distractions while driving, but it's particularly important in school zones and residential neighborhoods. Looking away from the roadway for just two seconds doubles the chance of being involved in a crash. Avoid talking on mobile phones, adjusting the radio or any other activities that might take attention away from the roadway. Never text while driving, which is against the law in Maryland.

•Plan ahead and allot extra travel time. Leave early for your destination and build in extra time for congestion. Modify your route to avoid school zones and traffic.

The Mid-Atlantic Foundation for Safety and Education also urges parents and caregivers to instruct children in the "A-B-Cs" of traffic safety:

A – Always obey school crossing guards and AAA school safety patrols.

B – Look both ways every time you cross the street.

C – Use crosswalks and corners to cross the roads even when cars are not around.

D – Don't run or rush, and do remember that drivers can't always see you.

E – Even and especially when it is raining, snowing, or cold, follow the safety rules.

F – Face it: You are no match for a car. They are faster and bigger, and they can be a danger to kids, so watch out!

The Mid-Atlantic Foundation for Safety and Education is a non-profit, 501(c)(3), tax-exempt corporation dedicated to educating, training, and raising the level of traffic and travel safety awareness for all.

NCA Honors Four SHS Cheerleaders With All-American

The award recipients were Jennifer Feaster, Justine DelSignore, Sara Harvey, and Sara King. Seniors DelSignore and King are both two-time All-Americans, while this was the third such honor for junior Feaster. It was the first such designation for Harvey, who is a senior.

The camp was sponsored by the NCA, the oldest and largest cheerleading organization of its kind in the country, according to head coach Harry Biggs. In addition, the coaching staff received in-depth coach's training from the NCA staff. The cheerleaders were given instruction in several key areas including chanting, cheers, dancing, and stunting. Biggs also stated that the NCA camp is one of the highlights for the year.

"What we learned at this camp will be used throughout the fall and winter sports seasons," said Biggs. "Some years our squad has cheered at as many as 60 different sports events during that span of time. NCA camp helps us to better prepare in order to meet the demands of our busy schedule."

Serving as his assistant coach once again is his wife Angie Biggs. This is the couple's eleventh year as the squad's leaders. They will be assisted by Marci Biggs and Hana Smith who are both alumni of the Southern squad. Marci Biggs is a former NCA All-American and was a captain for the 2002-2003 team. She has served as one of the squad's assistant coaches for the last four years.

Smith was a captain for the 2006-2007 group and she received NCA All-American honors twice. This past year, she was a member of the Indiana University of Pennsylvania (IUP) Cheerleading Squad.

The All-American designation is the highest award given by the NCA. Persons who receive this honor are entitled to attend several other NCA activities during the coming year. On the last day of camp, the squad received an invitation from the NCA to compete in its national competition that will be held in Dallas, Texas later this year. Due to the team's extra heavy winter sports' schedule, Biggs is undecided as to whether the team will be able to compete at the national event.

'Our squad's main priority is to the Southern High athletic program. We may consider doing something like this at a less hectic time during the school year and at a closer location," said Biggs. "However, we are both humbled and proud to have received an invitation from such an outstanding organization as the National Cheerleading Association. We unquestionably have a super group of talented & dedicated young ladies, who all worked very hard to earn such honors and recognition."

The entire squad and coaching staff expressed appreciation to Fred and Tammy Fulk, the owners of the North Glade Inn, for allowing the team to use the Inn.

Short-Term Class A CDL Training To Be Offered In G'Ville

Garrett College is now accepting applications for the next series of courses geared toward training individuals to obtain a Class A, commercial driver's license (CDL) in a short time frame. Classes will be held at the Mountaintop Truck Driving Institute, Grantsville.

Two start dates are set for the weekday training, Sept. 7 or 2, and Sept. 11 for the weekend session. It will encompass 210 hours (30 days) of training. The weekday option will be offered in a 7.5 week timeframe, Monday through Thursday, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. The weekend option runs five weeks, on Saturdays and Sundays, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

This program offers a professional truck driving curriculum for the purpose of qualifying students for entry level positions as drivers in over-the-road or local driving vehicles. The short-term training is an intense, fast-paced program, according to Terry Beachy, the institute's director.

Students will receive instruction in pre-trip inspection, various skills in the yard, and over-the-road instruction, along with a basic overview of map reading and log books.

At the completion of training, students will be taken to demonstrate at their local Motor Vehicle Administration facility to obtain a Class A license. No prior education or experience with trucks is required.

The entry requirements are as follows: proof of high school diploma (transcript), GED, or passing score on his/her ASSET test, must currently possess a valid license and be 18 years of age, must be able to pass a Department of Transportation (DOT) physical and drug screen, and must communicate in the English language sufficiently, as required by DOT.

"Many of today's truck drivers enjoy being their own boss and having the benefit of seeing the country," Beachy said. "Numerous students have jobs even before their training is completed. In just a few short weeks one can be on one's way to a new job, a bigger paycheck, and a better way of life. One company, in particular starts graduates at a guaranteed 50K their first year."

For more information, persons may contact Beachy at 301-895-4700.

Financial Focus
Can You Save for Retirement and College?

As another school year approaches, you may be thinking about the day in which you'll be sending your children off to college. Can you afford to help them pay for school while still saving for your own retirement?

There are many strategies to explore when saving for your retirement and your child's education. To implement the right mix of options, it's important to discuss your situation with a professional financial advisor, but here are some options to consider.

• Contribute to your 401(k). Since many people don't have unlimited funds available to save for retirement and college, it's important to get the most mileage possible from the money invested. Try to utilize the tax-advantaged retirement accounts available to you. For starters, contribute as much as you can afford to your 401(k) or other employer-sponsored retirement plan. Not only can your earnings grow on a tax-deferred basis, but your contributions are generally made with pretax dollars, so the more you contribute, the lower your annual taxable income — which, in turn, could give you more disposable income to invest for college. In 2010, you can contribute up to $16,500 to your 401(k), or $22,000 if you're 50 or older.

• Fund your IRA. Depending on your income level, your contributions to a traditional IRA may also lower your taxable income, again potentially freeing up resources for college. Plus, your earnings can grow tax deferred. If you qualify for a Roth IRA, your contributions are not tax-deductible, but your earnings grow tax free. Withdrawals are also tax-free, provided you've held your account at least five years and you don't start taking withdrawals until you're at least age 59½. Also, you can withdraw Roth IRA contributions without paying taxes (since you've already been taxed on this money), so you could use these funds, if necessary, to help pay for college costs, although ideally you'd like to leave your account untouched until you retire. If eligible, you can contribute up to $5,000 to your traditional or Roth IRA in 2010, or $6,000 if you're 50 or older.

• Open a 529 college savings plan. Contributions to a 529 plan are made with after-tax dollars. However, when you contribute to a 529 plan, your earnings grow tax free. Withdrawals are also tax-free, provided they are used for qualified higher education expenses. (Withdrawals for expenses other than qualified higher education expenditures may be subject to federal and state taxes plus a 10% penalty.) Furthermore, 529 plan contributions may be eligible for a state tax deduction or credit in certain states for residents who participate in their own state's plan. Also, the lifetime contribution limits for 529 plans are quite generous, and you can gift $13,000 per year, per beneficiary, without incurring gift taxes. To make sure you understand the tax ramifications of a 529 plan, you'll want to consult with your tax advisor.

It may not be easy to put away as much as we'd like for retirement and college. But you do have some attractive savings and investment options. Don't delay, because when saving for any goal, time is a great ally.

Gregan Crawford

While campaigning over many weeks, I have had the great experience of meeting and listening to the concerns and issues of our citizens and communities and I will continue to do so. It is important for the ideas of the people to be heard and addressed. As shown throughout history and the founding of our country, any government that does not reflect the views of its people will eventually fail.

Trust

In order for us to be successful, trust is vital, and it requires leadership which is accessible and willing to conduct our governmental affairs with respect, openness, honesty, and accountability. As a Commissioner, I will come to your community to listen to your views, ideas, and concerns with an open mind. It will be my job to be a steward of your government.

Taxes

Years of easy growth and large tax windfalls can bring about easy spending. Spending on capital projects must come into alignment with our needs, wants, and most importantly our necessities. With an unsettled economy, spending on large discretionary capital investment projects must be carefully contemplated so that the impact of cost vs. benefit is clearly understood and the timing is also justifiable. Our county government cannot, indefinitely, rely on raising property taxes to aid in balancing our budget; in doing so, the financial impact and burden to all Garrett County property owners increase. Developing a broader more diverse tax base "off the lake" will become a greater priority.

Jobs

Complacency must never be accepted in regard to job creation and population growth. Education is an important component of economic development as well as capital expenditures that are targeted to infrastructure relevant to low impact industries that we desire in our community in order to aid in the creation of livable wage jobs and population growth. The county cannot afford a loss of skilled or professional talent, or a loss of potential talent of young adults leaving and not returning to Garrett County until the time of their retirement. I will work to aggressively market the attributes which I believe to be our people, our resources, and our geographic location in order that our communities can remain viable and become more resilient.

Your concerns about the decisions and actions of our county government are wide ranging, well founded, and insightful and I thank you for taking the time to share them with me in this election season. If you are content with those actions and decisions of our incumbent commissioners then your choice as to whom to vote for is easy this September; if you are not then I ask for your vote and support.

I feel thankful to live Garrett County which is a unique tableland community, and I am proud to call it my home.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

A new reality celebrity has arrived: the male flight attendant who got hit on the head by a carry-on bag, then went ballistic and deployed the emergency exit, grabbed a beer, and slid down the emergency exit chute.

I guess he didn't remember that jobs of any kind are very hard to get, especially as good a job as flight attendant. They are well-paid, and not the most difficult in the world. He doesn't deserve to find another. Most jobs have some frustrating and anger-provoking moments, but now he has become a "folk hero."

I was investigating the possibility that I could get a Medicare supplement. But it would be way too much for me to afford: $350 per month.

We need to send a clear message about the kind of nation America is. We are strong and brave, and need to take the founding principles that are the basis of America and build on them.

How different we are than the people who attacked us on Sept. 11. Americans are courageous and dedicated to our principles, like freedom of religion.

Nothing says it more clearly than this: You can attack Americans, but you can't defeat them. That is why it is important to rebuild the Twin Towers, just as they were on Sept. 10, 2001. That is more important than whether an Islamic community center is built a few blocks from Ground Zero.

I wish they'd stop calling that place Ground Zero, and call it what it used to be known as: the World Trade Center. No one will ever forget the event that morning in September nine years ago. But instead of looking backward, we should look ahead, and find a way for the many faiths across the world, often living side by side in Manhattan, to get along.

We need to look at ourselves as Americans and look hard at the many Muslim communities across the nation. It is wonderful that they're having a program at Emmanuel Lutheran Church here in Bittinger that focuses on the world's religions. The topic for the next session, set for Sept. 4, will be Islam.

We are now pulling our combat troops out of Iraq, but the Iraqi people are a little nervous about that because there is still no legitimate or effective government to ensure the basic needs of the people, like electricity and water. They did hold an election a few years ago, but still no leader has clearly emerged yet.

Sept. 11, 2001, was a dark day, although it was a beautiful sunny morning. But on that day, the Statue of Liberty was not dimmed. It is still shining brightly for anyone who looks closely.

When I used to live in Manhattan, I was only a reasonably easy walking distance from the Twin Towers. But in some ways, I wished I had lived at the historic immigrants' center (Lower East Side), where the waves of Eastern European Jewish refugees had escaped from the threat posed by Hitler.

Hitler targeted almost anyone who he believed was a possible threat to his power, such as teachers (especially professors), and writers of all kinds, but especially journalists, plus any minority group; not just Jews, but also Gypsies and homosexuals.

I made a costume for Richard Gere for a role he would play in the Broadway show Bent, about a homosexual person on his way to a concentration camp. I had to hand-paint the faded black and white stripes typical of prison attire. I guess they couldn't find a fabric with the right size and shade of the black stripes. A photograph of Gere wearing my costume appeared in Newsweek.

Did you learn about Bloody Sunday in your high school American history class? I doubt it. You probably memorized names and dates, but there was little or no discussion about events like Bloody Sunday.

A group of peaceful marchers on the way to Mississippi's state capital crossed a bridge, and at the end of the bridge were greeted by a hail of bullets fired by sheriff's deputies. Who would hold those law keepers accountable? Not the local government or the state government.

But those marchers were American citizens who were protected by the American Constitution as a result of the 14th amendment. That was in the very early 1960s, and many thousands of Americans saw it on the evening news. It changed how many viewed race in America.

We still see so many people who need justice. That is what is at stake in the current fight in the California court about same gender marriage.

Gender identity is not as simple as what many believe, as some people feel that they were born in a wrong-gender body. Others have found themselves sexually attracted to someone of the same gender, even though they fight long and hard against it. But we cannot always change such things.

For example, you can't choose who you will fall in love with. I had a dear male friend, and I spent decades as a close friend to him. Maybe I should have married him, but that's not who I am.

One of them told me after his painful divorce that he was finished with love: fall in love, fall out of love, fall in love, fall out of love... I have had about 10 years without the love of a husband. That is too long.

Most of the news on ESPN is about pre-season football. And we saw some action from the Steelers' new backup quarterback. He did fine. Anyway, the Steelers beat the Lions by a decent margin.

I still hate to see summer going away so fast.

I am pleased to see signs of recovery from Tiger Woods. I did not support his binge of unfaithfulness to his wife. But he seems to feel bad about it. It certainly has affected his golf game. Maybe his success came too soon and too easily. It is hoped that this setback taught him some valuable lessons.

I am watching a special about education in America and why it fails so many students and why so many drop out of high school.

I asked my Caitlin what percentage of kids from her class dropped out and why. One big reason is that they don't like school or believe that they can succeed with it. Or they don't have a real role model who expected the best from them. Too many parents don't value education, or realize how important it is for their children's future success.

A high school degree is the absolute minimum way to get a decent job. There is a chance that one can go into certain trades without much education, but those kinds of jobs are getting fewer and fewer.

Any parent who hopes his/her child will succeed must take on the first essential task as parents. They must work to convince their children that anything is possible for them. They should do activities with them, and try to assure them that they have lots of ability. It is unwise to focus on sports over everything else.

Parents need to talk to their children as much as possible, and about everything. Watch the news with them, and talk to them about what you see. Tell them about your life – what you did or didn't do, and why.

The more you talk to your children, the more you give them something fundamentally important. It helps them to think and not just accept whatever someone tells them to think.

We do not have as many wonderful museums as D.C. or New York City. But even around here, there are opportunities to expose children to the world outside their own back yard.

I remember how much I enjoyed the visit by my family to the Springs Museum. It is full of treasures of all kinds. And the Garrett County Historical Society has the Garrett County Historical Museum in Oakland. Plus, it is only a short drive to Fort Necessity in Pennsylvania, where a visit can make history come alive.

Since lots of my mother's SCOUTS EARN SPORT FISHING PIN – Cub Scouts and siblings from Swanton recently participated in a fishing program led by Mark Spurrier at the Deep Creek Lake State Park Discovery Center. The program included learning about local fishing regulations, the types of fishing equipment, the parts of a fish, how to properly bait a hook, and how to cast correctly. Each participant constructed a simple pole and line fishing rig, and then used the rig to compete in a fishing tournament. Skyler Beckman caught the first fish. Beckman, Colby Eilerman, and Justin Shafer landed the most fish. The largest fish was caught by Jalen Beeman. Each participating Scout earned a Cub Scout Sport Fishing belt loop and pin. Anyone interested in joining Cub Scouts may contact Cub master Rick Eilerman at 301-359-3666. Pictured above are the Scouts, siblings, and leaders. In the front, from left to right are Jarrett Miller, Jett Miller, Skyler Beckman, Conrad Pfaff, Madison Spurrier, Oliver Tesar, and Jalen Beeman. Middle row: Zachary Spurrier, Colby Eilerman, Justin Shafer, Gertrude Tesar, and Peter Tesar. Back row: Mark Spurrier, Cub master Eilerman, and Wolf den leader Jamie Beeman.

Dear wonderful friends and neighbors:
Well, Dear Readers:
MY U-HAUL IS ALMOST FULL, and I still haven't packed my clothes and shoes.
Sooooo! I will be keeping the store open thru Autumn Glory.
A series of blessings have come my way lately and my sale has run so well that I want to keep it going! I am definitely going to reduce some of the items some more and I have a few more things that just won't fit in the U-Haul that are coming into the store.
Some things like artwork and mirrors will be half off.
Some rugs and lamps even more! You really have to stop in!

Summer Car Rides Can Be Deadly Journeys For Pets

by Deb Clatterbuck, GG Humane Society volunteer investigator

In a car parked outside a major store chain in Frederick on July 6, Delta, a 14-year-old yellow Labrador retriever succumbed. The dog died of heart failure brought on by hyperthermia "overheating."

The outside temperature that day was 104 degrees. The owner was charged with animal cruelty after Delta died in her arms.

Garrett County is also dealing with deadly car rides. As the outside temperatures reach unprecedented heights, animal welfare organizations receive an average of three to six calls a day about animals in heat-induced distress.

A call came in from a concerned citizen on an 87-degree day in the middle of July. The caller had seen a dog inside a car and called the police. They, in turn, called the Garrett County Humane Society.

Despite the fact that the car windows were cracked about two inches, when I arrived the dog could not stand up on its own and had stopped panting – a very dangerous sign.

I opened the car door of the SUV and removed the little Chihuahua mix that was already suffering the effects of severe heat exhaustion, and was approaching heat stroke. The dog was no longer panting or trying to lower its own body temperature.

I was applying cold water compresses and encouraging the little dog to lick water from my fingers. After about 20 minutes the owners returned and were shocked to find out that their dog was within a few minutes of dying from heat stroke.

Now that the "dog days" of summer are here, the papers are full of heart-breaking stories of children and animals dying every day, even on days when the temperature does not rise above 80 degrees.

A study conducted by the Animal Protection Institute showed that even moderate temperatures can lead to deadly extremes inside a closed car. This information is based on the findings of Stanford University research, which demonstrated that even on a 71 degree day with the windows cracked, the temperature inside a car left in the sun rocketed to 116 degrees.

The Stanford study was precipitated by the dramatic increase in fatalities caused by leaving children in cars during the summer.

The web site mydogiscool.com/weather_form.php offers pet owners a page titled "Is it too hot?" After entering the ZIP code of the area they plan to visit, the site will specifically indicate which days are too dangerous for pet owners to have their "best friends" with them.

To make sure that our beloved animals do not suffer, GCHS animal control officer Denise Lohr offers the following advice:

"On hot days, leave your pet at home. People never start out to have their animal die in the heat, but everyone always underestimates how long it takes to 'run into the store for a few minutes.' The average time for those '15 minute trips' is an hour – and in that amount of time your pet will be beyond help."

After thanking the members of the community who make the pets-in-car reports, the officer added, "If you see an animal in heat distress, please report it to the store owner, providing the make of the car, color, and license plate. Carrying two sets of keys will allow you to leave your car running with the AC on and lock the doors. Knowingly leaving an animal in a car on a hot day constitutes an animal cruelty charge."

If you see an animal in any kind of distress, please call the GCHS at 301-334-4470.

Adorable Adoptables

MANY HOMELESS ANIMALS are available for adoption at the Garrett County Animal Shelter this week. They include a male yellow Lab mix (above left) and a female mix (above right). They are just two of the more than 25 pets that were obtained from a person who could not care for them. Also at the shelter are a long-haired gray/white tuxedo feline and a large male boxer mix (below right) with one blue eye and one brown eye that was picked up along Madigan Lane in Deer Park. A few adult cats were adopted from the shelter last week, according to a Humane Society spokeswoman. "Please make sure your pets have ID tags, rabies shots, and food, water, and shelter," she added. For more information about these and other possible pets, persons may call the shelter at 301-334-3553. Located along Oakland Sang Run Road, the facility is open Monday through Friday.

Back To School Night Slated At Little Meadows

A "Back to School Night" is planned at Little Meadows Camp Ground, Grantsville, on Friday, Aug. 20 from 6 to 8:30 p.m.

The guest speaker will be Lt. Rob Corley from the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, who will address the issue of bullying.

Any school age child from kindergarten through 12th grade and their parents are invited to attend the free event. The evening is tobacco, alcohol, and drug free.

Some school supplies will be available, and there will be hay rides, walking tacos, and s'mores.

family settled in Virginia, we often combined family visits with a trip to many of the Civil War battlegrounds.

Pittsburgh is also not that far away, and has some fine museums. Closer to home is the Discovery Center at Deep Creek Lake State Park.

It is also a valuable learning opportunity to study the world's religions, which is what they are doing for the next five or six Wednesdays at 7 p.m. in the education building at Emmanuel Lutheran Church in Bittinger.

Last weekend we had rollercoaster weather. The heat was almost unbearable until mid-evening, when it was fully unbearable. I am writing this on the Sunday evening before it will print on Thursday. But only a few times has it felt this hot just as it is starting to get dark.

Last night I had one of the worst night's sleep ever, mainly because the air is so hot, but the fan blowing on me felt too cold. When I got up this morning, it seemed almost cold enough to put on a long-sleeved shirt for a few hours. We did have a good rain this morning. I guess that is why it feels so horribly humid. So I took my shirt off, and now I am feeling chilly.

The shrimp boats have returned to the Gulf. The Food and Drug Administration tested the seafood there and found no evidence of contamination. So let's hope American consumers will buy it. I would if I could afford shrimp. But if shrimp from the Gulf is available at a reasonable price, now is the time to buy some.

I sometimes don't understand certain things about American society. One is the popularity of motor sports. I wouldn't even go to our fairgrounds to watch a NASCAR race.

A truck veered into a crowd of spectators this week and killed eight persons. The guy I heard interviewed today said that what appealed to him was the danger of just being a spectator. That does not make any kind of sense to me.

I do understand the thrill of participating in a risky sport. I thoroughly enjoyed the cross-country phase of the equine three-phase event. It is quite a bit more dangerous than any other jumping competition, because the obstacles are very solid, like a four-foot high and seven-foot wide jump built with telephone poles bolted together.

And it is taken at high speeds, too, with most going close to 30 miles per hour. If you collide with that kind of barrier at that speed, or if your horse makes a bad mistake, you can get hurt badly.

Look at what happened to Christopher Reeve when his horse stopped at a jump that was not that difficult, and not at top speed, either. Reeve became paralyzed from the neck down.

Another thing I don't get is the attraction of exploding things, whether it is a big gun, fireworks, or even just firecrackers. But I know a fairly close neighbor of mine does enjoy it. Last Sunday evening I heard a whole bunch of explosives, and wonder why they turned a beautiful quiet summer evening into what seemed like the 4th of July.

Today is Aug. 17, a very important date in my life. It is my oldest daughter Claire's birthday. I can't believe it has been 24 years since she was born.

When I found out that I was pregnant, I was not sure how I felt about it, because pregnancy puts some unpleasant limits on lots of things that I always did easily.

I remember a day when I needed to drive out in the hayfield, and I couldn't fit in the driver's seat of the pickup because my belly was too big. That was the week before Claire arrived.

I became obsessed with making and canning as much homemade applesauce as possible. Our very old yellow transparent apple tree produced the best apples in the world for applesauce, so I wanted as much as possible to feed to my baby.

My childhood playmate Sally Beachy Poholsky and I were in childbirth classes together. She delivered Torrey about two or so weeks before Claire arrived.

Nothing prepared me for labor pain. I only heard someone say after she was born, "It's like pulling your lip up over your head." That's a pretty good description. Someone also said that it's like trying to pass a watermelon.

Natural childbirth seems sensible. After all, thousands of women gave birth over the centuries without a hospital or pain medication. But quite a few also died in the process.

No one died from pain, but I felt like I would. Claire didn't want to leave her comfortable nesting place inside me. They had to use forceps to pull her, and once unstuck, she came out in a fast whoosh.

When Dr. Pope held her up to show her to me, she looked directly into my eyes. She had the most beautiful sapphire blue eyes. Many people told me that she was the most beautiful newborn baby they ever saw, mainly because she didn't have the usual cone-head appearance like most newborns.

That was because her head was so hard, which was also the major reason my labor was hard. But she was perfect in every way, and a very healthy newborn. I fell in love instantly. It seems too soon that she is all grown up and off her own in Arlington, Va.

The Glottelty twins and Emma Bass are back at Towson University, and my two girls will head back to West Virginia. Their classes will start on Monday. I can't stand to see them go away. Not that I see much of them. It seems like their work schedules were every day, all day.

Altar flowers at Emmanuel last Sunday were given by Gary and Sharon Buckel in memory of Joe and Rose Buckel on their 65th wedding anniversary.

The Bittinger Parish will hold its annual picnic this Sunday, Aug. 22, at the 4-H Center near Bittinger. A worship service will be held at 10 a.m., followed by the picnic. Hot dogs, buns, and condiments will be provided. Pastor Randy invites everyone to attend, and to bring a friend and a covered dish.

Summer Reading Club Ends At Ruth Enlow Libraries

Summer Reading Club 2010 has ended at the Ruth Enlow Library, with a total system-wide attendance of 782 children. This year's theme for youngsters was 'Make a Splash at Your Library," and all programs centered on the topic of water. The theme for teens was "Make Waves at Your Library."

Topics such as sailing, boating, kayaking, water animals, watercolors, and water sanitation were among the programs during the Summer Reading Club. Most of the programs were presented by volunteers from the community.

The Oakland and Accident libraries sponsored a Family Reading Partnership, where participants filled out one raffle ticket for each hour spent reading as a family. A drawing for a Family Night Fun Basket was then held at both libraries, with Jacob Reichard (mom Lori) winning in Oakland and Calvin Harman (mom Elaine) winning in Accident. The baskets contained gift cards to local establishments, games, crafts, DVDs, and other items, all donated by local organizations, businesses, and an anonymous donor in Accident.

The Downtown Partnership in Baltimore, a new collaborator with Summer Reading Club this year, donated an annual family pass to each participating public library in Maryland. The Ruth Enlow Library received a pass to the Port Discovery Children's Museum, which was awarded via a raffle drawing to the Hazelwood family of Oakland – Josh, Danielle, Madison, and Briella. Madison and Briella attended seven out of eight Summer Reading Club programs in Oakland.

Aidan DeWitt and Alexander Hastmann won the $25.00 Book Mark'et gift certificates at the Oakland Library. And during the reading club series, a number of children who were "caught reading" in the Accident or Oakland Library received recognition. Staff members who noticed children reading in the library gave them each a "caught reading" coupon, which then could be redeemed for a prize.

Nick and Will Meagher, sons of Kathy and Bill Meagher, represented Garrett County during the Aug. 16 Orioles home game. The Baltimore team, a supporter of Summer Reading Club, acknowledged representatives from all participating Maryland Public Library systems on the field that evening at Camden Yards.

"The Ruth Enlow Library sincerely thanks everyone who contributed to the success of Summer Reading Club – volunteers, presenters, and donors," said a library spokesperson. "Without the dedication and support of these people, this program would not be possible."

Significant funding was received from the Friends of the Ruth Enlow Library. Other local businesses and organizations who contributed gifts or funds to the program include Annie's Kitchen, Book Mark'et, Browning's Foodland, Cove Run Farms Corn Maze, Fairfax Materials, Fox's Pizza Den, Funland, Lakeside Creamery, Ledo's Pizza, McDonald's, Oak-Lee Dairyland, Our Town Theatre, Schoolhouse Earth, Smiley's Fun Zone, Taco Bell, Wal-Mart, Wendy's Towne Restaurant, and an anonymous donor from Accident.

The library also expressed appreciation to the Baltimore Orioles for the contribution of tickets to a home game and the Downtown Partnership in Baltimore for the annual family pass.

Summer Reading Club is a yearly, cooperative project between the local Maryland public libraries and the Maryland State Department of Education's Division of Library Development and Services. The state also is a member of the Collaborative Summer Library Program, a grassroots consortium of states working together to provide high-quality summer reading program materials for children at the lowest cost possible for their public libraries.

The Ruth Enlow Library web site at www.relib.net may be accessed online services and a calendar of events.

Ceremony Marks Opening of New GC Career Center

A ribbon-cutting ceremony on Tuesday marked the opening of the newest Garrett College facility, the Career Technology & Training Center (CTTC), located in the Central Garrett Industrial Park in Accident. The event was the culmination of a three-year collaborative effort of planning, designing, and building. The project involved input and funding at the county, state, and federal levels.

Julie Yoder, interim dean of Continuing Education & Workforce Development at Garrett College, welcomed guests to the inaugural event and introduced the speakers, who represented the officials, agencies, and businesses instrumental in the CTTC project.

Guest speakers included Garrett College president Dr. Richard MacLennan; director of Garrett County Economic Development Jim Hinebaugh; Garrett County commissioners Ernie Gregg, Dennis Glotfelty, and Fred Holliday; state Senator George Edwards; Robin Summerfield, field representative for U.S. Senator Benjamin Cardin; Julianna Albowicz, field representative for U.S. Senator Barbara Mikulski; Vickie Swink of the Maryland Department of Economic Development; executive director of the Garrett College Foundation Fred Learey; project manager, CRA Architects Adam Abraham; Willis Beitzel of Beitzel Corporation; assistant director of Garrett County Economic Development Frank Shapp; and Tom Vent, husband of the late JoAnn Vent, to whom Phase II of the CTTC project will be dedicated.

Dr. MacLennan thanked everyone who contributed to this endeavor. He underscored the importance of this new training facility to the long-term goals of the college. "Our mission is to make education accessible to everyone in the county. We will strive to match local training needs with local business demands," he said.

Hinebaugh noted that the initiation of the second phase of the Garrett County Scholarship program targeting occupational studies directly coincides with the opening of the CTTC and further increasing opportunities for county residents. "We have expanded access to higher education which will better prepare our students for employment. We are growing our skill base in Garrett County," he said.

Each of the county commissioners underscored this importance of the training facility for those students seeking a career in the trades. They all noted that providing appropriate training for local jobs will allow the young people of Garrett County to remain here as part of the workforce.

Sen. Edwards noted that it was fitting that this unique facility be located in the Central Garrett Industrial Park, which was the first industrial park established in Garrett County. He recognized the participation of local business leaders involved in bringing this project to fruition. "The new scholarship programs and this training center will greatly benefit the Garrett County workforce," he said.

Albowicz read a letter from Sen. Mikulski congratulating the people of Garrett County for this "cutting edge" achievement. She commended the vision of the county commissioners, educators, and business leaders.

Summerfield delivered a message from Sen. Cardin, who had recently visited the site. "The senator was blown away by the commitment to this project and the exemplary cooperation of all those involved," he said.

Initiated by the Garrett County Department of Economic Development, the plans for the CTTC began in fall 2007. Engineering and architectural design for the center was undertaken in 2008, with construction startmg mid 2009. The site of the CTTC is the original Phenix Technology complex, built in 1976 and purchased by Garrett County government in 2005.

Phase 1 of the project, which included the design, renovations, and construction of 16,000 square feet of the former manufacturing facility, was completed in July 2010. Phase 2 of the CTTC project is slated to begin in fall 2010, and will include the design, development, construction, and furnishing of a flexible classroom space designed to accommodate energy, technology, and trades-related courses.

Funding for Phase 1 of the CTTC was secured from the Maryland Department of Business and Economic Development in the amount of $1,000,000, the Garrett County commissioners in the amount of $900,000, and the Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC) in the amount of $200,000. Phase II funding comprises $400,000 from the Garrett County commissioners and $400,000 from the ARC.

one mile from the start point would have an "address" of 1000.

"That data is then plotted in the 9-1-1 Center's computer aided dispatch equipment and relates the dock location to the nearest land address," Carpenter said.

The total cost of the project is $14,000, shared equally between the county and the state. Garrett County was able to secure funding for its portion of the project from the state Emergency Numbering System Board's trust fund.

In Loving Memory of

who passed away
August 14, 2007

The angels gathered near your bad so very close to you.
For they knew the pain and suffering that you were going through.
We thought about so many things, as we held tightly to your hand.
Oh, how we wished that you ware strong and happy once again.
But your eyes were looking homeware to that place beyond the sky
Where Jesus held His outstretched arms, it was time to say goodbye.
We struggled with our foolish thoughts, for we wanted you to stay.
So we could walk and talk again, like we did just yesterday.
But Jesus know tha answer, and we knew He loved you so.
So we gave to you life's greatest gift, the gift of letting go.
When the angels came to take you home, you opened your eyes.
Jesus said, "It's time to let go, come and sit here by my side."
The moment you died our hearts split in two.
One side filled with the momories, the other side died with you.
You left behind our broken hearts, and cherished memories too.
But we never wanted memories, wa only wanted you.
Most days are so hard to get through.
But in our darkest hoar, wa tell oursalves we'll see you again soon.
You will never be forgotten, you are always missed and loved dearly.

"The new scholarship programs and this training center will greatly benefit the Garrett County workforce," he said.

Albowicz read a letter from Sen. Mikulski congratulating the people of Garrett County for this "cutting edge" achievement. She commended the vision of the county commissioners, educators, and business leaders.

Summerfield delivered a message from Sen. Cardin, who had recently visited the site. "The senator was blown away by the commitment to this project and the exemplary cooperation of all those involved," he said.

Initiated by the Garrett County Department of Economic Development, the plans for the CTTC began in fall 2007. Engineering and architectural design for the center was undertaken in 2008, with construction startmg mid 2009. The site of the CTTC is the original Phenix Technology complex, built in 1976 and purchased by Garrett County government in 2005.

Phase 1 of the project, which included the design, renovations, and construction of 16,000 square feet of the former manufacturing facility, was completed in July 2010. Phase 2 of the CTTC project is slated to begin in fall 2010, and will include the design, development, construction, and furnishing of a flexible classroom space designed to accommodate energy, technology, and trades-related courses.

Funding for Phase 1 of the CTTC was secured from the Maryland Department of Business and Economic Development in the amount of $1,000,000, the Garrett County commissioners in the amount of $900,000, and the Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC) in the amount of $200,000. Phase II funding comprises $400,000 from the Garrett County commissioners and $400,000 from the ARC.

Crabtree, Rohrbaugh, and Associates of Mechanicsburg, Pa., provided architectural services for the project. Beitzel Corporation of Grantsville completed the renovations and construction.

Correction Noted

In a news release received last week concerning the Garrett County Occupational Scholarship, there was an error about the eligibility of home-school curriculum. It should have stated that home-school students are eligible if their portfolio was reviewed by the Garrett County Board of Education.

one mile from the start point would have an "address" of 1000.

"That data is then plotted in the 9-1-1 Center's computer aided dispatch equipment and relates the dock location to the nearest land address," Carpenter said.

The total cost of the project is $14,000, shared equally between the county and the state. Garrett County was able to secure funding for its portion of the project from the state Emergency Numbering System Board's trust fund.

In Loving Memory of

who passed away
August 14, 2007

The angels gathered near your bad so very close to you.
For they knew the pain and suffering that you were going through.
We thought about so many things, as we held tightly to your hand.
Oh, how we wished that you were strong and happy once again.
But your eyes were looking homeward to that place beyond the sky
Where Jesus held His outstretched arms, it was time to say goodbye.
We struggled with our foolish thoughts, for we wanted you to stay.
So we could walk and talk again, like we did just yesterday.
But Jesus knew the answer, and we knew He loved you so.
So we gave to you life's greatest gift, the gift of letting go.
When the angels came to take you home, you opened your eyes Jesus said, "It's time to let go, come and sit here by my side."
The moment you died our hearts split in two.
One side filled with the memories, the other side died with you.
You left behind our broken haarts, and cherished memories too
But we never wanted memorias, wo only wanted you.
Most days are so hard to get through.
But in our darkest hour, we tell ourselves we'll see you again soon.
You will never be forgotten, you are always missed and loved dearly.

BACK TO SCHOOL

Wednesday, August 25

please, use extra caution!

As another school year begins, the streets will once again be full of kids traveling to and from school. Drivers, please beware! Just one lapse in concentration – whether reaching for a cup of coffee or adjusting the volume on the stereo – is all it takes for a driver to miss seeing a child dart into the street or a bus driver raise the stop sign. Don't let it happen to you. Always drive with caution in areas with school children and follow these steps.

- Watch out for children walking to and from school.
- Give pedestrians the right of way.
- Observe the speed limit, especially in school zones.
- Learn and obey the traffic rules of school zones.
- Understand and heed all school bus lights.
- Eliminate all distractions when driving in school zones.
- Know and follow the drop-off and pick-up procedures at school.

GARRETT MENTORS INC. SLATES SECOND ANNUAL BARN DANCE – Garrett Mentors Inc. (GMI) is planning its second annual Barn Dance and Silent Auction on Saturday, Sept. 18, at Ridgeview Valley in McHenry. The event will begin at 5 p.m. The ticket price of $25 ($16 of which is tax deductible) will provide a meal served by Jearbryo's including a barbecued chicken platter, corn on the cob, baked beans, corn bread, and iced tea or lemonade. Dance music will be provided by D.J. Jonny Rock. Pleasant Valley Dream Rides will be on site to provide horse-drawn carriage rides, and the silent auction will feature a wide variety of items donated by area businesses. A queen size, double wedding ring quilt will be raffled at the dance. Raffle tickets ($1 each or 6 for $5) and barn dance tickets are available at Marvin's in downtown Oakland, or by calling Tricia Cheesman, GMI executive director, at 301-334-1783. This fundraiser will benefit all of GMI's "study buddies" in Garrett County elementary schools. GMI is a non-profit mentoring organization that provides volunteer mentors who commit to visiting grade school children one hour per week to study, play games, help with various school projects, or talk. GMI's focus is academic, Cheesman said. The mentors include reading in some form with their study buddies every week. "Surveys prove that children who are mentored, one on one, have improved school attendance and grades," Cheesman said. She added that the studies also show the children get along better with peers and teachers, and show better attention in school. Persons who would like to volunteer with GMI may contact her at the number noted above. Pictured from left at last year's barn dance are Camille Spurr, Ed Spurr (president of GMI), and Debbie and Maury Feinstein.

Computer Classes Slated Next Month At Northern Center

Garrett College's Continuing Education and Workforce Development Division has scheduled two computer courses at the Northern Outreach Center, Grantsville, in September: "Navigating the Internet" and "Microsoft PowerPoint, Version 2007."

"Navigating the Internet" is set for Sept. 14, 15, and 21 from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. In this course, students will learn about the functions of the Internet for use of the World Wide Web, search engines and directories, social networking and bookmarking, blogs, wikis, and more.

Students will also learn research techniques and how to take advantage of the power of cloud computing.

The class will also include information on ways to reconnect with friends and family by sharing documents and photos, as well as planning vacations and making major purchases.

In addition, information will be provided on how to better defend one's computer against external threats.

"Microsoft PowerPoint" is scheduled from 6 to 9:15 p.m. on Tuesday and Wednesday, Sept. 28 and 29.

This course on PowerPoint 2007 is designed for those who are familiar with an earlier version of the program, as well as those who are new to the application altogether.

"Students will learn the skills to create 'dynamic' presentations by adding tables, graphics, notes, animations, and WordArt to slides," said a college spokesperson. "The course topics are appropriate to all PowerPoint users from beginner level through advanced."

In addition to the above mentioned classes, coming in October to the center are the following computer courses: "Managing and Maintaining Your Computer" and "Buying and Selling on eBay."

For additional information, persons may contact Terry Beachy, Northern Outreach Center coordinator, at 301-895-4700 or at terry.beachy@garrett-college.edu.

To register for these courses, one may call the Continuing Education and Workforce Development Division at 301-387-3069.

Ten-Week Class Offered To Help Stop Tobacco Use

The Garrett County Health Department will again offer free help to those wanting to quit tobacco use during a 10-week class beginning on Wednesday, Sept. 8, at 5:30 p.m. in the health department conference room.

Participants may receive up to three months of free cessation aids in the form of nicotine patches, nicotine gum, or the prescription drug Chantix. In addition, participants will receive a notebook with resources and educational material designed to help them come up with a quitting plan.

About half-way through the program, the health department's dietitian, Amy Ritchie, will conduct a presentation aimed at healthy eating habits and lifestyle changes. Ritchie explains that sometimes people who quit smoking substitute poor eating habits in place of the habit they just successfully quit. She also stresses the idea that slowly incorporating some kind of exercise program is a key to keeping the weight off.

"Nicotine is a stimulant, and when a person quits smoking his/her metabolism slows down. You need to exercise to offset this condition," said Ritchie.

"We have seen impressive results in our tobacco cessation program," said Kendra Todd, director of health education at the health department. "After six months, 51 percent of our class participants continue to be smoke-free and after one year, 39 percent are smoke-free. While this isn't as high as we'd like, the national average after six months is 25 to 33 percent, so we are doing better than most."

Participants also have access to the Maryland Tobacco Quitline at 1-800-QUIT-NOW. This quitline gives tobacco users access to a "quitting coach" for help seven days a week. The general public can use the hotline as well, which is funded by the Cigarette Restitution Fund Program.

Interested persons should call Mike Wilburn at 301-334-7730, 301-895-3111, or e-mail mwilburn@dhmh.state.md.us for more information or to register for the class.

Hospice Care Course Slated For Volunteers

Hospice of Garrett County Inc. will sponsor training classes for patient care volunteers beginning Sept. 7 and continuing through Oct. 12. Classes will be held Tuesday evenings from 6 to 9 p.m. at the Hospice Office, 69 Wolf Acres Drive, Oakland.

"We are in great need of patient care volunteers who provide companionship to terminally ill patients and respite to their families," said Brenda Butscher, Hospice executive director. "The volunteers may be asked to sit with the patient, run errands, help with meals or housekeeping."

The Hospice Bereavement Team stays in touch with the family for one year after the death of a loved one. They do mailings, home visits, and maintain a relationship with the family by telephone, Butscher noted.

The classes will begin on Sept 7 with Butscher presenting an overview of Hospice. Debbie Workman, volunteer coordinator, will also present "Working with the Volunteer Coordinator."

On Sept. 14, Cheryl Scheffel, director of clinical services, will speak on "Confidentiality, HIPAA & Patient Privacy," "Documentation," "Universal Precautions," Infection Control & Safety," "Signs & Symptoms of Approaching Death," "Personal Care," and "Sexual Abuse."

Nancy Elizabeth Nimmich, Hospice social worker, will teach "Listening Skills, Family Dynamics, and Stress Management" on Sept. 21.

Shirley Fitzwater, First United Bank & Trust, will present legal and financial planning information on Sept. 28. Following her presentation, the volunteers will travel to Garrett Rehab, where physical therapist Audrey Kennedy will train them on "transfer skills."

The group will tour Newman Funeral Home in Oakland on Oct. 5.

Training will conclude on Oct. 12 with a presentation on "Spiritual Aspects" presented by Pastor Randy Richardson, Hospice chaplain, and "Grief Counseling Skills" presented by Hospice bereavement director Millie O'Haver.

"Hospice extends an invitation to you to become a part of the Hospice team by becoming a patient care volunteer," Butscher said. "You will find working with the terminally ill and their families to be very rewarding. Keep in mind that doing good for others is doing good for yourself."

To register or obtain more information, persons may call the Hospice office at 301-334-5151. The those in the Grantsville area may dial 1-800-521-5252.

Guest Speaker At Women's Gathering Slated For Aug. 21

Agape, A Gathering of Women, will meet at St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, Oakland, at 10 a.m. this Saturday, Aug. 21. Barbara Maniha, LCSW, will be the speaker and will address the topic of forgiveness.

Maniha is a member of the Diocesan Commission for the Prevention of Sexual Misconduct, a trainer for churches on the prevention of child abuse and adult misconduct for the Diocese of Virginia. She is a psychotherapist for both children and adults. She is an active member of Holy Comforter in Vienna, Va., and has worked with Garrett County resident Nancy E. Nimmick, LCSW.

"As a friend of Barbara's for over 20 years, I can attest to her wisdom, humor, knowledge, and graciousness," stated Rev. Pam Fahrner, assisting priest at St. John's Episcopal Church in Deer Park. "It's a blessing to have her as a friend, and I look forward to sharing her with all of you."

All women, regardless of faith tradition, are welcome for a morning of discussion, food, and fellowship. Beverages will be provided. Attendees may bring something to share. Agape, a Gathering of Women, is an ecumenical group and meets every six weeks throughout the year.

For further information, persons may contact Rev. Fahrner at 301-387-6313.

Personal Interest Classes Scheduled At Northern Center

Garrett College's Continuing Education and Workforce Development has announced a variety of personal interest courses being offered through its Northern Outreach Center in Grantsville in September. They include the following: "Perspective Drawing," "First-Time Manager," "Beginner's Jewelry Making," "Finding Your Way with GPS," and "Make and Take Projects for Families."

"Perspective Drawing" is being offered for five consecutive Wednesdays from 9 a.m. to noon beginning on Sept. 8.

This course will introduce the student to the technique for representing three-dimensional space on a two dimensional surface.

Linear perspective is based on the way the human eye sees the world – objects that are closer appear larger, and more distant objects appear smaller. To create this illusion of space, the artist must imagine the drawing or painting surface as a window from which he/she is seeing the world.

Perspective drawing is used when drawing buildings, landscapes, or other objects to make them look three-dimensional.

Edna Bender, an accomplished local artist, will instruct the course. A supply list will be provided upon registration.

"First-Time Manager" is set for Sept. 8, 9, 16, and 17 from 8 a.m. to 12:15 p.m.

"Many managers are promoted because they are excellent individual contributors," said a college spokesperson. "Making the transition from individual contributor to managing and leading people who have been your peers can be a challenging process. This course will help you, as a new manager, clarify your role as well as anticipate changes that accompany the first-time manager."

Students will discuss common pitfalls and how to avoid them, the importance of critical thinking skills, and the process for decision-making in a strategic manner.

"This 16-hour, interactive course also provides opportunities for you to learn how to delegate effectively and motivate employees," said the spokesperson.

"Beginner's Jewelry Making" is slated for Sept. 13, 14, 20, and 21 from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. Beginner to intermediate students are welcome.

This course will start with a beginner project for a necklace using chain, handmade beaded links, jump rings, clasp, and a focal component.

Class two will be earrings, utilizing a blend of components to create dangling ones.

Class three will be "Let's Get Rockin' (how to wrap a rock)." Students will learn a beginning wire wrap technique of a cage-like free-form design that will hold any small item. Polished stone will be provided.

In the fourth class, participants will use their newly learned skills to create a bracelet or anklet of beads and wire.

Students will have the opportunity to ask questions regarding techniques they are interested in, which may be incorporated into class projects.

"There is plenty of individual expression packed into this class," said the spokesperson. "Students will finish this course with their hands full of jewelry that they have made."

Students will need the following materials: cutters, pliers, and a measure. Other materials are included in the cost.

"Finding Your Way with GPS" is a one-day course set for Saturday, Sept. 18, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and is designed for those who enjoy the outdoors.

It will teach the enthusiast the basics of GPS (Global Positioning System) technology using a combination of classroom discussion, hands-on activities, and field exercises.

Topics to be covered include: an overview of how GPS works using the Garmin Etrex, how to determine one's position using GPS, how to mark waypoints, and how to navigate in unfamiliar territory.

This hands-on course will begin at the Northern Outreach Center with a two hour morning lecture and then continue at Big Run State Park near the Savage River Reservoir for the afternoon session where students will use GPS receivers to mark waypoints and navigate to various locations around the park.

The course will be held rain or shine, and no transportation will be provided to the park. Training will not be provided on personal GPS units.

"Make and Take Projects for Families" will be held on Mondays, Sept. 27, Oct. 4, and Oct. 18, from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m.

In this family-oriented course, students will work together to create a family calendar, sock snowmen and rock painting.

"Each evening we will also discuss ways to have fun as families and exchange ideas for good family times," said the spokesperson. "Simple child-friendly microwave recipes will also be available."

Children need to be accompanied by an adult. Participants are asked to bring 10 to 15 family photos. Other materials are included in the cost.

In addition to the above mentioned classes, coming in October to the center are the following personal interest courses: "Grant Writing," "Cake Decorating," "Conversational Spanish," "Basic Genealogy Techniques," "Creating Coiled Yarn Baskets," "Estate Planning: The Importance of Wills and Trusts," and "Stress Relief: A Workshop."

For additional information contact, persons may contact Terry Beachy, Northern Outreach Center director, at 301-895-4700 or at terry.beachy@garrett-college.edu.

To register for these courses, one may call the Continuing Education and Workforce Development office at 301-387-3069.

DAR MEMBERS MEET AT EVERGREEN CENTER – The four western Maryland chapters of the Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR) met last Wednesday at the Evergreen Heritage Center In Mt. Savage. Members of the Youghiogheny Glades Chapter of Oakland attended the event, which included presentations, tours, and a luncheon headed by regent Linda Ashby. The center includes the Trimble family's ancestral home (now a museum) and barn, landscaped grounds, forest, trails, and streams, all in a scenic location adjacent to the Great Allegheny Passage and Western Maryland Scenic Railroad. The museum was originally built in the late 1700s and was officially recognized as a Maryland Historical Home in 1976. The mission of the Evergreen Heritage Center Foundation is to offer educational programs, including workshops, seminars, demonstrations, research projects, and hands-on indoor and outdoor instruction about the environment and local history. The museum is available for private tours and is also open to the public on Sundays, Sept. 19 and Oct. 17, from 1 to 4 p.m. Pictured above, left to right, are George, Marilyn G. Faith is the foundation of God's house; love and forgiveness are important building blocks. God can work through us to build and repair His kingdom... when we shine with the love of God it is reflected onto everyone we meet. With God's spirit dwelling in us, we can construct and restore His kingdom on earth...one soul at a time. Invite a friend to church this week so that they can experience the peace, hope and love that are found there.

Keep On Learning

What is our true self? Is it our body or is it our mind? Is it a combination of mind and body? Or is it something altogether different from mind and body, perhaps some spiritual entity that makes us who and what we truly are? The body is a marvelous creation, designed to perform most of our vital functions automatically, and yet we could lose large parts of our body without necessarily feeling that we had lost part of our self. Despite being integral to our earthly existence, it seems doubtful that our bodies are our true selves. And, likewise with the mind: we are constantly learning and expanding our minds, and yet these additions do not make us feel like a different person; we are the same person with an expanded mind or a raised consciousness. Most adults probably feel that their minds and bodies are entirely different from the minds and bodies they had as children, and yet we feel that we are somehow the same person we were as a child. Even babies are born with distinct spirits. Any mother will tell you that each of her children was different right from the start. We are all born with this distinct spirit at the core of our being. It may not be entirely clear what this is, but it can't be identified solely with the body or the mind. We should reflect on our true self and find the spirit within us that is the real us.

For I delight in the law of God, in my inmost self, but I see in my members another law at war with the law of my mind and making me captive to the law of sin which dwells in my members.

Treatment of High Calcium Levels

Hypercalcemia is a condition of an above normal calcium level in the blood. Calcium facilitates the formation of our bones, and is also involved in muscle contractions, the release of hormones, and the maintenance of functions of nerves and the brain. Certain medical conditions may lead to hypercalcemia, including certain types of cancer. Hypercalcemia may also be caused by certain medications, such as lithium and thiazide diuretics. Symptoms of hypercalcemia may include constipation, fatigue, and depression, although persons with the condition may not experience any symptoms. Muscle weakness, dehydration, and nausea are other possible symptoms.

Calcitonin is a medication available with a prescription that works to decrease the calcium concentration in the blood by increasing the amount of calcium that is excreted by the body, and also decreasing bone reabsorption. Bisphosphonates also may be prescribed for persons with hypercalcemia. These medications work by disrupting bone resorption and therefore inhibiting calcium release. Pamidronate, etidronate, and ibandronate are examples of bisphosphonates. Zoledronic acid is also a bisphosphonate that may be prescribed for persons with this condition.

'CSI: NY' gets a new Ward for its new season

By Jay Bobbin

Q: I recently read that Sela Ward is replacing Melina Kanakaredes on "CSI: NY." What prompted the change? –Bob Buscavage, Moriches, N.Y.

A: "Sisters" and "Once and Again" Emmy winner Ward was recruited for the CBS crime drama – which moves to Fridays this fall – after Kanakaredes had fulfilled her six-year contract for the show and reportedly wanted out. From all indications, she left on good terms. Ward will play a sleuth who relocates from Washington, D.C., and relates strongly to crime victims; she'll be present in the first new episode next month.

Sela Ward

Q: What ever happened to Molly Sims of "Las Vegas"? Could you bring me up to date and also give me some of her history? –Benny Robinson, Healdton, Okla.

A: The model-turned actress has stayed on a Vegas theme by filming a crime comedy movie titled "Venus & Vegas," reportedly due to be released in November. Since the series "Las Vegas" ended, she also has turned up in the films "Fired Up!" and "Yes Man," and the gossip columns have linked her to actor Aaron Eckhart ("The Dark Knight") lately.

Sims was aiming toward a job in the legal profession when she went to Vanderbilt University, but as the story goes, her roommate got her to send photos of herself to a modeling agency ... and the rest is history. Her acting career grew out of that; she also was seen in the movies "Starsky & Hutch" and "The Benchwarmers," and she made a crossover appearance in her "Las Vegas" role on NBC's "Crossing Jordan."

Q: I have been trying to place JoAnna Garcia, the actress who starred in the ABC Family movie "Revenge of the Bridesmaids." All of a sudden, it popped into my mind that she might be the same person who played the oldest daughter on "Reba." Is she? –Liz Monty, Port St., Lucie, Fla.

A: She is. As mentioned in this column recently, she also has a new sitcom on ABC this fall – originally titled "Better Together," but now renamed "Better With You" – and she's engaged to New York Yankee outfielder Nick Swisher.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• It was American drama critic and author John Mason Brown who made the following sage observation: "Reasoning with a child is fine if you can reach the child's reason without destroying your own."

• The first Wal-Mart was located in the town of Rogers, Ark. When it opened in 1962, it had a total of 16,000 square feet of space. Today, there are Wal-Mart Supercenters all over the United States, and they measure at least 100,000 square feet and can range up to 220,000 square feet.

• The original Maytag company was known for making horse-drawn buggies rather than appliances.

• The word "pretzel" comes from the Latin word for "little reward."

• Researchers at Johns Hopkins University and the University of Pennsylvania conducted a joint study on Americans' weight. They concluded that if current trends continue, 86 percent of adults in this country will be obese by 2030.

• Before H. Ross Perot became a successful businessman — and had a brief, somewhat less successful career as a politician — he broke horses for a living.

• Statistics show that three out of four married women over the age of 50 are on their second marriage. In the same age range, five out of six men are in the same marital situation.

• Fireflies start to glow in order to attract a mate, and they die soon after finding one.

• Experienced boot makers reportedly can get three pairs of the footwear out of a single ostrich hide.

• When you sneeze, the air leaves your mouth at approximately 100 mph.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Aug. 24, 1814, during the War of 1812 between the United States and England, British troops enter Washington, D.C., and burn the White House in retaliation for an American attack two years earlier on the city of York in Ontario, Canada.

• On Aug. 27, 1883, the most powerful volcanic eruption in recorded history occurs on Krakatau, an uninhabited volcanic island located west of Sumatra in Indonesia. Heard 3,000 miles away, the explosions threw 5 cubic miles of earth 50 miles into the air, created 120-foot tsunamis and killed 36,000 people.

• On Aug. 23, 1902, pioneering cookbook author Fannie Farmer, who changed the way Americans prepare food by advocating the use of standardized measurements in recipes, opens Miss Farmer's School of Cookery in Boston. Farmer later educated medical professionals about the importance of proper nutrition for the sick.

• On Aug. 25, 1939, "The Wizard of Oz," which will become one of the best-loved movies in history, opens in theaters. Though the scenes in Kansas were shot in traditional black and white, Oz appears in vivid Technicolor, a relatively new film process at the time.

• On Aug. 29, 1945, President Harry Truman authorizes the Navy to seize control of and operate petroleum refineries to counteract strikes by oil workers. Oil, gas and chemical workers had worked hard during the war to meet production demands and now wanted to return to a 40-hour workweek. They resented the amount of money oil-industry CEOs were making off of their labor while they simultaneously threatened to lower workers' wages after the war.

• On Aug. 26, 1959, the British Motor Corporation launches its newest car, the small, affordable — at a price tag of less than $800 — Mark I Mini. Although only 10 feet long, the Mini could sit four adults and had a trunk big enough for luggage.

Collecting

by Larry Cox

Q. I recently inherited an item that I was told is a puff-patter. It is made of cut crystal, but I'm still not certain exactly what it is. Can you help me? — Susan, Macon, Ga.

A. According to one of my favorite reference books, "Glass A-Z" by David J. Shotwell (Krause, $24.95), puff-patters were popular during the 1930s. They were made of clear or colored glass combined with French swansdown. The stylized powder puffs often were crafted to match perfume bottles and makeup mirrors. The ones made in Czechoslovakia are quite rare and desirable to collectors.

Student Studies The Susquehanna For The Summer

Bucknell University senior David Manthos is participating in "Bucknell on the Susquehanna," a semester-long, four-credit interdisciplinary course at the university. Manthos will share his experiences through writing and photography in a new blog, "Bucknell on the Susquehanna," which began this summer and will continue through the fall.

In his second blog post, Manthos describes his summer spent "floating down the Susquehanna River between Milton, Danville, and Shamokin Dam, on what little water there was, taking water samples for chemistry analysis."

"My parents didn't understand why I wanted to stay in Lewisburg and collect water samples instead of sitting on the beach all summer, but I'm glad I did," wrote Manthos.

"There were many adventures throughout the summer, including electrofishing in West Virignia, kayaking to Northumberland, dragging Jon boats in the shallow river, and collecting river garbage for Professor McTammany (including a full MacBook Pro, found four weeks apart)."

The first-of-its-kind course will cover the river's natural history, river, and watershed science, land use and management, and cultural history by combining classroom experience with extensive field research each week along the Susquehanna, the longest non-navigable river in North America.

The class is planning trips to cover the entire length of the watershed from the headwaters in Cooperstown, N.Y., to the Chesapeake Bay, as well as a two-week field trip to the Pacific Northwest for comparative watershed studies and analyses.

Manthos is a geography and international relations major. He is the son of Michael and Tammy Manthos of McHenry.

Garrett College Offering 8-Week Hybrid Courses

Garrett College is now offering credit courses at the Northern Outreach Center (NOC) in Grantsville and the Southern Outreach Center (SOC) in Oakland. These are eight-week courses, rather than the traditional full-semester courses, and will allow for completion of two courses per semester.

"This is yet another example of Garrett College making education more accessible to members of the community who may wish to enhance work skills or to pursue a college degree," said Phil Rivera, associate dean of academic affairs, as he explained the decision for offering credit courses beyond the main campus in McHenry.

The use of online instruction for some classes will further reduce the amount of driving required to take college courses. The Intro to Computers (CSC 105) is a "hybrid" course, which means that part of the course is taught online. Rivera explained that this will limit the travel to NOC to one day per week.

The following courses are offered at the NOC and SOC.

•CSC 105 – Introduction to Computers – This course introduces students to the features and uses of common applications software, including word processing, spreadsheet, and database, plus operating systems such as Windows. Students will also learn about the various hardware components and basic computer terminology.

•ENG 101 – Composition – Expository Writing – This course focuses on writing expository and research-based essays that emphasize the development of clear theses through various rhetorical modes, including description, narration, comparison-contrast, analogy, definition, analysis, classification, argumentation, and persuasion.

•SPC 101 – Introduction to Communication – This course is designed to introduce the student to the fundamentals of human communication and public address. Students will study the basic elements of the communication process; basic techniques of interpersonal communication; elements of speech composition; and speech presentation skills applied to informative and persuasive speaking.

Former County Resident Enjoys Creating "Mysterious" Art Pieces

by Brenda Ruggiero

Former Garrett County resident Loretta DeWitt enjoys creating abstract and fantasy art in which the images seem to move in mysterious ways.

"Sometimes odd faces appear, or fairies dance in sparkling colors," she said. "I love to create artwork that will allow the viewer to see and find images in my work that are unique to the viewer only. It's exciting for me to watch someone who is viewing my work and discovers these images in my paintmgs. I really enjoy sharing my art vision with someone who believes they know little or nothing about art."

DeWitt started painting at an early age. When she was 4, a neighbor lady gave her a box of crayons.

"I promptly ate three of them," she said. "Then I went home and drew my first masterpiece, a mural on my bedroom wall. My mother, not wanting me to do any more mural work, gave me a brown paper sack to draw on. That's all the paper she had at the time."

DeWitt remembers that her first real experience with seeing the beauty of color in the world occurred about a year later.

"My father and I were out in the car and he needed to get some gas," she said. "He told me to stay in the car, but of course I didn't listen. I jumped out of the car to ask him something. Just as he was ready to put the nozzle in the gas tank, I grabbed his hand, causing him to spill gas on the wet pavement. I stood there completely mesmerized with the beautiful colors and shapes that were forming before my startled eyes."

From that time on, it seemed that all that mattered to DeWitt was her fascination with those images. In high school, she received encouragement from her teachers, and she received an art scholarship when she graduated.

"Rather than pursue my education, I got married and eventually had five children," she said. "It wasn't until the children were grown that I resumed my education. I was 55 years old at the time."

DeWitt took art training at Garrett Community College while she majored in psychology and theater. She received an associate degree in art in 1991, then went on to study art at Frostburg State University.

When she ran out of money and couldn't finish just four credits shy of a degree, she moved to Virginia Beach and got a job as a manager in an arts and crafts store.

"As a result of that job, I then went to the parks and recreational department of Virginia Beach as a craft specialist," DeWitt said. "I traveled all over the city to 15 different schools each week. My supervisor knew that I had done some stage work in the past (with Ben Sincell at Garrett), and she asked me to help her with a play that she was doing with special needs students. The play was a great success."

Next, the director of the school program invited DeWitt to work with him. She started as a substitute teacher's assistant, and was then hired full time when the other assistant retired.

She worked her way up to managing the art and music department, then retired after working for 10 years.

DeWitt met her partner Bernie Preblick in Virginia Beach.

"We had each suffered a tragedy in our own way, and we decided to put our lives together to make things better for both of us," DeWitt said. "He did research to find where the ideal place to live would be, and he found the over-55 communities. We made a trip to Sebring, Fla., and found Tanglewood Sebring and moved in '06. We love it here, but we try to come to Garrett County every two years or so. I still have a daughter living there and one in Ridgeley, W.Va., that I miss very much."

As far as DeWitt knows, there is an artist in every generation of her father's family.

"My father has told me of one who lived in Mexico and taught art at one of the universities," DeWitt said. "But I don't know this as fact. My children all had music in their souls, and this is a great art as well. I have always considered my children to be my great masterpieces."

DeWitt is currently part of an International Gallery, and has her work all over the world.

"I have sold work in Germany, Spain, and other countries as well," she said. "I have lots of work in private collections in restaurants here in town and in different art galleries."

DeWitt finds that people seem to like her abstract and non-objective work.

"Each person sees different images, because people like to see what they see," she explained. "I do not discourage them. I think it's great that they can see and share that with me. I never know what I'm going to paint when I work like this. I feel like someone or something is guiding my hand. This way I can bring a little beauty into the lives

Local Attorneys Support Rita Watson

For Garrett County Register of Wills

An Open Letter to the Citizens of Garrett County From Members of the Garrett County Bar Association

As attorneys who practice and live in our community, we have a unique perspective on the internal workings of the courthouse offices, and daily interact with the people behind the scenes who faithfully serve the public.

This year the voters of Garrett County have the privilege of electing a Register of Wills due to the retirement of Joe DiSimone, who competently executed the duties of his office for more than 30 years.

Register of Wills is a position that requires a substantial knowledge of the ever changing laws and regulations of the State of Maryland in order to competently administer estates. In smaller counties such as ours, the Register is just not an elected position, but it's a job that requires, from day one, the knowledge and understanding of probate law and procedure to adequately serve the residents of Garrett County.

Our current Register, Rita Watson, is the only candidate who is qualified to serve in this position. She faithfully asssumed the duties of the office when Joe DiSimone retired last July 1, has successfully undergone a strenuous State audit, which is required by Maryland law to be conducted of all Registers' offices every three years, and still efficiently, and with empathy, performed the duties of her office.

The laws of probate are ever changing and complex, and as attorneys we rely upon Rita Watson's opinion and guidance. Her ability to guide many citizens through probate procedures has saved individuals thousands of dollars in fees and expenses.

We, the following attorneys of Garrett County, without reservation, urge the voters to elect and retain Rita Watson for Register of Wills. She is the only qualified candidate.

Oak Dale Church Breaks Ground For New Facility

BREAKING GROUND – The Oak Dale Mennonite Church recently broke ground for a new church in Salisbury, Pa. Pictured above left to right are building committee chair Wayne Tiemersma, long-time church member Louise Maust, construction supervisor Perry Yoder, future church leaders Jaden Lais and Kasey HaleCooper, and pastor Joe Byler. See story for details.

The Oak Dale Mennonite Church gathered Sunday for a groundbreaking ceremony at its future church site in Salisbury, Pa. The church's current meeting house was constructed over 100 years ago along a rural back road, three miles from town.

"This is not a day about a building, but about the people who will use it," said building chair Wayne Tiemersma. "People will be baptized, married, and memorialized in this building. There will be people who are broken and who have needs, and we want to be here to meet them."

The current church building, located along Oak Dale Road, dates to the end of 18th century. Completed in 1899, it was split down the middle and pulled apart in 1932 to accommodate a growing congregation. In 1968 the church responded to changing needs by redesigning and modernizing the existing structure.

A 50' by 60' auditorium was added in 1995. In 2002, continued growth led to the purchase of a temporary education building for children and youth, and to a formal decision by the congregation to seek a property for relocation "in or near Salisbury."

Five years later, the church purchased the 11-acre Bowers property along Mason-Dixon Highway at the north end of Salisbury. A pavilion was constructed in the spring of 2009, and the site became known as the community center. This year, it served as home to the first ever Salisbury Vacation Bible School, a collaboration of local churches which drew over 100 area children for week in July.

"This is a visible step in a decision that was made years ago," said Lynn Lais, chairman of the church board of elders. "In my time at Oak Dale, I have seen this congregation always 'take the next step' toward involvement in the community."

"We want to be a church for our community. That decision was made decades ago at Oak Dale," said Joe Byler, pastor since 1991. "Over the years it has taken different forms, and finally, in 2010, it has brought us physically into the borough of Salisbury. We are very excited to reach this day."

Plans for the new facility include geothermal heating and cooling, an auditorium that will seat 299, and a fellowship hall. According to consultant Perry Yoder, Meyersdale, who has worked with the building committee over the past nine months, the first visible signs of construction should appear within the next few weeks. It is expected that the pole structure will be under roof by the end of November, with services held there soon after.

"We may move in with a lot of finish work to do, but we'll have the essentials–plumbing and heat. We'll do a lot of the work ourselves," said Byler. "We have years of wonderful memories at the church on Oak Dale Road, and so do a lot of folks. But God is moving us on to the next step in our journey, and we're excited to be in Salisbury. The new building, like the old one, is a tool to be used by God."

Oak Dale's web site, www.oakdalechurch.net, will track the building progress in weeks to come. Interested persons may visit the web site or call 814-662-2547 for more information.

Mayle-Paugh Reunion Set For Saturday

"If you grew up with the girls and boys of the family, we are issuing you a special invitation to stop in," said a spokesperson. "We would love to have some of our old friends to come as guests and reminisce with the family."

Meat will be provided for the meal, but those attending are asked to bring a covered dish, dessert, and/or soft drinks. Persons are also asked to bring a new or "gently used" item for the auction.

Jason Crabb To Perform At LL Church Of God

Loch Lynn Church of God will host 2010 Grammy Award winner Jason Crabb on Friday, Sept. 24, at 7 p.m. The church's Worship Team will participate in this event.

"Area gospel music fans are invited to a live appearance of an anointed singer, preacher, and multi-talented man of God," said a church spokesperson. "Jason began his musical career as a lead vocalist with the Crabb family, but after much prayer and direction from God, made the decision to step out into a more personal level of ministry."

Crabb has made multiple appearances on the Trinity Broadcasting Network, the Grand Ole' Opry, and the Potter's House, and at many churches and events across the nation. He was featured on the song "I'm Amazed" with the Brooklyn Tabernacle Choir, under the direction of Carol Cymbala, and performed during Rev. Billy Graham's farewell crusade.

The Loch Lynn concert will feature such Crabb songs as "Please Forgive Me," "Please Come Down to Me," Through the Fire," and "I'd Rather Have Jesus."

"He often incorporates his preaching ministry with his musical appearances, and has witnessed countless souls come to know Jesus as their savior and seen numerous hearts and lives changed by the power of God," added the spokesperson. "Despite the name he has made for himself, Jason's true delight is in seeing God move in other people's lives."

Concert tickets are available by calling 301-334-3221 or stopping by the church, located at 8649 Gorman Road in Loch Lynn beside WKHJ radio station. Tickets are limited and will be available on a first-come, first-served basis.

He Is Not Dead

I cannot say and I will not say
That he is dead. He is just away
With a cheery smile and a wave of the hand he wandered into an unknown land
And left us dreaming how very fair
It needs must be, since he lingers there.
And you—oh you, who the wildest yearn
For an old-time step, and the glad return,
Think of him faring on, as dear
In the love of there as the love of here.
Think of him still as the same. I say,
He is not dead—he is just away.

LOWER RATES WITH A HIGHER SCORE

Lenders are an increasingly difficult crowd to please, so if you're looking for the best deal on a mortgage, you need a couple of strategies to improve your credit score. Lenders use that number to determine your risk of default, and it may be the single most important factor in your application.

Scores range anywhere from a very risky 300 to a perfect 850. You'll need a 750 today to get terms a 700 would have gotten you two years ago. Begin with a $16 investment at myfico.com, where your three reports from Experian, Equifax and TransUnion are averaged into one representative score.

A Zogby poll reports that one third of all people who request a credit report find errors. Your score is only as accurate as your information, so scour your report and correct errors immediately. This could boost your score by as much as 200 points!

The largest percentage of your score is determined by your payment histories, but the second largest factor is your "card utilization rate," or your total balances compared to your total credit limits. 10% is the ideal number (like $2,500 in charges when you have a $25,000 line of credit).

If you correct errors, have an excellent payment history, and get your debt-to-credit ratio down, you can expect to save thousands with a lower interest rate on your mortgage.

If you are thinking of buying or selling a home but feel "out of touch" with real estate, give me a call today.

The day of free food and events will include lunch, games, prize giveaways, and demonstrations. The governor of Maryland has proclaimed Aug. 21 as Celebrate Kids Day, a spokesperson said.

The Garrett County Sheriff's Office will demonstrate the speed gun, and Denny Murray, representing the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department, will have Old Number One fire engine there on display.

There will be a Scales and Tales exhibit, a moon bounce, ice cream, hair wraps and tattoos, lawn bowling, water balloon tosses, jewelry making, bobbing for apples, and a duck pond. There will be hula hoop and jump rope contests and a petting zoo, and Landon's Library will be represented. A wide variety of local businesses have donated gift certificates and other prizes to be given out during the day.

SUB-AQUATIC VEGETATION PROGRAM TO BE HELD – The Discovery Center at Deep Creek Lake State Park will host a sub-aquatic vegetation informational program on Saturday, Aug. 21, from 2 to 3:30 p.m. The program will include in-the-field and off-the-dock identification of aquatic vegetation and its purpose for wildlife, shoreline protection, and fish. A canoe trip into Meadow Mountain Cove will follow for the first 12 guests to sign up. The trip will be led by aquatic specialist Julie Bortz. To register and save a spot in a canoe, persons should call 301-387-7067. The Discovery Center nature shop will have watershed and sub-aquatic identification books on hand for guests to view and purchase for continuing education at home. Pictured above is an example of growing, not free flowing, vegetation that participants are encouraged to bring in a small quart-sized bag for program staff to help identify.

people around me and share that with them, and they in turn share their vision with me."

DeWitt noted that she likes the fantasy world of fairies, angels, and creatures of other worlds.

"I also do landscapes," she explained. "I remember scenes of Deep Creek Lake and do quite a lot of work from those remembered dreams. I loved the mountains of West Virginia, as well."

DeWitt described the way she feels about creating a new painting as follows:

"I'm very excited both visually and emotionally about moving the color and images around the paper or canvas," she said. "When I am painting it seems like time stands still, rather like I'm in a hypnotic state. I believe that creating a painting gives me some control over the universe that is unique only to myself. It makes me feel like I am in communication with 'the great one.' I want to be able to transmit this emotion and joy and love in my work to the viewer of the painting."

DeWitt noted that what she likes best about being an artist is sharing beauty with others.

"I love it when people will stand in front of one of my pieces for a long time and turn around and say to me, 'Do you see that?'" DeWitt noted. "Usually, I don't, because I was feeling something else when I painted that one. They tend to make me see my work through different eyes."

DeWitt has paintings hanging on permanent display at Frostburg State University, Northwest Visual Art Center, Panama City, Fla., and numerous private collections throughout Maryland and Virginia.

Currently, she is studying under Hector Nieblas from Havana, Cuba. He is the curator for the Nieblas Studio Gallery in Miami and the Highlands Museum of the Arts. She is preparing for shows in Miami and New York.

Question #3: Jobs

Our area needs more and better jobs, since nearly 40% of our households have an annual income of less than $35,000 (US Census: American Community Survey). We have become dependent on seasonal, low wage and tourism jobs when we should attract better-paying, year-round jobs that allow our young people to stay and residents to return. Our officials should be working together to increase jobs in every category: labor, trades, technical, locally-owned businesses, professional, academic, and services, so our families can provide for themselves and their futures. Many believe certain areas are benefiting, but people in our towns and communities are being left behind with ever-rising taxes and fees.

Garrett County

GA2007G012/1 — The Wisp Resort, Inc., 212 Marsh Hill Road, McHenry, MD 21541, has applied for a Water Appropriation and use Permit to use ground water from one well in the Greenbrier/Pocono Formation, for irrigation at the Lodestone Golf Course. The Administration is considering an allocation for an annual average of 48,000 gallons per day (gpd) and 175,000 gpd during the month of maximum use. The well is located 0.1 mile southwest of the junction of Hoyes Run Road and Fantasy Valley Lane, 0.5 mile south of Sang Run Road, 1.2 miles west of McHenry, Garrett County, Maryland.

The proposed production well, installed in a leaky fractured rock aquifer, is 712 feet deep. Impacts to the resource and nearby users were evaluated using data from geological reports and investigations available to the Water Management Administration and an on-site aquifer-pumping test. Pumping of the well during periods of maximum use may lower the water table more than 50 feet in the nearest well of another user. In making this evaluation, the water withdrawal was modeled with the well pumping continuously for 90 days with no recharge to the aquifer.

MARYLAND DEPARTMENT OF THE ENVIRONMENT
NOTICE OF INTENT TO SUBMIT WATER QUALITY ANALYSIS FOR NUTRIENTS IN DEEP CREEK LAKE AND DEEP CREEK WATERSHED, GARRETT COUNTY, MARYLAND

Section 303(d) of the federal Clean Water Act (CWA) directs States to identify and list waters, known as water quality limited segments (WQLSs), in which current required controls of a specified substance are inadequate to achieve water quality standards. For each WQLS, the State is required to establish a Total Maximum Daily Load (TMDL) of the specified substance(s) that the waterbody can receive without violating water quality standards, demonstrate that another program or action will achieve water quality standards, or demonstrate via the development of a Water Quality Analysis (WQA) that water quality standards for the specified substance(s) are currently being achieved. Maryland Department of the Environment (MDE) hereby gives notice of the public availability of draft WQA document for Nutrients (phosphorus) in Deep Creek Lake and Deep Creek watershed (basin code 05-02-02-03).

Barring the receipt of contradictory data, this report will be used to support a Nutrient listing change for the Deep Creek Lake and Deep Creek Watershed from Category 5 ("waterbodies impaired by one or more pollutants requiring a TMDL") to Category 2 ("Surface waters that are meeting some standards and have insufficient information to determine attainment of other standards"), when the Maryland Department of the Environment (MDE) proposes the revision of Maryland's 303(d) list for public review in the future. Although the waterbody cited above does not display signs of toxic impairments due to the indicated substances, the State reserves the right to require additional pollution controls in the watershed if evidence suggests that the specified substances from sources in the basin are contributing to downstream or localized water quality problems. Other substances not addressed at this time, but identified on Maryland's list of WQLSs as impairing the referenced waterbody, will be addressed in the future.

OPPORTUNITY FOR PUBLIC REVIEW AND COMMENT

A 30-day public comment period for draft document will take place from August 19, 2010 to September 17, 2010. Copies of the draft documents have been placed in the Ruth Enlow Library of Garrett County - Oakland Branch (6 N. Second St., Oakland, MD 21550). The draft document is also available on the Internet at: http://www.mde.state.md.us/Programs/WaterPrograms/TMDL or by contacting Mr. Tony Allred by mail at MDE/SSA, 1800 Washington Boulevard, Suite 540, Baltimore MD 21230-1718, or by telephone at 410-537-3582 (outside the Baltimore area, dial 1-800-633-6101, x3582). Anyone wishing to review the draft document and supporting information or needing technical information may contact Mr. Allred during normal business hours.

Written comments concerning the draft document may be submitted to the Department on or before September 17, 2010, and should be sent to Mr. Allred at the above address or emailed to tallred@mde.state.md.us. If the Department determines there is sufficient interest, a public hearing on this matter may be held. All comments received during the comment period will be considered and the draft document may be revised accordingly prior to its submittal to EPA for approval. 8/19-26(2)

Two Lendal Paddles, One Carbon Fiber. Made in Scotland

High Mobility Life Vest

Spray Skirt for Cold Weather Use

Custom Cable Locking Mechanism for Car or Rack Use

Great kayak for beginner or expert. Has wide enough beam to be comfortable and steady but narrow enough profile, with length, to also be fast. Rudder never; controls installed but no ruder - I never needed it. Two water tight dry compartments makes gear storage easy and boat virtually unsinkable. Kayak has been used very little, perhaps only a dozen or so times total, just light lake and river use - no ocean. The boat has been stored inside for the last few years and was stored on a boat rack beforehand. Boat and gear are all clean and in excellent shape. Total package was more than $3K when bought new, asking $1,300 for all, obo. Call Rick at 301-334-1444.

A RED HALO appears to be above the head of this curious bruin, who paid several visits to the residence of Linda Adams along Lemley Drive at Deep Creek Lake. After Adams took this photo, she decided to remove the birdfeeder that was serving as bear bait, and the disappointed youngster apparently moved on.

Canning Methods Have Changed: Green Beans 101

by Abbi Kifer, University of Maryland Extension

Are you canning vegetables? Green Beans 101.

Canning season is without a doubt in full swing. From asparagus to zucchini, the abundance in the garden will taste wonderful when the snow is here. Canning methods have changed over the years as more is learned about food safety and an ever-changing food system.

For instance, if you preserve your harvest the same way your grandmother did, chances are you could be at risk for food borne illnesses and spoilage of your canned goods. Years ago it was acceptable to can green beans in a boiling water canner for a little over three hours. We know today that this method is no longer safe and does not kill all harmful microorganisms. In fact, susceptible populations can become very ill and even die. Let's discuss the proper way to can green beans. They must be canned in a pressure canner – no exception.

First, you will need about 14 pounds for a canner load of seven quarts (nine pounds for a canner load of nine pints). A bushel of green beans usually weighs about 30 pounds, and you should be able to get between 12 and 20 quarts. Selection is very important. The green beans should be tender, yet crisp. Be sure to cut out any discolored or diseased spots on the beans.

Next wash the green beans and break off the ends. You can choose to leave your beans whole or snap them into pieces about 1 inch long.

You must decide how you will pack your jars (selecting jars and canning equipment is another topic worthy of discussion). There is a hot pack and raw pack method. To hot pack jars, cover the green beans with water and bring to a boil for five minutes. Then fill the jars loosely with beans and water 1 inch from the rim (called headspace). To raw pack your jars, simply fill the jars as tightly as you can with raw beans leaving a 1-inch headspace. You can add a teaspoon of salt per quart if desired, but not necessary. Add boiling water over the beans again leaving a 1-inch headspace.

Finally, adjust the lids and process in a pressure canner. There is absolutely no safe option for processing green beans in a boiling water canner. Processing times and weight will vary depending on your altitude and if you are using a weighted-gauge or dial-gauge canner. For example, if you live at 3,000 feet altitude and are using a weighted-gauge canner, quarts should be processed at 15 lbs. for 25 minutes. At the same altitude using a dial-gauge canner, process quart jars at 12 lbs. for 25 minutes.

Many people take the notion that since they've never been sick, they can continue with this method of canning green beans. Please be aware that there could be risk involved.

For more information on canning, canning recipes, freezing foods, and other such information, call the Extension Office at 301-334-6960.

You can access the latest canning recommendations and recipes at the National Center for Home Food Preservation's web site at www.uga.edu/nchfp. Information for this article was adapted from this web page.

DURST FAMILY HONORS ANCESTOR – The recent Durst family reunion included a "Celebration of Our Heritage" in honor of Casper Durst, a Revolutionary War soldier. The event took place at Old Hill Cemetery in Salisbury, Pa., where Casper is buried. About 80 of his descendants attended the reunion, which was organized by Donald Durst and Amy Sipple. The Salisbury American Legion gave a prayer with taps and firing of guns. Family historian Patricia Durst Shaffer spoke on the life of Casper, who came into Somerset County, Pa., and Garrett County in the 1770s. John Myers, a resident of Franklin, N.C., and a member of the Black Powder Group, represented pioneer soldiers like Casper. Pictured is Myers dressed in buckskin clothing and shooting a musket in his ancestor's honor. Ocean City resident William L. Garlitz, a retired U.S. Air Force master sergeant and vice chairman of the National Security/Homeland Security Council, led the descendants who have served in the military in a salute to Casper, who helped give America its freedom more than two centuries ago. The Durst family plans to have a Casper Durst Day on the first Saturday of August each year.

ONE LUCKY PILOT – It was right at press time last Thursday that the pilot of this single-engine Piper Cherokee narrowly escaped disaster, as his plane left the runway at the Garrett County Airport and went over a small embankment. According to a report from the Maryland State Police, Nathan Wasser, 70, of Ridgeley, W.Va., was the pilot of the aircraft, which crashed at approximately 3:25 p.m. while landing. There were no passengers on board the plane, and Wasser walked away uninjured. The Federal Aviation Administration and the National Transportation Safety Board were notified and conducted an investigation, but the cause of the accident has not been released. The aircraft was hauled away from the scene Tuesday morning. Photo by Lisa Broadwater.

Rafting Boom Has Pros, Cons For Friendsville

Outdoor enthusiasts are flocking to Friendsville to enjoy whitewater rafting and kayaking on the Youghiogheny River. The town's mayor and council met with the Garrett County commissioners on Tuesday to discuss the positive and negative aspects of this issue.

"Friendsville is very fortunate to have the Youghiogheny River flowing through our town," Mayor Spencer Schlosnagle told the commissioners. "And over the years it's continued to grow, as far as the whitewater rafters who come into the county in spring, summer, and early far."

He said that is a "good" problem, but it is also a problem that needs to be address.

The mayor noted that the Maryland Department of the Environment recently allowed rafters to be on the Yough on Saturdays, in addition to Fridays and Mondays. This allowance, coupled with low water levels on other rivers and the recent growth of rafting, means that hundreds of people are now pouring to Friendsville on weekends.

Local rafting companies reported they have more than 3,700 whitewater customers per year, according to Schlosnagle. The mayor stressed however, that this figure does not include numerous other kayakers and rafters who enter the Yough and other area streams on their own.

GC Community Action Awarded $1 Million For Weatherization Prog.

The U.S. Department of Energy (DOE) has awarded two grants totaling $2.5 million to support innovative weatherization programs in Maryland. The funding will help low-income Maryland residents in two counties achieve energy efficiency in their homes, while creating weatherization jobs in local communities, according to Senators Barbara Mikulski and Benjamin Cardin.

Locally, the Garrett County Community Action Committee was awarded $1 million to install wind, solar, or geothermal renewable energy systems for low-income residents.

In Washington County, C&O Conservation Inc. was awarded $1.5 million to replace improperly sized HVAC equipment, saving energy and extending the equipment's life.

"This federal funding is an investment in jobs, jobs, jobs right here in Maryland," Mikulski said. "These funds will help put dollars back into the pockets of low-income Marylanders by making homes more energy efficient and lowering their energy bills."

The grants were distributed through the DOE's Weatherization Assistance Program, which weatherizes approximately 25,000 homes per month and is partially funded by the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act of 2009 (Recovery Act) funding.

According to state reports, the Recovery Act portion of the Weatherization Program supported more than 13,000 jobs in the second quarter of 2010 by putting carpenters, electricians, and factory workers back to work installing insulation, upgrading appliances, and improving heating and cooling systems.

"This $2.5 million in federal funding will ensure that two weatherization agencies in western Maryland have the resources they need to

Fire Departments Are Recipients Of DNR Grants

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Forest Service awarded its 2010 Volunteer Fire Assistance (VFA) grants to 50 local volunteer fire departments across the state, including Garrett County's Bloomington VFC, Friendsville VFRD, and Gorman VFD.

The projects, to be funded in 15 Maryland counties, will assist volunteer fire companies with increasing capacity for wildland fire suppression needs in rural communities.

"The volunteer fire departments in our state are critical to ensuring the safety of Maryland families," said Governor Martin O'Malley. "I am heartened

Roth Rock Wind Project Halted By MDE Work Stoppage Order

The Maryland Department of the Environment (MDE) issued a stop work order on Wednesday to Synergics Wind Energy LLC and White Construction Company, forcing stoppage of work at the Roth Rock wind power project except for the work necessary to comply with all requirements of the approved sediment and erosion control plan.

According to Jay Apperson, deputy director of the MDA's office of communications, work may resume on the project when MDE determines that the site is in compliance with the approved sediment and erosion control plan.

It was after receiving a complaint from a citizen that an MDE inspector went to the site on August 3 and found violations of the discharge permit's requirement for compliance with sediment and erosion control approvals. Apperson confirmed that the violations were numerous and throughout the project, including: failing to comply with the approved sequence of construction in the sediment and erosion plan; not having sediment controls in some areas of construction; installing in some areas regular silt fence instead of the required super silt fence; and lack of interim controls in some areas where earth was being disturbed for stormwater controls. Notices of the violations were provided to representatives of both Synergics Wind Energy and White Construction.

"We immediately advised them to stop all earth-disturbance work except for work needed to bring the site into compliance, and representatives of Synergics and White Construction agreed to do so," Apperson said. "We did follow-up inspections on August 9 and August 17, and found both times that they were not doing earth-disturbance

Oakland Man Receives Eight Years In DOC

A 32-year-old Oakland man pleaded guilty recently in Garrett County Circuit Court to first-degree burglary. Judge Jim Sherbin sentenced Sidney Timothy Burgess to eight years in the Division of Corrections.

Burgess was arrested by investigators with the Garrett County Sheriff's Office in January after it was determined he had participated in breaking into a hunting cabin in the Accident area last November. Guns, bows, and other hunting equipment were stolen, according to the state's attorney.

Officers located a person who had provided transportation to Burgess in late November, during which time he had attempted to sell guns to persons in the Terra Alta, W.Va., area.

Three of the guns were later recovered from a person in the Grantsvile area who had purchased them from Burgess through a third man, the state's attorney noted.

Recycling Program Officials No Longer Accepting TV Sets

The Garrett County Solid Waste and Recycling Division has announced that until further notice, the collection of televisions in its electronics recycling program has been discontinued. Because of the division's electronics processor being unable to market the material, televisions will no longer be accepted at the Bumble Bee, Grantsville and Weber's refuse and recycling sites for recycling.

"We regret the inconvenience this may cause and hope to restore full service to the electronics recycling program in the future," said recycling coordinator Kim Madigan.

Televisions that are still in good working condition may be donated to Horizon Goodwill Industries at the Oakland and Grantsville locations or Christian Crossing Thrift Shop in Loch Lynn.

Triathlete Mag. Names SavageMan #1 Hardest Triathlon In The World

by Mary Sincell McEwen

Garrett County's own TriTo-Win SavageMan triathlon has garnered national attention this year via the editors of Triathlete magazine, who proclaimed in the March issue that the local triple event is the "No. 1 hardest triathlon in the world."

The magazine was rating the 100 best races on earth, and not only was the local event named in that list, but it was placed at the top of the subcategory of "most difficult." The 4th annual SavageMan Triathlon Festival will happen this year on Sept. 18 and 19, with two swimming-biking-running races (a "30.0" and a "70.0") set for each day. The events begin and end at Deep Creek Lake State Park.

"This article, combined with broad word-of-mouth promotion, has led to higher athlete registration," said Greg Safko, founder of the race, which is a major fundraiser for the Joanna M. Nicolay Melanoma Foundation. "In fact, because of the SavageMan Triathlon Festival's tremendous international popularity, both races will most certainly be sold out."

Commissioners Allocate Funds To Keep After-School Operating

The Garrett County commissioners have allocated $110,000 to help keep a portion of the Local Management Board (LMB) Partners After School Program going for another year. Garrett County Health Department budget carryover funds will be used for the allocation.

The after-school program is a collaborative effort between the Garrett County Partnership for Children and Families, Health Department, Community Action, and local Board of Education.

"The commissioners' designation of these carryover funds to support elementary- and middle-school children's academic enrichment through the LMB's Partners After School Program (PAS) is extremely important to families utilizing these services," said LMB member Rodney Glotfelty, Garrett County health officer. "We are deeply appreciative of their support in providing bridge funding again this year."

The commissioners decided to allocate the money after hearing an update report Tuesday morning from Partnership and LMB representatives.

The nonprofit group's director, Crystal Stewart, informed the commissioners that 21st Century grant funding was not available again this year. This U.S. Department of Education initiative has been the primary funding source for PAS for numerous years. The partnership, therefore, issued a press release about two weeks ago to inform parents that after-school activities would not be available this year at PAS sites, which are located in Accident, Friendsville, Grantsville, Kitzmiller, Loch Lynn, and Oakland.

The Partnership and LMB have been working for more than a year to find ways to fund the program. Shortly before school started last year, Stewart learned that her FY 2010 21st Century grant request had been denied. The grant is federally funded, but the State Department of Education oversees its allocation in Maryland.

In FY 2009, the state allocated the Partnership $260,000 in 21st Century funding to support PAS in Friendsville, Grantsville, Kitzmiller, and Loch Lynn, and at Southern Middle School and the Judy Overlook Center. Accident activities were funded through a Community Partnership Agreement.

CHARITY TOURNEY RAISES OVER $23,400 – First United Bank & Trust recently sponsored the 22nd annual Charity Golf Tournament at the Oakland Golf Club. This was the 12th year that First United has organized this event. The beneficiary of this year's tourney is United Way of Garrett County. Pictured from left above are: Steve Lantz, chairman of the tournament committee for First United; Mary Beth Pirolozzi, United Way executive director; and Robin Murray and George Evans, both of First United. The check represented most of the proceeds; however, a silent auction and 50/50 raffle pushed the total to over $23,400. "We are extremely appreciative of the hard work and support that First United provided as a result of this year's tournament," said Ernie Gregg, chairman of the executive committee of United Way of Garrett County. TOM AND HUCK? Modern-day Huck Finn and Tom Sawyer are really brothers Dale and Keith Rouse of Friendsville, who were spotted lazily floating down the Youghiogheny River in their hand-made raft. Much like Huck and Tom, the brothers constructed the raft from basswood logs, which they lashed together with rope. The hand-held rudder/paddle was used for steering purposes. Weather conditions on the Mountaintop have been ideal for this kind of activity, and after a chilly night tonight (low 40s), near 80-degree temps and lots of sun are forecast for the next several days.

Eric Robison To Run For Commissioner

Eric Robison has filed with Garrett County Board of Elections as a candidate in District 1 for the position of Garrett County commissioner.

"Garrett County citizens need a fresh voice in the commissioners' office, one that will be respectful of the citizens' points of view in decision-making and bring new leadership to the table," Robison said. "As a commissioner I will represent the interest of Garrett County citizens and treat the employees of Garrett County with respect."

Robinson said public inquiries for information by citizens should be "welcomed, and handled quickly and respectfully." He feels the county needs a better forum for gathering the input of the community on important issues and incorporating that input into the decision-making process.

"Our county government should not be adversarial to the people," the candidate said. "We are here to serve the community. Additionally, the best minds for some problems are not always available on Tuesday at 9 a.m. because they are working to feed their families."

Robison's ideas about economic development include creating and promoting economic strategies that protect the heritage of Garrett County and "help us move into the 21st century," he said.

"We should be marketing Garrett County to the business world, or 'cubical industry,' whether a customer service firm or design firm. Alongside I-68 there is a fiber-optic trunk line that lies dormant, currently called the 'dark corridor.' We should have already tapped the rural Internet stimulus money ($7.2 billion) to bring this into the rest of the county. Once that access is established, we then go to Virginia, D.C., or Pittsburgh and actually market Garrett County as the 'Work Where you Play' location. We then entice several businesses to move to Garrett County."

He said the county should establish a scholarship program at the college related to that economic plan to grow the businesses and allow young people to remain in the county and to make a "living wage."

"This type of economic development has these workers buying houses and goods from our communities, placing their children in our dwindling schools' enrollment, and boosting our economy long term," the candidate said. "The only reason this has not happened is that it has not been a priority. It will be my priority."

In the area of public education, Robison said teachers, administrators, students, and parents of Garrett County "have a lot to be proud of in the public education system," and that the commissioners' office should be focused on "doing whatever it takes to maintain our high position while also seeking opportunities for improvement."

The candidate said he and his family moved to Garrett County so their children could benefit from the exceptional education in this area.

"As commissioner I will do what I can to increase funding and ensure its continued success," he said.

Robison said preserving the heritage of Garrett County is another component of his campaign platform.

"People live here for the quality of life. We love the small town values, community involvement, and open spaces. When we review large industrial development projects like wind energy, shale gas exploration, and coal mining (and others), we owe it to the people of Garrett County to ensure these projects are taking the necessary precautions to preserve our safety, our environment and our way of life. With industrial projects of this size, there is always the risk of accidents. There are ways, however, to lessen the risk and mitigate the damage should an accident occur,' he said.

"As commissioner, one of my main focuses will be on the development of the necessary local and state oversight processes to ensure our safety," he said.

The candidate also expressed his support of law enforcement, fire, and emergency medical services.

'We need to ensure proper funding of these public services that are necessary to our safety and well-being. We need to make sure they have the support from the community and the commissioners for them to do their jobs safely and professionally.

"As a former paramedic/EMT, firefighter, and instructor, I realize the need for continuing education, training, and adequate funding for these folks to do their job," Robison said.

He expressed his thanks to all the Garrett County residents he met at the recent Garrett County Fair.

"The support was tremendous and very gracious," Robison said. "I was humbled to see so many people supportive of change and willing to offer their views."

He also expressed thanks to the Western Maryland Central Labor Council, AFL-CIO, and the Garrett County roads employees for their endorsement of his candidacy.

'The open forum that was offered and attended by all candidates was fun and informative," Robison said.

"I welcome the opportunity to serve the citizens of Garrett County, and I will do it with respect and openness. Your support and vote in November will be toward a fresh voice and new leadership," Robison said.

Recycling Div. Names Refuse Permit Winners

The Garrett County Solid Waste and Recycling Division, General Services Department, has announced the winners of the 2011 Residential Refuse Permits, selected by random drawing at the recent Garrett County Agriculture Fair.

They are Carolyn Wilson, Oakland; Tim Friend, Oakland; Brenda Burns, Oakland, Amanda Airey, McHenry; Brett Friend, Friendsville; and Miranda Bender, Accident.

"Residents and visitors always enjoy stopping by the recycling booth at the Garrett County Fair to discuss their disposal questions and recycling needs," said recycling coordinator Kim Madigan. "This year they took advantage of the free recycling information we handed out: brochures, magnets, reusable shopping bags, pens, workbooks, and crayons. And, of course, no one can resist signing up to try and win next year's residential refuse permit."

She added that this year residents may have noticed a change in the recycling booth. The backdrop included examples of all the materials accepted in the Garrett County recycling program.

"There were even examples of materials that are not acceptable in the program," Madigan said. "With this change we hoped to clarify some items that are always in question."

For instance, she said, many residents and visitors are under the impression they may recycle #1 strawberry/blueberry fruit containers with the #1 plastic bottles at the refuse and recycling sites.

"This practice is not acceptable with our plastic recycling processors; therefore, we can not allow mixing the recyclable items in Garrett County," Madigan said. "In the near future, each refuse and recycling site will be setup with samples of items that are acceptable in the recycling program. Examples of items that are not acceptable will also be shown."

Persons with questions regarding the materials accepted in the free recycling program in Garrett County may call 301-387-0322 or visit garrettcounty.org.

W.Va. Man Is Charged After Alleged Assault

A Terra Alta, W.Va., man was charged by Maryland State Police this week following a trespassing incident on his property near Oakland.

Investigation revealed that Victor G. Kope, 63, had confronted several youth who were allegedly on Kope's Joe Whitacre Road property riding on ATVs. Kope ran off the youth, after which several adults come to his property to confront him about the incident. He exited his camper with a loaded .410 shotgun, pointed it at the three adults, and asked them to leave.

The three adults, listed as victims, then gained control of the shotgun and disabled Kope. Kope was charged with three counts of first-degree assault and three counts of reckless endangerment.

He was taken to the McHenry barrack to await a bond hearing with a District Court commissioner. Garrett County sheriff's deputies and the Maryland Natural Resources Police also assisted at the 7 p.m. scene.

Two people were recently arrested by Garrett County sheriff's deputies on District Court warrants. The following incidents are unrelated.

Kevin Snyder, 43, McHenry, was arrested on a warrant obtained after an investigation into an alleged event that occurred at the Garrett County fairgrounds during fair week. He is charged with fourth degree sex offense and second-degree assault. He was taken to the Garrett County Jail before being released by a District Court commissioner on personal recognizance.

Eggs For Sale In Maryland Are Not Part Of Recall Check Codes

The Maryland Department of Agriculture (MDA), in cooperation with the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene and local health departments, is working to ensure eggs that are part of the nationwide recall are not being sold in Maryland. Consumers are advised to check the codes on cartons of eggs in the shell to verify they are not from plants involved in the nationwide recall of shell eggs implicated in outbreaks of Salmonella enteritidis.

None of the plants in the recall are registered to pack eggs for sale in Maryland, and to date, MDA inspectors have not found eggs from the affected plants in Maryland.

Information previously released by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) includes the brand names and plant numbers. Many of the brand names are packaged by multiple egg producers, and not all eggs labeled with that brand are involved in the nationwide recall.

Affected plant numbers are P1026, P1942, P1946, P1413, P1720, P1663 and P1860. This information can be found stamped on the end of the egg carton. Maryland consumers who find any of these plant numbers on packages of eggs should destroy or return the eggs for a refund.

When purchasing eggs, MDA advises that consumers should select only those eggs that are clean, uncracked, and refrigerated. The carton must be labeled with grade, size, safe handling statement, net contents, packer's registration number, lot number, and the name and address of the packer or distributor.

When handling eggs, consumers should refrigerate shell eggs at all times; discard cracked or dirty eggs; wash hands, cooking utensils, and food preparation surfaces with soap and water after contact with raw eggs; cook eggs until both the white and the yolk are firm; avoid eating raw or undercooked eggs; and refrigerate any unused or leftover egg-containing foods promptly.

All producers who are packaging eggs for sale in Maryland must register with the MDA annually and label eggs sold in Maryland with their plant number. To ensure that eggs from these non-registered plants have not inadvertently been shipped to Maryland, MDA has stepped up inspection activities. To date, MDA inspectors have not found eggs from the affected plants in Maryland.

As part of the registration process, producers must supply flock information to verify the chickens originated from hatcheries that are monitored for Salmonella enteritidis sanitation through the National Poultry Improvement Plan. A complete list of producers and distributors, including their plant number, registered to pack eggs for Maryland can be found on MDA's web site at www.mda.state.md.us/pdf/egglawreg_lst.pdf.

MDA says it routinely inspects wholesalers, retailers, restaurants, and other food service locations to verify that eggs being sold or used in Maryland meet registration and other food safety requirements. The eggs are inspected to ensure they are clean and the shell is unbroken, both of which can be risk factors for egg contamination by bacteria such as Salmonella. All sellers of eggs in Maryland, including small producers selling at farmers' markets, farm stands, etc., are required to follow MDA's regulations for egg safety.

Many of the eggs sold in Maryland come from producers who participate in the Maryland Egg Quality Assurance Program that was started in 1992, or similar programs in surrounding states. These programs include production standards to minimize the risk of Salmonella enteritidis in eggs.

The FDA's new mandatory program is modeled after these standards. The combination of MDA's inspection program and the egg quality assurance programs has resulted in a significant decrease in egg-related Salmonella enteritidis outbreaks in Maryland since the early 1990s, according to the MDA.

Consumers who have questions about whether the eggs they are purchasing are involved in the recall may telephone the MDA Food Quality Assurance Program at 410-841-5769. More information about Maryland's Egg Inspection and Egg Quality Assurance programs can be found online at www.mda.state.md.us/licenses_permits/food/index.php.

Food safety information and details about the current recall are also available online at www.fda.gov.

New Arrivals

The birth of one baby was announced this week, a boy.

A son, Jayke Benjamin, was born to Roger L. Jr. and Kathleen (Williams) McCarty, Terra Alta, W.Va., on Aug. 17 at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Vehicle Accident Clarification Noted

The report of a motor vehicle accident involving three vehicles on Mosser Road, McHenry, last week was written incorrectly.

The accident involved drivers Lynn Bow, 42, Mtn. Lake Park, Bryan Kelley, 37, Accident, and Michael Emery Miel, 29, Keyser, W.Va. The original report listed Kelley at fault in the accident. Miel was actually to blame. Kelley's vehicle was stopped and then struck from behind by Miel's Mack truck, pushing Kelley's Chevrolet Colorado into Bow's Dodge Stratus.

This error is regretted.

Two Single-Car Accidents Send Four To Hospital

Two motor vehicle accidents were investigated by Maryland State Police this week, resulting in the transport of four people to Ruby Memorial Hospital, Morgantown, W.Va. The following incidents are unrelated.

Police responded to the 9-mile marker on I-68 on Saturday for a single-vehicle accident. Investigation revealed that Barbara A. Lamar, 46, had been operating a 2009 Toyota when reportedly she lost control of the vehicle on the wet roadway. The vehicle skidded and struck the guardrail before coming to rest in the median.

Lamar and passengers Jerry P. Lamar, 48, and Matthew Lee Nelson, 26, were taken by Northern Rescue Squad to Ruby Memorial. There was no information on their injuries or medical conditions. The vehicle was towed, and Lamar was cited for the 11:35 p.m. accident.

In a separate incident, Cassaundra Bauman, 41, Oakland, had been operating a 2003 Ford truck on Rt. 42, Friendsville, when she lost control of her vehicle after reportedly swerving to avoid hitting a deer in the roadway and struck a tree. Bauman and passenger Donald L. Corby, 43, Oakland, were both taken to Ruby Memorial following the 9:20 p.m. accident.

No information was available on their injuries or conditions.

Charged With Assault Two Days In A Row

Two Oakland residents were charged with assault this week following two different incidents.

Garrett County sheriff's deputies responded to a Crellin residence for a reported domestic disturbance on Tuesday. Investigation led to the arrest of Sara Smith, 23, who had reportedly committed second-degree assault against an adult male. She was taken into custody to await a bond hearing.

The following day, deputies responded to a reported domestic incident on Alder Street, Oakland, involving Smith and Brandon Wilt, 25. Both are charged with second-degree assault and taken into custody to await a bond hearing.

Two Arrested By GCSO On DUI, DWI Charges

Two people were recently arrested by Garrett County sheriff's deputies for driving under the influence of alcohol. The following incidents are unrelated.

Lucas Patrick Pratt, 22, Frostburg, was stopped on Glendale Road for failing to drive right of center and failing to yield right of way. Investigation revealed Pratt to be intoxicated. He is charged with driving while impaired by alcohol and DUI. He was taken to the Garrett County Jail to await a bond hearing.

Rebecca Sue Kisner was stopped on Shenandoah Ave., Loch Lynn, for not having an illuminated rear license plate. Investigation revealed her to be driving while impaired by alcohol. She is charged with DUI, DWI, and violation of a license alcohol restriction. She was taken into custody to await a bond hearing.

Frostburg Man To Be Charged For Boating Accident

The Maryland Natural Resources Police (NRP) charged William Stewart Bender, 48, of Frostburg with negligent operation of a vessel, failure to keep proper lookout to avoid a collision, and speed too great for conditions relating to a boating accident that occurred on Aug. 21.

NRP officers were notified by Caryn Gill on Aug. 22 at 8 a.m. that a boat had struck her dock during the night, causing damage to the dock and a vessel that was moored there. Gill said that the striking vessel was sunk at her dock.

Officers determined the striking vessel to be have been operated by Bender. An investigation revealed that Bender's vessel, a 2007 22-foot Correctcraft pontoon boat, was traveling at high speed and struck a dock owned by David Klueter. The vessel traveled through and severed the dock's walkway. The vessel continued on for an additional 100 feet, then struck the dock owned by Gill. This impact caused the dock to move three feet off its base and damage the moored vessel.

The investigation also revealed that Bender had been reported overdue on Aug. 22 at approximately 1:40 a.m. by his wife who said that her husband left the bar and had not returned home. At approximately 3 a.m., Bender awoke Gill and used her phone to call his wife for a ride home. Bender did not mention that he had just struck Gill's dock and his vessel was sunk there.

Bender's court date has been set for Oct. 28 at the District Court of Maryland in Oakland.

In Loving Memory of

BOB LUCAS

who passed away

August 14, 2007

The angels gathered near your bed so very close to you.
For they knew the pain and suffering that you were going through.
We thought about so many things, as we held tightly to your hand.
Oh, how we wished that you were strong and happy once again.
But your eyes were looking homeward to that place beyond the sky
Where Jesus held His outstretched arms, it was time to say goodbye.
We struggled with our foolish thoughts, for we wanted you to stay.
So we could walk and talk again, like we did just yesterday.
But Jesus knew the answer, and we knew He loved you so.
So we gave to you life's greatest gift, the gift of letting go.
When the angels came to take you home, you opened your eyes.
Jesus said, "It's time to let go, come and sit here by my side."
The moment you died our hearts split in two.
One side filled with the memories, the other side died with you.
You left behind our broken hearts, and cherished memories too.
But we never wanted memories, we only wanted you.
Most days are so hard to get through.
But in our darkest hour, we tell ourselves we'll see you again soon.
You will never be forgotten, you are always missed and loved dearly.

Blanket Judgment...

Extreme emotion often clouds one's better judgment and typically leads to some kind of knee-jerk reaction that is later regretted. This may well be the scenario evolving with the plan to construct a mosque very close to the former site of the Twin Towers of the World Trade Center.

The level of emotion in this case is understandable, especially among those family members who lost loved ones in the 9/11 terrorist attack. However, it is crucial that emotion be set aside as much as possible and the bigger picture be considered. The following are some pieces of that bigger picture:

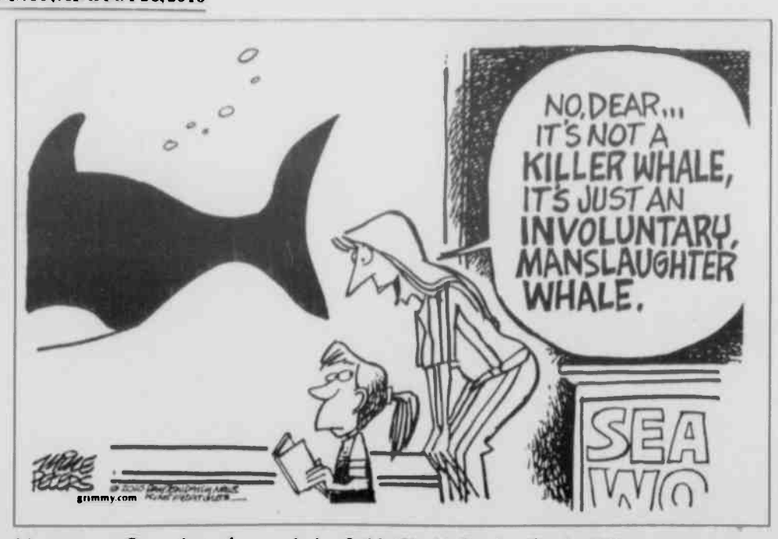
•Making blanket judgments about an entire race, nationality, or religion is not only a gross injustice, but is dangerous and usually counter to the principles and freedoms guaranteed by our Constitution. We need only remember the incarceration of hundreds of thousands of Japanese Americans following the attack on Pearl Harbor, a terrible and regrettable injustice to so many innocent citizens. A number of Japanese Americans, incidentally, were ultimately among this nation's most highly decorated soldiers in WWII.

•Hitler decided that all Jews – men, women, and children – should be exterminated, and he obviously convinced many others to go along with his blanket judgment.

•What is intended to be constructed near the WTC site is a community center, in which there is to be a mosque. To continue to say that a mosque is being constructed is not too unlike calling Garrett County Memorial Hospital a church because it has a chapel within it.

•Timothy McVeigh, the man convicted and executed for bombing the federal building in Oklahoma City, was reared in the Roman Catholic Church and regularly attended Mass with his father in his early years. If Roman Catholics (who could be called "McVeigh's people") wanted to build a church near the site where he personally killed 168 innocent men, women, and children, would there be such an outcry?

•Yes, there are Muslim extremists and Muslim terrorists, but history is loaded with Christian terrorists. Remember the Puritans who murdered the "witches" in Salem? How about the Crusades? In more recent history, how about born-again Christian David Koresh, who memorized the entire New Testament by age 11 and later became the leader of the radical Branch Davidian sect?



•Many of the earliest Americans came to this nation to get away from the intolerance and rigidity of the Church of England. For that reason, the writers of the Constitution made freedom of religion (along with speech and the press) the very first amendment. Just as a woman cannot be "partially pregnant," we cannot have "partial" freedom of religion. It seems that some Americans, because of intolerance of other religions, would prefer to have things the way they were in early England. Such would be a watering down of our precious freedoms. Thomas Jefferson, et al., would be appalled.

•Every single night on the evening news (from almost any major U.S. city one selects), there are stories of murders, robberies, rape, and a host of other violent crimes. Yet, even with the relatively high percentage of Muslims in many of our cities, how often are Muslims involved in such activities? It is rare. (Most of the offenders are probably Christians, or at least have ties to a Christian church.) So one must conclude that the great majority of the Muslims are not savage terrorists (blanket judgment), but peace-loving people. Incidentally, there were Muslims among the dead in the Twin Towers.

•The ranting and raving against the mosque project, which the media love to cover, supports the various accusations of anti-American Muslims against our country in other lands, and more importantly, may well place our military troops in even greater danger.

Just some things to think about...

Granted, if for no other reason than to avoid what could evolve into a blood bath, it would seem prudent for the community center/mosque planners to reconsider the location of their project. But it would be far better in the long run, and for our nation in general, if the tunnel vision of so many Americans could somehow be cured.

Letters to the Editor

Editor's note: All letters of political endorsement will be restricted to publication in the final two issues of this newspaper prior to the Sept. 14 primaries (those of Sept. 2 and Sept 9). We will publish as many letters as possible, depending upon space. Writers are reminded that all letters to the editor must not exceed 400 words.

To the Editor:

With elections soon coming up, if we elect all new public officials, my wish list for their tasks to accomplish would be:

•To stop building wind turbines, which most people are opposed to;

•Make the gas prices in Oakland more competitive, rather than 10-20 cents more than it is in Grantsville;

•Change the regulations for satellite television providers that allow Garrett County residents to view only Pittsburgh, rather than Maryland, television stations;

•Bring salaries in Garrett County more in line with salaries in other parts of the state, so that people can earn a living wage.

Yes, I love Garrett County and hope that its natural beauty will always be preserved, but surely we can accomplish the above and still maintain the good quality of life here. Politicians, take note, and please make us aware of your priorities so we can make good decisions on election day.

Sincerely,
Susan Hinton
Oakland

To the Editor:

I am writing in reference to the building of the mosque at "Ground Zero." I do not believe that some people fully understand the implications of this mosque.

Imam Feisal Abdul Rouf stated that the purpose of the mosque is to bring the community together and for healing. If this is so why is the mosque being named Cordova House? Cordova House is the name of a mosque in Spain that was built to commemorate a great Muslim victory. Does this not confirm that the Muslims consider 9/11 a great victory?

The Imam also believes that the United States should be compliant with sharia law. Now where will we be holding a hand chopping and the stoning of individuals?

Another thing that I do not understand is that many liberals scream for religious freedom for the Muslims to build this mosque, where one never was prior to a 9/11. Yet they seem to have no problem with the fact that the Greek Orthodox Church was denied the ability to rebuild the church where it existed prior to 9/11, but hypocrisy never has been a stranger to liberals.

I find the building of this mosque an affront to this country and the people who were killed on 9/11 by a group of people whose sole goal is to destroy this country.

Deborah K. Bolyard

To the Editor:

On Friday the 13th of August, on Amish Road near the 68 overpass bridge, a small brown dog was hit and left along the road to die. My family found the dog, called Casselman Veterinary Services, and explained the situation to them.

We transported the injured dog to their office in Grantsville. The dog was in pain and had gone into shock. To make a long story short, thanks to the kindness and skills of Dr. Rachel Wiley and the staff at Casselman Veterinarian Services, the dog's injuries were treated and he is on the road to recovery.

We have not been able to locate the owner of the dog through various inquiries. The dog is a small to medium size, brown, male, mixed breed, 6 months to 1 year old. He was wearing a blue flea collar.

If you think this may be your missing pet, please call Casselman Veterinary Services to inquire, or if you have room in your home and a soft spot in your heart to give this dog a nice home, give them a call. He needs and deserves a lot of TLC.

Again, I would like to thank and commend Dr. Wiley and the staff at Casselman Veterinary Services for their love and commitment to animals, especially those in need.

To the Editor:

I was incensed when I read the political cartoon in your newspaper. One character stated, "Putting a mosque at Ground Zero would be like putting a McDonald's at Mecca." The other character stated, "Actually, Mecca has four McDonald's." This cartoon shows total lack of understanding of the history of the Muslim religion and the United States.

The United States' first contact with the Muslim religion dates back to the Barbary pirate wars. The Barbary pirates were Muslims. They commandeered American shipping and sailors. President Jefferson sent the Marines to North Africa to subdue these pirates.

These Muslim pirates wrote and believed the same inflammatory rhetoric that the Muslim terrorists spout to this day. Iman Feisal Abdul Rout, the Iman who wants to build the mosque at Ground Zero, stated that Osama bin Laden was made in the United States. If this is the case, explain to me how the fledgling country of the United States created the Barbary pirates. We did not create them or Osama bin Laden. Radical Islam did.

Radical Islam has continued to attack us – Khobor Tower bombing, the first World Trade Center bombing, USS Cole bombing, and the 9/11 World Trade Center incident which included the Pentagon and Shanksville, Pa. We are to believe that these are just peaceful loving people looking for a place to pray?

We are now to be open-minded and have no complaint or concern about this mosque being built near where their Muslim brothers killed 3,000 people. Maybe we should look at how open-minded the Muslims are in their home countries.

The cartoon references McDonald's in Mecca. It may be of interest to know that the Koran states, "The feet of the infidels will not touch the ground in Mecca." We are to be open minded and allow them to build this mosque, and yet you and I as infidels cannot set foot in Mecca, let alone build a church or synagogue.

As a final point, I will concede that the Muslims have the constitutional right to build this mosque. But do not deny me the right to be incensed at its building, and the freedom of speech to state the evil that these people intend to perpetuate upon this country.

If you still think the Muslims are open-minded people, just try getting bacon on that cheeseburger in Mecca.

To the Editor:

It is with great excitement that I write to give many thanks to those who have supported the Dove Center in our pursuit of a new facility. We are so happy to report that this dream is finally becoming a reality.

The dream began over 10 years ago, when we realized that our client numbers, as well as our future goals for the agency, grossly surpassed the capacity of our current facilities. Knowing that acquiring a new facility would take a great deal of work and time, we began laying the groundwork way back then. Little did we know just how much work and time would be required, and how many people would become involved, during the years, in bringing it to reality.

Through the years, we have explored several different locations, experienced bumps in the road, zoning hearings, funding challenges, changes in plans and people, etc., etc. You name the challenge, and we have been through it in this process.

However, one thing has remained true: The community has been so supportive through it all. There are so many people who deserve thanks. I do not wish to give names, because to overlook someone would not be fair. I can tell you that the list ranges from past to present board members, capital campaign members, the county commissioners, building committee members, local media, volunteers, architects, engineers, miscellaneous community members, other local human service agencies, businesses, donors, and particularly, the staff, who have been creative and flexible enough to continue to provide outstanding services in our current, less than ideal, space.

Those who have been involved in this process, whether 10 years ago or since, deserve to know how grateful the staff and I are. All of them have played a part in getting us where we are today, on the brink of breaking ground.

If all goes as planned, we will celebrate our 20th anniversary just as we move into our new facility. What a tremendous accomplishment! We should all be very proud!

Sincerely,
Heather Hanline

To the Editor:

I'm feeling my age. Aches and pains, more gray hairs, a little visual blurring when I'm too tired to read, a few lapses in memory – these are just a few of the nagging little examples of growing old that are tapping me on the shoulder.

I'd always felt that aging should encroach at a slow pace – that my growing torpidity is normal for a person of my advanced age. However, during this past week old age galloped into my life and stomped me on the head! I am beginning to see double – and sometimes triple.

A friend sent me an e-mail titled the 2010 Primary Election Voter Guide from the Garrett County Board of Realtors. While I was reading the responses of the three commissioners, I kept thinking that I was too tired to make any sense of it – I was reading the same thing over and over again.

After a nap, I tried again, reading word for word. One commissioner said, "...First of all, the county has to make sure that all agencies and policies/regulations – those under county control – are focused on meeting the needs of citizen stakeholders. Second, the county's leadership must continue to identify issues (laws, policies, etc.) at the state level that are detrimental to the county's interest..."

"Okay," I said to myself, and read down the page to another commissioner who said, "First of all, the county has to make sure that county agencies and policies/regulations (those controlled by the county) are focused on meeting the needs of the county's stakeholders. Secondly, the county's leadership must continue to identify issues (laws, policies, etc.) at the state level that are detrimental to the county's interest..."

Such examples occurred repeatedly. At last I read, "One size does not fit all." Then I read another commissioner's assertion, "...one size does not fit all." I read more. The third commissioner said, "...one shoe does not fit all!"

If all three are going to copy the same thing from the same source, can't they just state their joint opinion? If I had taught these men when they were in high school, they would have learned about plagiarism, quotation marks, source citing, thinking for oneself, etc. I was an English teacher for several years – back in the day when people ran for registrar of wills, not register of wills.

Sincerely yours, and
Jane Avery

To the Editor:

It is frustrating to see progressives demonized by Fox News and Glenn Beck. I am happy to see that he now recognizes that Martin Luther King Jr. not only was a man of God who gave his life for social justice, but also a progressive.

Progressive ideas and actions have been the foundation stones – the heart and soul – that made America great. Progressives have worked tirelessly to keep some religious kindness – heart and soul – in the political system. Progressives founded a national and global abolitionist movement that finally ended slavery. Yes, progressive thinking and acting whites seeing that African slaves had hearts and souls, too.

Those working for change may need to be strong and forceful, as the status quo becomes comfortable, especially for those in power. Still, the true progressive does not seek control, but rather connection and cooperation. As Glenn Beck recently noted, Reverend King was joined in the Civil Rights movement by rabbis, priests, and ministers of many faiths. The progressive movement – involving workers' rights from women's rights to the environment – consists of business people, students, farmers, women, teachers, immigrants, government workers, Sufis, doctors, children, etc.

Now Beck says he hates the social justice movement, and it's just sad to me that he has such a perspective. Progressives work for social justice, often behind the scenes. Who knows how many there are as they work to bring hope, support, and meaning to millions of people in the world? Their power resides in ideas, an evolving perspective, and a commitment to caring and sharing. Humanity and the planet need us, in my opinion.

Sometimes I wish the progressive movement had more power so that others could not take away needed regulations and gut the FDA, the EPA, and other programs that were set up to help the citizens and the planet. I wish others in the media, with such potential to educate the public, would take time to bring balance to the news. I don't know if they are intimidated by the corporations that own them or if are just taken by the joy ride of ego and ratings. Should the country really have to only listen to frightening, regressive angry words? I'd like to see us get positive. We're living in seriously dangerous times.

I'm for progress so that humanity and the planet can live in good health and peace.

To help keep the program going in FY 2010, LMB member/Community Action president Duane Yoder was able to secure an emergency $125,000 Community Development Block Grant, which the commissioners matched with another $125,000.

As a result, about 250 children were able to participate in PAS last year, according to the Partnership's projects coordinator, Sherri Padovini.

The commissioners noted the importance of PAS in helping students achieve academic success through tutoring and homework assistance. Students also take educational and cultural field trips, and learn about nutrition and drug/alcohol abuse issues.

"There is no doubt about the value of the program," said Commissioner Ernie Gregg.

Padovini presented the commissioners with data that shows local after-school students are "maintaining pace" with the three-year Maryland Student Assessment (MSA) averages for Garrett County in both reading and math.

Additionally, after-school students who are eligible for free and reduced meals (FARM) "did a little better" than other local FARM students on the three-year MSA average for math. Results in the reading component were about the same for both FARM groups, Padovini noted.

Ironically, the fact that PAS is so success may be the very reason why the state did not award it 21st Century funding, Health Officer Glotfelty indicated.

"I think we're a little bit of a victim of our own success, over the last number of years, when you look at our school system and the great results that we get out of it, with our test scores and everything," he told the commissioners.

Glotfelty explained that the state looks at "system needs" and moves money to needy areas, even though children in successful places still need funding for their services.

"That's just the way funding is in the state of Maryland," he said. "When you succeed, you usually have your money taken away from you. And when you're in really bad shape, that's where they put the money."

Yoder agreed. He apologetically told the commissioners that when the LMB asked them for emergency after-school funding last year, he really believed that the next 21st Century grant application would be funded.

"We didn't walk in last year thinking that wasn't going to happen," Yoder told the commissioners. "I don't want you to walk out of here [today] believing that we were just playing a game a year ago."

Padovini reported that the Partnership recently secured a $40,000 Governor's Office grant, which will enable one after-school program site to continue, which mostly likely be the Grantsville one. Other local grants may be available to help augment the governor's funding.

She indicated the northern site was chosen simply because more students participate in PAS there than in the southern end of the county.

"It's a pretty robust program," Padovini said about the Grantsville site.

She told the commissioners, however, that her group was looking at various funding sources to possibly have one consolidated after-school program for southern students, possibly at Southern Middle School.

Padovini noted that about $234,000 would be needed to keep all six original after-school sites going.

After meeting with the Partnership and LMB Tuesday morning, the commissioners reviewed the county budget and discussed the issue further. They announced that afternoon that $110,000 in Health Department carryover funds were available for PAS.

"This funding could be directed to after-school programs at Accident Elementary School and Southern Middle School, to include combined programs for Dennett Road Elementary, Yough Glades Elementary, and Broad Ford Elementary schools," said Health Officer Glotfelty in an e-mail.

The Governor's Office grant and county allocation, therefore, may soon enable PAS to operate at three sites – one in Grantsville, one in Accident, and one in Oakland – for students in the northern, middle, and southern portions of the county. Funding for transportation to the sites is not available, but parents may take their elementary- and middle-school-age children to any of the three proposed PAS sites.

"Agency partners are working to finalize program details so that the PAS programs can open as quickly as possible," Padovini said in a press release. "A public update will be provided when program start dates have been scheduled."

Glotfelty also noted that the Garrett County Partnership for Children and Families will continue to explore additional funding sources to reopen additional sites and sustain the program in the future.

For more information about PAS and how to enroll a child, persons may call Padovini at 301-334-1189.

To the citizens of Garrett County :

My father would like the opportunity to represent you as the next Register of Wills. For the past 26 years, Dad has served as Oakland's Police Chief. In this position, he is responsible for interpreting and enforcing Maryland law. Although the section of the law that Dad uses differs from the section used to govern the Register of Wills office, it is still Maryland law, with all of its intricacies! Procedures must be followed, guidelines must be met, reports must be filed Accountability is essential. In addition, Dad has years of supervisory experience.

Did you know that before Mr. DiSimone became Register of Wills, he was a furniture salesman at Rolyans? And, Mrs. Watson joined the Register of Wills staff shortly out of high school. They have had long and rewarding careers! As those before them - and those yet to come - their job as a supervisor is to make sure that the staff they leave behind are sufficiently trained to maintain the high quality of service that the citizens of Garrett County deserve. It is imperative that the operations of this important office do not cease with the absence of one person - especially a person in an elected position. A supervisor's accomplishments can best be measured by the job their staff is capable of performing in the supervisor's absence!

Dad always chooses to do the right thing regardless of whether it's the most popular. He is a great father and an amazing person. He has everyone's best interest at heart. His character, morals and commitment to the community in which we live are exemplary. He is amply qualified to assume the duties as the next Register of Wills. Please vote "John K. Sines" on September 14. Good things do happen to good people!

Good Luck, Daddy

BRYAN PAUGH "C's" IT

Common Sense: The willingness to listen to the voice of reason when it might not make sense.

Correct Team: A leader needs a team that has a vision with passion. The right team helps to set the right priorities.

Competency: Competency rarely happens over night. A competent person is one whose life is built on a process.

Charisma: To have charisma you need to be "others minded." Good leaders understand the value of pouring their life into others.

Conviction: A leader speaks gently but with focus and always acts from one's principles to empower others, even when it's difficult.

Courage: A leader has to care more about integrity than image. That means resisting the temptation to abuse power and position in one's personal life because the personal life is reflected in the public life.

Credibility: Many people talk the talk but don't walk the walk. Character + Competence = Credibility.

These are considered to be the top seven qualities that make a good leader. I've owned and operated businesses locally and out of state since 1982 and am currently working for the county. I'm not comfortable tooting my own horn. I know how to keep accurate books and I get along with others very well. With my work expenence combined with the qualities mentioned above, the training that is included for the newly elected Register of Wills, and the great team that comes with the job, I know that I can do the job and do it well. However, it is more important that you know that I can do the job. If you know me, you know what I am capable of. If we haven't met, ask around and check me out or talk to my wife, Ellie, or my mom and dad, Carole and Robert.

Remember, the Register of Wills position will be determined in the Primary Election. I have been interested in the Register of Wills position for many years and I WOULD REALLY APPRECIATE YOUR VOTE.

PAUL F. LUDWIG III

Paul Franklin Ludwig III, 61, passed away on Tuesday, Aug. 10, 2010, in the home of his oldest son, Paul F. Ludwig IV, in King George, Va., after a three-month battle with stage four lung cancer.

He was laid to rest on Monday, Aug. 16, at Resurrection Cemetery, Clinton.

He is survived by his wife Linda, his three sons, Paul, Eric, and Mark; and by their families, including nine grandchildren.

A retired Metro Transit police officer from Washington, D.C., Paul moved with Linda and Mark to Garrett County in 1991 after Paul was injured in the line of duty and retired on disability.

Paul and Linda were avid movie goers and visited Garrett 8 Cinemas and other Garrett County locations frequently. They made many friends during their 16 years living on Sand Flat Road, and ate many delicious meals at Little Sandy's Restaurant.

Dad will miss "God's Country" but his presence will always be felt there. Thank you to all of those who made the Ludwigs feel at home. We treasure the memories there and hope to make more in the future. God bless.

Expressions of sympathy may be sent to 8548 Sandy Beach Lane, King George, VA 22485.

GCMH Nursing Externs Complete Summer Training

The Garrett County Memorial Hospital Nursing Extern Program had two new participants this summer: Taylor Crabtree of Oakland and Robin Martin of Aurora, W.Va. The two externs participated in the eight-week program.

Crabtree attends Allegany College of Maryland/Garrett Campus, and Martin attends West Virginia Wesleyan College. The nursing extern program allows nursing students to work in the hospital under the direction of an experienced RN mentor between their junior and senior years of college, and obtain valuable clinical nursing experience and skills. Upon completion of the program, the hospital presented both externs with a $500 scholarship.

Program participants spend four weeks in the Medical/Surgical Unit, one week in the Intensive Care Unit, one week in the Operating Room, one week in the Emergency Department, and one week in the Family Centered Maternity Unit. The externs perform all aspects of nurse's duties with the exception of administering medication and starting IVs.

The program accepts two externs each year. Among other requirements, applicants to the program must be currently enrolled in a program approved by a state board of nursing to prepare candidates for registered nurse licensure. For more information on the Nursing Extern Program, interested persons should contact Melissa Walch at 301-533-4391.

RAM Notes

YEARBOOKS AVAILABLE SEPT. 2

The 2010 yearbook, A Never Ending Story, will be distributed to students during lunch on Wednesday, Sept. 1. Graduates and former students may start picking up their books on Thursday, Sept. 2. Yearbooks will not be released to anyone except to the individual student or parent who purchased the book. Extra yearbooks are for sale and will be sold on a first-come, first-served basis. Students should see Maria Zumpano to purchase one.

2010 SENIOR EDITIONS

Any 2010 senior who ordered a senior edition may pick it up from Heather Savage at the high school. Additional copies were ordered and may be purchased for $10 each.

STUDENT ATHLETIC PASSES

The athletic department at Southern High School will once again be offering a yearlong season pass to all students at a discounted price. The cost for the pass is $30, which will allow the student to attend all regularly scheduled home athletic contests (playoff games are not included). At this price, the student pass potentially saves more than $120. Students will be required to show their passes in order to gain entrance into events. Any student interested in purchasing a yearlong ticket will need to complete a form and return it to Matt Redinger. Completed forms, along with payment, may also be returned to the main office or mailed to the address found on the form. To start saving fast, students should return their payment and form by Friday, Sept. 3.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE STUDENTS

AFS-USA Intercultural Programs is seeking host families in the following counties: Allegany and Garrett, and Hampshire and Mineral counties in West Virginia. Any southern Garrett County family interested in hosting a foreign exchange high school student for the 2010-11 school year should contact Beverly Sincell in the Guidance Office by Sept. 3 at 301-334-1660 or via e-mail at bsincell@sh.gak12.md.us.

EVENING HIGH SCHOOL REGISTRATION

Registration for evening high school classes has begun. Any student who has failed a required class may repeat that course in evening high school. There is a $50 registration fee and a $20 book fee for each course. Courses will only be offered if there is enough student interest. Students should stop in the Guidance Office to sign up or contact guidance counselor Kelley Davis at 301-334-1660 by Sept. 3.

SAT AND ACT RECOMMENDED

The SAT (Scholastic Assessment Test) and ACT (American College Test) are scheduled for the 2010-11 school year. Important information about these exams are as follows:

- scores are used by colleges to predict how well students will do during their freshman year in college,
- are open to all students,
- can be taken repeated times (but more than three may seem excessive to colleges),
- have a one-time "fee-waiver" available to students who qualify (students should see Beverly Sincell for details).

The SAT recommends that all college-bound juniors take the PSAT (practice SAT) in the fall. The PSAT will be given on Oct. 13 in the school cafeteria during first and second period. Students should then take the SAT in the spring of their junior year and on several different dates in their senior year.

ACT recommends taking the ACT test in the spring of junior year. The ACT statistics indicate the highest scores are achieved at this time, because of the rigorous class schedules most students have during their junior year of high school.

Students should register online for the SAT by going to www.collegeboard.com. To register for the ACT, students should go to www.act.org. Students who do not have Internet access, or who cannot use a credit card to register online, need to see their guidance counselor for alternative registration arrangements. Students can obtain booklets providing helpful hints and practice tests for the SAT and the ACT in the Guidance Office.

Pirasti Piano Trio To Present Final Concert Of MPA Summer Series

Jonathan Carney
Violinist

Jeffrey Sharkey
Pianist

Allison Wells
Cellist

Music at Penn Alps will present the Pirasti Trio in the final concert of the 2010 season this Saturday, Aug. 28, at 7:30 p.m. in the Great Hall at Penn Alps, Grantsville.

Baltimore Symphony Orchestra concertmaster Jonathan Carney is returning to Music at Penn Alps, joined this year by pianist Jeffrey Sharkey and cellist Allison Wells. The British-based Pirasti Trio was formed in 1989 and performed for 12 years throughout the United Kingdom and Europe. The group re-formed in 2010, with Carney joining the two original members.

The trio will perform Antonin Dvorak's Piano Trio in F minor, Op. 65, and Johannes Brahms' Piano Trio in B Major, Op 8.

Sharkey is director of the Peabody Institute and also serves on its chamber music faculty. He studied piano and composition at the Manhattan School of Music and Yale, and completed his studies at Cambridge University. His compositions have been performed by the St. Louis Symphony, at the Purcell Room, London, and on WQXR Radio in New York.

Wells is a member of the cello faculty at the Peabody Institute. She has toured throughout Europe, and in North America and Hong Kong, performing at venues such as London's Wigmore Hall, New York's 92nd Street Y, and the Orlando Festival in Holland. She is a graduate of Cambridge and the Royal Academy of Music in England, and holds a doctorate from Yale.

Born in New Jersey, Carney comes from a musical family, with all six members having graduated from the Juilliard School. After completing his studies, he was awarded a Leverhulme Fellowship to London's Royal College of Music. Recent solo performances include the Brahms Double Concerto and Vaughan Williams' The Lark Ascending, which was featured as a live BBC broadcast from London's Barbican Hall.

This performance is sponsored by Garrett College and underwritten by Arthur and Barbara Weldon.

Tickets are $12 for adults, while those 18 and under are admitted free of charge. Advance reservations are not required. After the performance, audience members will be invited to meet the artists at an informal reception.

For more program information, persons may call 443-257-9177 or visit the web site at www.musicatpennalps.org.

Music at Penn Alps is a non-profit organization dedicated to presenting classical music and American traditions.

TOLLIVER IN WINTER – This serene shot of Tolliver Falls in Swallow Falls State Park is one of several photographs by Marcia Warnick now on display in the Backroom Gallery of the Garrett County Arts Council office, located along Alder Street in Oakland. A reception for Warnick is slated for Friday, Sept. 3, from 5 to 7 p.m. at the Gallery Shop. The reception is open to the public. See story.

A one-woman special exhibit is on display now at the Gallery Shop in downtown Oakland, hosted by the Garrett County Arts Council. The work of local photographer Marcia Warnick will be featured in the Backroom Gallery through Oct. 2.

The arts council will host a reception for the artist on Friday, Sept. 3, from 5 to 7 p.m. at the Gallery Shop. The reception is open to all GCAC members and the public.

A native of Garrett County, Warnick said she has always enjoyed taking pictures. She participated in a workshop two years ago that she said "opened up a new way of thinking and gave a new perspective" to her work.

Her portfolio includes a wide variety of images, from four-season landscapes to nature close-ups, according to Karen Reckner, executive director of the arts council. Warnick said her challenge is to try to capture something new when photographing a Garrett County scene.

A member of the Western Maryland Photographers Association, she recently exhibited at Sanctuary Studios in Flintstone. She also displays her work at professional offices in Allegany and Garrett counties. Her photography has been shown at the Uniontown (Pa.) Art Club, where she won a merit award, and at Cumberland's Saville Gallery.

GCAC is supported by a grant from the Maryland State Arts Council. An agency of the Maryland Department of Business and Economic Development, the MSAC provides financial support and technical assistance to non-profit organizations, units of government, and colleges and universities for arts activities.

I'M WITH FATTY: LOSING FIFTY POUNDS IN FIFTY MISERABLE WEEKS

by Edward Ugel

C. 2010, Weinstein Books, $23.95; 256 pages

Review by Terri Schlichenmeyer

The other day, you noticed that it's time for new-clothes shopping. It's not that your wardrobe is outdated. What's in your closet might be considered classic, so that's not the problem. You didn't suddenly get a makeover, although that's not a bad idea.

No, you need new clothes because you've collected a few pounds this summer. Too many barbecues, maybe, or more reunions than you'd like to admit to. And the worst part is that the holidays are coming, and you know what that means.

Think there's a reason the first three letters in "diet" are what they are? You're in good company, as you'll see in I'm with Fatty by Edward Ugel.

Growing up as one of five children, Edward Ugel had some wonderful memories. He and his father and brother, for instance, spent every summer weekend on the beaches of Maryland and Delaware, where seafood was fresh, inexpensive, and plentiful. That was good because the boys could really eat.

Nearly every good memory Ugel had of his life included food. His 11th birthday present: cooking lessons with a first-rate chef.

It should've come as no surprise, then, when Ugel started punching extra notches in his belt. But his weight problem wasn't a problem until his wife recorded ultra-loud snoring and Ugel reluctantly signed into a sleep clinic. The diagnosis: He had sleep apnea so severe that he literally turned blue while slumbering – all because of his weight.

Ugel promptly announced an imminent diet. Then, he waited. The holidays were coming; why set himself up for failure?

But a few more pounds gained and another notch in the belt made Ugel step up his plans. If he could manage to lose 2.28 ounces a day – about a pound a week – he could get back to his high school weight. He'd feel better. He could get rid of the hated CPAP machine for his sleep apnea.

One trainer, one nutritionist, one therapist, several colonic cleansings later and oh-so-close to his goal, Ugel finally found a way to lift the weight off his middle – and his shoulders.

Still carrying around those love handles you can't seem to find the time to shed? Come on over and commiserate with this book, because author Edward Ugel will make you laugh while you lose.

But that doesn't mean he plays the Jolly Fat Man role very well. Ugel is brutally honest with his food addictions and his battle with the bulge, and even though he bastes this memoir with a taste of humor, the underlying seriousness of his story is very clear. I'm with Fatty is introspective, rueful, regretful, and – fair warning – there's an almost-overly-long discourse on colonic cleansing that could be a threat to sensitive stomachs (but is hilarious, nonetheless).

If you're hungry for a quick-to-read memoir that has some laughs in it, sink your teeth into this one. For you, I'm with Fatty is a book to add to the menu.

He said this week that there are only about 20 slots remaining in both races and may be gone by press-time.

Because of the rapid sell-out and full rosters of athletes, as well as maintaining the current mark of excellence earned by previous events, Safko stressed the need to meet the expectations for a high quality event.

"This necessitates our recruitment of a significant, qualified volunteer base," Safko said. To address this need, the organization created a volunteer coordinator position, now held by Dick Zimmerman.

Persons who wish to volunteer for the event are encouraged to contact Zimmerman at 240-405-4700, or by e-mail at: volunteers@savagemantri.org. Individuals are needed to man relief stations, help with traffic and safety areas, and work in other support roles. Each volunteer will be given a SavageMan T-shirt, cap, and an invitation to the after-party.

Safko also reported this week that six-time IronMan World Champion Dave Scott will be attending and competing in the Tri-For Win SavageMan 70.0 Triathlon. Scott has attended the event since 2007 as a celebrity guest, signing all first-place awards for all the divisions, and being on hand to meet other athletes and autograph items. This year, however, the world-renowned athlete will actually be taking part in the event.

"This is big news, and we're thrilled about it," Safko said.

The magazine article about the 100 best races on the planet actually opened with a two-page feature solely about the SavageMan. In the introduction, writer Brad Culp said the following:

"A good triathlon has to cover all the basics: proper aid stations, a clearly marked course, scenic surroundings, friendly volunteers, and all those other little details that make the entry fee feel justified. A great triathlon needs to cover more than just the basics. The scenery has to be so good that you forget about your speedometer for the entire bike leg. The volunteers have to be so friendly that you're inspired to finally volunteer at a race. In order for a race to be one of the greatest on Earth, participating in it should be a life-changing experience and one that you know you'll never forget."

He went on to write that choosing the hardest race on Earth was "a little tricky," and said that the editors wanted the winner to have the toughest, not necessarily the longest, course.

"With that in mind," Culp continued, "it was hard to pick anything other than Maryland's SavageMan Triathlon."

The featurette that follows about the SavageMan was written by Jay Prasuhn, who competed in the 70.0 last year. The story chronicles his intense effort to get through the grueling race, including his crowning glory of earning a coveted "brick" on the Westernport Wall bike portion. Each rider who makes it up the sheer incline on this hillside of Westernport is granted a brick with his or her name engraved on it and placed in the wall there.

tire story at www.savagemantri.org/TriathleteMag_100BestRaces.pdf

In addition to attracting world-class athletes to Garrett County for the event, Safko has noted that they now are far more likely to come back to the area on their own. A Fondo survey was taken and compiled, and the results showed that 95.4% of the respondents said yes to the following question: Are you more likely to return to Deep Creek Lake/Garrett County for vacationing or training now that you have experienced the quality of cycling in the area?

"This is tremendous data, not only for us, but quite significant for the county as well," Safko said.

Some of the athletes who have taken the challenge of the "hardest race on Earth" have expressed a wide range of emotion and feeling about their experiences.

Susan Williams, 2008 and 2009 SavageMan 70.0 Triathlon Champion and triathlon bronze medalist at the Athens Olympics, said the SavageMan was "by far" the hardest half ironman course she has ever done.

"And I've done St. Croix, where they have 'The Beast!' But that's nothing compared to this! I'm going to tell all my friends back in Colorado they've got to come try this race."

Local athlete Kelly Green, the champion of the 2008 SavageMan 30.0 race, said the shorter race, set for Sept. 18, "is perfect for those who like a challenge, but don't like toppling over on their bikes. It has most of the scenery, and a lot less of the suffering," she said. "And the ice cream at the finish line is the same, whether you climb the Wall or not! I highly recommend this well-run and fun race!"

Native Garrett Countian Matthew Sincell, now of New York City, said the volunteers gave him precious support during his journey.

"Sheer willpower is a lot of the secret to completing a race like this, but without the volunteers, and their enthusiastic support, it would be virtually impossible, and not nearly as much fun," Sincell said. "Because I grew up in Garrett County, I already knew the generosity of spirit that exists there. But in moments when I felt like giving up, it was so nice to see people like Steve Cosner and a number of student athletes handing me a cup of water and a few words of encouragement. This is only one example that comes to mind. Around every corner and top of every hill were Garrett Countians cheering their hearts out.

"As a native, it fills me with pride that this race has been tapped as the most difficult triathlon on the planet, because recognition like that will bring people from all around the world, and they will see that the only thing that surpasses the physical beauty of Garrett County is the beauty of the people who live here."

A unique feature of the event is that 100% of the proceeds raised go to the Joanna M. Nicolay Melanoma Foundation.

"Melanoma is the most serious and lethal form of skin cancer, accounting for 79% of all skin cancer deaths," Safko said. "This savage cancer is a potential threat to the full spectrum of active and casual outdoor sports enthusiasts, and that especially includes triathletes. All proceeds benefit this foundation, which is now known as the "voice of melanoma prevention, detection, care, and cure."

Josh Beck, the 2007 and 2009 SavageMan 70.0 Triathlon runner-up, had this to say about his experience:

"Savageman combines all the best attributes that you could ask of a triathlon: a super challenging course, a great venue for spectators, a great atmosphere, and a worthy charity. There are tons of triathlons that you can race, but Savageman is one that you have to survive. It's great!"

...AND THE FIRST SHALL BE LAST...
by Dan Muss

Early Saturday morning there wasn't much wind, but by race time a nice breeze came up from the south. PRO Jim Munford set a triangle course in a N-S alignment. But when the Masters' Fleet started, the wind had shifted to the east and the whole fleet started at the pin on the port tack.

We were fourth around the first windward mark and, with that shift to the east, we were on a beam reach for the jibe mark. We went high, caught a freshening zephyr, and passed the lead boats to round the jibe mark in first place. We popped our spinnaker without having to jibe and rounded the leeward mark with a good 200-yard lead, feeling pretty good... until the wind died, and we bobbed and drifted as the wind came up elsewhere and we finished that race in last place! Oh, the vagaries of sailing on Deep Creek Lake!

The forecasts Sunday morning were for showers and wind from the west at 15 to 20 knots. When it was time to go out, however, it looked really nice, maybe 7 or 8 and spitting rain. So I and my fearless crew Marilyn Filemyr went out to rig. As we were ready to hoist sail, I saw the Rebels folding their sails, and Ted Rissell and his crew, Carol Muss, heading away from the water. What a bunch of wusses I thought; it's not that bad.

The committee boat was favored for our start and my timing was off as we arrived at the line 20 seconds early, so I had to bear off and run the line. It wasn't our greatest start, but we were moving and had reasonably clean air. Halfway to the first mark we were back in the fleet, so I held an unfavorable starboard tack to get away from the fleet, which paid off. We rounded in first place, but with the fleet close behind.

After rounding the offset mark, we raised our spinnaker but the wind started howling, and with Meehan close to us to windward, I felt distinctly uncomfortable. I called for the spinnaker to come down and we sailed downwind without it. We were still on a plane behind Peters and Meehan and, as we rounded the leeward mark for the second beat, we saw nothing but whitecaps... we had the predicted 15 – 20 and we had no business being out there, so we headed back to the moorings.

As we sailed up through the slot, I saw a Flying Scot capsized with the rescue boat standing by; it turned out that it was Ed and Beth Halley. Now, the Halleys have just graduated from the Deep Creek Sailing School this summer. The school requires all junior students to learn to right their capsized Optimist Prams. It's a fundamental way of removing the fear of going over.

The school also teaches adult students how to right a capsized Flying Scot. Although it's not required, most students go into the water and learn how to do it. So did the Halleys. And last Sunday they righted their Scot without assistance and finished the race! Well done, guys!

As we were headed back, we saw another near capsize. Roger Levin and his crew, Dan Spohn, looked like they were going over when, at the last moment, the boat righted. It was a real spoiler; they had been doing great in that heavy air, but with all that green water pouring over their gunnel they were no longer competitive.

This weekend we will have the last of the July-August Series races and then the Commodore's Cup over the Labor Day weekend.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

You wouldn't associate Bittinger with the word "diversity." The residents are almost completely white, mostly of German-Swiss decent. And we only have two denominations of Protestant churches: Lutheran and Mennonite.

You can't even generalize about Mennonites, because Bittinger has three different Mennonite congregations. I don't know why. I think maybe one reason is that the Bittinger Mennonite Church is quite conservative, maybe the most conservative.

I know several people who go to Cherry Glade Mennonite Church, and in most ways, they seem reasonably moderate. I know one couple who attends Glade Mennonite Church, where I used to go to Bible school every summer. I was sad when they tore down the old white wood church to replace it with a modern-type brick church. I know the old church was very small. That's also why Emmanuel Lutheran Church replaced a very beautiful, old church. It was almost 200 years old. It was where my parents were married and I was baptized. It was also where my wedding was, and the funeral of my father. My Buckle grandparents were also buried from there.

Without a doubt, Lutheran is one of the most progressive Protestant denominations. But even in the many Lutheran churches in Garrett County, people range across the spectrum of liberal to conservative.

Another common church, Brethren, is from the same region of Bavaria (Germany and Switzerland) where all my ancestors, whether Glotfelty, Brenneman, Buckle, or Miller, come from. One of the most liberal persons I knew in my life was a Brethren, my uncle Wayne Buckle, who was deeply involved in the struggle for social justice, including the Civil Rights movement in the early 1960s, and he was quite anti-war.

I doubt that the closest Brethren Church to Bittinger, Bethesda Brethren Church at the end of Dung Hill Road, has any member as liberal as Wayne.

I also know several families within the Bittinger area who are Catholic, but we don't have a Catholic church in Bittmger.

A major issue in the Nixon vs. JFK race was that Kennedy was a Catholic. Quite a few people believed that made him unfit for serving as president of the United States. Nixon was a Quaker. But the Catholic faith in America includes all kinds of people, some very conservative and some very liberal.

It's hard to find much agreement across the various Christian faiths, so how can we generalize about even more diverse religions like Islam?

It is true that we still have many troops in Iraq, but far fewer than the last 10 years. Their mission is to support Iraq in a different transition. No number of troops can be put in place for an effective government, as they are still facing a long civil war. We may have toppled Saddam Hussein and his very corrupt government, but left behind a vacuum with no decent government to replace it.

If you hate big federal government, would you prefer to eat salmonella contaminated eggs? Is it right to put a hen in a small wire cage without a glimpse of sunshine or the ability to get exercise? Or should they be able to graze around grasslands, eating insects and seeds? We have some local egg producers using free-range techniques. But many Americans regard any talk about the quality of life of agriculture animals as just another stupid, hippy idea.

Our young president certainly has his hands full, even if they are capable hands. Imagine if it was your responsibility to respond to so many challenging things, such as the disastrous oil spill in the Gulf of Mexico and trying to revive a very ill economy that has left so many Americans in difficult circumstances. They do not have enough income, and when they lost their job, they also lost their health coverage.

It is essential to improve our education system when there is a possibility that thousands of teachers may by laid off. America is a very diverse nation involving all kinds of values, goals, problems, and needs. But somehow, the nation's head of state must balance the many interests into one nation, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

I can't remember which of my conservative friends said to me, "The Union is taking over the automobile industry." I'm not sure how the union can take over anything.

When the first unions were established, it wasn't they who behaved violently. It was the owner of the company they worked for who hired thugs to bash heads.

If the mine in West Virginia that exploded last year were a union mine, the union would have shut it down, and many lives would have been saved.

I have a feeling that I am probably the only person who was a member of the Seamstress Union and the Steel Workers Union. Maybe I am wrong about that, but I doubt it. Most unions are not easy to join, and most of them demand that you show that you can do the job.

An example is the union for set painters. That was one of the best paid backstage jobs. And when I arrived in New York City, I was very skilled at set painting, but I didn't know anyone in the business. So I had to settle for much lower wages in the costume business. Instead of $100 per hour, I settled for under $10. But it was a job with insurance coverage. To get into the Costume Designers Union, I would have had to take an extremely difficult exam. That was not my goal.

Hooray! Maryland is among 10 states that won the Race to the Top grant money. That means that we show the most progress in the improvement of education systems. And it is not through the use of charter schools, but our fine public school system. I know from my own experience in Garrett County and the generally positive experiences my daughters had. There is no need for a massive reform in Maryland. We just need more funding for the poorest students in Baltimore and Maryland areas outside Washington, D.C.

I am very proud of my tiny contribution to the progress of the inner-city schools because my favorite former student, Chucky Brown, is now what the inner-city schools most need – a male African-American teacher. Chucky was a standout student at Garrett Community College. He won the All-American states for his skill on the hoop floor. And he was just a terribly nice kid.

He did not just squeeze out a passing grade on the dreaded impromptu English exam. To pass it, a student had to write a 500-word essay with fewer than five errors: spelling, grammar, punctuation, etc. It had to all make sense and be well-organized. He did that by spending hours with me in the writing lab. It was not really a high standard for the average freshman English student, but it was a reasonable standard. And some students did not pass it, because they refused to put in the time at the writing lab.

Our last combat troops pulled out of Iraq. They will still have 50,000 there, with the mission to assist with Iraqi security, police, and military forces. Not that we can be sure that more American soldiers are not still in danger. And it's not time to hang a big banner that says "Mission Accomplished."

It is very strange how the western states are incompetent at keeping dangerous criminals behind bars. Three convicted murderers escaped from an Arizona prison. Just a little north of there, a convicted killer escaped from a Colorado maximum security prison. I can't believe all Westerners believe that the Constitution's guarantee for "liberty" extends to murderers. But it seems to be happening in states where the most important part of the Constitution is the Second Amendment. The escapees in Arizona had no problem buying more guns while they were on the run.

What do you know about Michigan? Besides being the center of the automobile industry, it also has the most Muslim citizens! Its economy is really struggling, and the number of gun-toting militias is the largest number of any of the states. And Muslims are struggling to get approval to build a mosque? I think Michigan is at last 500 miles or more from "ground zero."

It is five years since Hurricane Katrina devastated the Gulf Coast. You may have seen some BP ads on television that mainly feature Gulf Coast residents who play some important roles in the response effort. Although you can't see oil slicks or any more oil coming on the shores, the bad news is there is lots of oil under the surface of the gulf. And there is no way to get that oil out of the water.

One large oil plume under the surface is as big as Manhattan Island. Remember a few months ago BP said that it will probably be mid-August until the relief effort would be complete? The damage had already happened, largely because BP tried to hide the true state of affairs by pouring in millions of gallons of toxic dispersants. The combination of oil plus dispersant is much more toxic than just oil.

I am truly heartsick that all federal funding of fetal stem cell research has been stopped dead in its tracks because of a lawsuit filed to stop it. America produced hundreds of embryos for implantation in infertile women. But they produced way more than they could implant reasonably or safely, except for the crazy doctor who implanted eight embryos in a women who already had six children. She had no income and no way to raise 14 children successfully.

But the anti-abortion forces are just completely unreasonable when they link federal stem cell research to abortion. If life is so precious, what about the possibility that cell research might find a way to save many lives, and return me to a reasonable quality of life?

I do have a good friend who is passionately pro life. I respect her opinion, and she is able to respect my opinion.

One simple thing that could make a significant difference in our educational results is the scientific fact that it is almost impossible for a teenager to fall asleep before 11 p.m. And they do need to sleep eight hours. Schools that start later have fewer discipline problems and more learning in their classrooms. I know I am ready to go to bed many hours before my daughters.

I am proud to be living in the most progressive state, even if I also live in the most backward part of it. I doubt I can influence many people, especially some of my former students who know very well that I am sane and sensible, and even open-minded.

Most of them rarely cut my class because they knew there was a good chance that they would miss something important. I'm very proud of the majority of them. They also knew that I supported the idea to "challenge authority," but if someone wanted to do that with me or a much higher authority, he or she had better be very well prepared.

Adorable Adoptables

Question #3: Jobs

Our area needs more and better jobs, since nearly 40% of our households have an annual income of less than $35,000 (US Census: American Community Survey). We have become dependent on seasonal, low wage and tourism jobs when we should attract better-paying, year-round jobs that allow our young people to stay and residents to return. Our officials should be working together to increase jobs in every category: labor, trades, technical, locally-owned businesses, professional, academic, and services, so our families can provide for themselves and their futures. Many believe certain areas are benefiting, but people in our towns and communities are being left behind with ever-rising taxes and fees.

In Loving Memory of

CONNIE HUMBERSON

January 30, 1947 - August 23, 2004

Connie, Darling, we were entwined just like the Bible said we would be. Connie, you were A-B-C- and D. You loved A - angels, B - butterflies, C - carousels, and D was your dogs, and you cannot forget your grandkids. The day Jehovah God took you, He took you very kind, gentle, and sweet. I have thanked Him for that. Darling, you were always here for me. You would always make everything OK. Darling, the tears won't stop. Yes, my beautiful Connie Sue, your earrings are still in and your hair looks great. Darling, our bags are still packed for Boston. Connie, Darling, Happy 47th Anniversary to you, my "Golden Lady," "Earth Angel," fairest of them all. Darling, you keep talking about getting our vows renewed, this is the year, let's get it done. Darling, I say please and thanks to God a lot. Darling, I am still waiting and looking for one of your notes sealed with a lipstick kiss. Sweetheart, I know you're watching me from a faraway place. Darling, you always said to keep the lights on for you. Sweetheart, the lights just keep getting brighter. Love you, hurry home.

Love Always,
Richard

Farm Service Agency Reports

Preston County FSA Office
157 Plaza CT., Suite 13, Kingwood, WV 26537-1793

PRESTON COUNTY FSA REMINDERS

The Preston County Farm Service Agency reminds all sheep producers that they have until January 31, 2011, to apply for Loan Deficiency Payments on wool and unshorn pelts produced during the 2010 crop year.

Eligible producers must have beneficial interest in the pelts, have owned the lambs for at least 30 calendar days before the date of slaughter and sell the unshorn lambs for immediate slaughter.

Lamb slaughter companies, order buyers representing lamb slaughter companies, and processors are ineligible to for LDPs on unshorn pelts produced from unshorn lambs purchased from eligible producers.

Producers must also comply with wetland conservation and highly erodible land conservation provisions on all land they operate or in which they have an interest. The pelts must also have been produced by an eligible producer from live unshorn lambs of domestic origin in the U.S.

To obtain further information or to obtain an LDP for 2010 wool or unshorn pelts, persons are invited to visit the Farm Service Agency office, located in the Corner Mall of the Kingwood Plaza, or telephone 304-329-1923.

Producers are also reminded of West Virginia's Wild and Wooly Fiber Festival that will be held Sept. 11-12 at the WVU Reedsville Farm Arena along W.Va. Routes 7 and 92 in Reedsville. Activities will include a fiber competition, silent auction, a fiber animals sale, a display of finished products, seminars, educational displays, and children's activities. Fiber animals to be on display are alpacas, sheep, rabbits, llamas, and goats.

The festival will be held in the arena, and there is free parking and free admission. This event is sponsored by the W.Va. Alpaca Organization, Mid-Atlantic Fiber Association, WVU Extension Service, the Morgantown Fiber Guild, and the North American Alpaca Federation.

SMALL GRAINS CROP INSURANCE DEADLINE FOR WEST VIRGINIA IS SEPTEMBER 30

The Raleigh Regional Office, USDA Risk Management Agency (RMA), reminds West Virginia small grains producers that Sept. 30 is the final date for those not currently insured to apply for crop insurance on wheat or barley. Current policyholders likewise have until Sept. 30 to make any changes to their policies. Prices for 2011 wheat and barley will be determined by the Commodity Exchange Price Provisions and posted on the RMA web site at http://www.rma.usda.gov/tools/pricediscovery.html. Wheat and barley previously covered under APH will have both yield protection and revenue protection for the first time under the new Common Crop Insurance Policy Basic Provisions (11-BR).

For more information, persons are invited to log on to the RMA web site at http://www.rma.usda.gov or contact a local crop insurance agent as soon as possible. A list of agents is maintained at the local USDA Farm Service Agency office and on the RMA web site at http://www3.rma.usda.gov/tools/agents/.

NONINSURED CROP DISASTER ASSISTANCE PROGRAM DEADLINES APPROACHING

The Preston County Farm Service Agency reminds farmers of the provisions for the 2011 Noninsured Crop Disaster Assistance Program (NAP) and its deadlines. NAP is intended to provide coverage equivalent to the Catastrophic Level of Crop Insurance for crops not insurable in the county. NAP is like Catastrophic Crop Insurance in that the first 50 percent of the farmer's loss is not eligible for payment. The payment rate is 55 percent of the crop's average market price. Benefits are limited to $100,000 per crop year for each participant.

NAP covers all noninsurable, commercially grown crops produced for food and fiber. Any acreage of forage intended to be mechanically harvested, but grazed instead, must be appraised before grazing. The 2008 Farm Bill stipulates that for farmers to maintain eligibility in many of the supplemental disaster assistance programs, all noninsurable crops produced on the farm must be covered by NAP. Likewise, all crops produced on the farm that are insurable must be covered by federal crop insurance.

Sept. 1 – Aquaculture, mushrooms, Christmas trees, ornamental nursery, floriculture, strawberries, ginseng, and turfgrass sod.

Sept. 30 – Barley, triticale, garlic, wheat, and rye.

Nov. 20 – Apples, nectarines, blueberries, peaches, cranberries, cherries, pears, plums, and grapes.

Dec. 1 – Honey and maple sap.

March 15, 2011 – Alfalfa grass, clover, mixed forage, and all other annual crops.

The nonrefundable NAP service fee is $250 per crop, per county. Fees are capped at $750 per county, not to exceed $1,875 for farmers with interests in multiple counties. Producers who qualify as limited resource may have the NAP service fee waived.

For any covered crops that suffer damage or loss, producers must file a timely notice of loss. For prevented planting claims, this would be 15 calendar days after the final planting date of the crop. For low-yield claims and allowable value loss, a timely report would be the earlier of 15 calendar days after the damaging weather or natural disaster, or the date loss of the crop becomes apparent.

If a producer is eligible to receive NAP payments and benefits under any other program administered by the secretary of agriculture for the same crop loss, the producer must choose whether to receive NAP payments or benefits under any other program. A producer is not eligible for NAP benefits and an insurance indemnity.

For further information on the Noninsured Crop Disaster Assistance Program and the requirements in the 2008 Farm Bill, persons are invited to visit the Farm Service Agency office, located in the Corner Mall of the Kingwood Plaza, telephone 304-329-1923, or send an e-mail to Eric.Mccartney@wv.usda.gov.

I am horrified to think about how it would feel to be trapped hundreds of yards underground like the miners in Chile. Luckily, they do have some supply of food, water, and air. But it's very crowded down there. Yes, they are all alive, but they know they probably won't get out until Christmas. That is way too long to wait to be rescued, but they do still have hope that they will be above ground again. It is a complicated mission.

Altar flowers at Emmanuel will be given this week by the Kevin and Carol Bass family in memory of Ruth DiPaolo.

Last week, Ruth Beckman, Katie Kierstead, Doris Kubli, and Cindy Richardson took a supply of handcrafted comforters to the Dove Center for distribution to its clients. The sewing group at the Bittinger Parish continues to meet every Tuesday morning, and everyone is invited to join them.

A congregational meeting will be held at Emmanuel following church services this Sunday to vote on a number of proposals relating to church and property maintenance.

A good crowd attended the annual Bittinger Parish gathering at the 4-H Center near Bittinger this past Sunday. Even though there were scattered rain showers, the people were glad for the rain and continued with praise and worship.

Following the worship service, Setn and Veronica Porter spoke to the assembly regarding their missionary plans for 2011. They will be serving in Papua New Guinea. The offering for the service will be given to them as they continue to gather support for their missionary venture.

DEER PARK FIRE HALL

Vote Gregan Crawford
Garrett County Commissioner, District 1
REPUBLICAN

I believe that our county is at a crossroads, and that the decisions that are and need to be made have much longer term consequences then ever before relative to those living, working, and enjoying the unique community that is Garrett County. Given the tough economic times and challenges, the citizens can no longer accept the status quo, a reactive mind set, or haphazard spending; rather the new Board of Commissioners must be more forward thinking and proactive in their approach to resolving issues, reducing taxes, and expanding the economic landscape for all of Garrett County. I am confident that I can bring the new leadership that is needed to address initiatives and matters that affect all of us. Your voice matters.

If you are content with the actions and decisions of our incumbent commissioners then your choice as to whom to vote for is easy this September; if you are not then I ask for your vote and support.

Pros, Cons

economic boon to the town, it receives little of the county's 4.5 percent admissions and amusement tax that rafting companies collect from their customers. That is because the official "put-in" or access site to the Yough River is located in the Sang Run area, which is several miles up stream from Friendsville. Rafters and kayakers park in the town, ride in company or private shuttle vehicles up to the put-in site, raft/kayak down the Yough, and get out of the river anywhere they can in Friendsville, rather than traveling another 30 minutes to a take-out point at the community park.

The rafting companies report their admissions and amusement taxes to the state, which then forwards the money to the county, since Sang Run is not an incorporated community.

In addition to the lack of tax revenue, town officials and residents are experiencing parking, trespassing, and policing headaches, especially on weekends.

"The locals who live there are seeing it as a problem," said Councilman Jess Whittemore about the influx of visitors in Friendsville. "They're seeing people walking with gear out in the middle of streets when there are cars in the streets, they're seeing changing of clothes, they're seeing drinking, they're seeing camping in the streets, and they can't see past the negatively of it into the opportunity of it."

SEVENTEEN BED-SIZED QUILTS and more will be auctioned off at Country Fest this weekend at the Garrett County Fairgrounds. The handmade quilt auction will begin at 1:30 p.m. The quilts will be on display until 1 p.m., and can also be previewed at www.countryfest.org.

Whittemore, who has been a kayaker for more than 30 years, said the town needs help in looking at the opportunities of "this resource," as well as its problems.

"The town was not designed around the influx of huge amounts of people and visitors," the councilman said. "We need help; we need a lot of help."

He noted that the town is working on an ordinance to help address the camping issue.

Whittemore suggested following Pennsylvania's method of designating put-in sites. If Friendsville were demed an "in-gate" site or host town as Ohiopyle is, the local town could get more tax and other revenue, and crowd issues could be better addressed, he indicated.

"Sang Run has very little to do with what's going on, and we're the ones with all the opportunity," he said about the Yough River rafting experience.

Noting that Friendsville's budget has been reduce by more than half because of state cuts in highway user fee allocations, the mayor asked the commissioners for assistance in acquiring parking signage and a share of the revenue that the county receives from the Sang Run tax.

County administrator Monty Pagenhardt said the county's Roads Department could fabricate the signs for the town.

Commissioner Ernie Gregg suggested that the town contact the Sheriff's Office, state's attorney, and the local Traffic Advisory Committee for advice on what types of signs to erect, where to put the signs, and how to deal with violators.

Commissioner Fred Holliday also suggested that parking permits be issued to residents and visitors, which would help with policing issues.

Commissioner Denny Glotfelty said town officials should meet with Garrett County Department of Economic Development director Jim Hinebaugh, who could give advice on economic issues and grant funding. Glotfelty asked if the town had a piece of property that could be used specifically for parking.

Schlosnagle said that issue has been discussed with the Maryland Department of Natural Resources. He said Secretary John Griffin visited the town about three months ago and looked at several possible places.

Whittemore noted there was "plenty of parking" in the town lot, but most rafters do not want to walk that far to get to their vehicles after they leave the water.

The town and county officials discussed various others ways they could address the benefits and problems of the rafting boom.

"We need to work at ways to make this acceptable for the residents and to the rafters because it is an economic endeavor," Gregg said.

work other than work toward bringing the site into compliance, but that the site was still not in full compliance with the permit requirements."

Another inspection was scheduled for Tuesday of this week, during which inspectors found that the companies have made progress, but still have additional items to address before they are in compliance.

These include additional sediment control structures such as sediment basins and microbasins (smaller versions of sediment basins) and ditches to convey and control runoff.

"We also found that they had done earth-disturbance work (such as excavation work for windmill pads and crane pads) not related to work needed to bring the site into compliance," Apperson said. "This was inconsistent with what we had advised them to do and what they had agreed to do after the August 3 inspection. So on Tuesday, we advised White Construction and Synergics to cease all work at the site (including work that does not involve earth disturbance) other than work needed to bring the site into compliance until the site is in full compliance. They agreed to do so."

Apperson refused to comment on enforcement action against the companies since the matter remains under investigation.

JOE WAS ELECTED REGISTER OF WILLS IN 1978. HE WAS RE-ELECTED TO 7 ADDITIONAL 4-YEAR TERMS. HE RETIRED JUNE 30, 2008. HE IS RITA'S TREASURER.

RITA SERVED WITH JOE FOR MORE THAN 30 YEARS AS HIS CHIEF DEPUTY. SHE WAS SELECTED TO FOLLOW HIM AS REGISTER ON JULY 1, 2008.

JOE DISIMONE

I urge my friends and all the voters of Garrett County to keep Rita Watson as their Register of Wills by voting for her in the September 14 Primary Election. I don't do this to benefit Rita or because we are good friends. I do it because I know that it's the best thing for the people of Garrett County, who sooner or later will be involved with her office and need her help.

I ask this not only because Rita served with great competence as my Chief Deputy for 30 years and not only because of her extensive knowledge of probate law and its application or her excellent record as Register for the past year and her capable performance as clerk to the Orphans' Court, and not even because I know that being Register of Wills has been her dream since she was 18 years old.

But I ask it also because there are literally hundreds of open estates and probate matters currently pending in Rita's office. Some of these cases take months or even years to complete. While this is occurring there are dozens of details concerning the progress and status of each of these individual estates known only to Register of Wills. The people who are working their way through this process must rely heavily on her knowledge, experience and her understanding of the issues facing them in their particular cases. What is to happen to those people if they must now start over with someone who not only has no experience in the complex business of the Orphans' Court or the probate process, but who knows nothing about their individual cases?

I have first hand knowledge of Rita's compassion and desire to help people. I know of her efforts to help them avoid unnecessary expense and get through probate with as little pain and worry as possible. Rita has that special, understanding way of talking to people who come to her in an emotional state of mind having lost a loved one, and facing all the problems that can entail. She has the gift of a personality that enables her to make them feel comfortable and at ease. This is true because Rita genuinely cares about other people.

Rita also has extensive knowledge of the complex state computer system which is used in every aspect of the work of the Register's office. Over the years, Rita has attended dozens of seminars and training sessions with experts in probate law and procedure including with lawyers from the Attorney General's office. Some years ago she started, on her own initiative, a series of free classes on probate throughout the county. These were held in the evenings for the convenience and benefit of people facing the prospect of losing someone close to them and needing information concerning estate planning. She did this voluntarily and without compensation.

Rita has also trained her co-workers, Tom Matthews and Heather O'Brien, to be efficient and outstanding public servants. Rita has been a great asset to the Office of Register of Wills for more than 31 years. The office is much busier today than it was when I was elected. I volunteered to be the treasurer of her campaign because I believe it very important that she continue to serve the people of Garrett County in that office.

I also want to thank the voters of Garrett County for giving me the honor of serving as their Register of Wills for more than 30 years.

Register of Wills, Retired

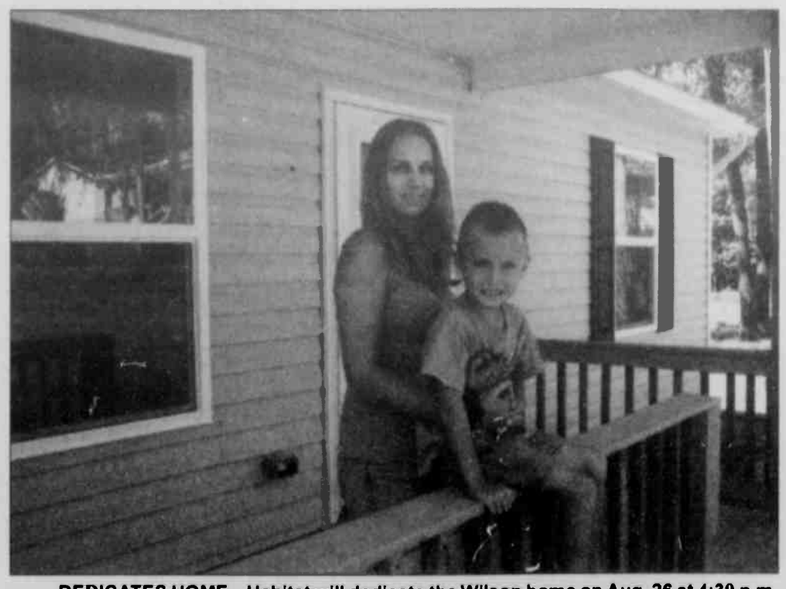
Online MBA From Frostburg Rated "Best Value"

GetEducated.com, a consumer watchdog group that reviews and ranks online academic program for cost, quality, and credibility, has ranked Frostburg State University among its best values in AACSB-accredited online master of business administration degrees. FSU's online MBA ranks ninth on this national list.

The online business degree rankings are based on a national survey of 69 AACSB-accredited business schools that offer 133 master of business administration degrees using distance learning technology.

"This is the result of a truly collaborative effort between our MBA coordinator, the director of graduate services and the faculty of the College of Business, who worked together for over two years in order to launch such a high-quality online program," said Dr. Ahmad Tootoonchi, dean of the FSU College of Business.



FSU's College of Business ranks as the ninth most affordable online MBA program overall. Maryland residents will pay just under $12,000 for this distance MBA. Online students outside of Maryland will pay more at about $14,000. According to GetEducated.com, by comparison, the average cost for an online MBA with AACSB accreditation is $32,926. GetEducated.com's complete list of the "Top 47 Ranked Best Buys in Online MBAs – AACSB Accredited" is available free online as a part of the distance education group's Consumer Guide to Online MBAs. Persons may visit www.geted-ucated.com and click on Ratings and Rankings/Best Buys to see the rankings of AASCB-accredited online MBAs.

"Cost is the number one factor that keeps working Americans from enrolling in higher education," says Vicky Phillips, GetEducated.com's founder. "FSU offers online learners in Maryland a chance at a high-quality graduate business degree through distance learning at about one-third the cost of the national average. That's an amazing value."

"In today's highly complex global environment, earning a graduate degree that is based entirely on faceto face class participation is almost impossible for many citizens of the world," Tootoonchi said. "Our faculty developed a plan that provides students, regardless of their location, the opportunity to obtain a master of business administration degree through online learning without compromising our continuous commitment to high-quality education in the AACSB-accredited College of Business at FSU."

FSU's MBA is being offered fully online for the first time starting in fall 2010. Many of the required courses were available online previously, and courses are still available in face-to-face format as well. All programs offered by FSU's College of Business are accredited by AACSB International.

AACSB stands for The Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business. For more information about FSU's MBA program, interested persons should call the Office of Graduate Services at 301-687-7053, e-mail gradservices@frostburg.edu, or visit www.frostburg.edu/grad.

Garrett County SKIES

By Dr. Bob Doyle
Frostburg State Planetarium

SEPTEMBER SUN – As September begins, the sun appears in front of the stars of Leo, moving a degree a day eastward relative to the stars. In the late evening of Sept. 16, the sun enters the star group Virgo where it stays through Oct 30. Both of the above star groups are nearly lost in the sun's glare in September. The star group Libra is to the east of Virgo, so it sets after the sun, appearing low in the western dusk. The star group Cancer (to the west of Leo) rises before the sun and is visible low in the eastern dawn. In early September, sunrises in Garrett County are at about 6:48 a.m., while sunsets are at about 7:45 p.m. (13 hours of daylight). Around the end of September, Garrett County's sunrises are at about 7:10 a.m., and sunsets occur at about 7:05 p.m. (11.9 hours of daylight). So during September, the stars are last seen around 6 a.m. (early dawn) and then reappear at about 8:30 p.m. (late dusk).

SEPTEMBER MOON – September starts with the moon appearing half full (like a backward D) in the southern dawn sky. On Sept. 8, the moon swings from the morning to the evening side of the sun. On Sept. 11, a very slender crescent moon may be seen low in the west-southwest around 8 p.m. To the right of the moon on that evening will be the brilliant planet Venus. Binoculars held steadily may allow one to see the star Spica (of Virgo) and the dull planet Mars. Much farther to the right (due west) will be the planet Saturn. On Sept. 14, the evening moon will be half full (like a tilted D), offering the best views of its craters and mountain ranges through binoculars and telescopes. The moon will be fullest on the evening of Sept. 22, this is fall's harvest moon. On that evening, the moon will appear above the bright planet Jupiter. Through the end of September, the moon will shine in the late evening sky, rising about 45 minutes later each night.

SEPTEMBER PLANETS – The five nearest planets are easily seen by eye, four of them shining steadily in contrast to the twinkling stars. Of the five, Mercury is usually the most difficult to see, at a low angle to the sun and seen very close to the horizon either at dawn or dusk. Mercury can be seen very low in the 6 a.m. eastern sky in mid September below the bright star Regulus. Venus is the brilliant point of steady light very low in the west-southwest, best seen as it begins to get dark. At the start of September, Venus sets a little after 9 p.m., which drops to about 7:50 p.m. by month's end. At the beginning of September, all three planets may be seen with binoculars low in the western dusk. Mars and Saturn will be lost in the sun's glare by late September. The bright planet Jupiter becomes easier to see in September, rising in the east-southeast about 8:30 p.m. in early September, which drops to sunset time on Sept. 21.

SEPTEMBER EVENING STARS – The Big Dipper is well placed in the north-northwest so it "can hold water or soup." The two end scoop stars point rightward to the North Star, a modest star about halfway up in the north. By extending the Big Dipper's handle outward, one comes to the golden sparkling star Arcturus, low in the west. The brightest evening star is white-blue Vega, nearly overhead. In the first half of September (when there is no bright early evening moonlight), the Milky Way can be seen as a ghostly arch running from the northeast across the top of the sky down into the southwest.

SEPTEMBER PROGRAMS – The Frostburg State Planetarium will reopen with its free public planetarium programs on Sundays at 4 and 7 p.m., beginning Sept. 12. The September program is titled "Calendars – Ancient and Modern," and will cover the basics of timekeeping and the development of calendars over the millennia. (The Mayan calendar, due to expire in 2012, will be discussed.) Also included is an introduction to the evening skies of September and October. This 45-minute program will continue through the remaining Sundays in September and then there is a new program for October. Following the program will be a tour of the Science Discovery Center, where there is a large display of preserved animals from five different continents. To receive a Planetarium schedule (or bookmark), persons may telephone 301-687-7799 and give name and mailing address. Persons may also access the Planetarium section of the Frostburg State web site at www.frostburg.edu/planetarium.

Activist Julia Hill Will Speak At Frostburg State

Julia Lorraine Butterfly Hill, an environmentalist, poet, writer, educator, and speaker who lived in a redwood tree for two years to save it, will speak at Frostburg State University on Tuesday, Sept. 14, at 7 p.m. in Pealer Recital Hall of the Performing Arts Center. The talk will be presented as a conversation and will be followed by questions from the audience. A book signing will precede the talk.

Hill, founder of the nonprofit organization Circle of Life, earned international fame as an environmental activist by protecting an old-growth forest in northern California from clear-cutting by a logging company. To prevent the logging, she lived in one of the trees, a 1,000-year-old redwood that was named Luna, for 738 days until an agreement was reached with the Pacific Lumber Company.

Hill speaks regularly on university campuses, has addressed the United Nations and lobbied Congress, and continues to stand on the front lines of environmental and social justice issues all over the world.

Hill is the author of the national best-seller The Legacy of Luna and the co-author of One Makes the Difference, both published by Harper Collins.

Hill was the subject of the 2000 documentary Butterfly and is featured in another documentary, Tree-Sit: The Art of Resistance, both chronicling her time in the redwood tree.

Hill is the youngest person ever elected to the Ecology Hall of Fame and was named by John F. Kennedy Jr. in George magazine as one of the 20 most influential women in politics. She lives in Oakland, Calif.

Hill's appearance is sponsored by the Office of the President, Student and Educational Services and the Learning Green, Living Green Committee. The talk is free and open to the public.

For more information on the event, persons may contact Ann Townsell at 301-687-3171 or atownsell@frostburg.edu. For information on the Engage Network, co-founded by Hill, persons may visit www.engagenet.org.

THERMOBARIC WEAPONS

By Dr. Tom Sheahen

Q. What is a thermobaric weapon? I've heard that they're being used in some places, and are really nasty.

A. These are exceptionally powerful bombs, more than "conventional" explosives, but less than atomic bombs. They can do a lot of damage, and kill people at large distances. The name comes from the combination of heat (thermo-) and pressure (-baric) that these give off.

A conventional explosion takes place at a "point source," where all the energy is released all at once. A blast wave spreads out radially, knocking down or destroying nearby tanks, buildings, pillboxes, etc. This technology has been used in warfare for centuries. One characteristic of such blasts is that when the blast-wave arrives, it is very sudden and then it has passed. The change in pressure with time is shaped like the letter N: a very fast rise, followed by a gradual tapering off, then recovery to normal. Soldiers who suffered "shell shock" received frequent concussions caused by strong blast waves.

A different kind of explosion takes place in an automobile cylinder. There the spark plug sets off an explosion at one point, but there is still plenty of fuel that is pushed away (as the piston moves downward) by the blast wave from that explosion. That fuel burns as it moves forward, releasing still more energy, causing a continuous renewal of the strength of the blast wave, and hence pushes harder and longer on the piston. In fact, if all the fuel exploded at once, we would say the engine is "knocking" – and the total force on the piston would be less, resulting in lower efficiency of the engine. Automotive engineers have worked hard to "tune" the propagation of these explosions perfectly.

A thermobaric weapon sets off an event somewhat like the auto-cylinder burning, but it is not confined. The initial explosion (perhaps set off by gunpowder) projects a great deal of fuel outward, and that fuel is heated to above its combustion temperature. As it moves outward, the oxygen in the air enables it to keep on burning. That releases more energy, which enables still more fuel to burn, and so it keeps on for a while. The resulting pressure wave is more than a simple "blast wave"; it sustains high pressure for a considerably longer time. That's a huge difference in weaponry.

A soldier on a battlefield who is 100 yards away from an exploding mortar shell can expect to survive if he's not hit by shrapnel or flying debris. However, a thermobaric explosion is much more dangerous. The pressure wave that passes over his body endures long enough to collapse lungs and other internal organs. A person can be killed without any external signs of bleeding or injury.

When the major pressure wave has passed, the drop in pressure is like a sudden vacuum, and that tends to collapse building walls and roofs that survived the initial shock wave. All told, a thermobaric weapon does far more damage than a conventional weapon of the same size and weight. Damage comparisons have been made between these and the smallest size of atomic weapons.

The composition of a thermobaric weapon usually involves a fuel like ethylene oxide and tiny nanoparticles of a metal such as aluminum or magnesium, to be spread out together from the initial explosion. The design goal is to burn up all the fuel; if some fuel cools too fast when thrown outward, it won't contribute to the explosive power. (Think of unburned gasoline reaching the bottom of the piston stroke.) Very hot magnesium burns with nitrogen (in air) and thus releases heat to keep the explosion going as the fuel propagates outward.

Fortunately, it is not easy to make a reliable thermobaric weapon: The combination of factors to get it just right is very intricate. Unfortunately, the Soviet Union made them in large numbers, and those are sometimes sold to rebel groups and terrorists. Lightweight thermobaric weapons are much easier to transport than 500-pound "bunker-buster" bombs. The vicious fighting in Sri Lanka involving the Tamil Tigers has seen thermobaric weapons used against civilian targets.

There has been some discussion at the United Nations of banning thermobaric weapons, a humanitarian goal similar to banning land mines. Unfortunately, terrorists don't play by any rules, and so the only safeguard is to prevent them from getting the materials in the first place.

BE OPTIMISTIC

Do you know someone who always has a smile on their face? Wouldn't it be great to approach the ups and downs of life with an upbeat attitude? God tells the story of Job, a good man who experienced great suffering. Despite his troubles, Job kept worshipping God. No matter what is going on in our lives we can focus on our Father; with His help we can be optimistic. Focus on the positive at your house of worship this week!

Medicines Prescribed for Childhood Earaches

Acute otitis media (AOM) is an inflammation and infection of the middle structures of the ear. Children between 6 months and 2 years of age are most commonly affected. However, persons of any age may experience AOM. Up to 90% of children will have experienced at least one episode of AOM by the age of 2 or 3 years. Children who attend day care may be more likely to experience ear infections. Viral infections of the upper respiratory tract or allergy can lead to an ear infection. Nasal congestion can lead to infection in the ear and accumulation of fluid in the ear, which can result in an earache.

For earache pain, ibuprofen may be helpful. Auralgan, which contains benzocaine, may be applied to the affected ear to help reduce pain. Whether a prescription antibiotic is prescribed for a child with an ear infection will depend on several factors, including how severe the infection is. Amoxicillin is a penicillin antibiotic that is typically prescribed for children with AOM. If a child is mildly allergic to penicillin, a cephalosporin antibiotic, such as cefdinir or cefuroxime, may be prescribed. However, if a child has a severe allergy to penicillin, a macrolide antibiotic, such as clarithromycin or azithromycin, can be used.

Jealousy

The eighth of the works of the flesh mentioned by Paul in his epistle to the Galatians is jealousy, which is a translation of the Greek word "zelos." The word "zelos" can be translated as jealousy, envy, or zeal, and can have both a good and a bad sense. In a good sense, we can be zealous for God and all things holy, but in a bad sense, we can envy the success of others or be jealous about our loved ones spending time with others. In Exodus 20:4-5 we are told to avoid making graven images or bowing down to anything other than God "for I the Lord your God am a jealous God." As human beings, the only proper zeal we should have is for God and goodness. Jealousy and zeal which leads to bitterness and divisiveness is obviously the bad type of jealousy, or misplaced zeal. The original meaning of the word "zelos" was "to boil." Indeed, jealousy has a way of "making our blood boil," and making us "boil over." When this zeal is holy and properly directed that is a good thing; when it is focused on our own selfish needs and desires it is not. We should reflect on what we are zealous about and try to focus our zeal on God and God alone.

Love is patient and kind; love is not jealous or boastful; it is not arrogant or rude.

Probst is still a 'Survivor,' on a new night

By Jay Bobbin

Jeff Probst

Q: Is "Survivor" going to be on in the fall? I have seen ads on CBS saying that a couple of sitcoms are moving to Thursdays. –Barbara Almy, Seattle

A: Yes, "Survivor" will be back, and it's also on the move on the CBS schedule. Jeff Probst — now a producer of the series as well as the host of it — launches "Survivor: Nicaragua," the 21st edition of the program, Sept. 15. That's a Wednesday, which is the show's new night.

Q: Will FX be renewing "Sons of Anarchy" in the near future? –Corky Cooke, Northport, N.Y.

A: The third season of the motorcycle club drama featuring Charlie Hunnam begins its run Sept. 7.

Q: Will "Undercover Boss" ever return to the air? –Bob McDermott, Suisun City, Calif.

A: CBS has been airing repeats of the initial episodes in recent weeks, leading up to the start of the show's first full season. It will remain in the Sunday lineup, and its new installments begin Sept. 26. The first fresh episode will be televised an hour later than the show normally will air, to accommodate a 90-minute season premiere of "The Amazing Race" right before it.

Q: Can you tell us if and when the final season of "ER" will be available on DVD? –Allen Anderson, Bend, Ore.

A: There's no "if" about it, since 13 of the former NBC medical drama's 15 seasons already have been released. No. 13 was issued in July, and since 2006, Warner Home Video generally has released two seasons of the show each year. Based on that, we'd expect "ER: The Complete 14th Season" during the coming winter, with the 15th and final season following roughly a year from now ... give or take a month or two.

Q: Please tell me if "Cold Case" is coming back next season. I heard that CBS was going to cancel it. –Helen Miller, Derby, Kan.

A: CBS did cancel it in the spring after a pretty healthy run of seven seasons. Repeats of it continue — for the time being, at least — weekdays, both in the afternoon and during the overnight hours, on TNT.

Q: Are Mary Beth Evans of "Days of our Lives" and "As the World Turns" and Judi Evans Luciano – of "Days of our Lives," "As the World Turns" and "Another World" – sisters? –Bill Leathers, Salisbury, Mo.

A: They aren't.

GARRETT COLLEGE NEWS BEAT

RESEARCHING OPTIONS – Judy Carbone, Garrett College director of advising, career, and transfer services, meets with student Aaron Miller to discuss the transfer planning time line. Miller is gathering information on four-year colleges that he could transfer into upon completion of an associate's degree at Garrett.

GC Offers Transferring Tips; Recommends Plan, Plan, Plan

Many students who register at Garrett College intend to transfer to a four year institution upon completion of an AA degree. To accommodate these students there are a variety of transfer programs available, as well as articulation agreements with four-year institutions.

Among these are the 11 University System of Maryland universities, Bucknell University, and Johns Hopkins University School of Business. Each agreement specifies the student's necessary course of study while at Garrett.

In order to assure a smooth transition to another college or university, the student is encouraged to begin planning early in the college career. Academic program advisors are available at Garrett to help students set career and educational goals.

"Making plans and decisions about one's future education can seem daunting, but the college faculty and staff are available to help guide the student through this process," said Judy Carbone, director of advising, career, and transfer services.

Carbone outlines some important steps in planning to transfer. First, the student should identify the college that he or she wishes to attend. Many factors may be considered in making this selection, including financial matters, personal preferences, family needs, or type of college experience desired. Students are encouraged to make use of resources available at Garrett to assist in researching their college options.

Once the transfer institution is indentified, students can work with advisors to select the Garrett College courses that match the transfer school's requirements. Choosing a major field of study will also help in making decisions on classes to take.

Carbone pointed out that it is important for the student to understand which courses will be awarded credit at the selected school, and to take the appropriate classes to make the transition. Studying hard, earning good grades, and completing required coursework will simplify the transfer process.

"Students considering transfer to Maryland institutions should also be aware that to maximize transfer of credits they should complete an associate's degree at Garrett College prior to transfer," she said.

More information on transferring is available online at www.garrettcol-lege.edu/career.

"We strongly recommend that students refer to the Garrett College Transfer Planning Timeline found on this web page," Carbone said.

In addition, she suggests that students planning to transfer visit http://artweb.usmd.edu/ for help in identifying which courses from Garrett College will transfer to four-year institutions within the University of Maryland system.

For more information on Garrett College programs and opportunities, persons are invited go online and visit www.garrettcol-lege.edu or telephone 301-387-3044.

Another placement testing session is scheduled for noon next Thursday, Sept. 2. Once testing is complete, students may set up advising sessions.

Fall semester credit classes will begin on September 8. For more information, persons may speak with an admissions counselor by calling 301-387-3044 or toll-free 1-866-554-2773. Information is also available online at www.garrettcollege.edu.

Maryland Among Nine States To Receive Race To The Top Grant

Maryland was recently awarded one of the federal government's coveted Race to the Top (RTTT) education grants, worth up to $250 million over four years, as announced by Education Secretary Arne Duncan.

The unprecedented $4.3 billion federal program is aimed at boosting student achievement, reducing gaps in achievement among student subgroups, turning around struggling schools, and improving the teaching profession. A delegation led by Governor Martin O'Malley and State Superintendent of Schools Nancy S. Grasmick outlined the state's plans for RTTT before a U.S. Department of Education panel just two weeks ago.

"I want to congratulate the students, teachers, and administrators of Maryland's public schools for demonstrating that among the 50 states, Maryland does indeed stand at the top. We are honored to have been selected as a winner of this prestigious competition," said O'Malley. "Maryland remains the nation's number one public school system, and it's our goal to continue implementing strategic reforms, allowing our students to not only compete with their peers across the nation, but to be globally competitive as well. We are grateful for the opportunity to advance these reforms with the assistance of federal investments from President Obama and the U.S. Department of Education."

Grasmick emphasized that Maryland's RTTT program builds on the state's many accomplishments, while targeting areas that have proved difficult for every state: improving achievement for all students and reducing long-term gaps in performance among student subgroups.

"Maryland's education reforms have moved our students forward, and our school system is the envy of the nation," Grasmick said. "We must continue that momentum and give all students the education they deserve. With the help of these important funds, Maryland intends to bolster our data systems, improve instruction, and attract and maintain a stronger educational workforce."

Maryland was one of nine states and the District of Columbia receiving a grant in the second round of RTTT. Delaware and Tennessee were the only grantees selected in the first round of the initiative earlier this year. Maryland did not apply in the first round.

Maryland spent the past nine months crafting a detailed grant proposal designed to continue the momentum of the nation's number one ranked education system, using a collaborative and transparent pro-cess. Twenty-two of Maryland's 24 school systems joined in the application process, along with the Baltimore Teachers Union, the Prince George's Education Association, and scores of other state education and business groups.

O'Malley signed an Executive Order in June creating the Maryland Council for Educator Effectiveness. The Council—made up of teachers, principals, education experts, and elected officials—will spend the next six months developing a model evaluation system for educators required by the Education Reform Act of 2010. The Council will begin meeting this week.

Maryland's primary RTTT reforms will:

•Revise the PreK-12 Maryland State Curriculum, assessments, and accountability system based on the Common Core Standards to assure that all graduates are college- and career-ready. The State Board in June endorsed the Common Core Standards.

•Build a statewide technology infrastructure that links all data elements with analytic and instructional tools to monitor and promote student achievement.

"Maryland developed its RTTT proposal with unprecedented engagement and openness," noted a spokesperson. A draft application was placed on the Maryland State Department of Education web site in April inviting commentary, and state officials held more than 80 meetings with local systems, organizations, and teachers associations over the past six months. In addition, the state held 40 focus groups with teachers and principals.

To ensure transparency of Maryland's proposal, MSDE called on a committee of educators and leaders. In addition to Grasmick, steering committee members were: James H. DeGraffenreidt Jr., president, Maryland State Board of Education, and steering committee co-chair; John Ratliff, director of policy, Office of the Governor; Edward Shirley, president, Public School Superintendents of Maryland; Cathy Allen, president, Maryland Association of Boards of Education; Sam Macer, president, Maryland PTA; William E. Kirwan, chancellor, University System of Maryland; June E. Streckfus, executive director, Maryland Business Roundtable for Education; and Clara B. Floyd, president, Maryland State Education Association.

Also on the committee were Marietta English, president, Baltimore Teachers Union; Loretta Johnson, executive vice president, American Federation of Teachers; Judith Walker, president, Maryland Association of Elementary School Principals; Christine Handy-Collins, president, Maryland Association of Secondary School Principals; Tina M. Bjarekull, president, Maryland Independent College and University Association, and H. Clay Whitlow, executive director, Maryland Association of Community Colleges.

Maryland's public schools, recently ranked for the second straight year as the nation's best by Education Week, have benefited from earlier reform efforts. The Sondheim Commission report in 1989 launched Maryland's move into school accountability, one of the first states in the nation to do so. A new state curriculum, new collaboration and funding brought about by the Bridge to Excellence Act, and new student-level accountability programs followed about a decade later.

MAKE YOUR MOVE

You know that it takes planning and preparation to sell your home, and the same applies to making a purchase. But whether buying or selling, you'll also have to put a lot of thought into Moving Day. After you've gotten three in-home estimates from professional moving companies and made your choice, start packing!

By starting your packing well in advance, you're actually less likely to pack things you no longer need. Sort those items separately as you go, and then have a yard sale or get receipts and deduct your donations.

When it comes to packing materials, you can save both money and the environment by using what you've already got. Instead of bubble wrap or paper, use towels, sheets, and other soft items to wrap your breakables and save space.

Label each box by number and room, and keep an inventory of its contents. Save a couple "load last" boxes for easy access on moving day and your arrival (towels, sheets, toiletries, medications, etc.).

When you do arrive, try not to be overwhelmed by all the piles of boxes. It's a lot more fun to unpack and rearrange in your new home than it is to load everything up. If you're properly organized, you can quickly get settled. Just work on one room at a time and be sure to start in the kitchen!

If you are thinking of buying or selling a home but feel "out of touch" with real estate, give me a call today.

DAR CHAPTER TOURS HISTORIC COTTAGE – Cleveland Cottage owners Roger McClung and Mary Brown last Monday took 18 members of Oakland Youghiogheny Glades Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution on a guided tour of their renovated home, which was originally built in 1884. "From 1995 on, they restored the house as much as was possible to its original state and have done an outstanding job with very tasteful décor," commented a DAR member about McClung and Brown. Located in Deer Park, the Cleveland Cottage was originally built by the B&O Railroad and was one of several cottages located on the Deer Park Hotel complex. President Grover Cleveland and his bride, Frances Folsom Cleveland, came to this cottage (then known as No. A or the Keyser Cottage) for their honeymoon after their wedding on June 2, 1886, at the White House in Washington, D.C. THE IMPACT OF HEARING LOSS ON LANGUAGE DEVELOPMENT

Parents of children with impaired hearing ability in just one ear should take the necessary steps to see that their kids get the treatment and attention they need. Recent research indicates that up to one child in 20 with hearing loss in one ear often does not get needed attention at school, special education, or a hearing instrument. As a result of ignoring their unilateral hearing loss, these children score lower on both comprehension and speech tests and were more likely to receive speech therapy than their school-age siblings with normal hearing. Children with hearing loss in only one ear should not be dismissed as not having as "significant a hearing loss" as children with hearing loss in both ears.

For children as well as adults, good hearing is not something to be taken for granted. If you suspect a hearing problem for you or a family member, give us a call at AUDIBEL. We'll arrange a convenient, painless hearing test to determine the best way to proceed. We are committed to providing individual counseling to help those with hearing loss function more effectively in educational, social, and occupational environments.

P.S. According to the study mentioned above, children with hearing loss in one ear performed just as well on IQ tests as their school-age counterparts with normal hearing.

The Rowlesburg Tourism Commission, Park Commission, Rowlesburg Volunteer Ambulance Service, and the Rowlesburg Historical Society sponsor the annual festival. All proceeds go to support these non-profit organizations.

COMMISSIONERS: Retire all three!
Elect: Gregan Crawford District #1 – Jim Raley District #2 – Robert Gatto District # 3.

We need these good men, so we can retire the three present commissioners who have been building monster buildings –yet say their budget is too tight to buy kids text books! (see Times paper of 4-22-10 which had two big headlines: "$23 million facility will include two indoor pools" — 66,000 square feet we will have to heat, maintain and pay for over the years! Just below that big headline same day, "Bleak budget won't allow for new textbooks").

Where has the sanity gone in our "leaders"? Retire them and let's get back to listening to the citizens of Garrett County.

We need men who will listen to us, the taxpayers, who must pay for these wild spending binges they have been on, yet they tell us they are conservative!! Help!

NOTICE OF INTENT TO SUBMIT WATER QUALITY ANALYSIS FOR NUTRIENTS IN DEEP CREEK LAKE AND DEEP CREEK WATERSHED, GARRETT COUNTY, MARYLAND

Section 303(d) of the federal Clean Water Act (CWA) directs States to identify and list waters, known as water quality limited segments (WQLSs), in which current required controls of a specified substance are inadequate to achieve water quality standards. For each WQLS, the State is required to establish a Total Maximum Daily Load (TMDL) of the specified substance(s) that the waterbody can receive without violating water quality standards, demonstrate that another program or action will achieve water quality standards, or demonstrate via the development of a Water Quality Analysis (WQA) that water quality standards for the specified substance(s) are currently being achieved. Maryland Department of the Environment (MDE) hereby gives notice of the public availability of draft WQA document for Nutrients (phosphorus) in Deep Creek Lake and Deep Creek watershed (basin code 05-02-02-03).

Barring the receipt of contradictory data, this report will be used to support a Nutrient listing change for the Deep Creek Lake and Deep Creek Watershed from Category 5 ("waterbodies impaired by one or more pollutants requiring a TMDL") to Category 2 ("Surface waters that are meeting some standards and have insufficient information to determine attainment of other standards"), when the Maryland Department of the Environment (MDE) proposes the revision of Maryland's 303(d) list for public review in the future. Although the waterbody cited above does not display signs of toxic impairments due to the indicated substances, the State reserves the right to require additional pollution controls in the watershed if evidence suggests that the specified substances from sources in the basin are contributing to downstream or localized water quality problems. Other substances not addressed at this time, but identified on Maryland's list of WQLSs as impairing the referenced waterbody, will be addressed in the future.

OPPORTUNITY FOR PUBLIC REVIEW AND COMMENT

A 30-day public comment period for draft document will take place from August 19, 2010 to September 17, 2010. Copies of the draft documents have been placed in the Ruth Enlow Library of Garrett County - Oakland Branch (6 N. Second St., Oakland, MD 21550). The draft document is also available on the Internet at http://www.mde.state.md.us/Programs/WaterPrograms/TMDL or by contacting Mr. Tony Allred by mail at MDE/SSA, 1800 Washington Boulevard, Suite 540, Baltimore MD 21230-1718, or by telephone at 410-537-3582 (outside the Baltimore area, dial 1-800-633-6101, x3582). Anyone wishing to review the draft document and supporting information or needing technical information may contact Mr. Allred during normal business hours.

Written comments concerning the draft document may be submitted to the Department on or before September 17, 2010, and should be sent to Mr. Allred at the above address or emailed to tallred@mde.state.md.us. If the Department determines there is sufficient interest, a public hearing on this matter may be held. All comments received during the comment period will be considered and the draft document may be revised accordingly prior to its submittal to EPA for approval.

Custom Cable Locking Mechanism for Car or Rack Use

Great kayak for beginner or expert. Has wide enough beam to be comfortable and steady but narrow enough profile, with length, to also be fast. Rudder pedal controls installed but no ruder - I never needed it. Two water tight dry compartments makes gear storage easy and boat virtually unsinkable. Kayak has been used very little, perhaps only a dozen or so times total, just light lake and river use - no ocean. The boat has been stored inside for the last few years and was stored on a boat rack beforehand. Boat and gear are all clean and in excellent shape. Total package was more than $3K when bought new, asking $1,300 for all, obo. Call Rick at 301-334-1444.

Kitzmiller Event Joins Past With Present, Future

The 22nd annual Kitzmiller Homecoming weekend held last month has been deemed "a great success" by event organizers.

"A splendid time was reportedly had by all, in large part because of the numerous volunteers who donate their energy and time to help Kitzmiller celebrate its past, present, and future," said a spokesperson.

The event began with a firemen's parade on Friday evening, July 23. Residents lined up along East and West Main Street to see the Garrett County Sheriff's Office Honor Guard, fire trucks from local departments, Shriner clowns, and much more.

Following the parade, the Kitzmiller Empowerment Group sponsored Family Fun Night.

"The Kitzmiller Elementary School grounds was filled with people enjoying music and games provided by Sounds Fun Entertainment," noted the spokesperson.

Food was provided by the Kitzmiller Little League, Kitzmiller Lions Club, and the Elk Garden District Volunteer Fire Department.

"At the close of the evening, residents viewed what many feel to be the area's most spectacular fireworks, displayed over the Potomac River," said the spokesperson.

Throughout the day on Saturday, the crowd partook of food provided again by the Kitzmiller Little League and Elk Garden District VFD. The Kitzmiller Lions Club also held its annual chicken barbecue, the Kitzmiller PTO sold ice tea and lemonade in commemorative cups, and the Kitzmiller Assembly of God WMS held a bake sale.

The Kitzmiller Fire Ladies provided a dime pitch. Residents also saw a magic show performed by Pastor Ed Calhoun and listened to music by Buck and Debbie Fisher and Harry Davis. The Durst Brothers, along with Patty Tichinell and Edie Paugh, gave a Christian concert.

The Kitzmiller Historical Museum was open for homecoming participants to view a collection of photographs and memorabilia.

Following a speedy race down the Potomac River, Duck #158 owned by Roger Welch pulled out in front at the last moment to be declared the winner of Kitzmiller's annual Duck Race. Welch was awarded $155 for his winning entry. Nathan Hawk's and Jason Paugh's entries placed second and third.

Hometown brothers John and Loren Hawk won first place out of nine teams in the horseshoe tournament, and Davey Armstrong, Corey Armstrong, and Wyatt Nelson won the three-on-three basketball tournament.

Later on Saturday evening, the Kitzmiller School reunion was held, with 65 people in attendance.

"To the delight of all, the Never Too Late Girls and their Elvis impersonator sidekick provided the night's entertainment," said the spokesperson.

The weekend event concluded on Sunday afternoon with a community covered-dish dinner and an interdenominational worship service. Local churches participated, and former Kitzmiller Assembly of God pastor Rev Sam Calhoun returned to the town to speak at the service.

Funds for the homecoming activities were provided by the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council.

TAKING TIME FOR A GIGGLE – Although the Garrett County Farm Queen has lots of duties during the fair, there is always time for a little fun. Kara Savage takes time to play with Trey and Lane Myers.

Kara Savage Named 65th Farm Queen At Traditional Crowning

Kara Savage was crowned as the 65th Garrett County Farm Queen during the traditional crowning ceremony at the Garrett County Fair. Catlm Carrico was the first runner-up.

Kara is the daughter of L. Deane and Nancy Savage, Accident. She is a 2009 merit graduate of Northern High School, where her courses of study were education and agriculture.

She will be a sophomore at Garrett College this fall, where she is working towards an associate's degree in education. Next fall, she plans to transfer to Frostburg State University to finish her degree in education, with the goal to teach elementary education.

"I want to remain a Garrett County citizen after I complete college and teach in the Garrett County school system," she said. "I would also like to be a 4-H volunteer leader. After I have taught for several years, I would like to pursue a job in the extension service as a 4-H educator."

She is employed by the Garrett County Board of Education and Jearbryo's Restaurant.

Kara and her family breed and raise dairy heifers and cows, and also raise replacement heifers for other farmers. In addition, they raise field crops of corn, oats, and hay.

"I have shown dairy animals at the fair since I was 7 years old," she said. "I have shown a market hog and market lamb for six years. I also exhibit crafts, fresh vegetables out of our garden, canned goods, vegetable garden displays, flowers, baked goods, and photographs."

Kara has also participated in the fashion revue, costume animal parade, and showmanship competition with rabbits, lambs, hogs, and dairy.

She has received various reserve grand champion and grand champion awards, and has been the Premier Dairy Exhibitor for six years.

At this year's fair, Kara's awards included grand champion lamb showman, grand champion dairy showman, grand champion swine showman, reserve grand champion Holstein dairy cow; grand champion Brown Swiss dairy cow, premier dairy exhibitor, and grand champion market swine.

She was also one of the winners of the Garrett County Livestock Association scholarship.

Kara is a 12-year member of the North Star 4-H Club and a five-year member of North Garrett FFA. She also belongs to several dairy organizations, including Garrett County Holstein Club, Maryland Junior Holstein Association, National Holstein Association, National Red and White Dairy Cattle Association, Maryland Junior Guernsey Association, and National Brown Swiss Association.

She is also a member of the Pennsylvania Club Livestock Association, the Garrett County Livestock Association, and the Garrett County and Maryland State Farm Bureau associations. She was 2008 Autumn Glory Queen.

Kara is a current member of the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad Auxiliary, where she helps with activities such as community dinners, benefit dinners, parades, fundraisers, and other activities that support the organization.

She is also a 4-H junior leader, helping with younger children in her 4-H club and teaching them how to fit and show dairy and market animals. She received the Presidential Community Service Award for a number of years, and has completed all six levels of the Maryland 4-H Diamond Clover Program.

"Throughout the years, there have been so many people who have given their time to help and teach me, and in the future, I would like to do the same for the younger kids in Garrett County," Kara said. "Agriculture and 4-H have taught me many skills and lessons that I will be using for the rest of my life. 4-H and my involvement in activities such as the Garrett County Fair have taught me to be an all-around better person and to strive to do as the 4-H motto says – make the best better."

First runner-up Catlin Carrico is the daughter of Greg and Camille Carrico of Swanton. This fall, she will start her second year of college at Potomac State of WVU, where she is majoring in agricultural education.

Last year, she received certificates of recognition for being on the provost list for a GPA of 3.72 the first semester and 3.8 the second. She also received a scholarship from the National FFA Organization for her involvement in FFA.

She followed the agricultural education pathway at Southern High School and graduated with a merit/dual completer diploma. She was also a retiring officer of the FFA chapter.

She has been actively involved in the fair for the last eight years. Each year, she exhibits meat and dairy goats in the 4-H and open classes, as well as numerous indoor exhibits. Catlin's awards at the 2010 fair were grand champion dairy goat showman and grand champion dairy goat.

She and her family are involved in the American Boer Goat Association (ABGA), the American Dairy Goat Association (ADGA), and the Garrett County Livestock Associa-

8th Scholarship Presented By Sweet Rewards

For the eighth consecutive year, Don and Pam Adams of McHenry have awarded a young member of the Garrett County agricultural community with a $500 scholarship. The Adamses have agreed to fund the scholarship for 20 years.

Don and Pam reside in Carroll County, where they raise pygmy and Boer goats, as well as red Angus cattle. They also own the Sweet Rewards farm in Garrett County.

The scholarship is provided for Garrett County residents because of the passion and dedication that the young 4-H and FFA members have continued to show year after year.

They admire the effort that the FFA and 4-H members, as well as their leaders, put into their studies and projects. They feel that relationships that form help to mold the young people into responsible caring adults who will continue to support future generations of FFA and 4-H members.

Eight participants applied for the scholarship this year. In order to be considered, applicants must be 18 or younger, raise goats, and write an essay that addresses how raising goats has helped them to develop life skills, has shaped their personal and social lives, and how they have grown to appreciate the world of agriculture and farming.

This year's scholarship was awarded to Aaron Lantz, who received a certificate of excellence and a check for $500.

Each 4-H and FFA member who participated also received a certificate of achievement.

Past winners included Catlin Carrico, Lacie Berkebile, Katelyn Gnegy, Samantha Schoenian, Levi Lantz, Amanda Beitzel and J.B. Gnegy

4-H Robotics Enthusiasts Return To Fair

4-H'ers filled the barns with livestock to show, but there is more to 4-H than just livestock. The 4-H indoor exhibit building was full of 4-H'ers produce, crafts, photos, woodworking, sewing and much more. Just outside the building under the red tent, many joined the G-FORCE robotics team building and running robotic creations.

The week started with the LEGO SuGO building. Teams worked together building a LEGO robot which used sensors to see the other robot and push it off the round SuGO ring. The four teams battled it out in a double elimination SuGO match during the Cow Patty Bingo event on Monday evening.

On another evening, the team members worked with youth helping them build and program LEGO WeDO creations such as a spinning top, a munching alligator, a roaring lion, and others.

The Seaperch underwater robots were also a splash at the fair. Southern States Cooperative of Oakland donated the use of a 100-gallon stock tank for operating the underwater robots. The robots were built by the G-FORCE team members.

The team brought their Tetrix Demo Bot on Friday evening for youth to run. The youth used a wireless game controller to move the robot to a foam tube, pick it up with the claw, and move it to the other end of the platform. Several youth had fun running the robot while the crowd waited for the cow to leave her "patty" Friday evening during the Cow Patty Bingo.

The 4-H robotics is part of a new national initiative of the 4-H program called SET, which refers to 4-H activities that improve young people's knowledge in the areas of science, engineering, and technology.

To learn more about Garrett County's 4-H robotics opportunities, persons may contact the Extension Office at 301-334-6960.
